WASHINGTON
 "As it looks from here"
OMAR BURSELM
 Congressman
 17th District

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Last week (April 23) the British introduced another Resolution in the Security Council of the United Nations, calling for stronger sanctions by all nations against Rhodesia.
 When the first sanctions were laid against Rhodesia by the U. N. in 1966 the United States supported the action. At that time those of us who felt this was none of our Government's business wired Ambassador Goldberg and the State Department, urging opposition.
 The British admit that the more mild form which was passed in 1966 has not been effective. In fact, Rhodesia has been doing pretty good with its economy and is even stronger than it was at that time. It and South Africa are the most stable governments on the entire African Continent and yet the majority of the nations of the world who are not doing a very good job of running their own business, want to tell them how to run theirs.

Learn the seven warning signals of cancer. You'll be in good company.

1. Unusual bleeding or discharge.
 2. A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere.
 3. A sore that does not heal.
 4. Change in bowel or bladder habits.
 5. Hoarseness or cough.
 6. Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.
 7. Change in a wart or mole.
- If a signal lasts longer than two weeks, see your doctor without delay.

 It makes sense to give to the AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY

Secretary of State Dean Acheson bluntly declared that the restrictions imposed by the U. N. which the policy of the U. S. and Great Britain favored, is a patent illegality, despite a layer of bland sanctimony.
 Mr. Acheson also posed the question, why have not embargoes on arms shipments been imposed against such areas as the Middle East and North Korea where threats to neighboring states are a reality. He also reminds the U. N. and the world that attempts at sanctions have never proved effective any way. They were attempted under the old League of Nations and failed.
 Suggestions that Britain or any other state should attempt to crush Rhodesia by armed might and so bring war and destruction to this peaceful country, is total irresponsibility and next to insanity. It cannot be imagined that any English-speaking troops could be inducted to bomb or fire upon a people which gallantly fought beside them in both World Wars.
 If Winston Churchill were alive today Britain would still have her place in the world and in all likelihood there would be no Rhodesian "problem." When Prime Minister, he made it clear that he favored the principle of ultimate democracy, free of any racial, religious or language restrictions in South Africa, but he felt that the actions against that nation had to be dealt with in patience, tolerance and understanding.
 The conclusion is clear that sanctions against Rhodesia have failed and will fail, and the lesson it should teach is that trade embargoes should never be tried because they are futile. They violate the rule that threats to restrain trade should never be used to exert political leverage. History, no less than common sense, claims foreign trade as the arch civilizer and peacemaker.

 Directly, the United States is an economic loser. Ian Smith's Government has not changed its policies but America has missed Rhodesia's supply of vital chromite, which we must have for producing chromium and stainless steel. Rhodesia and Russia are the only major producers of chromite, so the U. S. has had to turn to Russia for its source of supply. Since Russia has a new customer in the U. S., she has hiked the price 20 percent, which means that when the end product goes on the American domestic market it will cost more.
 The economy of the United States is the backbone for all free nations, and unless it remains strong, who are we to try to tell other nations how to run their internal affairs. And this is exactly what it is—an internal affair in the British Commonwealth. Eliminating the dollar drain is one way we can

Awesome Death Toll Is Caused By Disease of Heart, Blood Vessels

More than one out of every four dollars contributed by Texans to Heart Associations in the Lone Star State last year were earmarked to underwrite scientific research in the cardiovascular field according to Julian H. Acker, M. D., Wichita Falls, President of the Texas Heart Association (THA). The information was contained in the Association's 20th Annual Report which was released this week as the annual Heart Fund campaign got underway throughout Texas and the nation. The bulk of the research funds were spent on 37 projects at 11 institutions within the state. The balance of the research funds was allocated to research programs being conducted nationally by the organization's parent body, the American Heart Association.

Entitled, 1 Out of 2 and That 1 Could Be You, the report points up the awesome death toll caused by disease of the heart and blood vessels by noting that one out of every two persons who will die this year will have their lives snuffed out by one of these diseases. More than one million deaths—or 54.1% of all deaths—were attributed to heart and blood vessel diseases last year. They kill more people than all other diseases and causes combined. The report also takes note of the fact that today's heart transplants could not have been performed, or would not even have been possible, without the knowledge gained through massive Heart Association sponsored research since 1950. It also describes the dramatic and constant advances which have been made through research in the fight against heart diseases.

The Annual Report also points up the critical importance of the Association's professional and public education programs so that the time lag between what medical science has discovered and the application of these discoveries for the benefit to all is cut to an absolute minimum. The Association's Annual Scientific Sessions for doctors and nurses have become one of the major programs of its type in the nation with 1,518 registrants last year. Such educational programs enable your help ourselves and, yet, our Government has denied a mineral company of Pennsylvania a permit to ship chromite to the United States from its own mines in Rhodesia.

 Our policy towards Rhodesia and South Africa is an emotional one, just as its racial situation here in the U. S. In this instance, we are permitting our policy to be set by a concern of "world opinion." World opinion is not helping us in the many problems we have here at home and in South Vietnam.
 Our state department and our ambassador to the U. N. are immediately being furnished a copy of this release, in addition to a letter strongly protesting our support for the British Resolution filed last week.

Learn the seven warning signals of cancer. You'll be in good company.

1. Unusual bleeding or discharge.
2. A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere.
3. A sore that does not heal.
4. Change in bowel or bladder habits.
5. Hoarseness or cough.
6. Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.
7. Change in a wart or mole.

If a signal lasts longer than two weeks, see your doctor without delay.

It makes sense to know the seven warning signals of cancer. It makes sense to give to the AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY

Many Children And Youth Served By Comprehensive Health Projects

Approximately 2 million children and youth live in low-income rural and urban areas served by 55 Comprehensive Health Projects for Preschool and School Age Children administered by the U. S. Social and Rehabilitation Service, Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

A large number of the projects have special adolescent clinics which deal with problems such as emotional instability, illegitimate pregnancy, and such nutrition-related problems as obesity. In some projects, efforts are being concentrated on very young children, offering intensive care for infants born at "high risk" screening and immunization for preschool children, and programs especially designed to diagnose preceptual handicaps in the minimally brain-damaged child.

Many of the projects cater to special needs which exist in specific areas. In one project, for example, when a large number of lead poisoning cases and rat bites were reported in hospital records, an Environmental Health Program was initiated. The program offers classes for parents on ways to maintain a clean, healthy home, and sends staff members to homes to check for environmental health hazards. At another project, staff members, at their own expense, take Spanish lessons because many Mexican-Americans live in the area.

"It is a known fact that thousands of children have gone through life with defects or handicaps which, had they been treated early in life, would not have been a serious problem," Federal Social and Rehabilitation Administrator Mary E. Schweitzer said today. "We are hopeful that the children living in the areas served by these projects will have the chance to overcome the health drawbacks which their environments present."

Special Project Grants are being awarded to public health departments, schools of medicine, and teaching hospitals. The Federal government is authorized to pay up to 75 per cent of the costs of each project.

Text: 'BATH NIGHT Taking a bath in the early 19th Century was such hard work that the family had to devote all of Saturday night to the task. Cleaning up was the worst of it—mopping up the kitchen floor, emptying the bath water out the door, and lugging the tub back to its storage place. The lack of heat and hot water ruled out daily baths, so people just washed "the parts that showed" at the wash-bowl or kitchen sink. Iron sinks were popular but had to be wiped dry immediately or they rusted. Cleaning the rust away was one of the worst chores. Today's homemaker finds bathing a pleasure and cleaning a breeze. With indoor plumbing and central heating, a bath or shower is an everyday affair. And removing that bathtub ring is easy thanks to modern scouring powders and Handi Wipes, the all-purpose cleaning cloth. Sinks, tubs, and walls wipe spotless with this reusable cloth that rinses out to be used again and again. Z'

TEXAS HOSTED MORE VISITORS LAST YEAR THAN EVER BEFORE

Texas last year hosted more visitors—who spent more money here—than ever before, the Texas Highway Department reported today. A total of 20,684,000 persons from out of State visited Texas in 1967. They spent a record $1,203,137,000, making 1967 the second year in a row that the value of the Texas travel industry has surpassed the billion-dollar mark. The automobile again was the favorite mode of transportation. The Highway Department's annual visitor industry survey showed 15,198,000 persons visited Texas by automobile during the year. Their expenditures in the State amounted to a total of $807,972,000 while in the State. Total number of automobile visitors was up 7.4 per cent over 1966, and their expenditures rose 11.6 per cent. In addition, the Texas Tourist Council, an Austin-based association of travel-related businesses, estimated that an additional 5,486,000 out-of-State visitors came to Texas by commercial carriers. This group added an estimated $395,165,000 to the State's economy. The Highway Department's survey of automobile travelers employed visual and mechanical traffic count surveys. Valuable data also was gained from more than 12,200 questionnaires distributed by the Department's Tourist Information Bureaus at key highway gateways and returned by out-of-State visitors at the completion of their Texas visit. Statistically, the average tourist party included 2.99 persons—0.9 of a person more than in 1966—who stayed in Texas 5.98 days, or .18 of a day longer than in 1966. Average spending per person was $8.89 a day—up 9 cents from the year before. The average party made expenditures of $26.59 per day. This and other data will be included in the Highway Department's annual Visitor Industry Report which will be available soon. The data is concerned with out-of-State visitors only. Millions of Texans traveling within the borders of their own State are not included. No such figures are available, but, undoubtedly, Texans themselves have an enormous additional impact on the overall Texas travel industry. The report also will reflect

David Smith Never Has A Worry About Spare Time, Just Not Any

By BOB SMITH
Special to the Haskell Free Press

DENTON—David Smith never has to worry about spare time—he doesn't have any.

The North Texas State University junior from Weimer works 30 hours each week for the Dallas Water Department as a radio-telephone dispatcher. He also keeps himself busy with his membership in Tau Kappa Epsilon, a social fraternity; Alpha Phi Omega, a service fraternity; and ROTC.

Why does he do all of this? "I have a lot of nervous energy, and I have to be constantly doing something. I'm also a believer that most of what I learn in class I'll not necessarily use, but what I learn by working with others I can use for the rest of my life," Smith said.

Smith admits he only finds time to study after 11 p. m. each night, but he still manages to maintain better than average grades. He is majoring in social science.

"Sometimes it's a choice between sleeping or studying. I usually spend many nights studying, hoping to catch up on my sleep later," Smith said.

Holding the office of social chairman in Tau Kappa Epsilon, Smith is in charge of planning all of the fraternity's parties.

"It's a thankless job. Nothing is ever said unless something does not go right. One problem I always have is finding a suitable location near campus for 100 to 200 people. But somehow it always works out," he said.

Smith, the 20-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Smith, Route 1, Weimer, is a 1965 graduate of Mattson High School, where he was active in the National Beta Club, an honor club, basketball, and where he was a three-year letterman in football.

Smith's experience in planning parties proved successful last month when he was in charge of ROTC's elaborate Military Ball.

"I had to find a place in Fort Worth that was big enough for 350 people. I also had to choose the entertainment and the proper meal. Over $1,800 was spent on the event, and I was in charge of $1,300 of it," Smith added. He said that the evening was considered a success.

Working as a radio-telephone dispatcher for the Dallas Water Department on weekends, Smith explained that he is in charge of incoming calls from the water department officials needing repairmen.

"Before the department recently enlarged the dispatching area, I monitored two radios and nine telephones for eight months. I knew about anything that happened in the water department," Smith said.

Occasionally Smith is involved with water department emergencies. One afternoon last year, he explained, a water pump station near Dallas was without power after lightning struck the station and caused the pumps to stop.

"We had only 30 minutes to get the pumps working again or else about 35,000 people would have gone without water," Smith said.

"I monitored all of the calls to let officials know what was going on, and with the help from the Dallas Power and Light Company we got the pumps working again just in time. Nobody ever knew how close they came to not having water for a while."

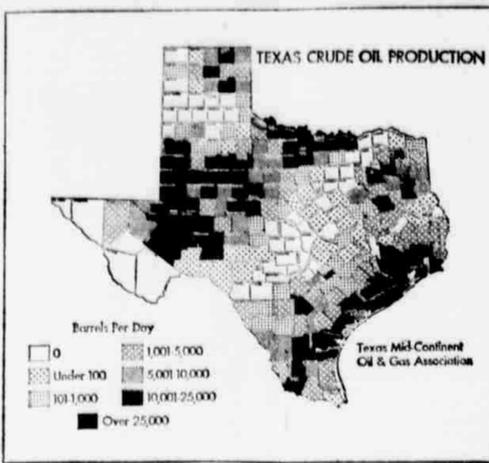

In ROTC Smith is the assistant security-in-law officer, responsible for giving "corrective measures" for cadets who have excessive demerits." He plans to graduate from NTSU in June of 1969, when he will receive a commission from the Air Force and become a second lieutenant. Currently Smith is a cadet First lieutenant.

Explaining why he joined Alpha Phi Omega, Smith said, "I can see no better way than to spend my extra time belonging to a group such as this service fraternity. It's just getting started on campus."

Smith said one of the duties of the service group is to visit patients in the NTSU Hospital every night. "Two of us find out if the patients need things such as magazines and cigarettes. Then we go and buy things patients would normally not be able to get while in the hospital," he said.

Looking back over his college career, Smith said he wouldn't change a thing. "In fact, there are two other organizations I'd like to join sometime. The student that just sits back is cheating himself out of an education. There is a lot more to college than just going to class," Smith said.

Burson Re-elected Rolling Plains PCA Director

Fair weather and a backlog of field work on the part of most farmers combined to keep the attendance low at the 34th Annual Stockholders meeting of Rolling Plains PCA, held in Stamford, April 27, 1968.

Re-elected to the Board of Directors were C. G. Burson, Sr., of Haskell, 3 year term; L. M. Bartlett, Wellington, 3 year term; Dean Decker, Childress, 1 year term. W. A. Baxter of Anson won the color TV set which was given as attendance prize. In addition to reports from the Board of Directors and management, the assembled crowd heard addresses by W. H. Calkins, Vice President of Intermediate Credit Bank of Houston and Charles C. Bragg, Executive Vice President of Rolling Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

At the reorganizational board meeting held following the stockholders meeting these officers were elected: C. G. Burson, Sr., Haskell, Chairman of Board—Lasater Hensley, Guthrie, Vice Chairman—J. L. Hill, Jr., President—L. R. Vice President—R. Secretary—Treasurer—Hanson, Asst. Sec.

A Boy and His Bedroom

Toy soldiers, teddy bears and miniature drums are fine for little boys; but what happens when your child suddenly awitches to Beatle records, paisley ties and an electric guitar so he can join a rock 'n' roll group?

Usually, it means he's outgrown the decor of that bedroom that suited him for so long. If your boy suddenly demands a more "adult-looking" room, don't panic: let him do it himself. He will not only have the excitement of creating his own room, but will spare you the time and trouble.

There are lots of different methods for painting a young, lively-looking room.

Striped walls are one of the easiest to produce. Just give your child two cans of Acme's Super Kem-Tone paint in contrasting colors, a brush, and a roll of masking tape. Experts advise that this kind of paint is best for young beginners, since it's easily applied, dries quickly, and is soap-and-water washable.

First, tell your boy to paint all four walls in one background color. After the paint has dried, he can fasten masking tape to the wall, marking off the areas to be striped. Next, he should paint these areas in a contrasting color. When this is dry, all he has to do is remove the tape.

To finish off the job professionally, the woodwork should be painted, too. Easy-flowing, quick-drying Acme Semi-Gloss Latex Enamel is the paint for him to use. With Kem Tinting Colors your boy can produce just the shade he wants to match or contrast with the wall stripes. It's a snap to let your boy's bedroom grow up with him. And once he surveys his handiwork, he may be so pleased he'll even take better care of his room!

"Cubs" Tell What They Like About Scouting

The following letters were written by Cub Scouts revealing what they like about the program of Scouting:

WHAT WE DO IN CUB SCOUTS

I like Cub Scouts. Would you like to know what we do? Well, hum, let me see. Oh, I think I know what we did first. Well, it was pretty near Christmas and most people get their candles out. So our den decided to make candle holders.

The next thing we did was make a tool box. We had fun painting it. The next thing we did was make little hatchets for the Blue and Gold Banquet. Then we made a cherry tree. I liked it when we put the cherries on. And the next thing we did was go on a tour of the firehouse. And Sach, the fire truck driver, let us ride on the fire truck. It was fun. I rode on the back. And on our den day when we don't work, we do our den yell, our singing, call the roll and have refreshments. And let me tell the boys who are in the second grade and want to start Cub Scouts, I think Cub Scouting is the best experience a boy can have.

—John W. Cox

DEN FIVE

Our den is a nice den. We work together. One day we went to the museum and the next Wednesday to the fire station. On the next to the tortilla factory. Today we may go to the court house. One day we made door stops. Another day we made tool boxes. My den chief is Danny Smith.

fun we had. We made door stops on day to work on our achievements. The next thing we did was make candle holders to hold candles for Christmas. After that we made hatchets for the blue and gold banquet. We also made a cherry tree. Then we made a tool box for keeping tools. Then we made a bird feeder. We went on tours after that. We went to the firehouse and the tortilla factory.

Today we are going to the court house. We have lots of fun. And here are the names of the Cub Scouts in Den 5: James Culppepper, Eddie Medford, Tim Powell, Johnny Lancaster, Billy Stone, and of course me, Johnny Larned. My Den Mother is Mrs. John Larned. My Den Chief is Mr. John Larned. My Den Chief is Danny Smith. We all belong to Pack 36. And if you are going to join it will be more fun than anything you ever did.

Haskell County Sheriff's Posse Just Keeps Rolling Right Along

Haskell County Sheriff's Posse is just like "old man river," and keeps on "rolling along," and brings a lot of good publicity to the town and county.

The all-Palomino riding club, sporting red and white gear, carries the name of Haskell to rodeos and stock shows over a two-state area. It has a membership of 26 business and professional men, farmers and ranchers.

During 1967, the riding club packed up an enviable record. In 16 outings during the rodeo season, the club brought home 11 first place awards and four second.

Every Palomino is equipped with white bridle, white harness and red and white Navajo blanket. Riders wear red satin shirts and white neckerchiefs for afternoon performances, and for night shows, white shirts and red neckerchiefs. Riding chaps are cream colored, with the letters H-A-S-K-E-L-L in red. Every rider carries a flag.

Since 1953, the club has won some 125 trophies, most of them on display in two downtown stores.

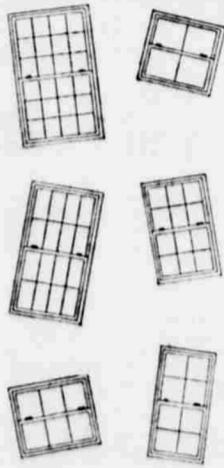

The riders regularly make rodeos in west and central Texas and have won honors three times at the New Mexico State Fair at Albuquerque.

For the past four years, the Haskell County Posse has been host riding club for the Cowboy Reunion at Stamford over the July Fourth holiday.

Gene Hunter is president of the club and C. O. Holt, secretary. Otto Baumbach is parade captain and Adell Thomas is chuck wagon boss.

GOODWILL WEEK

National observance of Goodwill Week this year will come during the period of May 5-11. Founded at the turn of the Century, Goodwill Industries today has built the largest network of private vocational, educational agencies in the world serving all types of handicapped people. There are now 126 autonomous Goodwill Industries, 42 branch workshops in 178 cities in the United States and another 22 located abroad.

The purpose of Goodwill remains the same... to rehabilitate disabled lives and limbs. In recent years, the emphasis on the idea of service has been greatly expanded. Of the 80,000 people being helped by Goodwill some 50,000 receive the traditional job opportunity and experience. But, half of these persons are also being helped by additional evaluation, counseling, psychological and medical care and therapy. In 1967, the 50,000 employed handicapped persons earned $7 million instead of living on charity from friends or relatives, or on a dole from government agencies. They paid a total tax bill of $1.5 million.

But the importance of Goodwill Industries' service is measured in money alone. Its most important contribution to the nation's life lies in what it gives to those it helps in terms of hope, self-respect and a chance to build productive, interesting lives. The spirit of initiative and self-help represented by this organization is exemplary. This nation could use large doses of the same spirit in the running of most of its affairs.

SAGERTON NEWS

MRS. DELBERT LEFEVRE

The home of Mrs. John L. Brooks, Sager-ton's postmistress, and her sister, Miss Elizabeth Mae Summers, burned Monday afternoon of last week about six o'clock. They were both out of the house when the fire was discovered. The smoke was coming out of the roof, so it was thought that it started in the wiring or perhaps the water heater. Neighbors came and helped get everything that they could out of the front part of the house, but were unable to get things out of the kitchen and bathroom. The Rule Fire Department and many people from Rule came to help with the fire and then helped neighbors move the things that were saved to the Community Center for storage for which Mrs. Brooks and Miss Summers are deeply grateful. A miscellaneous shower was given for them at the Community Center on Tuesday.

They have bought the house belonging to Higginbotham-Bartlett Lumber Co. and plan to move in as soon as possible. The Summers, who now live there, will move to the Joe Ray Batts home. While they were without a home, they stayed with their aunt, Mrs. Hess, and Mr. and Mrs. Zeno Summers and Mike.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Swafford, sponsor of the St. Paul's Lutheran League, entertained the young people of the community in their home Sunday evening, with a hamburger supper and tacky party. COTTON PICKIN'S

Major emphasis in testimony by Rolling Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. before the House Agriculture Committee in Washington April 24 was on the urgency of extending the current cotton program during this session of Congress, protection for producer income, expansion of export markets and provisions for those markets.

PCG also urged the Committee to work for revisions in the law that would liberalize the regulations on sale and lease of allotments, return the industry to production from the legal minimum 16 million acre national allotment, correct protected yield inequities and provide producers with a guarantee against individual program benefit limitations.

PCG's efforts to influence cotton legislation this year has a double-barreled approach. President J. B. Cooper of Roscoe outlined to the House Committee the legislative policy adopted by the PCG Board and at the same time endorsed the position of the Texas Association of Cotton Producer Organizations, presented by Joe B. Pate, Jr., of Lubbock, TACPO Chairman.

TACPO is an affiliation of the six chartered cotton producer organizations in the State. Its policy statement was worked out by representatives of all six groups and is an almost exact parallel to PCG policy and that of the other five members.

This fact for the first time in history presents a united front in Washington from Texas cotton farmers who produce about one-third of the Nation's cotton.

On the urgency of passing farm legislation this year it was pointed out to the Committee that farmers need the opportunity to plan as far in advance as possible and that the necessary reorganization of Congress after 1968 elections would delay and make more difficult passage of a farm program in 1969.

Congressman Bob Poage, of Waco, House Agriculture Committee Chairman, is conducting the hearings and is known to favor enactment of a farm law this year.

There are 26 seniors making the trip and their sponsors: Mr. and Mrs. Lavon Beakley and Miss Jackie Eason.

The Good Earth

By Mrs. B. F. Cobb

It seems I have to eat crow—Last week I said one saw very little Buffalo Clover in pastures because cows liked the plant so well. It seems I just had not been out to the lake recently.

Mrs. John Fouts (Georgia Mae) took members of the Sunshine Sewing Club and four members of the Haskell Garden Club to visit their ranch and drink in the beauty of the wild flowers.

Those attending from the Sunshine Sewing Club were: Alice Ballard, Thelma Jenkins, Mrs. D. A. Jones, Mrs. Frank McCulloch, Mrs. T. A. Rhodes, Hilda Swenson and Mrs. Calvin Wheeler. Those attending from the Garden Club were: Mrs. Ed Fouts, Mrs. Emmet Wyche, Mrs. C. B. Rhea and myself.

As we neared the breaks on the ranch we held our breath at the panoramic beauty that stretched out before us.

The pasture was covered with wild flowers of every color and kind.

There were tall spikes of orchid Penstemons, yellow daisies, white mountain daisies, yellow buttercups, groundsels and bitter weed, orchid sweetwilliams, blue-eyed grass flowers, salmon pink godeta and acres and acres of orchid and purple buffalo clover spilling down the hills into the valley. Chartreuse grass and fresh new foliage of mesquite made a frame of the scene.

Mrs. Fouts ranch is on the lake road that goes to Rikes Corner. The opposite side of the road from the Fouts ranch is a pasture of the same kind of flowers, cattle were grazing contentedly on the buffalo clover.

My husband and I were casting for bait at Rikes Corner and came on a patch of buffalo clover that had several clumps of flowers that were snow white. I would like to keep the seed from some of the white variety

Schumann Says Good Gardening Is More Than Pulling Weeds, Watering

Good gardening is more than pulling weeds and watering, says County Agent R. W. Schumann. A "green thumb" gardener is not a person who is just lucky in growing plants, but one who has a general knowledge of plants and how to bring the best out of them.

Schumann suggests that plants be checked often for signs of insect damage. Sucking insects such as aphids, thrips and other "bugs" will cause yellowing, stunting, wilting and, under severe infestations, can cause death. Should the populations of sucking insects become too serious either diazinon or malathion can be used effectively.

Holes in leaves, stems and and plant them to see if I could start a new variety of flower.

While we were with Mrs. Fouts, Mrs. Rhea took several colored slides to be shown to the Garden Club next fall. Mrs. Rhea is an avid photographer.

Her many slides, taken while she and her husband were in Alaska a year or two ago, go to prove how really good she is.

Mrs. Ed Fouts has planted iris in her alley; never have I seen any more blossoms than there were on the iris this year. She also has one of the most beautiful climbing Peace roses I've ever seen. The blossoms are as large as saucers and the vine is covered in buds and blossoms. Mrs. Fouts rooted several cuttings from the climbing Peace rose this year.

fruits indicate that chewing insects have been busy. Beetles, grasshoppers and caterpillars are the most common pests of this type. Carbaryl, (Sevin) DDT, diazinon, malathion, methoxychlor, and rotenone are good controls for chewing insects.

Insects in the soil are also harmful, especially to seeds and young, growing plants. To combat maggots, cutworms, white grubs, and other soil insects, the soil should be treated with chlordane about four weeks before planting with 10 per cent dust, wettable powder, or 74 per cent emulsion in water.

Fungi can also be problems on plants around the home and garden. Actidione (PM) and sulphur Karathane are recommended for control of powdery mildew, and maneb or captan are effective against black spot. Phaltan is effective for treating either of these fungi.

Schumann reminds gardeners that nematodes can also cause trouble on ornamental plants. "Nematode Killer" and "Nema-X" are good controls for nematodes.

When treating for any of these insects or pests it is important to remember that many of the symptoms could also be caused by soil deficiencies or lack of water.

When fertilizing, only the recommended amount of fertilizer should be applied. The addition of extra amounts of fertilizer can upset the balance of nutrients in the soil and may cause damage to the plants. A good soaking is better than shallow watering, he says. Don't try to grow too many plants in one area. To grow only a minimum of plants you can't

COMMISSIONER PRECINCT 1

With the first primary coming up Saturday, May 4, I would like to extend this final reminder that I solicit and will sincerely appreciate your vote and influence.

I am aware of the fact that the county's business is a very large and complicated one. The demands on a commissioner are many and varied. To be a good commissioner you need to be a good administrator, able to handle the finances in a business-like manner, supervise the work and employees of the precinct, pay careful attention to buying and properly care for the other details that arise.

This is a full time job and takes a full time man to properly fill it. Since I am a retired farmer I will devote my full time to those duties, thus giving you a good, economical administration.
