EXCITEMENT ON A BUDGET AT SIX FLAGS

HANG ON!—Guests at SIX FLAGS Over Texas, the family entertainment center between Dallas and Fort Worth, roar along at speeds up to 38 feet per second on the Runaway Mine Train. The exciting ride is one of the most popular attractions in the Park's 145-acre layout.

Where in the world can a vacationer find a spot to spend the entire day with his family, enjoying a multi-million-dollar array of rides and shows, and come away without spending a dime more than the entertainment budget allows?

The answer: SIX FLAGS Over Texas. The huge theme park's one-price ticket policy has made it a favorite with the budget-minded vacationer. And, who isn't?

Once a guest has bought an adult ticket ($5.00) or a child's ticket for those under 12 ($4.00), everything inside the beautiful fun center is free. The only exceptions are food and souvenirs. Guests can climb aboard any ride or watch any show as many times as they like during the day at no extra charge.

For the 1970 season, SIX FLAGS Over Texas features more than 85 rides, shows and attractions. Each is attractively showcased in the 145-acre, wooded site at Arlington, midway between Dallas and Fort Worth.

There is so much to do and see that the Park's hosts recommend that a family plan to spend at least eight hours enjoying the lavishly landscaped facility.

Since SIX FLAGS Over Texas opened in 1961, more than 15,000,000 people from throughout the world have sampled its excitement. Nearly two million passed through the gates last year.

The Park derives its name from the flags which have flown over Texas during its long and colorful history... Spain, France, Mexico, Republic of Texas, Confederacy and the United States of America. The entertainment area is divided into six sections, with an appropriate theme carried out in each.

In the Mexican section a major attraction has been added for the 1970 season. It's "Los Voladores—The Flying Indians Spectacular." Daring Totonacan Indians from Mexico, wearing brilliantly-colored costumes, climb to the top of a 100-foot ceremonial pole. Then, clinging to slender ropes, they plunge from the pole and begin a dizzying spiral to the ground.

The Spanish section is the home of SIX FLAGS' most popular ride, the Log Flume. Guests climb into hollowed-out logs for a fast ride through torrents of water, ending with a slightly wet plunge down a steep incline. Visitors in the Confederate section stroll through streets lined with picturesque shops and exhibits built in the style of the Old South. In the Southern Palace Music Hall, they watch a full-scale musical production. One of this year's shows features a dazzling backdrop made up of screens on which some 1,400 color photographs are flashed by electronically-controlled projectors.

Just around the corner guests climb into Indian "bull boats" for a dark trip through the Speelunkers Cave. The charming inhabitants are brightly costumed, animated figures... all very busy doing the things that Speelunkers love to do.

Fire spurts from an erupting volcano in the Mexican section as guests travel through an animated wonderland aboard a tiny train moving at "siesta speed."

Gunshots echo in the Texas section as the SIX FLAGS sheriff and his deputies shoot it out with the bad guys (who always lose). In the nearby Crazy Horse Saloon a musical revue provides entertainment for guests who drop by for a drink of nothing stronger than coffee.

Cannons roar and shots splash into the water as visitors make the "perilous" journey down the LaVaca River in the French section. The boats are besieged by wild animals and caught in the crossfire of a battle between an Indian war party and the settlers.

In Boom Town, visitors ride elevators to the two observation decks atop a 300-foot oil derrick. And, at the 50-foot level, there's a 12-lane super slide.

Nearby is the 1,500 seat arena where trained porpoises go through their paces in a salt water pool. And, there's the Chevy Show, where guests are surrounded by action on the circular Cine-sphere movie screen.

A short walk down a scenic path brings the visitor to the Runaway Mine Train. Guests riding in ore cars traveling at speeds up to 38-feet-per-second roar under a waterfall and through an underwater tunnel.

The Krofft Puppet Theater features an exciting production new to SIX FLAGS Over Texas. It's the work of the Krofft brothers, Sid and Marty, known to audiences throughout the world for their innovative productions for stage, movies and television.

Around every corner there's something new to see or do. And, with more than 1,200 tons of air conditioning cooling even the outdoor waiting lines, it's a refreshing, relaxing experience.

Throughout the Park, the visitor is impressed by the immaculate cleanliness of the surroundings. Every member of the staff, right up to Chairman of the Board Angus G. Wynne Jr., is part of the "cleanup crew." If a guest drops a cigarette or a piece of paper, it's picked up immediately.

The term "amusement park" is not found in the SIX FLAGS vocabulary. Mr. Wynne, the Great Southwest Corporation official who founded the Park, was looking for something bigger, better and far more beautiful than the traditional "amusement park." Visitors seem to agree that he found the answer.

Mr. Wynne is particularly proud of the young hosts and hostesses who staff all of the attractions. Mostly college students, they are attractively and tastefully groomed and costumed. And, the "SIX FLAGS smile" is guaranteed to erase doubts about the thoughtfulness and courtesy of the new generation.

Excitement, beauty, cleanliness, courtesy and imagination are a few of the things that make SIX FLAGS Over Texas something very special. And, according to the Texas Tourist Development Agency, these elements have also made the Park Texas' number one tourist attraction.

Ten minutes early! The service of worship begins at eleven, and the Anderson family has had time to saunter a little... gratefully aware of the glorious autumn morning and the serene beauty of their church building. Afterwards, like Christians the world over, they will go home refreshed and inspired by God's Word, ready to meet whatever the week may bring.

Turning from self-service to God's service is never easy, but it is immeasurably worthwhile. When our hearts are completely God-centered, all other concerns fall into their proper places... and our lives become richer and more significant than our minds can imagine.

"Everything else can wait... but your search for God cannot wait." There is still time. Come to church this Sunday and share in the bounty of His strengthening love. It is yours for the asking.

Pantry patter

By Pat Nilson, CHDA

Macaroni is the Italian word for all macaroni foods, including spaghetti, spaghetti, and over 300 shapes are available. These are made from flour dough that is kneaded and shaped by being forced through dies and then dried. Noodle dough has 5% egg yolk. Macaroni is said to have taken its name to Italy with him after a visit in the Orient with Kublai Khan. Legend has it that an amorous member of the expedition lured a beautiful Chinese maiden from her room by making. When a strong wind blew leaves into the soft, macaroni dough, the sailor and the maiden tried removing the leaves by pressing the dough through a wicker basket. This formed a dough dried in the sun, and the sailor gave these macaroni to cook there by creating spaghetti. The king in Italy cried, "Ma caroni!" or "How very dear!" when eating this new food.

Most macaroni products are labeled at higher levels than needed to offset the vitamins lost in cooking. Labeled "enriched", they contain iron and the B vitamins, riboflavin, niacin and thiamin. They also have significant portions of protein. One half cup of uncooked macaroni equals one cup cooked. To cook a package of macaroni, spaghetti, or noodles add slowly to rapidly boiling water. Add slowly so water never stops boiling. Cook uncovered at a rapid boil 7-10 minutes or until tender.

To freeze, cook about half as long as usual - until it has just softened. Always freeze in a low fat sauce, allowing just enough to cover and not be soupy.

Macaroni products are low in cost and can be stored indefinitely. They go well with nearly every flavor and seasoning.

Try macaroni cooked in milk. Cook in boiling water until just tender. Drain. Complete cooking at low heat in milk until tender. (About 2 cups milk to 1 cup macaroni). Stir frequently. Cheese can also be added.

This week's recipe is for Spaghetti and Meat Balls, submitted by Roseann Johnson, Jayton.

Ask Amy

BY AMY ADAMS

HER "EMERGENCY" HAS ARRIVED

Dear Amy:
Seven years ago I married a man hoping for a happy marriage for myself and a home for my son who is now 16. After all these years, it doesn't seem to be working out. When things don't go his way, my husband hollers, cusses and throws things around. He tells me that I am just no good as a wife or mother and that I am just plain stupid. Yet, when he isn't angry, he pretends to love us as if nothing at all had happened.

I have been trying to save our marriage. I have gone so far as to enroll in night school, but just today, he told me that he hated to look at me and everything he had felt for me was gone.

He knows I am not equipped to make a living for myself and my son. So you see, Amy, this is why I am writing to you for your advice as to what you think I should do.

daughter. My problem is that my husband never wants to stay at home. He comes in at all hours and expects his supper on the stove.

He isn't mean to me but he just says that he didn't stay at home before he was married and he sees no reason why he should now.

I love him very much and I'm sure he loves me. He says he's restless, and I just don't know what to do about him anymore.

Mrs. G.P.

Dear Mrs. G.P.:
A man who says that he didn't stay home before he was married and sees no reason to stay home after he's married, had no reason "to get married."

He has a decision to make (before he forces you to make one), and you're not helping matters by having dinner on the stove ANYTIME HE FEELS like coming home.

An Unhappy Mrs.
Dear Unhappy:
Your marriage can't possibly work with a husband who has an uncontrollable temper. Unless he is willing to get the professional help he needs, you don't need him.

Every woman should be equipped to support herself in case of an emergency, and I think your "emergency" has arrived.

Dear Amy:
My dear friend, a dowager, has me rather upset at what she is doing. Her home is overflowing with rare and beautiful antiques. Her friends, neighbors and even strangers who call upon her for one reason or another are taking advantage of her good nature.

Whatever anyone admires in her home, she gives them. I've had numerous discussions with her over this but she continues to give these priceless old possessions of hers away. She says her children don't want them and she can't take them with her so she may as well give them away.

How can I stop her foolishness. One Meissen bowl was worth about 300 dollars and she gave it to the insurance man.

Edna

Dear Amy:
I am getting married soon and my mother and future mother-in-law don't get along. They got in a terrible quarrel and they won't even go near each other. Is there anything that I can do about this? Fortunately, they both love me very much. Of course they talk to me but not to each other.

Miss In-between

Dear Edna:
It's unfortunate that you can't see it, but there is nothing foolish in wanting to bring happiness to others. And a person who derives pleasure by giving of themselves or their possessions has reached the ultimate pinnacle of earthly happiness. God Bless her!

Dear Miss:
There is little, if anything, you can do to bridge the gap between your mother and intended mother-in-law. Sometimes it's better to leave things as they are rather than try to accomplish the impossible. But, I feel if they have your interests at heart they would at least make every effort to be civil to each other.

4-H Teens Give Big Assist to Many

A young and vital sector of the nation's population concerned with social problems, law enforcement, environmental improvement, and demonstrations are making headlines. Their number totals just over 150,000 and their influence is felt from coast-to-coast.

They are the junior leaders of 4-H Clubs, whose activities spill over into community, state and nation. They not only speak up for 4-H, but help teach the younger members the "learn-by-doing" program. They convincingly demonstrate a better way to sew, cook, garden, have fun or be a good citizen.

They also work with preschoolers, orphans, physically handicapped, mentally ill, and even with youngsters who run afoul of the law.

These "concerned" teenagers are participating in the national 4-H leadership program supported for the last 10 years by The Sears-Roebuck Foundation.

Again this year 12 of the nation's most outstanding 4-H junior leaders chosen by the Cooperative Extension Service will receive $600 scholarships.

Said 19-year-old Shirley Korrey, a 1969 scholarship winner: "I organized a 4-H Club especially designed to help mentally retarded children."

She not only brought a new dimension to their limited existence, but also encouraged the parents to improve home living conditions.

"Hang on... don't drop that stitch!" says this junior 4-H leader to her young pupil. She is one of more than 150,000 teenage youths participating in the 1970 national 4-H leadership program conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service in 50 states, and supported by The Sears-Roebuck Foundation.

A young man who is now a pre-law student, followed a different leadership path. He held offices in his local 4-H Club, which led to his being elected state 4-H president. He is a member of a group preparing a report for his state's participation in the 1970 White House Conference on Children and Youth.

Scores of capable teenagers will report their leadership activities in competition for 1970 local, state and national awards offered by The Sears-Roebuck Foundation.

One member from each state will be a leadership delegate to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago.

There will be a news conference for the 12 national champions, radio and television appearances, and other events calling public attention to this reliable brand of leadership.

Two Extremes

There are as many theories as to how effectively combat the crime problem in the United States as Carter has liver pills or Heinz has varieties.

cause "the streets of Washington are too dangerous for the young miss to traverse to and from work." If you keep the streets clear, we suppose, then the crime problem will vanish.

Two rather novel approaches caught our eye recently—but, realistically there's little hope that the crime problem can be significantly contained until society decides to attack the problem at its source — at the conditions that foster the resultant act.

Approach number two: In Dallas, a jury returned a 1,000-year sentence in a robbery case. A "warning" to the felon element in Big D? Yes. Will it serve to reduce the factors that influence a man to turn to crime? Doubtful. The root cause is still there.

Approach number one: A Southern lass was turned down on a request for a Congressional page job in Washington, D. C., not because of any discrimination toward the fairer sex, but, we read, be-

SHRIMP SPREAD BY CANDLELIGHT

Here is an eye-stopper for your holiday party — a molded shrimp and cheese spread with a built-in lighting system. What fun for guests to dig in and spread their own canapes by the light of a flickering candle!

And dig they will. This is a delicious mixture of three popular cheese types and shrimp — canned shrimp for easy blending — with a flavor best described as baffling and beautiful. The best blends are usually hardest to define and, as always, mystery lends enchantment.

Just mold it big and display it up high. All you need for this is a plain quart mixing bowl and an ordinary cake stand turned upside-down. Could there be a prettier way to say Merry Christmas?

FESTIVE SHRIMP AND CHEESE MOLD

3 cans (4 1/2 ounces each) shrimp
1/2 pound mild cheddar cheese, grated
1/2 pound Roquefort or Blue cheese, chopped fine
1 8-ounce package cream cheese
1 garlic clove, chopped very fine
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon prepared horseradish
1/2 teaspoon cayenne pepper
1/2 cup minced fresh parsley

Drain and rinse shrimp. Reserve about 18 for garnish and chop the rest. Combine chopped shrimp with cheese and all remaining ingredients except parsley. Blend thoroughly. Press firmly into a quart mixing bowl; let "ripen" in the refrigerator overnight or longer. Unmold on the base of a cake stand or any other suitable high-stemmed dish and press the minced parsley over the surface. Garnish with whole shrimp, using toothpicks to hold them in place. Cut a two-inch circle of aluminum foil and fit it on top. Place the candle on the foil and gently press it into the mold until it will stand securely. Flatten foil edges to protect against dripping. Garnish candle base with lemon leaves or other greenery. Makes enough spread for 100 or more canapes.

EARLY HARDSHIP
Just imagine one of today's college graduates talking to his son 20 years from now: "Yes sir, I started for a measly $400 a month and worked eight hours a day, five days a week!"

CONFUSED DEPOSITOR
At the end of the day, a bank officer was closing the door behind him when he noticed a customer outside with bundles in his arms and a perplexed look on his face, staring at the night depository. The officer, approached him and asked if he could help him.

The man replied excitedly: "My wife will shoot me!"

"What happened?"

"I dropped the wrong package down the chute."

"What was in it?"

"Pork chops."

THE CURRENT STATE OF BEAUTY IS PORTABLE

If imitation is the sincerest form of flattery, the State of California should take a bow. California has given rise to a new mystique which suggests a vibrant way to live—and look. Much of America tries to emulate it.

Psychologists have speculated about the reasons behind the West Coast trend. Many believe the crowded cities create a hunger for the wide open spaces, and that where there is a lack of sunshine, a desire arises to create its effects.

A prominent psychologist, Dr. Lerbinger of Boston University, says that "Today's search for youth and well-being calls for a renewal of both spirit and body, for which the climate and expanse of California provide a ready answer." Trend-setting California young people symbolize all this with their healthy glow. There truly is "A Face of the Golden West."

Now this look is portable, because they have designed a line of cosmetics called California Girl. Innocent young makeup to help every girl achieve the perfection of complexion that's so necessary for the good-natured California face.

Makeup comes in clean fresh shades that let the beautiful climate of the skin show through. The idea is to have makeup that is "barely there." Clairol's California Girl Compact Powder isn't about to cloud the fresh-as-a-clear-day look. Sunshiner Lipsticks saturated with sunlight are the fresh California Girl way to keep a smile on the lips. To add a nuance of color—or glow—alone—a lipgloss. Unexpected bonus: a special sun-screen, protects the lips.

A complete wardrobe of eye-makeup products designed to put a shine in any girl's eyes...to create a golden glow, as though the sun were setting somewhere nearby.

Who says you can't have everything? "Everything" comes in fashion-young packages...completely packable and completely portable. In California colors—a smashing combination of orange, white and yellow.

FACTS and FANCIES

Nowadays, some 4,200,000 babies are born each year in the United States, where child-bearing is presently more than 15 times as safe for the mother as it was only a generation ago!

If you lived in North Carolina, would you "dare" name your infant girl "Virginia"? In 1587 someone did! America's first child born of English parents, was, of course, Virginia Dare, first seeing the light of day in North Carolina. Virginia as a name, however, has nothing to do with the state called the "Mother of Presidents," but is the feminine of "Virginius"—name of an old Roman clan!

FOR KENT FIELD

Allowable Hike Is Requested

AUSTIN — Irwin L. Levy, oil and gas consultant for General Crude Oil Co., said that oil recovery by miscible displacement in the Salt Creek Field of Kent County could produce up to 93 million barrels of oil previously unrecoverable, at a Railroad Commission hearing here.

Levy testified for General Crude in its application for tertiary recovery process by miscible displacement and earned injection allowable in the Salt Creek Field. Earned injection would be two-tenth barrel of oil allowable for each barrel of water injected, up to 20 per cent of the basic allowable. Under the application, the allowable for the Salt Creek Field Unit would be increased by 20 per cent, to 37,800 barrels of oil per day.

The consultant gave total cumulative oil production for the field of 69,685,902 barrels and testified that the reservoir pressure was still maintained with gas and water injection. Levy said that the Canyon Reef at Salt Creek originally held 372 million barrels of oil, and that previous reports to the commission have shown that the pressure maintenance will result in a recovery increase of 120 million barrels of oil which otherwise would not have been recovered.

Levy said that operators at Salt Creek "at their own initiative and without any compensation in the form of bonus allowables have spent $10,624,500 to initiate the steps necessary to determine the feasibility of the third-level recovery process at Salt Creek. The operators have also programmed an additional $8,097,000 to be expended over the next 3-5-year evaluation period for the tertiary recovery project." He said that if the process is successful, "it is reasonable to expect that the field will produce at least 35 million barrels of additional oil which would not otherwise be produced and the productive capacity of the field will be prolonged."

Levy added, "If this recovery method is successful at Salt Creek, it will have extremely broad implications for the future recovery of oil and the maintenance of producing capacities from many other large reservoirs in the State of Texas, as this project would demonstrate what amounts to a third generation oil recovery technique."

General Crude is seeking an increase of 6,300 barrels of oil per day. This would, Levy said, "shorten the period of time necessary to evaluate this project," and allow the operators to recover some of the expenses involved in the research.

The hearing officer will report to the commission, which will make a decision on the requested allowable increase in three or four weeks.

Patrol Investigate Four Kent Accidents In March

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated four accidents on rural highways in Kent County during the month of March, according to Sergeant Frank Jirick, Highway Patrol Supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in an estimated property damage of $2,815,000.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the first three months of 1970 shows a total of four accidents resulting in no persons killed, no persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $2,815,000. The final entry in the 1969. Texas traffic records has been entered and closed. An all time record of 3,551 persons killed, an estimate of 223,000 suffered injuries, and an estimated property loss of $955 million was sustained.

Since the death count of 2,254 in 1960, Texas has gained steadily each year. The Sergeant stated, "If the number of deaths continue to increase as they have since 1960 by 1978 they will have increased 100 per cent.

Wrong Medicine

Given a prescription for her arthritis, a woman took it to the corner drug store to be filled. But the druggist mixed a wrong ingredient into the medicine. As a result, the woman suffered a severe reaction—and later filed suit for damages.

"Don't blame me, blame the doctor," protested the druggist in court. "His writing on that prescription was so illegible it was hard to be sure what he meant. So I filled it according to my best judgment."

But the court held the druggist liable anyhow, blaming him for not checking with the doctor before going ahead.

HOME BUYER

Lender Needs Protection Too

Being well informed and financially protected are highly important for a lender—as well as a home buyer—in a real estate transaction. The lender normally has one major item to secure his substantial investment in your home: a mortgage on the real estate itself. Naturally, he wants to make sure his investment is secure—just as you want to protect your equity.

Services such as property appraisal, credit report, and lender's title insurance are common examples of safeguards applied by a lender. Charges for these and other services connected with a loan normally are paid by the parties to a real estate transaction.

In some locations, a lender will protect his investment by requiring that the purchaser prepay up to a year's property taxes into an escrow account. The amount in escrow will depend on the months remaining in a tax year at the time the real estate is purchased.

A lender uses all available safeguards to protect the money he advances to you to make your purchase of a home possible. You can become better informed on lender charges and closing costs before you purchase by checking with a lender, real estate broker, builder, attorney, abstractor or title insurer.

An excellent way to protect your investment in a home is with an up-to-date title search and owner's title insurance. Ordinarily, owner's title insurance can be obtained for a small additional charge at the same time lender's title insurance is ordered.
