$70.1 Million Kent County Petroleum Sold In 1972

The petroleum industry in Kent County played a significant role in 1972 in helping to offset the unprecedented demand for Texas' crude oil and natural gas.

No. 1 industry, according to figures compiled by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association.

due in large part to nine months of production at 100-percent of the maximum efficient rate, the nation's largest producer of petroleum could not produce enough to satisfy demand.

Buschman added. This study by the Association also shows that production last year in Kent County resulted in the payment of $8.8 million to royalty owners.

The state of Texas received $3.3 million in production taxes from county wells; $3.1 million on crude oil output and $212,000 from natural gas production.

Oil and gas producers and developers spent $16.7 million drilling 23 wells in the county last year, with $903,000 of that figure lost in 12 dry holes.

One natural gas processing plant also added to the county's economy. The "Oil and Gas Journal" lists its total daily capacity at 17 million cubic feet.

Governor To Have Mobile Field Office

Governor Dolph Briscoe announced Friday he will initiate a new Mobile Field Office as an extension of the Governor's Office sometime in July.

The Governor's Mobile Field Office will be located in every county seat in the State at least one day during the coming year and will be staffed on an alternating basis by the members of the Governor's staff.

Governor Briscoe said whenever possible he himself will staff the Mobile Field Office.

Addressing the County and District Clerks Association in Corpus Christi, the Governor said, "we will be in the communities for many purposes. We will be there to listen to what the public has to say... to answer questions... to help inform the public on matters of special interest to their communities."

out that "the doors to this office will be open to everyone. The public will be encouraged to take advantage of this opportunity to communicate with their government."

Among other assignments, those staffing the office will help to inform the public of ways and means of conserving energy; will establish face to face communications with local governmental officials; and will search for ways of improving the overall delivery of government services to the communities, the Governor said.

"By establishing this close link to the people in the Governor's Office, it is my belief that the Governor's Office will be in a better position to serve all people. The Mobile Field Office will be an instrument which will make State Government more accessible and more responsive to the public we all serve," the Governor said.

Tri-County Camp Held In Spur Park

Tri-County Camp was held at Swenson Park in Spur June 25-26. Twenty 4-H youngsters and one adult leader attended from Kent County.

A "Sanford and Son" play was given for the talent show and Lesa Pickens, Jonnie Panter and Rena Bural were part of the cast.

Care In Selecting Cantaloupes

Many consumers find selecting a cantaloupe difficult or confusing. Just keep the work "HAND" in mind and you can pick out a reasonably good sweet melon.

A normal growth characteristic for most varieties. D — for depression. Choose a melon with a depression at the stem end.

Kent County To Get Food Stamps

The first food stamps in Kent County will be issued October 1. But before the statewide food stamp program is implemented here, there is much work to be done.

Commodities is the food assistance program currently operating in this county. The 62nd Texas Legislature appropriated $7.7 million for a statewide food stamp program to replace all county food stamp programs and commodity food distributions.

Before the first stamps are issued here, extensive preparation must be completed. Current commodity recipients will be notified that food stamps will replace the present food assistance program.

Certification for food stamp eligibility will begin at a later date. All persons who don't make much money or who are unemployed are encouraged to apply at that time.

New Pastors At Assembly Of God

Rev. and Mrs. G. B. Jones recently accepted the pastorate of Jayton Assembly of God Church, moving here from Littleton, Colorado, where they resided during the time Rev. Jones served on the Evangelistic field in Texas, Oklahoma and Colorado.

Previously they pioneered and pastored the Hurst Assembly of God Church in Hurst for 11 1/2 years during which time the Lord blessed their ministry with a lovely congregation and beautiful building program.

They have three children which are all married, George E. Jones of Houston, Mrs. H. C. Barron Jr., Denver, Colo., E. R. Jones, Littleton, Colo.

Rev. and Mrs. Jones were born and reared in Lamar County married

March 11, 1934, accepted the call into the ministry in 1945, ordained in San Angelo, 1950. Both are here to serve the community in any capacity they can.

Brantner Funeral In Spur Thursday

Services for K. P. Brantner, 73, who died at 11:55 a. m. Tuesday of last week in Crosbyton Hospital following a lengthy illness, were held at 2 p. m. Thursday in the Spur Church of Christ.

Officiating was Jim Chism, assisted by Ben Pectol of New Home. Burial was in Spur Cemetery under direction of Campbell Funeral Home.

Born Oct. 29, 1899, in Robertson County, he married Marie Hooper May 4, 1923, in Dickens. He was a retired stock farmer — a n d retail grocer. He lived in Kent and Dickens Counties from 1900 until 1970 when he moved to Spur.

Survivors include his wife, Marie of Spur; three daughters, Mrs. Irene Lemley of Houston, Mrs. Doris Maness of Little Rock, Ark., and Mrs. Joyce Morin of Levelland; two sons, Ralph of Stratford and Ronald of Winter Park, Fla., one brother John, of Girard; three sisters, Mrs. Ray Rankin of Spur, Mrs. Reba Thornton of Fort Worth and Mrs. Ruth Fry of Texline; 13 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Furniture Tour In Lubbock

Mrs. Bobby Stanaland, Extension agent conducted a furniture tour, showing the H. D. members some of the materials the better and newest types of furniture are made of.

The first stop was at the Concord House of Furniture, in Lubbock. A guide directed the group through the building explaining the finishes, construction and materials used in this line of furniture.

Each type of rooms carried a beautiful decoration of colors, carpets and draperies also mirrors for complete decors. The other tour was to the "Design of Today" Inc. Here, we saw many new designs of furniture, many which were of plastics. A large display of china and silver ware and other designs of home furnishings.

Those going on the tour were Mmes. Robert Koonce, Jake Fuller, Bill Perkins, Check Thomas and Ben Boland from Jayton; Mmes. D. D. Thompson, Alton Clark, Roy Nance, J a k e Swaringen, Hugh Turner and Lois Simpson from Girard and Mrs. Bobby Stanaland.

Clubs Complete Selected Projects

The Kent County H. D. Club have completed the projects they have selected as a project for the years work ending July 1st.

A result demonstration tour was made July 2, at 9:30 a. m. The members met at Mrs. Simpson's home. She had made pinch pleat drapes for the dining area of her home.

After a short visit here, the members went to Mrs. Hugh Turners home. She had built a walk-in-closet, which is a large size, has large storage space and shelves which makes her home more useful as well as attractive. Also she has arranged a convenient sewing center.

Mrs. Turner did the work and the cost was small considering the service she will use the walk-in-closet for.

After leaving Mrs. Turners, the group drove to the home of Mrs. Ben Boland of Jayton. Mrs. Boland has refinished and completed the living room of her home, with the type and finish she chose. Mrs. Boland has a very nice home as she does all sorts of decorating and sewing.

Those making the tour were: Mrs. Arner Watson and Jess Powell of the Dickens Co. Club; Mmes; Jake Fuller, Ben Boland, Robert Koonce, Bill Perkins, Jan Harrison and daughter from Jayton; Mmes: Alton Clark, Roy Nance, Hugh Turner and Lois Simpson from Girard; Mrs. Bobby Stanaland, Extension Agent of Kent County who has been the instructor for the projects.

To Attend State 4-H Club Congress

As It Looks From Here

By Rep. Omar Burleson
Member of Congress, Texas

Washington, D. C.--A few years ago--Standing at the foot of a mountain in rugged Northwestern Norway, a native was asked what was on the other side. Without a sign of anything except stating a fact he replied, "Another mountain." And so it was--another and another. The desire to see the other side of the last one and then the sea -- and the Arctic Circle--only there was no circle -- only a marker.

A change of scenery is good and that's what summer vacations are for--to see the other side.

On the other hand, to return to familiar scenes -- life -- long familiar scenes -- is refreshing, relaxing, inspirational, and if such a thing--a sort of a reincarnation in the original form, in other words--home.

This is written from Down behind the "Back Forty"--where the mesquites began. There's a lot to do here. With a little quite and patience you can see a lot of wild things come to the tank for water and then one can stay busy keeping the thunderheads in order

There's all sorts of changes taking place up there and near sundown can be the greatest show on Earth. In the course of this action, or inaction depending on how viewed, great flights of fancy are taken and vast realms of speculation explored. Walt Whitman wrote, "I loaf and invite my soul along."

Loafing can be a full-time job, if really worked at. After considerable experience it has been found that the position for loafing is either lying on one's back or stomach, depending on whether the imagination and reflections are directed skyward or if attention is on the ground. Either way, a level spot is best to choose. (If it's in grass or weeds, you will be reminded at night that you had company--chiggers.)

Turning over on the stomach there's activity on the ground. The famed Swedish Botanist Carolus Linnaeus, said that he could spend a lifetime studying as much of the Earth as he could cover with one of his hands. That would seem too much like work for genuine loafing but a place to start for some appreciation is to watch an ant -- preferably one which seems to have a purpose in mind. He is carrying half of a worm, thrice or more his size, in an obvious direction. Where is he going with that prize along a trail in his jungle? Who will try to help him or who may try to take it away? When does the feast begin and is he working for himself alone or feeding a growing family?

Well, anyway, there just a lot to do around here but for those who find it hard to take long, hot summer days lying down, there's a mouse's advice to a mole in "The Wind the Willows": "Believe me, my young friend, there is nothing--absolutely nothing--half as much worth doing as simply messing around in gardens!" There's nothing to lose--except your cares--for a short time.

Quiet dignity of service to crown cherished memories

Private Schools

In England the Labor Party, led by Harold Wilson, is proposing to do away with what are called, in England, the public schools. These are, in reality, private schools and include such famous schools as Eton, Harrow, etc.

At present in England these schools accommodate about seven per cent of the students, so to abolish them would place an immediate burden on the English school system. Laborites oppose the "public" schools because they turn out a disproportionate number of government and industry leaders, thereby see them as snob schools or schools giving graduates special advantages.

Those defending the schools see them as simply more efficient, doing a better job; there is, of course, much tradition surrounding these famous schools and many prominent families have patronized them for centuries. Surprisingly enough, they are not overly expensive, but it's difficult to obtain entry and impossible if such entrance isn't planned many years in advance.

In America private schools aren't threatened; they have, ironically, expanded greatly in the South, usually where massive integration was ordered. Church schools, however, Catholic schools particularly, have declined in number. Financing has been the Catholic problem, plus the fact that the public schools in America often offer better educational opportunity, more diversified facilities.

A traditional democratic strength and influence in the United States has been the public school, where all come to learn with equal opportunity and treatment. Aside from the metropolitan areas, where private schools have always existed, the public school in America in most rural areas and small towns has been a vital and formative part of our democratic society, and should be.

While one would hope that the public schools in this country would always graduate the vast majority of our students, in an admirable democratic tradition, and with their unifying influence, private schools have a right to exist. They do not, under the Constitution, have a right to public funds for support, which some have sought for them as church schools, have faced hard financial times in recent years.

Dr. Bob Alexander must really be in the bicycle riding mood. Last Wednesday, I saw him on a bicycle at 3:15 in Jayton. Then at 9:15 the same evening I saw him riding in Spur. Wonder if he rode it from Jayton to Spur?

Thursday evening, last week, I drove into the driveway of a gasoline station in Carlisle, near Lubbock. As I pulled out my credit card, to pay for the gas, the lady asked me "Do you publish the Jayton Chronicle?" I told her that I did, and she said "We take it."

She was Mrs. Bush, who is a Rice. She told me "We were all born in Jayton." And she added "You can tell the people what good service you got out here at Carlisle." And surely I can.

If I decide to become a blackmailer, I don't intend to be a small time operator. It seems the most successful, are the ones that blackmailed the famous committee to elect the president about a year ago.

When a group of men can extort more than a million dollars from an agency of the president of the United States, you may be sure they really have something incriminating the people being blackmailed want to hide.

The people really have a lot of integrity, and concern for good government, if we may believe the results of a recent poll, made public this week. The polls shows about 90% of the people of the nation think President Nixon had guilty knowledge of the Watergate caper, but only 18% of them think the president should resign -- Great moral values indeed.

Ken May is always trying to get new ideas for the Great Plains Building. How about making a state agency office building, and putting on the top of the building a landing pad for the state owned Choppers? That would make it real handy.

You get a real good idea of how government red tape works, if you will just take a look at Lubbock's Tornado recovery plan, and how it has been working. Many millions of dollars have been spent in Lubbock by various agencies, but so far there is very little tangible evidence of this. Most of the money has been spent for salaries, of committees and study groups.

The expressions of government staying from bricks and mortar is certainly the truth here. Wonder when any of these huge sums of federal money will be spent for bricks and mortar? Its about time, isn't it?

Tomato-Cucumber Marinade

2 medium tomatoes, sliced
1 medium cucumber, peeled and thinly sliced (2 cups)
1/2 medium onion, thinly sliced and separated in rings (1 cup)
1/2 cup salad oil
1/4 cup white wine vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon basil
1 teaspoon tarragon
1/8 teaspoon pepper

Shredded lettuce
Alternate layers of tomato, cucumber, and onion in shallow glass dish. Combine salad oil, vinegar, salt, basil, tarragon and pepper; beat well with rotary or electric beater. Pour over layered vegetables; chill, covered, 5 to 6 hours: Drain reserving marinade. Arrange marinated vegetables on shredded lettuce. Makes 6 servings.

Tomato Florentine

6 medium tomatoes
Salt
1 tablespoon all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk
1 slightly beaten egg yolk
3 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
1 10-ounce package frozen chopped spinach, cooked and well drained (1 1/4 cups)
Cut a slice, 1/4 inch thick, off top of each tomato. Scoop out insides of tomatoes, leaving a shell 1/4 inch thick. Sprinkle inside of each with salt. Combine flour and the 1/2 teaspoon salt blend in milk. Stir in egg yolk and 1 tablespoon of the melted butter or margarine; add to chopped spinach. Cook and stir over medium heat just till mixture simmers. Fill tomatoes with the creamed spinach. Place in shallow baking dish. Top each with 1 teaspoon the melted butter. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) for 20 minutes. Serve hot. Makes six servings.

Tomatoes With Dill Sauce

1/4 cup dairy sour cream
1/4 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
1 teaspoon fresh dill weed or 1/4 teaspoon dried dillweed
1/4 teaspoon salt
4 large firm-ripe tomatoes

Combine sour cream, mayonnaise, onion, dill, and salt, mixing well. Chill. Spoon over hot broiled tomatoes: Core tomatoes and cut in half crosswise. Season cut surfaces with salt and pepper; dot with butter or margarine. Broil, cut side up, 3 inches from heat about 5 minutes or till hot through (don't burn). Makes 8 servings.

There are many ways to save money if the shopper knows materials and style. Some of the large variety stores have articles and clothes that are good and which cost far less than the same quality in more expensive places.

Overweight People Should Use Caution

AUSTIN — If you ask the average family physician to help you solve the problem of overweight, he's likely to respond with enthusiastic encouragement, and a diet program tailored to your individual health needs.

But he won't guarantee any specific weight loss, because he knows that each body type has its own way of metabolizing.

That doesn't satisfy the craving some people have for "instant beauty," so they are quickly attracted to the advertisements which claim, "Lost 20 pounds in 20 days." Many become disillusioned when they don't shed the pounds like the "before" and "after" model whose photographs were shown in the ad.

But wait a minute: Were those "before" and "after" pictures really of the same person? Or, was one photo taken in poor lighting while the subject slumped to increase the girth of abdomen, and the other photo taken under glamor conditions — with tummy tucked in, chin up, and chest out?

can use a little "group therapy" to keep them inspired in the war against unwanted pounds.

Unfortunately, they are sometimes prey to the type of operator who would promise them anything, and too often, the result is a flattened wallet, instead of a trim figure.

Some of the deceptive practices you should be on the watch for include:

• The "bait-and-switch" tactic, in which the operator advertises a claim that his studio can rid you of "10 pounds in 10 days" or "20 pounds in 20 days" (there seems to be a magic in twice-repeated numbers), but when the consumer goes to sign up for the quick course, she is talked out of that, and talked into a more expensive long-term contract.

• The heavy pressure to buy a "life" contract. One man paid a rather high sum for a "life" contract, and when he died a few days later — never having taken one treatment, his family was unable to get any refund. Others have complained that they started a course, but had to drop out at their physician's insistence, and could not get a proportionate refund.

• Claims that passive exercise devices automatically can produce weight loss. The Federal Trade Commission declares that is misleading.

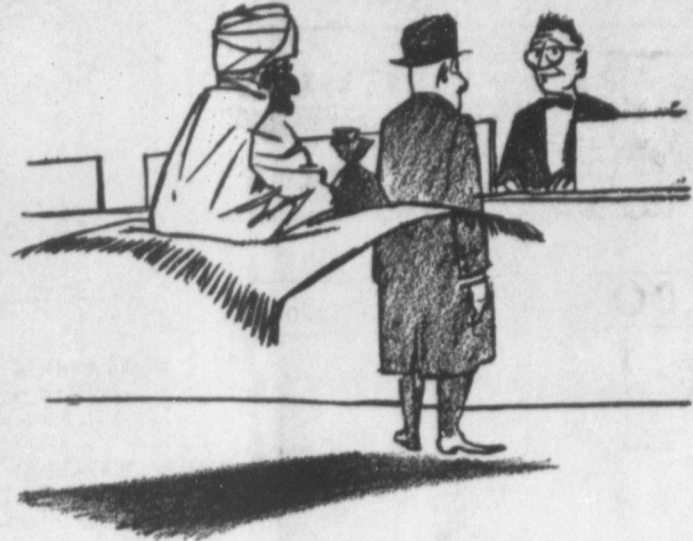

If you're considering the idea of enrolling in a health club, take enough time to see just what you'd be getting. Visit the place during its business hours, without an appointment. Talk to some of the members. One question to ask would be what sort of attention they actually receive. The claim of "personalized care" sometimes is not carried out. Inspect the equipment. Look over the studio to see if it is well-run and sanitary. Inspect the contract you are offered if you do decide to join. There have been complaints that the consumers signed "applications" to try out a facility, and later learned that they really had signed a tight contract, committing them to long-term payments.

If you have reason to believe you are being deceived, do not hesitate to get in touch with your local better business bureau, your district or county attorney, or the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division.

There aren't many of us left who remember Sixbey's General Store. It was more than a store; it was a gathering place, a news bureau, a bright spot in a boy's summer afternoon.

You would come in from the hot dusty street, and the shaded store was cool. Immediately you encountered a tantalizing blend of scents — apples, licorice, spices and smoked ham. Grown-up conversation enhanced your feeling of excitement as they viewed and reviewed town happenings. You always took a long time to decide between a chocolate or a lemon drop, so that this exciting visit could be prolonged.

Our town has changed since then. For those of us whose memories linger in Sixbey's Store, it hardly seems the same place.

Yet one thing's the same. At the corner of Elm and Main, St. Mark's steeple still points skyward. Man's need for God never changes. And the Church remains constant as it teaches the truths of God's love and presence.

4-H Girls Model Projects In Dress Revue

Billie Perkins made a pair of red shorts from cotton blend fabric. The shorts had an elastic waist band.

Myra Cheyne wore a pair of light blue brushed denim shorts that she made. The shorts zipped in front.

Rena Bural made a three piece outfit from cotton blend fabric. The pants were brown and white stripe soersucker, and the jacket and skirt were made from a matching brown fabric.

Jackie Garrison made a multi-colored terri-cloth "cover-up" with a hood to wear over her swimming suit.

La Rhonda Carriker made a pair of hot pink palazzo pants from 100% polyester knit fabric. The pants had a zipper opening in back.

Minette Geeslin made an ensemble from 100% polyester. The cuffed pants and the short jacket were made from a white, black and rust moch plain fabric and a long sleeved black blouse was worn under the jacket.

Lisa Cravey made a suit of 100% wool. The fabric was dark plum color with pink stripes. She made a light pink metallic brocade vest to wear under the jacket.

La Donna Stansland made a pair of wide legged pants from yellow polyester knit fabric. The smock had a navy yoke and sleevebands which contrasted with the story-book print fabric used in the sleeves and the front and back of the garment.

Nita Perkins made a pair of shorts with an elastic waist band from a red cotton blend fabric.

Beth Owen made a mini skirt which was open to the waist to wear with shorts and a matching top.
