Allen Kelley Signs With Howard Payne Yellow Jackets

BROWNWOOD—Allen Kelley, Jr. 6-4, 230 lb. candidate to fill a virtually vacant position for the state tight end and Jackets--tight end.

Howard Payne head coach Dean Slayton and assistants have been searching for a tight end this summer, and Kelley could be the answer. "I don't know that he'll play tight end at Howard Payne," says Slayton, "but he's certainly going to get the opportunity to play wherever he wants and is able to play."

At Jayton Kelley lettered and started four years. His honors include all-district for three years, all area two years, and all state one year.

In the Greenbelt Bowl high school all star classic at Childress Kelley played for an East team which scored a 20-19 win over the West. Slayton and HPU offensive coordinator Harold Mayo coached the East.

Kelley has been timed at 5 seconds in 40 yards and 2.9 in 20. He also played basketball at Jayton, averaging about 25 points per game. He took part in track, qualifying in the discus both in region and state competition.

Kelley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jon A. Kelley of Jayton.

Two Cases of Screw Worms In County

By Mark A. Geeslin, Kent County Agent

Two cases of screw worms were confirmed in Kent County last week. One was on the McLauri ranch, 13 miles west of Jayton, the worm cases were from a brand on a cow and from a cut in a pig's brisket.

This makes three cases of screw worms in Kent County, and the farthest west reported case in the county.

The screwworm fly larvae south during the winter, and north in the summer.

Screwworms are a skin-eating parasite of warm blood animals, that infest open wounds. Untreated infestations may kill the host animal.

Spraying or dipping with an approved insecticide can reduce the risk of screwworm infestations.

Ranchers should be on the lookout for screwworm cases.

Livestock owners are urged to avoid unnecessary branding or working wounds to animals until cool weather.

Mailing kits are available from the office of the Kent County Agent for mailing screwworm samples to the lab in Mission.

Training Eligible For Vietnam Vets

Many veterans of the Vietnam Era are eligible for additional GI Bill training benefits from the Veterans Administration, even though they may have previously used all their entitlement. According to Allen Lowery, Veterans Service Officer for Kent County, some veterans may now be eligible for as much as nine months additional training time.

Public Law 93-508 was enacted by the Congress on December 3, 1974, and provided for a maximum of 45 months training time for veterans. Under previous laws, a veteran was entitled to a maximum of 36 months training time if he was in military service for 18 months or longer.

Wild Native Plants Make good Food

Lots of wild native plants are not only good to eat but are nourishing according to Joe McAdams of the Soil Conservation Service in Jayton.

Indians and early settlers knew and used many plants for food that we have all but forgotten in this day of the supermarkets.

People in the more isolated areas of the southwest still use some of these plants in their daily diets.

One of the most commonly used is the mesquite tree. The beans, which resemble string beans, ripen in the fall and are relished also by wild and domestic animals.

They are rich in sugar and may be baked into bread after grinding.

The seed may be boiled to produce a pleasant tasting tea.

The cattail which may be found growing in wet places, is another staple food plant that has been used for many years. There are many ways to use the cattail, the roots, young shoots, seed heads, and pollen are all eaten. The roots contain a core of starch that may be removed and used in breads and soups.

Last and some people would say least, is the common tumble weed that grows everywhere. This one was not an old Indian food or an old settler food.

It was introduced into the United States not too long ago.

Pick the plants up to about six inches high and cook them like any other green, salt and a little bacon grease will help a lot.

An important thing to remember when sampling these plants or trying to live off them is to know what the plant is, how to identify it, and what steps to go through to prepare it for eating.

It is suggested that a person try a plant for the first time to proceed with caution. All foods to not agree with everybody.

Invite Birds Into Your Home Notes

People who enjoy having birds around their homes will find a new Soil Conservation brochure "Invite Birds to Your Home" a big help in planning and landscaping for birds.

The brochure written by Olan W. Keeder SCS biologist, tells the bird lover how to satisfy habitat needs of nesting and wintering birds with trees, shrubs, and food. It tells how a conservation landscape plan used in the selection of trees and shrubs will beautify your yard and attract the kind of birds you like.

"A conservation landscape plan will guide you in placing bird-attracting features near a window, patio, or terrace so you can observe the many varieties of birds that accept your invitation" William Reeder, SCS district conservationist at Jayton states.

Even bird lovers in dense residential areas can attract birds by providing water for drinking and bathing and living fences and other shrubs for cover. "A single plant, the elderberry, is used by 51 species of birds, and will dress your yard nine months out of the year with its white flower clusters and red-black berries" Reeder said.

"Invite birds to your home" will tell you the kind of food preferred by different kind of birds, and how you can provide for them during food-short winter months.

Single copies of the brochure, Program Aid 1093, are available free at the Soil Conservation Services, office in the Court House in Jayton.

The booklet can also be purchased for 75c from the Supt. of Documents, U. S. Govt. Printing Office in Washington, D. C. 20402.

It's Superlative!

Diamonds are, chemically, pure carbon. But it was no carbon copy that actor Richard Burton bought in October, 1969, for Elizabeth Taylor, then his wife. It was a 69.42-carat flawless diamond ring and he paid $1,200,000 for it, making it the highest-priced diamond ever sold at auction.

The most valuable metal used for engagement and wedding rings is platinum.

It's rarer, harder and heavier than gold, and because of this many women prefer it for rings. They also like the fact it's so tough it resists nicks, scratches and corrosion. And platinum is so strong it's the most secure setting a diamond can have.

The world's most expensive sugar bowl is probably the one on display in New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art. Made in 1786 by the Parisian master-smith Marc Etienne Janety, it's 7 inches long, 5 1/4 inches high and, except for a glass liner, made entirely of the purest platinum.

Breeders' Directory Organized

AUSTIN—Queries will be mailed soon to gather information on breeding stock for sale for the Texas Livestock Market News Directory, published by the Texas Department of Agriculture.

The Directory contains over 3,000 entries from registered breeders of livestock in the state who have stock for sale. It is mailed to buyers throughout Texas and foreign countries. Livestock included are cattle, sheep and goats, horses, and swine.

Letters are sent to all registered breeders whose associations release mailing lists for such purposes.

"Some breeders may be omitted from the Directory because they do not receive the inquiries. If persons wish to be included in the Directory and do not receive a request in the next two months, they should contact our export office," Agriculture Commissioner John C. White stated.

Export office personnel request that the name of the ranch and the breeder's name be included in requests for cross-checking purposes. The address is Export Office, Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 1119, Brenham, Texas 77833.

The Directory is part of the expanded export program initiated by the Texas Department of Agriculture.

years back on the Board of Regents at Texas Tech.
We were serving as editor of the Tech student paper at the time and we remember the two men being friends.

Well, Saturday morning Junell, who presently is serving as president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, addressed the Press Association and started his speech jokingly in answer to a little humorous ribbing he received as he was being introduced. Junell was billed as a native of Hopkins County, famous for its Hopkins County Stew.

Junell quipped back as he reached the podium:
"The two most overrated things ever to come out of Hopkins County were 'Hopkins County Stew' and Marshall Formby."

Also of interest at the press meeting was a seminar by Mike Kingston, well-known editorial writer for the Dallas Morning News, and some what of an expert on the Texas Open Meetings Law which governs all public agencies and boards.

During a question and answer session (and later a personal visit) we asked Kingston about an incident recently in which the Plainview School Board held a closed session.
After hearing our version of the story, Kingston he had no question but that the School Board had met in an illegal closed session.

The incident we had asked about concerned the recent meeting of the board at which Trustees opened bids for construction of a cafeteria at Ash School. After the bids were opened the Board called a closed session to discuss the bids with individual bidders. Not believing this to be covered in the Texas Open Meetings Law, we questioned the Trustees as to what section under the law they were calling the session.

After hunting up a copy of the Open Meetings Law, Board President Bob Carter said the meeting was being closed under the section dealing with the purchase, exchange, or lease of real property.

Kingston, who keeps records on all changes in the Open Meetings law and all court decisions and interpretations of it, said that boards can only close meetings to discuss acquisition of land, but not to discuss construction bids on proposed buildings on land already belonging to the school.

The law allows closure of a meeting to discuss acquisition of land, and rightfully so, because of the speculation that might result if the public knew what tract of land the board was considering.
However, Kingston said he could see no relation between acquisition of land and construction bids on land already owned.
However, we suspected at the time and have since learned from several sources, that the Trustees vacation of the year.

The Senate and House
(the House by only one vote) voted last week to raise their annual salaries to $42,500 per year, plus heavy expense accounts.
The pay raise proposal was brought up quietly, passed quickly with no public debate, and tried to be hushed up for reasons which are obvious.

For people who are supposed to be leading the battle in the fight against inflation, Congressmen are not setting a very good example. We vote them in, send them there and ask them to do something about inflation, and this is what we get.

We guess Canadian editor Ben Ezzell phrased it best recently when he compared representatives' concern for the public much like an
"Oklahoma credit card -- it works every time if the proper suction is applied."

Alan Greenspan, Economic adviser:
"At the moment, the recovery is looking more solid every day."

Gerald Ford, President:
"The right to vote is at the very foundation of our American system."

Most successful politicians are very careful about what they say publicly. Anything that might be apt to get them in trouble, if they discuss it publicly, they will usually give you double talk. Politicians may talk to you privately, and off the record, and give you honest opinions, but on camera, or for publication, they pick their words very carefully.

Most of them caution their wives to keep their mouths shut, and not discuss anything that might be misconstrued, or that might create a political furor. One reason for this is that women tend to be completely honest and will not hedge on a question. When they tell the untarnished complete truth, it sometimes gets them in trouble. A good example in point is the recent answer given by Mrs. Ford, the president's wife, regarding sex before marriage. Her answer, which indicated permissiveness, or an attitude of "it's not really bad" has really aroused a lot of people over the nation. I'll promise you she and the president had a little personal chat after that meeting.

In about 1951, right in the heat of the Korean War, then Senator Lyndon Johnson held a meeting in Lubbock, and invited political friends, who had helped him get elected to the Senate, in the famous "Box 13" race, and these people included this writer. The Senator talked freely during the chat with friends and told a lot of confidential facts about the national economy and the conduct of the Korean War. This writer was taking it all in, making mental notes, and thinking what a good story I was going to have the next week, when reporting to my readers about the Senator's talk. But, you may know at the close of his speech he ended with a remark, "Of course, you all know this is confidential and off the record." That really fixed me.
