Stadium Remodelled

It is being seated with theatre type chairs, which should be very comfortable. The entire stadium project, which includes also the rebuilding of the visitors bleachers, and the concession stand, will cost about $100,000, school officials state.

The Jayton Jaybirds To Host Bulldogs In Home Game

Coach John Richey's Jaybirds spent the weekend looking at game film, and deciding what they need to change and do differently, and then went to the drawing boards to figure out a way to stop, and overcome the renewed Spur Bulldogs.

The Dogs will come storming into town Friday night for the 8 p.m. kickoff at the new Jaybird Field.

About $100,000 has been spent to remodel the stadium, and this will be the local fans first look at the new installation.

Home fans will be offered new theatre type seats, to make it comfortable while they cheer for the Jaybirds. Also there are new bleachers over on the visitors side. The new stadium will have two new pressboxes on the home side, as well as a box for the photographers.

Go out Friday night and cheer the Jaybirds on to their first home game, and victory.

New Comfortable Seats

Jarri Parker, school business manager, tries one of the new stadium seats, while Russell Wright, member of the school board looks on. They both seem to think they are going to be alright.

Band to Abilene

The Jayton Jaybird band under the direction of Jim Cockburn will be in Abilene this coming Saturday, where they will participate in the West Texas Fair parade beginning at 10:00 a.m. They will also be entered in the parade band marching contest and attend the Fair returning to Jayton at approximately 7:30 p.m.

Seven Cases of Screwworms Found In Kent County

Seven screwworm cases have been confirmed in Kent County in 1976. This is much less than the counts were a year ago. Ranchers are urged to continue to report screwworm cases, so that sterile flies will be dropped in the area, states County Agent, Mark A. Geeslin.

The Screwworm Eradication Program, operated by the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS), used sterile males in combatting this parasite of warm blooded animals. Female screwworm flies mate only once in their lifetimes—eggs they produce after mating with a sterile male will not hatch.

Female screwworm flies deposit eggs on wounds in warm blooded animals. As eggs hatch maggots enter the wound to feed on live flesh. In about a week they grow to about half an inch long before dropping to the ground to pupate for another week before emerging as adult flies.

Climatic conditions throughout Texas have been ideal for screwworms this year. The situation would have been much worse if sterile flies had not been steadily distributed among the wild population.

Early this year it seemed Texas was headed toward the worst screwworm year in its history. This pattern changed in April as a new strain of sterile flies came into use by the APHIS program.

By the end of August Texas had recorded 13,105 laboratory confirmed screwworm cases for the year. This compares to 54,769 by the same date in 1972.

The Jaybirds Fall To Roscoe Plowboys In Season Opener

The Jayton Jaybirds, playing their first game of the season in Roscoe Friday night, lost the encounter to the Plowboys 19-6.

The Jaybirds had many boys playing their first game, and of course made many mistakes, which the Class A Plowboys took advantage of.

In the statistic column, Roscoe made 21 first downs to 7 by the Jaybirds, and Roscoe amassed 372 yards in offense to 150 for the Jaybirds.

Jayton averaged 40.5 yards with six punts. The Roscoe team averaged 18.2 on two punts.

Top rushers for the Birds were Randy Prince with 6.7 yards averaged, followed by Robert Segura with 3.4.

On the defense Mario Segura led the tacklers with 10. Joe Martinez and Harold Parker each intercepted a Plowboy pass.

This is the game the Jaybirds play each year to open the season, and it is the game they really find out how they are doing, and what they need to do differently.

Laundrying Program Given at HD Club

A program on laundrying new fabrics was held at the September 2 meeting of the Jayton Home Demonstration Club, when they met at 2:30 p.m. in the community center. Mrs. Ben Boland led in the playing of a pencil and paper game. The president Mrs. Pauline Wilson presided over the business portion of the meeting. Roll call was taken in attendance naming a new fabric.

A brief discussion was held about having a float at the homecoming parade. It was announced that 83 quilts were on display during the Kent County Centennial activities, by local artists and former Kent County residents. They were on display in the court house.

Mrs. Check Thomas brought the thought for the day. The County Extension Agent Roberta E. Stanaland is in charge of the program. She had on display various types of laundry helps such as soaps, bleaches and fabric softeners and discussed how they react to water in this region. She showed various kinds of new materials used in laundrying. A group discussion was held on the theme of the meeting.

Enjoyable refreshments were served by Mrs. Boland to those in attendance including two visitors, Mrs. Clara Staugh and Mrs. Gene B. Louder.

The next meeting on September 16 on slow cookery will be held in the community center at 2:30 in the afternoon.

The Jr. Varsity vs. Spur

Although outscored 1-0 the Jaybirds Junior Varsity played well against a highly touted Spur Junior Varsity, except for a long scoring pass, the scrimmage was very evenly matched. In fact, in the second series of plays, the Jaybird defense stopped the Bulldogs cold. Outstanding defensively were Larry Luna, Greg Nauert, Danny Chunn and Patrick Parker.

Offensively, the Jaybirds moved the ball well with Bobby Capps, Parker, and Chunn making good yardage.

All in all, the coaching staff, was extremely pleased with the performances of all involved. All teams were very well organized and we are looking forward to good things from these groups of athletes.

Shown here is a huge mechanical crane lifting the steel beams into position for the new Jayton Elementary gym. A steel beam being lifted may be seen just above the top of the building.

When this is completed, before basketball season opens, it will give Jayton one of the finest gym complexes of any school in the area.

SUMMARY OF PROPOSED

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS
GENERAL ELECTION NOV. 2, 1976

NUMBER ONE ON THE BALLOT
(S.J.R. 49)

Repealing Sections 49-d and 49-d-1 of Article III of the Texas Constitution, S.J.R. 49 amends Section 49-c of Article III of the Texas Constitution to provide for and authorize an additional $400 million in Texas water development bonds that may be issued on approval of two-thirds of the members of each house of the Legislature for such water development purposes as the Legislature may prescribe.

The amendment contains a specific prohibition against the use of state funds for the development of water resources from the Mississippi River and also requires that before any single water development project may be undertaken requiring the expenditure of more than $35 million in bond proceeds, it must be approved by resolution of the Legislature.

The amendment removes the constitutional requirement that certain revenues must be used to retire water development and water quality enhancement bonds and removes the constitutional interest rate limit on such bonds.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing an increase of $400 million in the amount of Texas Water Development Bonds that may be issued on approval of two-thirds of the legislature; amending and consolidating provisions of Sections 49-c, 49-d and 49-d-1 of Article III of the Texas Constitution; and repealing Sections 49-d and 49-d-1 of Article III of the Texas Constitution."

Alcohol Contest

One of life's mysteries remains the absence of a regulation or federal law requiring beer and malt liquor producers to reveal the alcohol content of their product on the can or bottle.

Young people especially can be fooled by malt liquor. Beers, too, have different percentages of alcohol in them. Do you know which is the most potent?

We have alcohol content information on the labels of whiskies and wines? Why not on all alcoholic beverages?

Music Appreciation

I am not a musician, but as I write this I think back and realize how my taste in music has changed. Early in life, it took only the simplest childhood jingles to please me, then in school I was trained and taught to appreciate more intricate music. All through life I feel that my knowledge of... and appreciation for music has grown and matured. Through study and help from others, I have also grown as a Christian and have a better appreciation of my Lord.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long endure and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Fashion

Whether a blouse looks good or not on a person is due to its length. A short person should not wear as long a blouse as a tall woman. It causes an imbalance to the skirt or pants if the top is too long.

Don't throw away all of those short dresses. Let out hems and face them with solid colors. Or use them as tunics by cutting them shorter.

It is smart to tuck pants into your boot tops. Boots are also being worn with the Russian type of skirt.

Research Features To Be Given At Halfway 14th

HALFWAY--Cotton, corn, sorghum and sunflower research are featured attractions for this year's field day of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Halfway. The premier event begins at 1:00 p.m., September 14, at the research site 14 miles west of Plainview on Hwy. 70.

According to County Extension Agent M.A. Geeslin, field tours will be conducted throughout the afternoon with special presentations planned on irrigation, variety evaluations, weed control and insect pest management.

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock is co-hosting the event, says Geeslin. In past years, the Lubbock and Halfway stations held separate field days but will begin this year alternating as hosts. This means the field day this year will be at Halfway and next year (1977) it will be in Lubbock.

Cooperators are the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, High Plains Research Foundation, Agricultural Research Service - USDA and the National Weather Service.

A large machinery display featuring latest farm implements available will be a part of the field day activities, says Geeslin. Guests will be able to take tractor-drawn trailer tours of the 320 acre research site to closely preview latest developments in crop production. During the six featured stops of the tours, Experiment Station scientists and Extension Service specialists will present brief summaries of research highlights and will answer questions.

The six tour stops include a comprehensive review of cotton variety studies, soil fertility, corn irrigation, modified pivot irrigation systems, insect pest management in sorghum and corn, weed control and other research highlights of particular interest to High Plains agriculturists.

Geeslin says that an irrigation well capable of pumping 1300 gallons of water per minute of clear sand-free water will be of particular interest to field day-goers. The well, recently completed, triples the output of two other irrigations wells at the same location.

Altar decorations were bouquets of pink and blue carnations and a candelabra entwined with flowers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white silk organza with an overlay of chantilly lace. A high neck and long bishop sleeves of matching lace complimented the empire waist. The A-line skirt featured a chapel length train edged with lace. Her chapel length veil was of silk illusion chantilly lace.

The bride wore a necklace which was a gift from the bridegroom for something new. Something old was a handkerchief, borrowed was a sixpence in her shoe and blue was a blue garter.

She carried a bouquet of multi-colored flowers atop a white Bible. Maid of honor was Geraldine Boland, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Donna Wells of Conroe, Helene Prettyman and Debbie Coleman of Huntsville.

They wore gowns of blue and pink dotted swiss and white floral hats.

Flower girl was Dana Roberson of Houston, cousin of the bride. She wore a blue dotted swiss gown with a white hat. Ringbearer was Kevin Wilson of Corrigan and Robert Ringo, Jr. carried the bridal train.

James Ringo served as best man and groomsmen were Mark Henry, Paul Bohan and Mitchell Coey.

The bride's mother chose a floor length gown of pale pink while the bride-grooms mother wore a yellow Dutch gown. Each was complemented with an orchid corsage.

The reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. Members of the houseparty included Lynda Roberson of Houston, Diane Johnson of Corrigan, Lori Ringo, Nesi Lawson, Judy Johnson and Kathy Kerr, all of Huntsville.

speeds of the two vehicles increases. And the higher the speed at the time of an accident, the greater the probability of serious injury or death. This result, of course, could be reduced by proper use of safety belts.

The study indicated that reaction time and other factors make the ten mph speed differential between two cars traveling 50 and 60 miles per hour much more dangerous than the same ten mph difference between vehicles traveling 30 and 40 mph.

"The study explodes the myth that you can play it safe on the highway by traveling slowly," Nevil emphasized. "Slow drivers are safe only if there are no faster cars on the highway with them. And driving too slowly causes a potentially serious hazard to all."

It is safer, according to Nevil, to move with the flow of traffic at the speed limit rather than forcing other drivers to pass because of a low rate of speed.

Three factors influencing the rate of traffic fatalities were recognized in the study: the average speed, variation in speed and vehicle miles driven each year in Texas.

Researchers concluded that of the three factors only the average speed driven by Texans and the variation in speed of vehicles on the highway offered any possible alternative programs for control.

While reducing the average speed was shown to be an effective way of reducing fatalities, reducing the speed differential could hold more promise, according to Nevil.

"The figures in the study show that small reductions in either the average speed or the speed differential will produce reasonably large reductions in fatalities," he said.

"For example, a one mile per hour reduction in either of these factors can be expected to save 40 to 50 lives annually in Texas. But of the two, variation in speed has the greater impact."

Nevil pointed out that a reduction of one mph in the variation of vehicle speeds would save about ten more lives than a one mph reduction in the average speed.

"If the cost and ease of controlling the two factors are the same, controlling the variation of speed will save about 20 percent more lives than controlling the average speed," said Nevil.

While the cost and effectiveness of controlling variations in speed have not been determined, public awareness of the facts could have significant results.

"We've got to get our message across to the slow-poke holding up the normal flow of traffic that he may be the most dangerous person on the road," Nevil warned.

"On the other side of the coin is the driver who is always passing, always changing lanes, always pushing. His chances of making it to his destination in one piece are not as good as the fellow who travels as the fellow at the speed limit and moved with the flow of traffic."

According to Nevil, the study may be a landmark in the philosophy of traffic control and could lead to many innovations.

The traffic safety slogan of tomorrow might read: "A difference in speed kills," or, "go with the flow."

The national anthem, the Star Spangled Banner has three verses. Just about everyone can recall verse one, Oh, say can you see...etc.

But there are two other verses. How many people can recall either of these verses? If you can, write them and send them to me. OK?

The last Texas Legislature passed a law setting up a utility commission, to control the state's huge utility corporations, and supposedly to keep their prices under control, and protect the public against exorbitant charges.

One day this week, the first day the commission was in effect, one of the big corporations, the Bell Telephone Co. filed a request for an increase in rates all over the state, amounting to raises as much as 62 percent.

Well, that is fine. Now we can see how well the new commission serves the public good, and how well a job the commission does in holding the line on high utility charges.

The Texas Department of Corrections has decided to ask the Legislature for funds with which to build a new, big prison farm. Such a farm would be located in West Texas or the Rio Grande Valley; it would house about 2,000 inmates, probably first offenders.

Now, there is no denying that the Texas prison system needs more facilities. Present prisons and farms are over-crowded, perhaps dangerously so, and the prison population continues to increase. But there is a serious question as to whether the board has chosen the proper way to cure the situation.

For one thing, large prison facilities are not, many experts in penology argue, the best way to go. Large prisons carry with them the problems inherent in bigness—the dangers of revolt, the dilution of individual counseling and the like. Community-based corrections facilities, housing inmates near their homes to facilitate visitation by their families and increasing the likelihood of rehabilitation and return to productive lives, appear a better (if more expensive) course.

For another, a prison farm simply does not offer the sort of training and rehabilitation possibilities that make sense. An inmate "trained" to pick cotton or harvest stomp crops during his incarceration is developing no marketable job skills. He is being instilled with no motivation to pursue a productive career upon release. Such a method of incarceration and prison employment can do little to reduce recidivism rates; it is more likely to guarantee more prisoners will become repeat offenders upon release.

The Legislature should take a long look at the proposal when it convenes. Even though community based facilities might cost more to establish, the saving could be great in the long run if they can help guide prisoners into proper paths once they're released.

Is the slow driver a safe driver? Not necessarily, according to a landmark study recently conducted for the Texas Office of Traffic Safety (OTS).

According to Ken Nevil, OTS administrator, the study on the causes of fatal traffic accidents reveals that while lives can be saved by controlling the average speed of motorists, an even more effective way of reducing fatalities may be to control the "speed differential."

"In basic terms," Nevil said, "speed differential is the difference in speeds between two vehicles traveling in the same direction on the same highway."

"Think of the highway as a river whose current is constant. If you threw two blocks of wood into the river a few seconds apart, the chances are very unlikely that the second one would ever catch the first," Nevil explained.

"So, if all vehicles were to travel at approximately the same speed, there would be fewer conflicts, and thus fewer possibilities of an accident."

According to the study, when one vehicle catches or passes another traveling at a slower rate of speed, the chances of an accident rise as the difference in the

Reddy's Helpful Tips
For your Home Laundry

- ✳ Utilize the washer's full capacity. Wash larger loads — wash less often.
- ✳ Same goes for dryers. Dry more than just a few items at a time.
- ✳ Use the washer's load selector to save on hot water when you must wash small loads.
- ✳ Use a cold rinse whenever possible to conserve hot water.
- ✳ For more efficient drying, clean the dryer lint screen after each load.
- ✳ If your dryer has an automatic cycle, use it to prevent unnecessary over-drying. Also, when allowed to over-dry, clothes tend to wrinkle, thus require more ironing.
