Lorenia Caddell, Karen Earp Had Leading Roles At District Dress Revue

Lorenia Caddell and Karen Earp, Haskell County 1st place winners in the Senior and Junior Division of the County Dress Revue, had leading roles as models in the District Three 4-H Dress Revue held in Vernon, Texas, on October 4, 1969. The theme of the Dress Revue was "Alice in Fashionland" and girls from 19 counties modeled the first place winning garments from their county for the Junior and Senior Division in competition for obtaining top honors in District III. Lorenia modeled her pink plaid tailored dress and jacket at the District Dress Revue. This was Lorenia's sixth year to carry a clothing project, and was her second year to represent Haskell County at the District Dress Revue. Winners of the Senior Division District Dress Revue will compete at the State Fair in Dallas, Texas, on October 4, 1969. Representing District III will be Pat Smith, Childress County; Nancy Bridge, Dickens County; Deborah Smith, Fisher County; and Judy Marrs, Motley County. Karen Earp, a Junior 4-H Club member, modeled a completely underlined A-line blue wool dress with above the waist center belt. The high rise jewel neckline had darts extending from the neckline for a very tailored and dressy effect. This is Karen's third year in 4-H Club work and is also her third year to carry a clothing project. Junior 4-H Club members only model at the revue, and do not go on to the State competition. Jathy Haver, District Three 4-H Council Chairman, presided over the Dress Revue activities, and introduced such dignitaries as Senator and Mrs. Cotton Moffett of Vernon, Curly Hays, West Texas Utilities, a well-loved friend of 4-H Club members in District III from Abilene, Mr. Aubrey Lockett, a District III Foundation Trustee from Vernon, and Mr. Joe Brown, Farm Editor of Channel 3, Wichita Falls, Texas. Attending the Dress Revue from Haskell County were Mrs. Johnny Earp, Miss Karen Earp, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Caddell, Miss Joan Caddell, Miss Lorenia Caddell, Miss Kathy Hager, Miss Betsy Lu Walker, and Miss Ruth Ann Fansler, Haskell County Home Demonstration Agent.

Miss Betsy Lu Walker Presents 4-H Record Book Training Program

Miss Betsy Lu Walker, served as an apprentice agent under Miss Ruth Ann Fansler, Haskell County Home Demonstration Agent, presented a 4-H record book training program on compiling the 4-H Record Book. Stitching And Stewing

County H. D. Agent By Ruth Ann Fansler

The average household opens from 900 to 1,500 cans every year. Can opener blades work best at this fast rate when kept clean and sharp.

Any type can opener must be kept clean, because it is sure to become encrusted with food. This clogs action, is highly unsanitary and can transfer flavor from one food to the next.

When dull blades are forced through a can, metal particles may fall into its contents, so both cutting wheels and stationary blades should be kept sharp. A clean cutter remains sharp longer, too.

Wipe blade with a sudsy cloth after use, then remove and scrub in hot suds at frequent intervals.

Electric can openers should never be immersed in water because of motor damage and personal safety, so the cutting assembly must come out for thorough washing, a factor to consider when buying an opener.

Models with exposed rather than enclosed units usually are easiest to handle. First unplug the appliance then follow the manufacturer's directions for removing the gears.

Current electric openers— which come in pastels, brushed chromes, woodtones and avocado—are designed with a "clean look" and deserve to be kept that way.

The cabinet should be wiped off frequently with a clean cloth wrung out of hot soap or detergent suds; Abrasive cleaners are not recommended. The cord should be disconnected, pulled taut through a folded damp cloth, then wiped dry before reuse.

VIETNAM VIEW

(As reported by Marine Corps Combat Correspondents) By Sgt. Bob Morris

DONG HA, Vietnam — Six hundred Vietnamese children of the La Vang Buddhist Pagoda School and Orphanage in Quang Tri Province have found benefactors.

Leathernecks of Headquarters Battalion, 3rd Marine Division recently assumed the responsibility of giving aid to the children of the institution, situated just west of Quang Tri City.

Maj. Robert T. Carney, San Antonio, Texas, executive officer, Headquarters Battalion, and officer-in-charge of the project explained their efforts to help the children.

"Many of these orphans are children of soldiers of the Army of the Republic of Vietnam," the major said, "and a high percentage of them lost their fathers on the battlefield."

"In most cases they are unable to receive very much assistance from their own economic resources. We will be able to help them through offering small but necessary items such as school supplies, toothbrushes, soap and clothing."

Carney described his unit's efforts as "typical of the American serviceman in any foreign country."

On July 5, Leathernecks of the battalion, and the 3rd Marine Division Band took the initial step in the program by providing a ceremony at the pagoda. More than 500 children were present for refreshments and a band concert.

During the ceremony, nine boxes of clothing and blankets were presented to the school/orphanage. They had been donated by the hometown church of Sgt. Peter F. Wezeman, Oak Harbor, Wash.

"This is the kind of thing that really helps us get started," said Maj. Carney. "We are able to assist these children with military, medical and dental help, but donations of clothes, health and comfort items are mostly supplied by people back home."

CHU LAI, Vietnam — The Vietnamese mother had a telling smile. The father had a wide grin. The children were simply overjoyed with laughter.

In full color, an animated character raced across the screen of an outdoor "theater." Mickey Mouse was being employed by the Civil Affairs Section of the 9th Engineer Battalion in the very important role of pacification in a small, rural hamlet near Chu Lai.

"It's really amazing how these people appreciate something which would seem so ordinary to the average American," pointed out Sgt. Charles P. Bronston, 21, R.I., 2, Ponca City, Okla. "It's more amazing when you stop to consider what an important role these simple films play in this nation's future."

"The cartoons are part of a very important program," Bronston said. "We needed something for an attention gainer and this is perfect. Just as soon as the film is over we present lectures designed to improve the future of the Vietnamese. People stay to hear what their government is and what it can do for them. The last part is the most important. You would be surprised to see the response we have received. The people in most of these areas are really becoming interested and involved in the future of their nation."

"We're having the films shown as often as twice a week in some areas," continued Bronston. "One night we had over 500 people in spite of typhoon warnings. They were elbow-to-elbow all over the place."

"It's remarkable that people can appreciate something like this even if it's not in their own language. It could be a while before we reach the total goal of pacification, but this is a giant step along the way," Bronston concluded, as Mickey Mouse raced on.

DA NANG, Vietnam — "Keep firing, keep firing," commanded the Marine above the sound of exploding mortars.

"Swing the gun right now, we've got them down, don't let up, don't let up." These words of encouragement from Lance Cpl. Joe Cortez, Jr., 113 S. Garfield, Amarillo, Tex., helped his men rout a group of enemy who had attacked the Leathernecks from well concealed positions.

The Marines of "G" Company, 2nd Battalion, 1st Marine Regiment were momentarily pinned down during a search and clear operation in the "Dodge City" area 10 miles southwest of Da Nang.

"We'd been sweeping the area most of the day so after we crossed the stream we got the word to take a break," Cortez began. "I just started to relax, when someone spotted a North Vietnamese soldier about 300 yards to our front. I stood up to have a look, when all of a sudden we started receiving mortar and small arms fire on our position."

Cortez led his M-60 machine gun team amidst the incoming mortars to a position that would enable him to deliver an accurate barrage of fire on the enemy.

"They had us pinned down. I had to move our gun to a better position so we could have a clearer field of fire on the enemy. After I got the men set up, I ran between the two gun positions giving them instructions," he continued.

"One of the gunners was having a little bit of trouble with his machine gun, and I had to help him, but I kept yelling my lungs out to the guys to keep firing all they had."

"At first I thought that it was just six NVA soldiers that were firing at us. But after we started firing more and more, I saw about 20 NVA take off from our flanks.

Accurate firing by his men and quick thinking on the part of Cortez took the lives of five NVA soldiers and dispersed the remaining force into the hills. The Marines suffered no casualties in the battle.

TAX MAN SAM SEZ:

About 30 or 40 years ago the tax folks put out statistics of income for each county in the United States. This got to be too big a job for the tax folks because there were too many taxpayers creating too many different kinds of income statistics for the tax people to furnish detailed county by county figures within a reasonable period of time. Then came the computer—and on your tax return you give the computer your name, your number and your zip code. Your zip code not only tells IRS what county you live in, but what corner of the county, or what section of the city. About a year ago Internal Revenue issued statistics of income for the year of 1966. These returns were filed in 1967. Last month Internal Revenue issued statistics of income for the year 1966 broken down by the first three digits of your zip code. In most cases the large cities have a separate three digit zip code for the city and another three digit zip code for the surrounding area. There are 47 different three-digit zip codes in addition to a breakdown of the 47,307 people who didn't put their zip codes on their tax return in Texas. You can buy a copy of the Zip Code Statistics of Income from the Government Printing Office for $1.00. Ask for Publication 649, from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402.

Fashion & beauty report by Dee Morrison LET'S FACE IT!

Fashion is on a see through kick with women. Where can most of us go to hide? And the same is true when it comes to our faces. A woman's face can't stand the naked truth. Very few of us can get away with a face that's naked. But see-through doesn't mean naked; it means transparent... and that's a big difference.

Women think, when they see that young girl on a bus or that model on a magazine cover, "Such a gorgeous complexion. We bet that she doesn't have to wear makeup."

Well, they're all wrong. It's the kind of makeup that you're wearing that makes for a natural look.

That's why Corn Silk pressed powder was invented. For it has the ability to absorb oil, it doesn't cake or streak. It turns a complexion into a gossamer look. Everyone who wears it, swears by it.

Now Corn Silk has added a hint of tint to No-Color pressed powders. That may sound confusing, but it's really very simple. For instance, an olive-skinned brunette would use tawny. It blends with her complexion but takes out the sallowness. Or a fair skinned blonde or redhead can choose either ivory (for an overall look) or peach when she wants a bit of a blush. For the brunette with skin of very white tones, there is also beige, giving her a healthy, glowing look as if the sun just lightly brushed her face.

So the next time that man in your life looks at you and says, "Now that's what I like. I told you that you're beautiful without all that makeup." — blush all you want, and enjoy it!

Sayles - Centerpoint Homecoming Slated Here August 23rd - 24th

The second annual reunion of students, Teachers and patrons of two old-time rural schools, Sayles and Centerpoint, will be held on Sunday afternoon meal for the election officers and directors of the union association.

Invitations have been mailed to approximately 400 exes and to date indications are that it will be well attended again this year. Over 200 were in attendance in August of 1968 for the first reunion.

Early arrivals will meet at the Corral building where a watermelon feed and renewals of old acquaintances will be the feature attractions on Saturday night with a meal to be catered by Felker's Restaurant on Sunday for all in attendance.

It is estimated that about 50 ex-students are now living in the immediate area and as few invitations were sent out to local residents, it is urged that all who plan to attend will notify the secretary of how many meal tickets they will need. A short business session will

FIGHT BACK!

Fight the price/cost squeeze on your wheat with NITROMITE, Shamrock's fine brand of anhydrous ammonia.

A preplant application of NITROMITE speeds early growth, producing lush, high-quality forage (and plenty of it!)—an important factor if you plan to graze cattle this winter.

And the cash crop? NITROMITE delivers the most usable nitrogen per dollar to help increase yields without increasing cost appreciably. So come harvest, even if prices are low, you make out. If they're good, you'll be the big winner.

Put down NITROMITE now. It'll give you a fighting chance in the marketplace.

WASHINGTON "As it looks from here" OMAR BURRELSON Congressman 17th District

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A surprising response has been received from the article of two weeks ago on the passing era of the passenger train.

Some have written because it stirred within them a nostalgia; some who have recently experienced difficulty with public transportation, or the lack of it. One reader complained that the idea and some passages had been lifted from something he had read elsewhere. It is entirely possible he is right since a great deal of interest has been raised on this question in the last few months. The seriousness of the inadequacy of public transportation has been expressed by many reporters, radio and television commentators. Two Committees of the Congress have delved into the numerous aspects of the problem. The important thing is the recognition that a problem exists.

The President has just sent a message to the Congress on the subject. He recommends action to meet this challenge.

The President's communication begins with a description of the heart of the issue. "Public transportation has suffered from years of neglect in America. In the last 30 years urban transportation systems have experienced a cycle of increasing costs, decreasing funds for improvements, cutbacks in service and decrease in passengers."

Statistics show that fares on transit systems have about tripled since 1945 and the number of passengers to one-third the level of that year. In the same period industry profits before taxes have declined from $313 million to $25 million. During this time, 235 bus and subway companies have gone out of business. The remainder have progressively deteriorated. Today, where there is any service at all, there are fewer runs, older cars and poorer accommodations.

The President points out that this is not a problem of our larger cities alone. Every small and medium-sized town and city has seen a decline in service or a complete close-down.

When our nation realized the importance and necessity for improved highways in the last decade, the Congress responded with the Highway Act of 1956. The fact remains that highways are only one element in national transportation need. It is estimated that a quarter of our population lacks access to an automobile. For these people, especially those who are most dependent on public conveyance—the aged, the very young and the handicapped—decent public transportation is the only answer.

Moreover, until we make public transportation an attractive alternative to private car use, we will never be able to build highways fast enough to avoid congestion. Detroit can simply build automobiles faster than roads can be built. We can imagine what the plight will be when our population increases another 100 million by the year 2000.

The President proposes a $10 billion program over a 12-year period to help develop and improve transportation in local communities. He requests contract authorization totaling a little over $3 billion for the first five years to get development underway.

The proposal would authorize assistance to private, as well as public transit systems, so that private enterprise can continue to provide public service.

Whatever system is eventually developed, it must be of such nature as to provide a choice for people who use them rather than simply for those who must use them. This is recognized in the President's proposal when he says that there must be research and technology involved to find new ways of making public transit an attractive choice for owners of private cars. Towards this goal:

(1) Advanced bus and train design to permit easier boarding and dismounting;

(2) Improved interior for increased convenience and security for riders;

(3) New traffic control systems to expedite the flow of traffic;

(4) Tracked air cushioned vehicles;

(5) Better services and schedules;

(6) New propulsion systems to reduce noise, air pollution and costs.

With these improvements, the rider, of course, would have better service. The automobile driver would find safer and less congested roads. Those who must use public transportation would be able to get to work; to reach new job opportunities and better trading advantages in downtown areas.

These improvements will be costly but we are a mobile people.

CONSERVATION HELPS TEXAS

Harris, Haskell High School, was one of the two Region V Essay Medal Winners at an Awards Banquet held last spring. A story was carried in the Free Press at that time, but below is the winning essay written by Miss Harris.

It is the good fortune of the people of Texas that they live in a region very rich in natural resources. The people who live here have had the energy and skill to develop and to use these resources. We shall continue to do so; but we must learn to conserve our resources.

Some resources, like coal or fuel oil, are themselves consumed when they are put to use. Others, like iron, are often made into things that help to produce more things. A plow, for instance, helps to produce wheat; a steel bridge carrying trains or trucks saves time and energy and also other materials. These kinds of resources are sometimes called "nonrenewable" and they include all the mineral resources of the earth. Such substances are literally as old as the hills. The processes by which they came into being were so slow that a hundred lifetimes of man are practically nothing in comparison. For this reason, these resources can never be renewed. Other natural resources, "renewable resources," can be used over and over again and yet can be made to increase. If they are used wisely, they can be used forever and will continue renewing themselves.

The renewable resources include all animals, all plant life, the bubbling water from a hillside spring, or flowing through the landscape and the soil. But it is a curious fact that all the renewable resources depend so closely on each other that they are really parts of a single machine. Remove an essential part and the machine breaks down.

When forests are destroyed without the saving of the young trees or without replanting, the result may be greater than the loss of a future source of lumber. Most of the forest animals including birds, must go elsewhere or die, for they cannot live without the shelter of the trees. The loss of birds that feed on insects has sometimes led to a great increase in destructive insects.

Cutting the forest may also affect our water sources. While the trees stood, they protected the soil from the full force of rain. It soaked gently into the ground and the roots of the trees held it there. But with the trees gone, the water runs quickly off the surface. Springs dry up. The surface water, rushing quickly down, carries the topsoil with it and also adds to the burden in brooks and rivers, helping to cause floods. Life quickly disappears from streams choked with soil. Much the same thing may happen when land is carelessly plowed for crops.

Many animals have disappeared. Birds, as well as other animals, have been ruthlessly hunted. Fish have been reduced in number by catching but more so by the dirt and silt that have polluted many rivers.

Pollution, too, makes water dangerous for swimming and unpleasant for boating. It kills fish and makes fish dangerous to eat. Silt, bacteria, bad tastes and odors, discoloration, and destructive chemicals make water unusable without costly treatment.

By conserving our natural resources in Texas, we are really helping ourselves. The insect world, for instance, would soon overwhelm us if it were not for animals, birds, fish, frogs, mammals, even other insects, that prey upon them. Similarly hawks, owls, foxes and other animals destroy enormous numbers of rats, mice and other rodents. In this way, conservation helps Texas.

Rolling Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Represented At Austin Meet

The Rolling Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., was represented in Austin recently in the offices of John White, Commissioner of Agriculture, at the meeting of the Diapause Boll Weevil Control Program on High Plains, the "brain trust" of experts that created and have guided the Plains Program since 1964. They are probably the most experienced and knowledgeable group of bug fighters ever gathered in one room.

Ground trash examinations made in the spring of 1964 after an explosive outbreak of weevils in the Rolling Plains during the fall of 1963 proved that weevils could live through the cold Plains winter. Because of the threat to the Plains a $1.5 billion cotton industry, PGA state and federal agricultural agencies initiated a cooperative effort to prevent any further migration of the weevil.

Plains farmers assessed themselves 50¢ per bale per year to get the program started. Both governments put up matching funds. Plains began spraying a narrow strip along the eastern edge of the "Caprock" dividing the High Plains and Rolling Plains. A buffer zone was created over which the weevil could not pass and live.

The program worked. In the world's first large scale attempt at eradication, entomologists put out nearly 40,000 sex traps, sprayed as high as a million acres in one year, released millions of sterile males, and are even experimenting on an insecticide that is dusted on cottonseed before planting.

Now the time has come, the planners think, to begin to move the weevil back. They would like to extend the control zone in 1970 to the South and East, if possible, taking in Hall, King, Cottle, Stonewall, treated area have been estimated at from $2 to $4 per acre the first year, with the treated area growing smaller each year. In short, a lot of talking has been done. Are we ready to put our money where our mouth is? The Rolling Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., would like to have your thoughts. If it looks as if they get the support... they will go to work!

Wendell Coston Completes ROTC Summer Camp

Wendell Ferrell Coston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ferrell Coston, of Haskell, has completed the nation's only basic ROTC summer camp as a member of B. Co., 9BN, 2BDE, Ft. Benning, Georgia.

Conducted for the third consecutive year by the Training Center's 2nd Brigade, the six-week camp has doubled in size since the 1967 camp.

Unique in its concept of providing active-duty training in lieu of two years on-campus study, this camp differs in many aspects from the basic training cycle.

Each cadet attending camp is a volunteer, under obligation to continue the course for six weeks; therefore, those completing the program are motivated young men.

Covering basically the course of instruction in weeks less time, the cadets receive greater emphasis on tactics and leadership. Each at some time served in a leadership position, be it leader or platoon leader, graduation ceremonies were conducted entirely by cadets

August 4th, 1969 Plans Shaping For Jones-Haskell Grain Co-Op

A good turnout of Haskell County and other area farmers met in the Community room of the Haskell National Bank, Monday, August 4th, at 8:30 p. m.

Moreland M. Glass was program chairman and introduced Jones County guest speakers, Clem Richards, Charles Stenholm and Cliff Cobb.

After having a very thorough Question and Answer session with visiting guests and Haskell County farmers, more plans were made for future meetings.

Haskell County farmers elected a Steering Committee with Moreland Glass being elected as Chairman, Norman Nanny, Vice Chairman, and Willard Mullins to serve as Secretary-Treasurer.

A sizable amount of funds have already been secured to help get the Organization started and much more is needed. Interest will be paid on every share of stock.

A leg can easily be set up in Haskell, by wheat harvest time in 1970, if the farmers in Haskell County will work together.

If a leg is not set up in Haskell, no one will lose his invested money. Your money stays in the Haskell National Bank and draws interest until the leg is built and is anticipated to continue to draw interest as long as you have stock.

If enough money isn't invested to build a leg in Haskell, your money will be returned to you with interest.

According to Willard Mullins a Jones-Haskell Co-Op Grain member and serving as Secretary-Treasurer of the Haskell group, this information is true.
