TEACHERS TO BE PAID ON TEN-MONTHS BASIS

AUSTIN—Texas public school teachers—those on the state minimum salary schedule—will receive pay raises averaging about $1,050 per year in 1970-71.

Students will go to school—and teachers will teach—an extra five days (180 days instead of 175). In addition, teachers will be on duty for 10 more days of non-teaching work during the year, and will be paid on a 10-months basis, instead of nine.

These changes in the school year and the basis for figuring teacher pay result from amendments to the minimum foundation program law passed in 1969 by the Legislature.

Under the minimum program, a beginning bachelor's degree teacher in 1969-70 was paid $593 per month for nine months, or $5,337 for the year.

In 1970-71, a beginning bachelor's degree teacher will receive $600 per month for 10 months, or $6,000 for the year.

Many Texas school systems pay their teachers more than the state required minimum salaries.

Texas was ranked 38th among states in average teacher pay in 1969-70. The 1970 raises and a long-range improvement plan are expected to move Texas up to a more favorable position among states in the years ahead.

The new law puts into effect in 1971-72 a continuing compensation plan which will give Texas teachers an additional five per cent raise each year and cost-of-living raises in 1974 and 1975. It will allow all Texas teachers to reach the top of the pay schedule—$11,040 for bachelor's degree, and $12,040 for master's degree teachers—with in 10 years of service.

The new law has left many people—teachers as well as school patrons—with questions about its work and pay aspects.

The State Board of Education has attempted to answer such questions by drafting an official definition of the 180-day school term and service requirements for teachers in 1970-71 and future years.

Basically, the state board says that beginning on September 1, 1970:

—Texas public schools will have 780 days of actual classroom instruction, (where teachers and students are together in learning situations) instead of the 175 days previously required under foundation program law. (Some schools had already been operating programs longer than the minimum.)

—Most Texas teachers will be paid on a 10-month basis. (Vocational and special education teachers may be paid for 10, 11 or 12 months.)

—In addition to the 180 days of classroom instruction, teachers and other personnel previously authorized for less than 10 months under the foundation program shall be required to be on duty for an additional 10 days, making a total of 190 days, exclusive of holidays approved by the local board of trustees.

School districts may employ teachers for more than the specified 190 days, but if they do their salaries for work beyond the 190 days must be paid wholly from local funds rather than foundation program funds.

Mrs. Elliott Speaks To CAP H. D. Club

By Margaret Wilson

The CAP Home Demonstration Club met at the Community Center, Thursday, June 18. President, Juanita Lewis presided over the meeting. Mrs. Barbara Elliott gave a program on "How To Be A Perfect Hostess."

She pointed out where you would find information on how to be a perfect hostess. Emily Post's book on good manners, now authored by her daughter-in-law, Elizabeth Post, is the best source of information. Mrs. Elliott gave various points of formal and informal entertainment. Main points were given on preparation, planning and making introductions, equal amount of attention, overlooking accidents and keeping conversations comfortable.

Mrs. Elliott said a perfect hostess always chose guests carefully, arrange activities and gives a relaxed feeling. Interesting points were given on overnight guests. After the H.D. meeting, plans were completed for the 19th of June picnic. This picnic was sponsored by the club and was an enjoyable celebration. You missed a treat by not coming out to see the activities. About 200 took part in the celebration. The young people had fun on the trampoline, some played volleyball and Mr. Lee Kirk was an outstanding athlete on the baseball field. The H.D. members thank everyone who contributed to the celebration. Mr. A. J. Lawson barbecued. Salads and beans were prepared by the women of the community. There was a real togetherness Friday.

The Mexican-Americans contributed and took part in all activities.

Mr. Raymond Rodela worked on the committee for contacting and contributions.

Adams-Howeth Wedding Rites Read Monday At Weinert Baptist Church

MRS. MARVIN HOWETH, JR.
... formerly Donna Lynn Adams

Wedding vows for Miss Donna Lynn Adams and Thurman Marvin Howeth, Jr., were read Monday, June 22nd, at eight o'clock in the evening in the First Baptist Church, Weinert.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Adams of Weinert and Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Howeth, Sr., of Haskell.

Reverend Ross Anderson officiated. Judy Therwanger was organist and Alexia Mayfield, soloist.

Maid of honor was Bette Edwards, and Judy Gray was bridesmaid.

Candlelighters were Kevin Swamer and Michael Adams.

The groom chose as his best man, Larry Long. James Kirby served as groomsman and ushers were Elmer Adams and Eddie Swamer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an A-line gown of peau de soie, aliencon lace applique on bodice and elbow length sleeves, set with seed pearls. The train was fastened at waist with a bow and accented with lace appliques. Her veil of illusion was held with lace petals accented with irridescentes. She carried an arrangement of daisies surrounding a white detachable orchid.

Attendants' dresses were of bonded mint green lace and their headdress of mint green tulle was held by flower petals. They carried a cascade of yellow and white spider mums.

Guests were registered as they entered the church by Debbie Campbell.

Reception was held in the fellowship hall following the ceremony.

Mrs. Robert W. Herren Attends "Liz" Luncheon

Mrs. Robert W. Herren, of Haskell, was a guest of Mrs. A. J. Smith, Mesquite District president for the luncheon, Monday, June 22, at Hardin-Simmons University Moody Center, Abilene, where Liz Carpenter kept the group in stitches most of the time with her witty comparisons... as her opening remark, Liz said she felt like Aristotle Onassis: "I know a lot expected of me, but can I live up to it?"

The speaker said she had come back from her tour of the U. S. "with a new faith in the basic goodness of the country," that the pessimism expressed is more on the surface than it is deep-rooted.

Mrs. Herren and party were on the steps of the Moody Center to greet Kathryn Duff and Liz Carpenter and had a few nice minutes to get acquainted... before others gathered.

Mrs. Herren is proud of Mrs. Carpenter's book, "Fuffles and Flourishes." Liz autographed for her... "To Auntie Herren—with thanks for doing all you do to keep the Democratic flag flying in Haskell"... Liz Carpenter.

Business, Social Session Held By Naomi SS Class

The Naomi Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church met in the educational building for their regular social and business meeting. Tables were decorated with beautiful arrangements of white daisies. Mrs. Clara Biard gave the invocation and the group enjoyed refreshments of sandwiches and home made ice cream.

After the refreshments were served, Mrs. Mattie Muriel Felker, president, presided over the business session. Class projects were discussed, and Miss Nettie McCollum gave a very interesting report on what the class had done the past month in sending cards, flowers, and gifts.

Mrs. Troy Culpepper brought a very inspiring devotion on Caring. She brought out that the world is divided into two classes; those who care, and those who do not care, and that success or failure depends on the human relationship. Also, she pointed out some good examples in the Bible of people who cared; for instance the Samaritan, the prodigal son whose father cared for him and welcomed him back home. She emphasized that to take out this one ingredient out of life there would be very little left. The best way to show that we care is to express what we feel. It takes courage to care. In closing she left this thought, the more we care, the more lively become. Miss Betty Jo Clanton, teacher, voiced the closing prayer.

The following members were present, Nadine Sorenson, Stella Trice, Sadie Payne, Nettie McCollum, Freda Carter, Claudia Mae Bland, Mattie Muriel Felker, Betty Jo Clanton, Frances Lane, Clara Biard, E. m. m. Bland, Della Medford, Allene Whentley, Christine Bryant, Lelia Mae Atchison, Ethel Lou Shelton and one visitor, Mrs. Troy Culpepper. Mrs. Stella Trice's group was hostess.

Proof Of Age Is A Must For Social Security

Concerned about proving your age when you file for social security benefits? Wayne S. Baker, social security field representative for Haskell County, says this is a problem for many people. "Of course, with a birth or baptismal certificate recorded at or within 5 years of your birth, you have no problem as that's all you'll need," he added.

ense, military record, or voting registration or an old poll tax receipt. According to Baker, you should obtain your proofs in advance of retirement to avoid a delay in your first social security check. The Social Security Administration recognizes the occasional difficulty in obtaining adequate proof of age, and will help you as necessary. Check the social security travel schedule at the post office and see Baker is you need such help.

Gardening And Conservation Topic Of New Leaflet Written By SCS

Gardening and conservation is the subject of a new USDA leaflet written by the Soil Conservation Service.

District Conservationist J. C. Yeary, Jr. of Haskell SCS Office, said the 8-fold leaflet, titled "Gardening on the Contour", outlines ways to control erosion in a backyard garden. It tells, for example, how rows can be laid out on the contour using a carpenter's level mounted on a 2x4. The leaflet also explains how rainwater which drains from a neighbor's property might be diverted away from your garden.

"Some of our gardeners in the Haskell-Rochester-Stamford area are excellent conservationists," Yeary said. "Many use mulches on the soil surface to help reduce erosion and to improve soil fertility similar to the way conservation farmers use crop residues. A few local gardeners compost their grass clippings and tree leaves for this purpose. Others use hay, straw, cottonseed hulls or peat moss. Preventing erosion in a garden is just as important to a gardener as it is to any other land user," the conservationist pointed out.

Yeary said copies of the new leaflet are available free at his office at Haskell, telephone number 864-3212. Other offices in the area are Anson and Knox City.

You won't feel like you have quit paying income tax, but every little bit helps.

INVESTMENTS ARE HIGH FOR AGRICULTURAL PRODUCERS

What resources are needed for full employment in an agricultural enterprise and what are the returns?

Farmers continually ask county agents these questions. Tom E. Prater, Extension farm management specialist at Texas A&M University, reports.

Equipment, livestock units, land requirements, feed resources and similar items are the bundle of resources considered in developing income and expenses for an enterprise and the basis for borrowing finances, Prater said.

"As land, farm equipment, livestock and various input items increase in price, it becomes more important to estimate the resources needed for certain levels of return and full employment," he said.

"If you are looking for full employment in beef cow-calf operation it will take 200 mother cows," Prater said. "An estimated return to labor-management of $5,702 should be realized on 24 cent calves and an estimated return of $13,383 on calves sold at $30 a hundred-weight."

With 300 mother cows, 2,500 hours of labor and a $164,250 average annual investment are required, Prater said. The annual fixed expenses are estimated at $14,462 and the annual operating expenses are approximately $15,985, he continued.

"This may be improved by including a stocker or conditioning program, or by a pasture-forage fertilization program," Prater added. "Detailed information may be obtained from the local County Agricultural Agent who has a publication, MP-931 revised, available to those who desire the information."

4-H'ers Accept The Challenge

"Will you live in a world of smog-bound skies or sweet clean air? Scummy streams or sparkling water? Eroded land or fertile fields? You must choose."
That is the challenge open to 4-H youths in a recent conservation bulletin titled "You Can Make The Difference." They are urged to get involved in "shaping the world you live in" by participating in the 4-H conservation of natural resources program.

So far this year an estimated 303,000 boys and girls are doing just that. They have enrolled in the program, reports the National 4-H Service Committee.
Like charity, conservation begins at home. And this is where most projects are centered: Neighborhood, town and county. Parents, 4-H leaders, town officials, law enforcement officers, and Extension Service personnel cooperate with the youngsters.

One of their biggest boosters is John Deere of Moline, Illinois, sponsor of the national 4-H conservation of natural resources program for seven straight years.

Annual awards are offered to individual 4-H members, to clubs and to counties in recognition of their conservation efforts. A $50 cash award awaits the county completing the most outstanding conservation program this year. Ten clubs throughout the state will receive certificates of merit.

Awards for 4-H'ers consist of the following: Medals of honor for as many as four outstanding conservation projects in each county; an expense-paid trip as a delegate to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago for the best project throughout the entire state. A $600 scholarship will be presented to six youths who complete the most impressive projects in the nation.

To be eligible for the state or national award, the 4-H'ers must be between 14 and 18 years of age, and have been a 4-H member for at least three years. All winners are determined by the Cooperative Extension Service which supervises 4-H work.

The average retirement check awarded by social security has grown from $22 in 1940 to $100 in 1969.

Tomorrow's Silent Majority

At the ripe old age of 18 or 20 - as most of us far beyond this vintage may well recall - life seems eternal. Growing older is something that just happens to occur to the other fellow - namely our parents. With unusual perception, an editorial in the Humboldt State College newspaper, "Lumberjack," in Arcata, California, recognizes that the youth of today will not always remain so. Going even further, instead of unqualifiedly castigating the older generation, it takes a pleasantly thoughtful look at parents as the "Silent Majority."

It says, "Our parents are the Silent Majority. The Silent Majority is puzzled by current events... young people leaving the country rather than be drafted, campus unrest and turmoil, a seeming decline in morality, patriotism, and the virtues that the Silent Majority regarded as sacred during their youth, hard work, steadfast honesty, solid respect, and honor for their country. To understand their puzzlement, look at their lifetime. First, an economic depression that racked this country inside and out for more than ten years. Ten long years when millions of men were out of work, unable to feed and clothe their families, reduced to accepting welfare, forced to live with desperate situations that they had no control over whatsoever. We should remember that in 25 years, we may be the Silent Majority."

In Appreciation

Where else but in Haskell could a couple live among people like you? We were overwhelmed with indescribable emotions when we saw your public expression to us in the Free Press.

Words can not express our appreciation for this act. Also, we would say "Thank You" to the many who expressed appreciation through calls, telegrams, letters, flowers and gifts.

Thirty-four years ago we dedicated our lives to working with youth in memory of a child we lost. Our lives have been enriched and our years rewarding in this project. These beautiful teen-agers have kept our hearts young. They say that at the end of the rainbow there is a pot of gold - and we have found it filled with beautiful memories.

We shall ever cherish the "Nine-Teens." They brought us enough happiness, love and understanding of youth to keep us young forever.

Thank you from the bottom of our hearts—Hubert and Marge Bell.

Former Haskell County Resident Passes Away

WASHINGTON
"As it looks from here"

Funeral for Mrs. W. E. McNeill, 88, who passed away at 9:15 a. m. Friday in a Wichita Falls hospital, was held Saturday at 3:30 p. m. in the First United Methodist Church in Munday.

Officiating were Rev. Howard Holloway, a retired Methodist minister from Abilene, and Rev. Marvin James, pastor of the First United Methodist Church in Munday.

Born Jo Estace Gaither September 4, 1881, in Arkadelphia, Ark., she married W. E. McNeill on January 1, 1905, in Arkadelphia. They moved to Haskell County in 1909 and then to Knox County in a farm where they lived until he died in 1931. Mrs. McNeill moved to Wichita Falls in 1932 where she lived until her death.

Survivors include three daughters, Misses Alma and Bertha McNeill, both of Wichita Falls and Mrs. Hazen Carson of Dallas; two sons, Earl of Munday, Ray of Charleston, W. Va.; two sisters, Mrs. J. A. Swafford of Ragland, Ala., and Mrs. G. S. McNeill of Sulphur, Okla.; eight grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—It was one of those evenings of gusty winds and intermittent downpours. A three-quarter moon seemed to enjoy dodging in and out of the clouds.

Inside the brightly lit grocery store six carts of groceries were lined up behind each of two opened check-out counters. Beside each cart stood a people who looked tired and bored, waiting their turn.

First in line was a lady with two small children clinging to her side. Her accent suggested that she was Puerto Rican. Both she and the children watched attentively as each item was rung up on the register. After the check-out and repetitive clanging sound that cash registers make, it finally produced the final bill.

The woman took a final look at the white figures on the spinning wheels and then in her purse. In a soft voice she said to the checker, "I have got to take something back." The little girl at her side looked up at the others, not realizing their bored and impatient attitude. Doubtless the checker had been through this before and tried to be helpful and even cheery.

"How much are you short?" he asked the woman.

"It was the check," she said. "It wasn't as much this time." With the checker's help they looked over her cart of groceries. There was a bag of rice and about three pounds of cheap hamburger meat. There was a box of laundry powder and two loaves of yesterday's bread, which can be bought for 10¢ off the regular price.

Then there were some fresh vegetables, some toilet tissue and a quart of skim milk. Included were potatoes, weiners and a large box of cereal. There were several packs of soft drinks, some peanut butter and king sized cans of beans.

The eyes of the two, the checker and the woman, went over the items almost one by one.

Back to the shelves went a jar of red cherries, two or three oranges, some vanilla ice cream and a jar of jelly.

Back went about everything that makes things a little nicer—to improve on the piebalds.

The woman was still a dollar short, so back went the peanut butter and one carton of Kool Aid, and maybe another little item.

Watching all this without doing anything is kinda difficult. Maybe some didn't care but there was the urge to step forward and pay this little bit for the woman because the children were watching. It wouldn't do—so nothing is said. The woman looked back at the rest of us and it seemed the most to be done was to smile and try to impart the thought, "don't be embarrassed. I've been caught short, too."

Then she goes out into the rain with the children close beside her. At home she will cook the hamburger and the beans but there won't be any ice cream or red cherries or the jelly or oranges.

There is a lurking guilt but a man in line shakes his head and mumbles, "Those people never know what they want."

The woman would not be interested in the theories of inflation. There are a lot of them but you can't eat them. She would not be interested that food, as related to over-all living costs, is lower priced than other essentials. Washington thrives on statistics. People who have to put the nice little items back on the shelf and see the disappointment in their children's eyes can't live on these statistics which come from averages and generalities. Because we have to have it every day we are aware that food prices are high and that inflation continues to be one of the greatest problems of the country.

A number of remedies have been applied and more are talked about, but relief is slow in coming. Those who have money can afford it; those with none can usually draw on programs

HASKELL COUNTY HISTORY

30 YEARS AGO
(June 28, 1940)

With the population of the city of Haskell showing an increase during the past decade, according to the preliminary report of the 1940 government census, the population of the county declined in the 10-year period from 16,669 in 1930 to 14,908 on April 1, 1940, according to a report received this week from B. H. Beam, district supervisor. The 1940 figures are preliminary and subject to correction, it was explained. Population of the city of Haskell was listed as 3,046 on April 1, 1940, compared with 2,632 on April 1, 1930. The city's growth during the past ten years, accordingly, has totaled 414, or approximately 18 per cent. This clearly reflects the shift of population from country to town, a trend apparent throughout the nation during the past few years. Increase in Haskell's population has been a natural gain, without a boom of any kind, and is a reliable index of a stable growth, especially when the fact is considered that when the 1930 census was taken, a large number of transient workers were employed on highway construction, and on the courthouse remodeling project here.

Dr. Gertrude Robinson will leave Saturday for a weekend visit with her brother, George Trent Davis of Amarillo. She will return to Haskell Monday.

Miss Mary Beth Menefee of Wichita Falls arrived on Thursday evening for a weekend visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Menefee and other relatives and friends.

Rep. Courtney Hunt, John A. Couch, W. Q. Casey, Bert Welsh and Ralph E. Duncan made a business trip to Fort Worth on Tuesday.

10 YEARS AGO

Four students from Haskell, Miss Maymie Jones, Ella D. Keene, Patsy Lou Koonce and Marguerite McCollum are registered for the summer session at Sul Ross State Teachers College at Alpine.

Miss Naomi Poteet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Poteet, who attended C.I.A. at Denton last year, was elected vice-president of the Sophomore class out of a hundred or more members. Miss Poteet will be remembered as a star pupil in Haskell High School, being voted the best all-around girl in her senior year, and her popularity was carried on into her college career.

Haskell boys enrolled in the Citizens Military Training School at Fort Bliss are Joe Bryant, Rogers Gilstrap, Cecil Lefflar, John Oates, Floyd Taylor and Gilbert Wilson.

Oscar Oates of this city and sister, Mrs. Martin Wilson, of Rule, visited relatives in San Angelo last week.

Gene Hughes of Abilene and formerly of Haskell as manager of the Texas Theatre, was in Haskell visiting relatives and friends last week.

Mrs. Winifred Cole and Miss Lera Hills of Rule were visiting friends and relatives in Haskell last week. Miss Hill has been for the past eight years making her home in Washington, where she has been teaching school. She will return there for the ensuing school term.

Eugene Hunter attended a managers meeting of the Sunset Stores in Lubbock last week.

NUCLEAR SHIP'S CAPTAIN JUST WANTED TO BE PILOT

By JIM DUBLIN Reporter-News Staff Writer

ROCHESTER—In the U. S. Navy, only very special people are entrusted with command positions on a nuclear-powered ship and many officers work long and hard in an effort to achieve this goal. But Captain John H. Alvis, born and raised in Rochester, wound up as executive officer for the world's only atomic aircraft carrier, the U.S.S. Enterprise, when all he really wanted to do was fly airplanes.

Alvis, who has been on leave and staying at the home of his mother, Mrs. Vestus Alvis of Rochester, said, "I studied nuclear power because I thought the Navy would build a nuclear-powered airplane and I wanted to be able to fly it just in case they did."

His "studies" resulted in the addition of a Master of Science degree in nuclear propulsion to an original Bachelor of Science degree in aeronautical engineering, which he earned in the Navy's Postgraduate School. He graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., in 1949.

The Navy never did get around to building an atomic plane. But after Alvis earned a Bronze Star, Distinguished Flying Cross and Air Medal while commanding a squadron of A-4 Skyhawks, which combated North Vietnam from the carrier U.S.S. Kitty Hawk, the Navy decided to get some use from his nuclear knowledge and he was transferred to begin a 15-month training program for the crew of the Enterprise.

Executive officer of the Enterprise from 1968-1970, Alvis said his job was "like most other supervisory jobs—we had a lot of employees and they had a lot of problems. The administration is much the same as any other ship in the Navy."

The ship's crew numbers some 3,000 men and the carrier's air wing and accompanying personnel added another 2,500 to Alvis' worries.

He was aboard the ship in the Pacific on Jan. 14, 1969, when a bomb exploded on the flight deck, which is 1,123 feet long, and began a series of explosions and fires which rocked the 90,000 ton Enterprise. The disaster left 29 men dead and an estimated six months of repairs in its aftermath.

"It took only 30 minutes or so to control the fire," he said. "The men who were killed died while trying to get close enough to hose down the bombs in the fire and keep them from exploding. The bombs blew up before the men could cool them down."

Alvis stressed that at no time was there any danger of a nuclear explosion from the power plant during the disaster and said that it was almost impossible for such an explosion to occur under any circumstances.

He said that, except for the fire, his most memorable moment aboard the world's largest warship was when the Enterprise returned to its base in Alameda, Calif., in 1968 after a long cruise and prepared to go to Bremerton, Wash., for a two-months' overhaul.

"We picked up the families of everyone in the crew, all their cars and everything they had and took the whole bunch on a three-day cruise to Bremerton for the overhaul," Alvis said.

"I was scared to death during the whole cruise. We had 750 dependents aboard and I knew that we would lose someone over the side or have one fall down a ladder," he said. "We set up dormitories for the teenagers, nurseries for the babies and even had a barbecue on the fantail one night."

"Somehow we didn't lose anyone and no one got hurt throughout the entire affair," he said.

Alvis and his family are en route to San Diego where he will take command of the U.S.S. Ogden, an amphibious assault ship, which carries 1,000 Marines, their landing craft and several helicopters.

He and his wife, Lois, have a home in Newport News, Va., but their four young children (the oldest is nine) enjoy riding horses and running all over Rochester.

Of his future, the 44-year-old Alvis says, "I have no plans to retire. I joined the Navy when I was 17 and it's my life. It's what I know and I love it. I have no interest in doing anything else."

HOW TO GET A GOOD NIGHT'S SLEEP

NEW YORK (ED)—With the whys and whats of sleep becoming a favorite study of research-minded scientists, it would seem that it would be easy enough to solve the problems of some eleven million insomniacs. Unfortunately, science can't help it if we're too wound up and just not tired enough, now that machines do our labor, to relax, and get to sleep.

Since the urban world isn't going to get any easier on our nerves, courting sleep successfully has become a do-it-yourself project for the lie-awakes-and-worriers. More often than not, a six-point program does the trick; it should work for you, too, unless there's something wrong with your health.

Forget about how hard it is for you to get to sleep. Worrying just drives sleep away.

Put your problems to bed before you. Don't use midnight to solve midday worries. Thrillers and cliff-hangers are sleep-chasers, so gear your late hour reading and televiewing accordingly.

Think dark. Eliminate all unnecessary light from your bedroom; use black or chocolate brown walls instead of white, and line your draperies with blackout fabric. Lite-trol lining is a new idea to prevent light leaks and keep you in the dark. Your neighborhood interior decorating artists will be in the dark, too; this one looks just like ordinary drapery lining.

Keep it quiet. Move your bedroom as far from street noises as you can. Use heavy, sound-absorbing fabrics instead of sound-reflecting, plastic-modern decor. Remember that glass has a high bounce-back factor, so if light isn't a factor, and you're not using the special blackout fabrics, back your draperies with Roc-lon insulated linings. If you need both, hang the blackout fabric closest to the window on a separate rod, and draw it back by day. Stop a disturbing snorer with a permanent prop-up on a slatted wedge pillow.

Cater to your crotchets. Charles Dickens could only sleep facing north, so he always carried a compass; if you're happier with your head facing the door, face that way. If silk sheets are your style, silk sheets are it. If you're happier, and your schedule permits, sleep from 3 a.m. to noon; there's no law that you have to go to bed at midnight.

Relax. If you don't sleep one night, don't worry. Instead of getting into an uproar, get up, read for a few hours and unwind; you'll make up the sleep tomorrow night, and in the meantime, your body will be relaxing from the daytime routine.

In other words, do everything you can to control common irritants—then forget it. Once you learn to stop worrying and relax, sleep is going to come, naturally.
