Cotton Men At Meeting

LUBBOCK, TEX. (Special) -Use of an additional 755,000 bales, requiring an average of 688,000 acres to produce, could become a reality if cotton takes full advantage of its opportunities in just one market - rugs.

This was one of many examples cited here at a recent meeting of how cotton can benefit greatly from expanded research and promotion effectively administered by growers. Roy Forkner of Lubbock, chairman of the High Plains Steering Committee for the Cotton Producers Institute, presided at the meeting of CPI Founders Committee members and other cotton industry lead-

"The only way we can protect and expand our markets, acreages, and incomes is to get more cotton used in rugs and hundreds of other products," Mr. Forkner said. He added: "Our research and promotion needs have been blueprinted, and we have trained people to operate our programs. What we desperately need is adequate funds to cash in on our opportunities."

Explaining the grower-developed research and promotion proposal (HR-12322) would provide such funds, Mr. Forkner urged all who have a stake in cotton to support and work for approval of the plan.

He said farmers, processors, and cotton communities cannot live with the acreage reduction - averaging 30 per cent this year - that necessarily accompanies a record carryover of cotton.

Details of cotton's present battle for survival and the grower proposal were spelled out by Clifton Kirkpatrick, Memphis, and Earle Younts, Lubbock, of the Council's field service department.

A report on current programs revealed research financed by the Cotton Producers Institute is helping cotton make a comeback in permanent press markets involving several million bales of cotton a year. It also was explained that CPI's award-winning promotion is attracting strong merchandising support from garment manufacturers and giant retailers such as Sears, Statements from firm executives attesting to the fact that promotion is selling cotton products in volume were read at the meeting.

The speaker, however, add-ed: "While cotton has the strongest and finest programs in its history, they simply are not enough."

It was pointed out 14 giant synthetics producers are spending five times as much as cotton on research and $17 to each dollar cotton spends on promotion.

As a result, nylon, dacron, and other higher-priced synthetic fibers now have a total market equaling nearly 7 million bales of cotton. More than 2 million were gained in the last two years, and new syn-

All of the 1965 District 3-AA teams remain in the District for the 1966 season, and two schools have been added. For the first time in a num-

Cotton Men At Meeting

LUBBOCK, TEX. (Special) -Use of an additional 755,000 bales, requiring an average of 688,000 acres to produce, could become a reality if cotton takes full advantage of its opportunities in just one market - rugs.

This was one of many examples cited here at a recent meeting of how cotton can benefit greatly from expanded research and promotion effec-tively administered by growers. Roy Forkner of Lubbock, chairman of the High Plains Steering Committee for the Cotton Producers Institute, presided at the meeting of CPI Founders Committee members and other cotton industry lead-

"The only way we can protect and expand our markets, acreages, and incomes is to get more cotton used in rugs and hundreds of other products," Mr. Forkner said.

He added: "Our research and promotion needs have been blueprinted, and we have trained people to operate our programs. What we desperately need is adequate funds to cash in on our opportunities."

Explaining the grower-developed research and promotion proposal (HR-12322) would provide such funds, Mr. Forkner urged all who have a stake in cotton to support and work for approval of the plan.

He said farmers, processors, and cotton communities cannot live with the acreage re-- averaging 30 per cent this year - that necessarily accompanies a record carryover of cotton.

Details of cotton's present battle for survival and the grower proposal were spelled out by Clifton Kirkpatrick, Memphis, and Earle Younts, Lubbock, of the Council's field service department.

A report on current programs revealed research financed by the Cotton Producers Institute is helping cotton make a comeback in permanent press markets involving several million bales of cotton a year.

It also was explained that CPI's award-winning promotion is attracting strong merchandising support from garment manufacturers and giant retailers such as Sears, Statements from firm executives attesting to the fact that promotion is selling cotton products in volume were read at the meeting.

The speaker, however, add-ed: "While cotton has the strongest and finest programs in its history, they simply are not enough."

It was pointed out 14 giant synthetics producers are spending five times as much as cotton on research and $17 to each dollar cotton spends on promotion.

As a result, nylon, dacron, and other higher-priced synthetic fibers now have a total market equaling nearly 7 million bales of cotton. More than 2 million were gained in the last two years, and new syn-Mid-High Assembly at McMur-

THE MAYOR OF ACUFF By Charlie Mullins

I was just thinking how fortunate I am to be in a position of importance such as running Acuff. I could be off somewhere running a little two by four whistle stop, but as fate would have it here I am in the garden center of the world. Well we do have a few blooming idiots around here. We have a few pretty girls out here too. I went out with this real cute chick the other night for the first time. I'm so suave and worldly and know all those fancy hamburger joints over at Lubbock, so after I got her to promise to give me a cash receipt for her supper, so I could get it off my income tax as entertainment, we went over to this place called the Ko-Ko Inn. I thought it was spelled Coo-Coo Inn at first, and I knew I'd feel right at home.

We ordered the meal, I ordered an ice cream sandwich with the onions cut. I thought I might get in a little smooching after awhile, and I'm about like onions like I am about women smoking; I never did like to kiss a girl and smell a Camel at the same time. Right there is where the embarrassment began. She actually took off her shoes right there under the table. Imagine anybody not knowing any better than that. I got so shook up I dropped a whole handfull of mashed potatoes. I guess everything worked out all right though. I just wiped my hands on the bottom of the table, and her feet, well they did kinda smell but everybody thought it was a Buddist Monk burning himself on the outside.

First medicare premium notices are in the mail to more Vance Mitchell Thomas, Jr., than 2 million of the elderly people who signed up for the voluntary doctor bill insurance to supplement their basic hospital insurance under medicare, Robert M. Ball, Commissioner of Social Security, announced today.

Another 15 million older people enrolled for the doctor bill insurance will not receive Accident Report premium notices, Ball said. Their $3 premiums will be deducted from their monthly social security, railroad retirement, or civil service benefit checks, beginning with the checks due early in July. In addition, a number of States will be paying the premiums for their old age assistance recipients under agreements with the Social Security Administration.

The premium notices now being delivered, Ball said, call for quarterly payments of $9, payment for the doctor bill insurance protection for the months of July, August, and September. This is one-half the cost of the protection; the other half is paid out of general Federal revenues.

With the punch card premium notice is a return envelope pre-addressed to one of six 1137 persons have died in trafsocial security payment cen- fic compared to 1032 deaths ters which are located in New York, Philadelphia, Birmingham, Chicago, Kansas City, and San Francisco, Payment should be made by check or money order payable to "Social Se-

Older persons who cannot manage to make the quarterly premium payment of $9 may send in a payment of $6 for two months coverage, or $3 for one month, Ball said. Or if they have any questions about the premium payments, they get in touch with their social security district offices. Premium payments for medical insurance are due on or before the first day of each month of coverage, he pointed out.

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 17 accidents in Hale County during the month of May according to Sergeant Thurman Keffer Highway Patrol Supervisor of this area.

The crashes resulted in two persons killed, 9 persons injured and an estimated property damage $16,880.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the first five months of 1966 shows a total of 91 accidents resulting in 4 persons killed, 49 persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $91,170. The number of traffic deaths in Texas has risen steadily since 1960 with 2254 deaths to 3128 deaths in 1965, "Fcr the first five months of 1966. for the same period of 1965." the Sergeant stated. This 10% increase is very alarming, and when you realize our heavy volume traffic months are still ahead, we must anticipate increasing problems in the accident picture.
