Mrs. Edna Fouts gave some interesting thoughts as teacher, expressing her appreciation for cooperation and fellowship to the class.

Mrs. Bertha Tanner brought an interesting devotional, discussing "The Hills and Valleys of Our Lives." She stated we have blessings and defeats all along our paths, but there is along our paths, but there is comforting blessing that our Lord is always with us in the valley, or on the mountain top, as the source of comfort in all walks of life, if we depend on Him. Always live your best for the Lord and He will lead you in the paths of righteousness. She closed the devotional by reading the lovely poem, "The

FIRST AID TRAINING IS Hospital NEEDED IN RURAL SECTIONS Notes

In an effort to provide ade-quate first aid to accident vicquate first aid to accident vic-tims on the highway and on the farm, the American Red Cross has redoubled its effort to train people in first aid, according to Ray Lusk, Chairman, First Aid and Water Safety, Haskell County Chapter, American Red Cross

The long-term goal of the Red Cross is to have at least one member of every family one member of every family trained in first aid procedures," said Robert M. Oswald, national director Red Cross Safety Programs, "In the rural setting, medical facilities often are not immediately available, making it imperative that first making it imperative that first aid be given at the scene."

Emergency medical trans-portation and first aid care arrangements have been secured in some areas through the training of law enforcement officers, firemen and ambulance drivers, he said. Even more important, however, is the need for a first aid trained person Richard Shea, Andres Villerreal, Nettie Rogers, Mrs. Beson the scene to give immediate sie Duncan, Ruth Williams, Per- help.

President Nixon has proclaimed July 19-25 as National Farm Safety Week to emphasize the importance of being careful in the rural environment.

Farm residents, both young and old, trip, stumble and break bones, get bruised, cut and caught in machines. Many others accidentally shoot themselves, or drown, suffocate, or get burned.

Workers on farms should wear comfortable, close fitting clothing, sturdy gloves, safety shoes with steel toes, eye and head protection and take work breaks to prevent fatigue.

counterpart. Common causes of falls include stairs, loose rugs, exposed extension cords, wet floors, poor lighting in danger-ous areas and tripping over ob-stacles on the floors or ground.

'Rural homes contain essentially the same hazards as those in the city, but because of the distance of the rural accident from medical help, it is even more imperative that at least one member of the family be trained in first aid," the safety director added.

Nearly 70 per cent of motor vehicle deaths occur in places classified as rural, and the night accident rate is two and a half times as great as the day rate, the National Safety Council re-ports. Many of these deaths could have been averted if someone had administered first aid within four to six minutes after the mishap.

Let's face it — good lawns don't just happen by accident. They need plenty of tender, loving care to prosper. So, if you want a lawn to turn your neighbors green with envy, cultivate these do's and don'ts suggested by the gardening experts at Disston:

DO water a new lawn lightly

Disston:

DO water a new lawn lightly and often enough to keep the soil moist until it is established, but DON'T water it if the rainfall has been adequate. Excessive watering brings on certain lawn diseases.

DO soak an established lawn to a depth of three to six inches, but DON'T water again until the soil becomes dry and crumbly.

DO keep a newly planted lawn at a height of one to two inches, but DON'T mow it until it is three inches high. The one exception is bentgrass, which must be kept much shorter.

DO use shears, like the Disston Cordless Electric, around shrubs, trees, patios and sidewalks, but DON'T chip your mower blades or damage your greenery by trying to use that mower where it doesn't belong. The light-weight Disston is battery operated, rechargeable, and need only be guided wherever you want to trim.

> Weinert High School Graduation Exercises

Friday evening, May 22, at 8 o'clock at the Weinert auditorium, was the time for Commencement exercises for Weinert High School Seniors.

Processional and recessional was rendered by Mrs. Don Davis of Rule, who is the choral director employed by the Weinert Schools.

Immediately following the ininvocational given by Donna Adams, Judy Gray, whose four year average was fourth, was first speaker of the evening. She reviewed some of their past life as students, and spoke of their decisions and adjustments which they will now face as they begin a new era in their lives.

Joey Yates, who was the highest ranking boy of the class with a four year grade point average of 88.75 was the second speaker of the hour. He gave startling facts that face our world today. He pointed out that the youth should be. and were concerned about our nation. He pointed out that young people are striving to achieve the American dream and are challenging the critics to tell them what is wrong with success.

Debbie Campbell, salutatorian with a grade point average 89.25, gave the Salutatory. Debbie welcomed the parents, teachers and friends. She recalled their fears during early years of school and thanked the parents, teachers and friends for their help and guidance thus far in their lives.

Bette Edwards, valedictorian, with a grade point average of related both happiness and sadness at this great event

Texas 4-H Roundup Is Slated June 3-5 At College Station

The Texas 4-H Roundup at College Station is rich in history. It's beginning goes back almost to the turn of the century. Later it was to become an important part of the Farmers Short Course. About a quarter-short course, the name was demonstration contests. A final century ago, the name was changed to the Texas 4-H

Throughout its history, it has met each summer on the campus of Texas A&M University and 1970 will be no exception. On June 3-5, 4-H boys and girls from every section of the Lone Star State will again come to A&M to vie for state honors in many events. many events.

Some 850 boys and girls plus about 350 local 4-H adult leaders and county Extension agents who have coached and supervised the county and district winners will attend. In addition, some 500 Friends of 4-H are expected for all or parts of the expected for all or parts of the planned program. Included will be sponsors of judging and demonstration team contests, and members of the Texas 4-H

Youth Development Foundation. The Foundation sponsors many of the Roundup activities and its trustees, all prominent leaders in agriculture, industry and public service, will hold their annual meeting on June

At the first general assembly, individuals and businesses will be recognized for their contributions to 4-H with Foundation Chairman Larry Baker of Orange making the presentations.

A Golden Anniversary Dinner will follow. It honors the 1920 Texas 4-H livestock judging team which represented the United States in international competition and came home a winner. Pioneer 4-H leaders and all 4-H and Texas A&M livestock judging teams which have wen national honors will also be recognized. Donor for the dinner will be C. A. WASHINGTON, D. C. - The total self-interest of the United States should govern her actions in all foreign affairs. There can be no real justification otherwise for the expenditure of taxpayers' money in any relation with other countries whether it be at war, trade or aid.

Defining and identifying our own self-interest is a matter of human judgment.

Should we be directly attacked militarily, there would be no question about defending ourselves. It is another thing to believe that we are defending our own shores by fighting wars in other places before it reaches home.

In a direct attack our cause would be obvious. In the longer range view, we entered World Wars I and II believing it was in our own self-defense.

In the present situation in southeast Asia, we became involved as a subscriber to the Southeast Asian Treaty Organization (SEATO). The United States entered an agreemen with the Philippines. Australia. France. New Zealand, Pakistan. Thailand and the United King-dom to jointly defend that area against communist expansion. We believed it to be in our own self-interest on the long term

We believed it was in our own interest to become a signa-tory to the North Atlantic Trea-ty Organization (NATO) as a buffer against the Soviet Union. Our Government spent billions of dollars on the Marshall Plan to rehabilitate Western Europe after World War II believing that those nations must stand militarily and economically in-dependent of communist Eastern Europe.

No treaty exists in the Middle East but there are those who apparently feel obligated for Israel's defense by contend-ing that Israel is largely a creation of our making and that we have a responsibility for protecting her. Many of those of this feeling condemn our presence in Vietnam.

Almost obscured by the concern over crossing the some-what vaguely defined borders of Cambodia is a developing crisis in the Middle East.

What is our self-interest in the Israeli-Arab conflict? It carries the usual elements of military and economic interest on which judgments in similar situations have been made in the past. It talso involves heavy emotionalism in our Nation.

On the material side is Soviet expansion and influence in the whole Middle East, Africa and the Mediterranean Sea the Mediterranean Sea.

At stake, besides the emotional ties to Israel, is the vast oil supplies in the Arab lands which would be a prize to the Soviet Union, if controlled by them. Dominance of the Mediterraneaen and its ocean outlets by unfriendly forces would se-riously jeopardize the shipping of the free world. These are factors which would come under consideration should a full conflagration develop.

Our Nation has never been We have never sought by forceful means any economic hold in foreign lands. The possession outside our borders were acquired for their protection and not for coloniza-icy on foreign affairs. Finally, short of a formal declaration of war which only the Congress can declare, the President of the United States must decide. He does so on all available information and on the advice of his many consultants. Many and most times opinions vary-judgments differ and facts of a situation are numerously interpreted. The President must eventually choose and act.

Whoever advises and whoever the President, it must be presumed they act in our own national self-interest. It is inconceivable otherwise. We may not agree with the decision - not many completely agree on all things but who else except the President has all the facts on which to form a decision? This does not mean he is always right but he stands at the small end of the funnel, the highest elected official and receives all that is poured into the big end. No other individual is in this

The United States Senate ratifies treaties. Only both bodies of the Congress can declare war. On the other hand, the actoperation and conduct of foreign activities in peace or war rest on the President. Only he has the authority.

Should decisions on the actual execution of policy be left to the Congress, there would likebe as many different approaches to every question as there are members, each believing that whatever he espouses is in our own "self-interest." Essentially this is the core of the present debate in the United States Senate.
