IRON PEARSEY Haskell's Oldest Resident Dies

Haskell's oldest resident, Iron Pearsey, 97, died February 9, at Leisure Lodge where he had lived for about the past 2 1/2 years.

Mr. Pearsey moved to Haskell in 1886 by wagon train. He was 10 years old at the time and continued to live here all of his life. He was employed by the Haskell Public Schools for about 23 years and was a painter by trade.

A tradition was started several years ago when several local residents began hosting an annual birthday party for Mr. Pearsey. At some time during the party Mr. Pearsey would begin reminiscing and the detail of his memory was amazing. He could well remember the first rodeo in Haskell and could name people who

Athletes Honored With Banquet

Over 300 people attended the annual All-Sports Banquet held February 10 in the Haskell Elementary School Cafeteria.

Following the invocation by Ricky Phemister and a meal, entertainment was provided by Haskell High athletes. The athletes were directed by Mrs. James Ross Miekler and accompanied by Jackie Young on the guitar and Ellen Walling on the piano. Young was also featured with a guitar solo.

Mary Ann Elliott was named basketball sweetheart and Joe Kretschmer was named basketball beau. Bobby Cobb received the Dick Gaines award. Jackie Young received the Booster Club award. Recipients of the Jaycee Sportsmanship awards were: Joe Kretschmer for boys basketball, Glenda Chapman for girls basketball, and Danny Smith for football.

Members of the coaching staff introduced the players and recognized individuals for their play at HHS.

Head Coach Tommy McAdams introduced Ray Overton Jr., head coach at Cooper High School in Abilene, as banquet speaker. Overton is a native of Haskell County and coached here for several years.

After several lighthearted comments, Overton challenged HHS athletes with a very touching talk. Overton said that to be good individuals they must respect their coaches, respect their school, respect their parents and always try to be the best at anything that was attempted. He also stated that none of this mattered much unless the individual gave his life to God. He said that we must always strive for excellence because being second best was not good enough.

Joe Miekler gave the invocation.

Fund Tops Half Way Mark

Haskell Industrial Foundation stepped up its pace this week as area chairmen continued to work on raising the money for a training school. The Board of Directors met Monday night to hear reports on progress on the plant building plans; and area chairmen met early Tuesday morning for a report session on money raised thus far.

Attending the meeting Monday night were board president Royce Adkins, and directors, Bob Beauchamp, Belton Duncan, J. B. Gipson, Loraine Johnson, Charles McCauley, Abe Turner, Bill Comedy, Bob Philpot, R. W. Herren and Darold Roberson.

The building committee plans to go to Dallas in the very near future to meet with contractors and with representatives of Herman Marcus and their architects. The building committee has plans to utilize as much local labor and business for the plant construction as possible, in order that everyone in Haskell can become a part of this county-wide effort.

In Tuesday morning's meeting of the drive chairmen, Abe Turner presided, and asked for a report from Adkins on the board meeting; then reported a total of $36,872.00 deposited into the foundation. Area chairmen reported many other pledges that had not come in, and discussed further contacts of merchants and individuals.

Another report was given on local individuals who wish to become a part of this effort, and some individuals already had contacted members of the foundation with their donations. It has always been the desire of the foundation that any individual might become a part of this and many people have asked how they might help. They may do so by contacting any member of the foundation, or by depositing their donation to the foundation, in Haskell National Bank.

Another drive report meeting was set for Tuesday morning, February 20. Attending the meeting were Turner, Adkins, R. W. Herren, Mrs. Elbert Johnson, Mrs. Jewel Bynum, Mrs. Bill Comedy, Mrs. Viars Felker, Bailey Toliver, Jim Sampson, Opal Adkins, Charles Thornhill, Jack McCadoo, Loraine Johnson, Bob Beauchamp, Alvin Sherman, Mrs. Barney Frazier and Darold Roberson.

In Bi-District Contest

Flu Bug Halts Maidens

The Haskell Maidens were defeated in a Bi-District basketball game Tuesday night in Snyder by an outstanding basketball team, and the after effects of a bout with the flu.

The Maidens dropped the game to the Slaton Tigerettes, 53-39. The Maidens were never more than five points behind until midway through the final period. Haskell out-scored Slaton 147 in the first period and trailed by only two points at the half.

Guards Paula Middleton, Helen Mary Cadenhead, Jill Fincher, Jean Barnett, and Lee Ann Toliver, all played an outstanding game.

Score at the end of the third period was 55-32 in favor of Slaton and until that time the entire Maiden team did a superb job of containing Slaton. As the final period got underway the results of a flu epidemic on the Maiden team became obvious. Almost everyone on the team has had the flu during the last two weeks and a practice game with Wylie was canceled last Thursday because of the number of players who were ill. Eleven of the 14 points separating the two teams were made during the final period.

Offensively the Maidens were not quite up to par which also speaks highly of the Slaton defense. The Maidens have consistently scored above 50 all year and had several games in the 70's and 80's. In their final regular season game they defeated Stamford 84-30.

Glenda Chapman paced the Maidens with 17. She shot 9 of 11 from the free throw line for the 17 point total. Fonda Horn put the ball through the hoop 7 times from the field and once from the line for a total of 15. Mary Ann Elliott, who had a fine night rebounding, tossed in three from the field for a total of 6 points. Margie Kretschmer dumbled in one from the line to finish out the scoring for the Maidens.

Other Maidens making the trip for the contest were: Pam Klese, Debbie Burson, Debbie Young, Cynthia Escobedo, Marsha Berry, Kathy Pringle, Shirley Abbott and Karen Croft.

On any given night with a healthy team the outcome of a Haskell-Slaton match could easily be very different. Congratulations to Coach David Burson and the entire Maiden team on a fine season.

Haskell merchants have sponsored a page elsewhere in this edition to congratulate the team.

"ADIOS", MR. PEARSEY

I lost a good friend and the town of Haskell a fine citizen when we buried Mr. Pearsey, Sunday. He was a man who loved his family, his friends, his Country and his God. His breed is dwindling down to a very few. It has been my privilege to have known him for sixty years and I knew him well. There was no sham or pretense in his makeup.

His was a long life, and though he had many happy years, his childhood and the latter years brought him much sorrow. He lost his father and mother when just a boy and he lived to bury his own family, one by one. Still, he never lost his sense of humor.

His friends at the high school are legion; they always looked him up when back in Haskell. Many have told me, "Dad Pearsey, helped me through some rough times at school."

Many stories could be told of his early days . . . here among the ranchers and the Indians and now they are gone forever. We won't see many of his kind again.

Goodbye, Old Timer, we will miss you.

Couch Sr.; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Gaines Post; historian, Mrs. E. M. Frierson; Federation Counselor, Miss Nettie McCollum; elected board member, Mrs. Raleigh Lemon. The club elected these officers for the year 1973-74.

Mrs. Pippin began her review with a discussion of Three Christian Creeds and their origins. Her remarks of the Bible gave meaning of the Psalms and the four questions given by the author. This proved to be more enlightening than theological, though accurate. However, the author inspires one with her spiritual insight and her devotedness could not be denied. Mrs. Pippin listed the author's four basic questions and then discussed each one. 1. Our Lord will ask "Whom have you seen hungry and thirsty and given food and drink?" 2. "Whom have you seen naked and clothed him?" 3. "Whom have you as a stranger taken in?" and 4. "Whom have you seen sick and visited in prison?"

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Hill Oates, Mrs. Joe Thigpen and Mrs. Thomas Ballard. They served cherry pie and coffee.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

In the past few weeks much has been said, and on printed page, of the Haskell Industrial Foundation, and of a garment factory locating in Haskell. This is all true, and the greatest need to get this industry is money. This is to insure the company that we really are interested and desire an industry. And this money is for training women to prepare them to become professional and qualified employees for this industry.

Most all of this aim and stress has been directed to the businessman for his money as a donation. But the businessman is not the only one who will reap the greatest reward from this factory. This money, which is needed to secure the factory, includes each and every wage earner who is interested in making more money, and ultimately increasing their standard of living. What couple would not desire to have a higher standard of living for their family?

Therefore, all employees of each and every business in Haskell and surrounding communities who plan to or may never plan to work in this factory, have an obligation, and responsibility to help the businessman get the industry in Haskell. So count it an honor and a privilege to be a part in this worthy cause.

You may think, "I can't give much to that." Your small, but badly needed mite could help to make a much larger income for your family in the near future.

All employees are a part of this town and community just as a businessman is. So don't sit back and let someone else prepare for your future and livelihood. Get on the bandwagon now and have a part in this great event.

Take your donation to either the Haskell National Bank to Abe Turner, or give it to your employer, and it will surely be deposited in the Haskell Industrial Foundation account. Your name will be published in the paper and you, too, can say you had a part with the many other citizens who wishes and desires to see our town grow and become a better place to live.

Birthday Club Holds Meeting

Members of the Happy Birthday Club met February 9 in the home of Mrs. H. D. Bland and celebrated the 25th anniversary of the club.

Local Jehovah's Witnesses To Host Overseer

The local congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses will be the host this week (Feb. 13-18) to R. J. Schlegel, circuit overseer for West Texas, announced William C. Talley, local presiding elder. Thursday, Feb. 15, at 9:00 p. m., Schlegel will speak to a study group at 1413 North Ave. J, on "Gain Wisdom and Understanding." Starting Wednesday morning the traveling elder will lead the local witnesses in their house-to-house ministry work, assisting them to share Bible literature and a home Bible-study program with the people in the community. "The free home Bible study program we offer has been tremendously successful," Mr. Talley explained, "and has resulted in 450,000 persons becoming baptized since it was started 4 years ago. We send out trained Bible teachers who visit the homes of those interested in our program for about an hour a week for six months. During this time 22 basic Bible teachings are thoroughly studied and researched. As a guide for covering these subjects the popular handbook, The Truth That Leads to Eternal Life, is used. This book has had the impressive printing of 50 million copies in more than 80 languages in just four years. During his visit Schlegel will meet with the congregation's body of elders and cooperate with them in their efforts to build up the congregation spiritually. The Saturday night program, "Separating the Wheat from the Weeds—The Modern Way," is designed to help the elders and members of the congregation in their spiritual development and local teaching work. The concluding meetings will be Sunday when Schlegel at 9:30 a. m., will deliver a public address, "Assemble All the More As the End Draws Near!", and invited, will be at the Kingdom following the weekly Bible study using the Watchtower

GMO Addresses Local Rotarians

In spite of inclement weather which prevailed on Thursday of last week, an excellent attendance was noted at the regular weekly meeting of the Haskell Rotary Club. The meeting was held in the dining room of the City Cafe with president Bob Philpot, presiding.

Bob Beauchamp was program chairman and he introduced Game Management Officer Jackie Young who presented a most entertaining and educational talk on the recent changes in the game and fish laws pertaining to Haskell County. Some on which he dealt, or placed emphasis on, was the fact that a person no longer has to be incapacitated to be allowed to hunt from a vehicle for non-migratory game. These included deer, turkey and quail. He also told those present that the new regulations on black bass were 10 one day with 20 in possession, with no size limit on catfish and no limit placed on the number of crappie caught. He also said that numerous changes in both fish and game laws were to be expected including the possible raising of licenses as the department was hiring more men to take care of the extra work load and that the money was needed to help defray expenditures. Numerous questions were asked Mr. Young from the audience pertaining to laws and regulations and these to become effective this year.

Local Firm Changes Hands

A long-time Haskell business changed hands February 12 with the sale of Anderson Construction Company. The sale by Carl Anderson to his son, Darel, not only bridged the generation gap, but also the culmination of 25 years of oil field construction work for the senior Mr. Anderson.

Before opening the business in Haskell 23 years ago, Anderson worked in the drilling department for about 14 years for a total of 37 years in oil field related work.

The business will remain Anderson Construction Company and will employ the same personnel. Anderson plans to retire and will work only in a part-time advisory capacity. Anderson's decision on the sale and retirement was for health reasons.

Anderson is currently serving on the City Council and is vice president of the Rotary Club. He has also served on the school board. He is a 24 year member of Haskell Lodge 682, and a member of the Baptist Church.

Anderson and his wife, Bonnie, were married in Oklahoma City in 1936 and have five children. Mr. and Mrs. Gene Brown of Eagle Lake have two children, Louan and Carl Gene; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Anderson of Denton have one son, Troy Dean; Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Anderson have two children, Ashline and Matthew; David Anderson of New Orleans and Mr. and Mrs. Darel Anderson of Haskell.

All five of the Anderson's children are graduates of Haskell High School. Darel attended Tyler Junior College and graduated from Lamar Tech in Beaumont with a degree as a diesel mechanic. Following graduation he worked for Mustang Equipment Company in Houston and has been employed at Anderson Construction Company for the past two and one-half years.

Darel and his wife, Dianne, have one daughter, Nicole, age 10.

CARL ANDERSON CONGRATULATES his son Darel, and presents him with the keys to Anderson Construction Company. Darel purchased the company from his father Monday. The business will continue to operate under the same name and with the same personnel. (Staff Photo) livestock area, according to reports received from Jon Darrow, Soil Conservation Service Range Specialist.

Several opportunities exist for more efficient production of small grains for grazing. Proper variety selection and small grain mixtures offer opportunities that can significantly increase grazing.

Keith A. Lahr, research associate at the Chillicothe Experiment Station, has just recently released information concerning small grains grazing mixtures for the Rolling Plains. From his research report, the following items should be noted:

1. Varieties differ in season of growth.
2. Highest yielding grain varieties may not be the highest in forage production.
3. Mixture of small grains generally out-yield single specie plantings.
4. Mixtures extend peak grazing periods.
5. Certain species of spring seeded small grains do not head out and remain productive into July and even into August under irrigation.
6. Spring seeded small grains should have increased seeding rates.

Spring planting of small grains offers many opportunities for no-tillage planting operations. Because no-tillage planting greatly extends the planting period, and is a moisture conserving operation, there is no reason that spring planting of small grains, using no-tillage planting, can not contribute significantly to forage production.

Most stockmen who plant wheat for grain production and grazing must remove stock no later than March 15 to produce grain. If these producers were to plan and prepare for a spring planted variety for forage production, grazing on small grains could be extended on into the summer.

Estimated savings on a 50 head basis from March 15 to July 1 may be as much as $1-500 to $3,000, including labor for haying, and not including supplement costs if non-legume hay is fed. This figure is also quite dependent upon the condition a stockman desires for his herd and his rate of hay feeding.

With such an additional pasture source perhaps a herd could be maintained longer and calves sold when market prices are more favorable than at March 15 'take-off time'.

Some of the best varieties and specie for this type of pasture are Agent wheat, Vita-graze rye, Bonel rye, Fasgro 131 triticale Tetra Petkus rye, Caprock wheat and Blueboy wheat for midwinter plantings and early spring grazing.

Some spring planted varieties and specie especially adapted for late spring and early summer pastures are Knox 62 wheat, Caddo wheat, Palo Duro wheat, Elbon rye, Tetra Petkus rye, Norwin oats, Bronco oats, Walken oats, Luther barley, Schuyler barley, Harrison barley, FasGro 131 triticale and NK 333 Trablend ryegrass.

Holden-McCauley Employees Finish Training School

John Wayne McDermitt and Bobby Summers, employees of the Holden-McCauley Funeral Home, have recently completed a four night training school in Emergency Care of the Sick and Injured held at the City Hall in Stamford.

Sponsored by the Texas State Department of Health the school offers instruction and student practice in all phases of emergency care that must be known by ambulance, police, fire, rescue and nursing personnel.

Emergency medical personnel who have primary responsibility for administering emergency care at the scene and who qualify for the State Registry of Emergency Care Attendants receive a certificate authorized by the State Board of Health when they satisfactorily complete the course. This complies with Vernon's Civil Statutes 4590b and meets the training requirement for certification of ambulance personnel.

The advanced level of training of this Emergency Care School and the fact that it is tailored to meet the needs of emergency professionals, completely distinguished it from first aid training sessions.

In addition to ambulance personnel, the class was made up by firemen, policemen, and other interested persons from Stamford, Anson, Hamlin, Haskell, Gorman, Munday and Knox City.

WASHINGTON

"As it looks from here"

General DUBLETTON
Congressman
17th District

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Dr. Henry Kissinger has given the members of Congress assurances that no commitment has been made to assist in rebuilding damages inflicted on North Vietnam. He is, however, going to Hanoi in the next few days and there is no doubt this will be the principal subject of discussion.

In the months ahead this will become a major issue in the Congress.

Although this policy may not directly contradict President Nixon's general statement in his second inauguration, he brought into focus the question of cutting America's massive overseas burden in a changing world. As a matter of fact in the President's first inauguration he indicated his determination to ease our military expenses by ending our role as the "global policeman."

There is a beginning, aside from ending our presence in South Vietnam, of cutting back on the Nation's costly military commitments in a number of places. At the present time we are parties to agreements which commit us to help defend 45 countries all over the world.

In what is known as the "Rio Treaty," we are pledged to help defend any one of 20 nations which asks for help. These are countries from Mexico to the tip of South America.

Under the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) the commitment is to eight nations — Pakistan, the Philippines, Australia, New Zealand, Thailand, Laos, Cambodia, and South Vietnam.

As members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) we are militarily bound to come to the aid of Belgium, Britain, Denmark, France, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg, The Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, Greece, Turkey, West Germany, and Canada being a member is included.

A separate treaty arrangement, known as Anzus, pledges us in a special arrangement to come to the defense of Australia and New Zealand if requested.

We also have separate treaties of mutual interest with the Philippines, Japan, South Korea and Taiwan.

All these commitments came about because of our foreign policy of containing communism. Taken into account now is what is considered to be the success of the early phases of agreements with the Soviet Union on reduction of strategic arms. This is taken as one big factor in being able to reduce military expenditures. Another prominent factor is the rift in the communist world between Russia and Red China. It is thought that if hostilities in Southeast Asia extricate us from that area, there will be good chance of reducing American forces overseas far beyond the 800,000 men now in uniform. As it is now, these operations represent an outflow averaging about $3 billion a year, aside from Vietnam.

Our government has major military bases in the Azores, Canada, Belgium, Germany, Greece, Greenland, Iceland, Italy, Japan, the Philippines, South Korea, Spain, Turkey, England, Bermuda, Guantanamo in Cuba and hundreds of similar installations overseas. Even with our mission ended in Southeast Asia, it is difficult to see how our military cost can be greatly reduced in the current year. The cost of military personnel, increased to encourage a voluntary service without the draft, will be higher, even with a greatly reduced numbers in uniform. The need for refurbishing our material dissipated in Vietnam should be an absolute requirement. There is no assurance that threats around the world will not continue and to let our defenses down could be suicidal. At the same time, we can not take care of the whole world and this is generally the new policy. Neither can we condone the apart in world of the we men them as a North China Marking penile available PRESS
