Man stabbed in Winters

RUBEN CANTU-RODRIGUEZ WINTERS ENTEPI

WINTERS - One man was stabbed and taken to an Abilene hospital where he remains in the intensive care unit after a two-man incident last Saturday, January 8, on W Pierce Street. Victim and attacker had been previously drinking that evening, along with a larger group barbecuing in the house.

Chris Perez, a man from Arlington St. with a lengthy criminal record including a sex offense appears as the victim. He has not been able to talk to law enforcement officials due to a 12-inch slice-type wound across his abdominal area.

Steven Cavazos, also from Winters, was taken in custody by Winters Police Chief Nathan Johnson and Officer Juan Parra immediately after the stabbing without incident. Cavazos remains in custody charged with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon.

According to the investigation Perez and Cavazos had been drinking along with a larger party at a barbecue held at 202 W Pierce, in Winters. Perez was asked to leave, but he came back and was dropped outside the house. He stayed there until he was asked to leave the property. No Police assistance was asked at the time.

It was until after the two men got into a fight with Perez getting the worst part that the Police Department was called. Both men were highly intoxicated.

EMS provided fist aids to the victim. Due to weather condi-tions he couldn't be airlifted and he was taken by ambulance to Hendrick Medical Center, in Abilene.

Perez was taken into surgery on Sunday from about 1-4 a.m. and then taken to the intensive care unit. Until press time he was reported in stable condition.

This is the first stabbing incident in Winters since 2009. In 2010 some violence incidents were registered but nobody had been shot or stabbed until now.

From building students to cabinets

RUBEN CANTU-RODRIGUEZ WINTERS ENTERPRISE

WINTERS - After a prolific 31-year career in education an outstanding teacher born, raised and current resident of Winters is retiring in 2011. Abilene's Reagan Elementary Principal Mike Kozelsky started the year turn-ing the page to a new chapter, he is now dedicated to a long-time passion, building cabinets.

Kozelsky was born in Winters, in 1950, and graduated from high school in 1969. He grew up on a farm and spent many hours chopping and pulling cotton, raising sheep and hogs, and driving a tractor as well. Life on the farm was tough, he recalls, when he was 7-years-old the whole family was out on the field chopping cotton and complained about his back "My mother told me that I was too young to have a back." Growing up on a farm also was adventure and exploration, but he had to work.

In addition to being a farmer his dad was a cabinetmaker. His father's first cabinet shop was at the farm, but in 1960 he built a shop in Winters. "I started working working regularly in the shop when I was 10 years old, including after school, weekends and summers," said Kozelsky. The routine continued until high school, during that time he learned how to use woodworking tools and developed a love of building things that persists to this day. By the time he graduated from high school he was already a skilled worker and his father relied on him to help at the shop.

In May of 1971 he married Carol Jacob "she was a blessing." They will celebrate their 40th anniversary in June of 2011. The couple has three adult children, Kathryn, Scott and Jeanna. They have also been blessed with one grandchildren.

Kozelsky started teaching in 1973 teaching Industrial Arts at the Snyder High School, in Snyder, Texas. He spent there 11 years there teaching drafting, woodworking, metal working and electronics. In 1984, while his father was getting ready to retire, he decided to move back to Winters and put his education career on hold.

His vocation and the economy sent Kozelsky back to the classroom in 1991. He went to work in Marble Falls teaching Building Trades for one year. "That was a wonderful school," he recalls, his family stayed in Winters, they kept the house while Mike was in Marble Falls.

In June of 1992 Kozelsky received an offer to teach in one of Abilene's middle schools. He became an Industrial Technology teacher at Franklin Middle School. His wife Carol left her job at the Winters School administration building to start working at Clack Middle School, also in Abilene.

They kept their house in Winters, commuting back and forth, and their kids kept on going to school here until graduated.

Kozelsky grew up at the beginning of the space program, and his favorite subjects in school were science and engineering. He enrolled in the Texas

A&M University in August of 1969 majoring in Aeronautical Engineering. "It was fascinating but I realized early on even though I loved science and engineering, my math aptitude was somewhat lacking.'

As a result he changed his degree to Industrial Education and was trained to be a "shop teacher", a decision that proved to be a wise move. Kozelsky completed his bachelor's degree in three and a half years en eventually a master's degree in educational supervision.

Once retired, Mike acknowledges that teaching was always more than a job, watching some of his students turn into teachers is one of the biggest satisfactions of his career.

Throughout his career Mike covered a wide array of positions, in 1995 he moved to the central office as the Special Populations Coordinator in the Career and Technology Education Office. He worked at the administration building for nine years, the last four serving as the Director of Career and Technology Education.

One of his achievements was the implementation of a pre-engineering program called Project Lead the Way. The program was piloted at Abilene High and Cooper High and has since become a component of the ATEMS High School.

In 2004 Mike was assigned as the Assistant Principal at Dyess Elementary, in addition he was the Elementary

Summer School Principal for the next six years. Kozalsky served as the Assistant Principal for at Bonham Elementary. In the summer of 2008 he was named Principal of Reagan Elementary, a place where he will long be remembered for his dedication and serving vocation. His claim to fame at Reagan Elementary was kissing Fergie the pig.

The school participated in the "Heart Walk" fundraiser and he promised the students to kiss the pig if they raised more money than the year before. "I am pretty sure it was harder on Miss Fergie than it was on me but I would do it again if the cause was worthy.

The cabinet building, an activity that has always been a very important part of his life, will now become a full time job. His shop is located in 908 Trinity, a couple of blocks east of the football field.
