Runnels County Historical Buildings

The First Presbyterian Church

WINTERS ENTERPRISE

STAFF REPORT

BALLINGER - The history of the church is the story of some pioneer trail blazers who followed the railroad into the area. It began on a particular night, July 26, 1886 when seven persons who were Presbyterians in their former locations met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Burt to organize, soon after the railroad town of Ballinger was founded. They closed their meeting with a prayer and went to their homes thankful at the prospects of having a church home. Mr. Burt conveyed the building site to the Trustees of the Church in June 1887 and shortly thereafter the building began on a frame building. The congregation grew and after four or five years, a larger building became necessary. The old frame building was torn down and was replaced by one of native stone. It was completed in 1891, but was not dedicated until the 29th of October, 1892. The building included a tower and steeple, also a bell.

As the church grew, the single auditorium with its beautifully crafted ceiling became too small. In 1922 a long annex was built on the north side of the old stone building, and in 1927, another addition was made to the rear with a basement and a kitchen. The last major addition to the building was the construction of a fellowship hall in 1952. This also included the parlor, nursery and two rest rooms.

In 1984, that portion of the building was refurbished with central heating and cooling, paneling on the walls, drop ceiling, and later refurbishing the kitchen.

Gifts from members of the congregation during this time included a new entrance and foyer, an art glass window and a parking lot.

The building as it now stands is the result of several generations building upon the inheritance of the beautiful native stone sanctuary completed in 1891 and as the basic unit to which there have been numerous additions.

The tower and steeple were restored and were identical to the original. This church stands on a main-through street across Ballinger, Texas, and State Highway 158.

The gleaming copper in the sunshine reminded local people and travelers of the Texas Sesquicentennial and the 100th Birthday Celebration of both the church and the City of Ballinger.

The congregation and church has continuously been occupied and used by the succeeding congregations since its erection. It is the only church structure built in Ballinger prior to the year of 1900 of which this is true. The Recorded Texas Historical Landmark Medallion was dedicated May 16, 1963. The Texas

USDA authorizes emergency grazing

WINTERS ENTERPRISE STAFF REPORT

WINTERS - In response to drought conditions, USDA's Farm Service Agency (FSA) authorized emergency grazing use of Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) acres for an additional 11 Texas counties effective immediately. This authorization brings the total to 62 counties approved to graze CRP acres.

Emergency grazing of land enrolled in CRP has been authorized by the Texas FSA State Committee for Bailey, Coleman, Concho, Dallam, Gaines, Gray, Hidalgo, Randall, Runnels, Starr and Terry Counties. Emergency grazing for the above counties has been authorized through August 31, 2011.

The following 51 counties were previously approved for emergency grazing of CRP acres by the national office: Armstrong, Borden, Briscoe, Brown, Carson, Castro, Cochran, Coke, Collingsworth, Cottle, Crosby, Deaf Smith, Dickens, Donley, Fisher, Floyd, Foard, Garza, Hale, Hall, Hansford, Hardeman, Hartley, Haskell, Hemphill, Hockley, Howard, Jones, Kent, King, Knox, Lamb, Lipscomb, Lynn, Martin, Mitchell, Motley, Nolan, Ochiltree, Oldham, Parmer, Potter, Roberts, Scurry, Sherman, Stonewall, Swisher, Tom Green, Wheeler, Wilbarger and Yoakum Counties. Emergency grazing for the above counties has been authorized through September 30, 2011.

According to Byron Bauerlein, Runnels County

Executive Director grazing end dates differ because the current 11-county approval was granted under a different authority than that of the previously authorized 51 counties.

All current CRP emergency use authorizations permit grazing only. No haying of CRP acres is allowed at this time. Additionally, there will be a 25 percent CRP payment reduction for CRP acres used for grazing under these emergency provisions.

To take advantage of the emergency grazing provisions, authorized producers can use the CRP acreage for their own livestock or may grant another livestock producer the use of the CRP acreage. The eligible CRP acreage is limited to the acreage located within the approved counties.

Eligible producers who are interested in grazing CRP under the emergency authorization and current CRP participants who choose to provide land for grazing to an eligible livestock producer, must first request approval to graze eligible acreage; obtain a modified conservation plan from the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) to include grazing requirements, leave at least 25 percent of each field or contiguous CRP field ungrazed for wildlife, or graze not more than 75 percent of the stocking rate as determined by NRCS.

For more information on emergency grazing of CRP acres contact the Runnels County FSA office at (325) 365 5324.

Celebrating American Independence

Freedom Road from Colony to Country

July 4, 1776 (A Four Part History)

Great Britain began the colonization of America in 1607 with the establishment of Jamestown, Virginia. The main goal for Great Britain was to begin a partnership between British merchants and the British government in order to increase political power and private wealth.

Merchants, protected by the British government, established trade barriers, regulations, and governmental subsidies on domestic industries in order to have control over imports and exports. The emphasis was to enrich the mother country - England!

Following the 'Seven Years War' (which had nothing to do with the American colonies) the British Empire was deeply in debt. Parliament decided to levy new taxes on the British colonies in America, and in 1767, passed the Townshend Acts to help raise revenue. The taxes were levied on items such as paper, paint, lead, etc. that were NOT produced in North America, and COULD ONLY be bought from Great Britain.

A part of the new taxes went to pay the salaries for governors and judges appointed by the British - INDEPENDENT of Colonial rule (something like 'czars in the government.) The main goal was to force compliance with British trade regulations.

The British had a superb Royal Navy and used that force to threaten other empires and insure the 'colonies' were captive markets for British industry. There were pockets of resistance, when some Americans, in an attempt to circumvent the restrictions imposed by British rule, took to smuggling in order to trade with the French, Spanish, and Dutch, and as they say, the British 'were not amused.'

American colonists protested, by citing the British Constitution, where by British subjects could not be taxed without the consent of their representatives in Parliament. The American colonists viewed this as a violation of the doctrine of 'taxation without presentation.'

Further colonial resistance prompted the occupation of Boston by British troops in 1768, which eventually led to the Boston Massacre of 1770. The British repealed the 'newest' taxes, EXCEPT for the tax on tea.

In 1773, Samuel Adams organized a protest in Boston Harbor. The American colonists, disguised as Indians, boarded British ships and dumped all the tea overboard. This Boston "Tea Party" was a spark waiting to be ignited into the firestorm that became the American Revolution.

Coleman Co Electric returns capital credits

WINTERS ENTERPRISE STAFF REPORT

COLEMAN - Coleman County Electric Cooperative will return $300,000 in capital credits this month. Since 2008, the coop has retired in excess of one million dollars back to its member/owners. "This is the business model of an electric cooperative," says General Manager Roland Witt.

"We are a non-profit, member owned cooperative. When margins are realized that exceed operating needs and our debt obligations are met, then the Board of Directors can vote to retire capital credits. Unlike other business models that work for Wall Street, a cooperative is locally owned and is concerned about Main Street," said Witt.

Coleman County Electric Cooperative has been in existence since 1937 and provides electric service to about 8500 meters in parts of eight counties. CCEC has 3770 miles of line with 32 employees.

THE IDLE AMERICAN

Uncle Mort Roars With Lions...

When he's invited to be a guest at the Lions Club, Mort eagerly accepts. "Free meal" registers as ear music to my uncle, who has shied away from numerous invitations to join the civic organization.

He always gives it some thought, and sometimes fills out application forms. The last page, though, does him in. That's where mention of "monthly dues" comes in, and thought of such financial disbursement a dozen times each year causes a smothering spell. So, he's remained a "virtual member" for many decades...

Mort was particularly happy to attend the club's latest meeting. He had much "fat to chew" with the members, some of whom are neighbors down in the thicket. He arrived early, working all the tables to cover assorted topics of conversation. (Drifting between tables also made it possible for him to scarf down two desserts.)

Pre-luncheon conversations ranged from "raptures to ruptures." At one table, my almost 99-year-old uncle proposed the organization of an "RFD Club."

One of the Lions made sport of such a proposal, indicating his pleasure with Rural Free Delivery of mail the way it's run now...

"I'm not talking about mail delivery," Mort responded. "I'm talkin' 'Rooters For Dirk." My uncle is eager to organize some serious "East Texas Whoop-It-Up" for the Dallas Mavericks' star hoopster as the team battles for the NBA championship.

He suggested "first-name" cheers for Dirk, since his last name is "pronounced a half-dozen different ways."

"I think he ought to change his last name to 'No-QUIT-ski,'" Mort said, "Because he doesn't quit..."

TEXAS
Don Newbury

My uncle admitted the disappointment he experienced more than 80 years ago, during his senior year at a small rural school in East Texas. "I so wanted to play basketball," he said, "But we had too many boys in high school — we had six."

He "rode the bench" all four years, but in the last game before graduation, became excited about the prospect of a cameo appearance in the final minute. Fans started chanting, "We want Mort! We want Mort!" His heart was warmed by the chant from all 35 boosters in the stands.

With mere seconds remaining, the coach yelled, "Mort, go see what they want!"...

At another table, a member bragged about having signed off on "every detail" of his funeral.

Then, all eyes shifted toward Mort, as if he might be the person most likely to soon need such a plan. Easily the oldest attendee, he claimed ambivalence about one directive in such pre-planning.

"I've always figured on leaving my body to science," he said. "Here lately, though, I've decided to leave it to 'fiction' instead."...

At the head table, someone mentioned that Oklahoma's Chickasaw Indian Tribe headed a group that purchased Grand Prairie's Lone Star Horse Race Track in record time.

The "boss Lion" claimed to know how they turned the transaction with such ease.

"Those Chickasaws know how to cut right through white tape," he joked....

Talk about the recent push to legalize Chihuahua dog-racing came up.

"Now that's about the dumbest thing I've ever heard," Mort challenged.

He claimed that this will never work. "The horses will win every time," he argued. "Their legs are much longer..."

One Lion told about his wife coming home in a huff after visiting family out of state.

"At breakfast one morning, our five-year-old grandson asked, "Grandma, how long do you plan to stay?" She asked him how long he'd like her to stay. "At least a week, 'cause I want to see Daddy do his trick."

Puzzled, she asked him more about the trick. "I heard Dad tell Mom that if you stayed all week, he'd climb the wall," the youngster related....

Mort complimented the soloist for being a consummate professional. Noting that several of the attendees received "Old Spouse" lotion for Christmas and that most of them were either gray-headed or bald, she modified the words of her rendition.

Instead of singing Climb Every Mountain, she changed the words to Climb Every OTHER Mountain....

The phone company speaker asked how many folks remembered their first cell phone call.

Only Uncle Mort extended his arm skyward. "It was about 60 years ago," he claimed. "And I remember it mostly because it was an appeal for bail money..."

Annual Coke County Ranch Rodeo

WINTERS ENTERPRISE

BRONTE - The 20th annual Coke County Ranch Rodeo has been set for Saturday evening, June 18, at the Coke County Roping Arena in Bronte. This year's edition will begin at 5 p.m., with area ranches vying for prize money and buckles. Events to be held include the wild horse race, team doctoring, wild cow milking, trailer loading, and team branding.

The Bronte Volunteer Fire Department will be feeding the crowd on hand and all proceeds from the concessions will go to the department. Coke County 4-H will be manning the gate and will share in the proceeds garnered through the admission fees.

Area businesses have been most generous with their support, giving approximately $2,000 for added money and to award the buckles to the average winners and the Top Hand and Top Horse.

This year, the rodeo will be held in conjunction with the First Annual Butterfield Trail Days and Kickapoo Creek Cook-off in Bronte. You can listen to live music, eat good food, and shop the arts and craft vendors before attending the Ranch Rodeo. For more information on the Butterfield Trail Days or the Kickapoo Creek Cook-off, call (325) 473-3501 or visit www.brontetexas.org.

For information on the 20th annual Coke County Ranch Rodeo, please call (325) 473-3201 or (325) 453-2433.

Freedom. Security. Prosperity.

These very important aspects of our American way of life are provided by the exceptional service of the brave men and women in our military.

On the frontline of this military service, you'll find sacrifice. Some sacrifice time with their families and loved ones, some sacrifice their health and well-being, while others make the ultimate sacrifice.

Mid-Tex Cellular recognizes, supports, and appreciates all of our military branches, and we want to honor our retired and active military personnel who have earned our special military discounts for life.

We invite you to come by any Mid-Tex Cellular office for more information and the conditions that apply on these exclusive military discounts.

At Mid-Tex Cellular, we salute our military, and we ask that you join us by honoring them with a Texas-friendly "thank you".

San Angelo to host team roping championship

WINTERS ENTERPRISE STAFF REPORT

STEPHENVILLE - A sport that awards millions annually will find its way to the San Angelo when the West Texas Championships team roping, sanctioned by the United States Team Roping Championships (USTRC), comes to the First Community Credit Union Spur Arena June 9-12.

"San Angelo is the host of some of the best western events in the nation and we're glad to be counted among them," said USTRC President Kirk Bray. "This event will allow area ropers to qualify for the National Finals of Team Roping, as well as the Regional Finals to take place in Waco in August. Others interested in the sport can also come by and see what makes team roping one of the richest sports in the horse industry."

An estimated prize package of $200,000 will be awarded. Ropers from 14 states competed in the event in 2010, which paid nearly $200,000 in cash to more than 1,600 teams, along with Martin Saddles and Gist Silversmiths trophy buckles.

Team ropers of all levels are expected to attend, with USTRC providing a partner finding service for those in need of a partner. Events begin at 12 p.m. with the Open Thursday June 19 and follow at 9 a.m. daily throughout the weekend. Youngsters are also invited to be a part of the event in the Junior Looper "dummy" roping at noon Saturday, June 11. Youth age 12 and under who currently have a Junior Looper membership compete for prizes, as well, roping a plastic roping model from set distances. Junior Looper memberships are free and can be obtained at the event office.

Entry to the team roping can be made at the event daily, with entry fees beginning at $150 per roper. A USTRC membership is required before roping and can be obtained at the event office. For more information, visit www.ustrc.com or call (254) 968 0002.

Team roping is a timed event that requires a team effort. A team is made up of a "header" and a "heeler". The header's job is to catch the steer around the horns, and then set it up by turning it across the arena. The heeler then rides in and ropes the steer around both hind legs. The clock is stopped when the steer is secured between both ropers and their horses are facing each other.
