Honor Guard Falcons fly high at awards banquet

By SrA. Kimberly Nelson Public Affairs Staff Writer

The "falcon" is defined as being famous for its courage and gracefulness (definition from Colliers Encyclopedia, copyright 1986). Referred to as the noble hawk and considered by the Egyptians as a sacred emblem based on its skill, patience and overall readiness coincides greatly with the reputation of the Reese Honor Guard "Falcons."

The Sixth Annual Honor Guard Awards Banquet was hosted last Saturday at the Officers Open Mess with well over 100 guests in attendance.

The awards banquet reflected the wing's appreciation for the Reese Honor Guard, and acknowledged the unyielding pride and devotion the members express in the wing and the United States Air Force. Some of the members were presented awards. The recipients were selected by their peers. Without the concerted effort throughout the year by the Honor Guard "team," this awards event would not have been possible.

The Reese Honor Guard "Falcons," comprised of 50 pre-selected members, represents only a small number of the outstanding people of the 64th Flying Training Wing.

Along with the award presentations, guests were also presented with a slide show highlighting many of the events the Honor Guard has participated in since January 1988. Included in their performances were 58 civic details, 79 on-base details and 52 funerals. Their activities spanned over 3000 miles of travelling, and over 400 hours of performance.

The master of ceremonies for the evening was Capt. Vernon A. Swanger, commander of the 3500th Services Squadron, who also serves as the Honor Guard commander.

Chief Master Sergeant Joseph G. Marrow, Superintendent of the 64th Field Maintenance Squadron was the keynote speaker.

Five different awards were presented at the banquet: the "Extra Mile" award was presented by CMSgt. Coy K. Martin, Senior Enlisted Advisor, 64th FTW; the "Motivation" and "Most Improved" awards were presented by Col. James L. Higham, commander, 64th Air Base Group; the "Military Excellence" and "Member of the Year" awards were presented by Col. Mark H. Lillard III, commander, 64th FTW.

Recipient of the "Member of the Year" award, Senior Airman Eleazar Bengoa, is assigned to the Individual Equipment Unit, 64th Supply Squadron. He distinguished himself by his outstanding and sustained performance over the past year. All facets of Honor Guard Performance Standards are evaluated to make this selection and the selectee for this award is considered the Honor Guard Pace Setter. Airman Bengoa consistently volunteered for details, sometimes on very short notice, all of which reflected his flawless performances. He always strives to maintain impeccable military bearing and appearance.

Airman Bengoa became an Honor Guard member in August 1987. During his membership, he performed a total of 43 details. Airman Bengoa also received "Member of the Month" for June 1988 and "Member of the Quarter" for April-June 1988.

The second award of the evening, the "Military Excellence" award, was presented to Sgt. Michael Roberto, assigned to the Plans and Scheduling Section, 64th FMS. This award is presented to the member who demonstrates the best overall 35-10 dress and appearance based on weekly in-ranks inspections. Sergeant Roberto's continuous military bearing, stature and pride, both during practice and actual performance, makes (Continued on Page 8)

Air Force personnel may not gamble while on duty or while on government property; whether or not on duty. This prohibition includes lotteries, raffles and athletic pools — it does not matter who is sponsoring the event — if it's gambling, it is prohibited by AFR 30-30. Also, it is a criminal offense under the UCMJ for officers to gamble with NCOs and NCOs to gamble with airmen.

Fall back this weekend

"Fall-back" time this year is Sunday. That's when you set your clocks back one hour and standard time resumes ---officially, at 2 a.m.

Last year, a bill was passed that affects the time daylight-savings time resumes in the spring. It is now the first Sunday in April instead of the last. Standard time, however, still resumes the last Sunday in October.

Releasing authority

If you get a call from a news reporter asking for information about an accident or incident at Reese, immediately refer the reporter to the Public Affairs Office at 3843. Public Affairs is the only base agency authorized to release Air Force information to the public.

During 101 Critical Days of Summer 1988, the number of fatal mishaps decreased from 54 to 47 deaths Air Force wide.

During this period, Air Training Command had three deaths compared to seven deaths in 1987.Consequently, there was a 57 percent reduction in fatalities.

Reese is definitely on the right track. There hasn't been a fatality during the 101 Critical Days of Summer in two years.

Statistics show that 64 percent of the Air Force people who lost their lives in private motor vehicles so far in 1988 were not wearing seatbelts. There has been an alarming 7.5 percent decrease in seatbelt use every year since 1986. If everyone would have buckled up, it is estimated that 59 USAF deaths would have been prevented during the past two years.

Ninety-five percent of ATC members buckle up on base, however, only 85 percent are using seatbelts off base. Air Force wide, this rate drops to 36 percent.

Everyone knows the great strides we have made in reducing alcohol involvement in all mishaps. Right? Wrong! Alcohol is known to be involved in a minimum of one-third of the

Bits & Pieces

Continued Excellence

This past Saturday, Marie-Jacques and I had the pleasure of attending the Reese Honor Guard Annual Awards Banquet. These young men and women spend many extra hours in preparation for parades, retreats, funerals, memorial ceremonies, and the list goes on. Our Honor Guard is truly one of the finest representations of Reese AFB in our community. The positive impact this group has upon the civilian and military communities is something we all can be proud of. They epitomize patriotism, dedication, and volunteerism. Even among this elite group, there are members who stand out just a little bit more than others. Staff Sergeants Donald C. Danford and Douglas S. Thomas received the Honor Guard Extra Mile Awards. Airman First Class Lynn M. Bruse received the Honor Guard Most Improved Award. Sergeant Shawn L. Reiler received the Honor Guard Motivation Award (as well as the Extra Mile Award.) Sergeant Michael Roberto received the Honor Guard Military Excellence Award (he was also a recipient of the Extra Mile Award.) Senior Airman Eleazor Bengoa received the Honor Guard Member of the Year Award for 1988. My hat is off to all of the members of the Reese Honor Guard. Thank you for representing Reese with such distinction.

Looking into a mirror

Throughout the month of October, I have been reviewing the results of September's self-inspection effort. The semiannual self inspection is an outstanding opportunity for us all to gain insight into the health of the wing. It helps us to uncover problems and develop long-term solutions to those problems. The process only works effectively when you take an honest and hard look at your own workplace. This is your chance to discover and correct discrepancies in your own backyard. It is an excellent means to plan for the future Mission Capability and Unit Effectiveness Inspections. The September results were encouraging across-the-board, but I challenge you to look even deeper. Look into the mirror, reflect, and continue on the path to excellence.

A job well done

Too often we recognize only those individuals who stand out due to some extraordinary accomplishment. At Reese we have men and women doing an outstanding job every day. The folks in the FMS Fuels Shop are a good example. I had the chance to watch them work this week. Mr. Pete Pina, who I gave a Twenty Year Pin to this week, runs a super shop. Senior Airmen Steven Talbot, Aaron Sanborn, and David Thurston showed me the intricacies of the fuel system. These folks aid in the mission of keeping over 180 aircraft flying despite outdated equipment and short manning.

Another routine job by a member of the Reese Team was done by 1st Lt. Chris Knehans. This individual kept an injured T-38 on the runway during takeoff leg when heavy crosswinds and a gear malfunction were moving him off into the grass.

Both of these fine examples of routine excellence usually go unnoticed, but you all need to know that you're doing A JOB WELL DONE on a daily basis.

Kudos

To the 35th and 54th Flying Training Squadrons for their receipt of the ATC Unit Flying Safety Award. It is a reflection of their commitment to conducting our training mission in the safest possible manner.

To the Reese Honor Guard for their performance at the recent state reunion of the China-Burma-India Veterans Association. Again, the Honor Guard displayed the highest degree of professionalism and military bearing to help Reese shine in the community.

To Maj. Rob Whittenberg, 1st Lts. Hawk Hawkens, Mike Jordan and Scott Kopinski for their flyby of the 79th Fighter Group Association's Memorial Ceremonies in Dayton, Ohio. Their efforts played an important role in this inspirational salute to a part of our Air Force heritage.

To Capt. Craig A. Hughes, a member of our outstanding Torchlight Team, for his selection as a Distinguished Graduate of Squadron Officer School. Academic performance,

Safety rules ignored; accident happens

RANDOLPH AFB, Texas (ATCNS) — Several safety rules were overlooked during a recent off base motorcycle accident involving an active duty military member from Williams AFB, Ariz.

The military member, on a motorcycle, collided with a civilian riding a bicycle in Chandler, Ariz.

According to Chandler police, both vehicle operators skidded 327 feet.

The result was massive head Seatbelt and

The active duty member, who borrowed the motorcycle from another Air Force person, had not attended the required Air Force motorcycle training course. He was not wearing a helmet.

It was estimated he was traveling 67 mph in a 35 mph zone.

The civilian bicyclist was riding down the center of the street, rather than on the side.

This accident might have been avoided or the injuries considerably minimized had both parties followed safety rules.

During a recent visit from Randolph AFB, it was noticed that numerous military members were not wearing their seatbelts or helmets once they departed the base gates. Interim message change 87-1 to AFR 127-7, dated Jan. 13, 1987, clearly states all Air Force personnel will wear helmets and seatbelts on and off Air Force installations.

Purpose of Halloween is safety

By Sheila Schulmever

Occupational Safety and Health Specialist Have you ever wondered where the Halloween customs that we observe on Oct. 31 came from?

In doing a little research, I found that the origins of the customs that we enjoy so much once a year were derived with one purpose in" mind — to keep safe.

In about 900 B.C ., there were folks running around what is now known as Britain. Some of these folks were called druids, a group of priests who believed wholeheartedly in witches and demons and that spirits of the dead roamed freely on the earth.

To combat these terrible apparitions, whom the druids believed played mean tricks on the unsuspecting, they devised a plan to protect themselves.

Offerings of good things to eat was one way, and disguising themselves so that the spirits thought that the druids belonged to their own evil kind was another.

Indulging in these practices led the druids to believe that they would be safe.

Centuries later, the Roman Catholic Church set aside the first day of November to honor all the saints who had no special days of their own. This day was known as All Hallows' day.

The evening before them became known as All Hallow's Eve which was eventually shortened to Halloween.

Keeping safe was the premise used by the druids when they developed their customs so long ago.

Keeping safe in our modern day celebration of Halloween should always be first and foremost in our minds as well.

Halloween safety tips

By Sheila Schulmeyer

Occupational Safety and Health Specialist

Parents, here are a few tips you should remember to keep your little trick or treaters safe this Halloween:

* Make sure your little one's costume fits well and is made of light or brightly colored material. If not, put lots of reflective tape on the front and back of the costume. That way your children will be more visible to motorists. Also, make sure that masks don't severely restrict their vision. If possible, avoid masks altogether. Paint their faces, it will serve the same purpose.

* Never let your children go trick-or-treating alone. If your child is older, and won't have you along, have them go with a friend or group of children.

* Make sure he or she knows pedestrian traffic rules. Emphasize the use of crosswalks, and to look in all directions before crossing streets.

* Make sure your children know to wait until returning home before eating any candy. Check it first to be sure that it is safe. Discard unwrapped or poorly wrapped items, and beware of home-made goods unless you know their exact origin.

* Tell your child to beware of strange dogs or people that might not be from your neighborhood.

* Make sure your child carries a flashlight so that he or she can see and be seen. * Plan ahead by mapping out a route for your children to follow. When they arrive at the end of that route, make sure that they go back home.

* Motorists need to be extra careful on Halloween. As always, obey all traffic signs and regulations and slow down more than normally in residential areas. Watch for children darting from between parked cars. Be on the lookout for children in dark clothing walking down the road, on the shoulders, on the median and everywhere else where you normally would not expect to see them. If chauffeuring around a group of candy seekers, concentrate on the job of driving and don't allow yourself to become distracted by the noisy crowd of kids around you.

* Prevent a fire hazard when preparing the family jack-o-lantern by using a flashlight instead of a candle to light up his grin.

Following these simple tips can make your children's Halloween a safe and pleasant evening and bring them safely back home.

airy tale of three wise

By Bill Orr

Wing Energy Manager

Once upon a time not too long ago, there lived three avid outdoorsmen — William the Wise, Leonard the Luxurious, and Bruce the Blithering Idiot. It just so happened that these three wise men were in need of a new form of transportation to travel to their favorite recreation sites. All three enjoyed the great outdoors, especially those areas that were virtually inaccessible by most means of travel.

William the Wise elected to shop for a basic four wheel drive pick-up truck with just the bare essentials. He reasoned that the simpler the truck the better. All those extra options wasted his gasoline, and if they failed he might be stuck in the middle of no-where: therefore, the simpler the better.

Leonard the Luxurious, having scrimped and saved all of his life for his dream car, had the presence of mind to realize that he couldn't take a car into the wilderness. However, he could see no reason why he couldn't bring a little bit of the comforts of home with him when he camped out. So he, like William the Wise, bought a pick-up truck. But unlike William, Leonard bought the deluxe, ultraloaded with every-option-imaginable cherry red, super slick with wide tires and CD player $40,000 dream machine.

Bruce the Blithering Idiot, having come into a little bit of money from the demise of a late, but distant uncle, decided that now was the time to purchase his ultimate camping vehicle: a 1989 Rolls-Royce Silver Spirit with air conditioning, leather seats and a bar. I mean, just because you're camping out doesn't mean you have to rough it, does it?

On that very first camping trip deep in the middle of nowhere, a huge and ferocious storm struck our three campers with little or no warning. After slogging through the mud for a few hours, William the Wise loaded his truck and proceeded to make slow but steady progress toward the highway. Although hub-cap deep in the mud, judicious application of four and two wheel drive and engine power, William the Wise made it to the highway and home with little more than a few scratches on the paint of his truck.

- Leonard the Luxurious wasn't quite as fortunate. His two wheel drive machine got stuck several times. The street slicks couldn't handle the mud, there was no four wheel drive, and Leonard had to get in and out of his truck every time it got stuck to shovel himself out of the mud. Needless to say, the interior of his truck looked like the entire Russian Army had bivouacked in the cab during a Ukranian Spring.

Bruce the blithering Idiot, was last seen hiking down that muddy road in his patent leather shoes and Rolex watch looking for the highway. It seems his Rolls-Royce sunk up to it's fender guards in mud after hitting a rock and skidding (more like slushing) into a tree. Since the trunk was too small to handle all the camping gear, Bruce elected to remove the tire jack, spare tire and other essentials to make room for his cocktail ensembles.

So, what is the moral of this story? A wise man not only uses his energy wisely, but also plans its use prudently. To put it a different way, Bruce the Blithering Idiot would probably use a 1000 watt heat lamp bulb in his reading lamp. Not only could he damage the circuit and his lamp, but could also cause serious injury to himself. Leonard, in turn, wouldn't be as frivolous as Bruce, but would probably use a 100 watt bulb in the same lamp. Sure, he gets enough light to read by, but pays too much in utility bills to power that 100 watt bulb. William the Wise uses a 40 watt bulb — just enough light to read by, just enough power to use. Use energy wisely. Plan its use prudently.

Use energy wisely. Plan its use prudently. If we all do, we all come out winners in the end.

True or False —

The defense budget is so fat, it won't hurt to cut it.

Illegal Tea

The Drug Enforcement Agency and Federal Drug Administration confirm that Health Inca Tea from Peru can produce a cocaine positive because it contains chopped coca leaves, even if labelled "de-cocanized." Because of its content, Health Inca Tea is a Schedule II narcotic and mere possession is a felony offense. In January 1986, the FDA ordered the seizure of all Health Inca Tea entering the country.

In the two recent courts-martial involving cocaine, the defense raised the suggestion that the accused had come up positive for cocaine due to the prior consumption of the tea. The "Tea" defense was unsuccessful since the accused were previously briefed about the illegality of the tea prior to the conviction.

Sergeant Roberto has been a noted Honor Guard member since February 1985. He has performed a total of 237 details, 41 of which were performed as a member of the Rifle Drill Team, and also served as Honor Guard NCOIC from March-September 1988. Past Honor Guard awards presented to Sgt. Roberto include: "Member of the Month" for June 1985 and August 1987, and "Member of the Year" in 1985 and 1987.

The "Motivation" award, presented to Sgt. Shawn Reiler, current NCOIC of Honor Guard, represents the member who consistently provides that extra "spark" to keep everyone else motivated. This award is considered very special since it 's recipient is chosen solely from the votes of other Honor Guard members. The votes for this award were very close, but after the final vote came in, the "heart and sole" of the team went to Sgt. Reiler.

Sergeant Reiler has been a member of Honor Guard since June 1986 and has performed a total of 109 details, 23 details were performed as a member of the Rifle Drill Team. He has also received "Member of the Month" for November 1987 and April 1988 and "Member of the Quarter" for April-June 1987. Airman Bruse was selected into the Honor Guard in October 1987, and since has performed a total of 32 details.

The last presentation for the evening, the "Extra Mile" award, went to four members. To receive this award, a member must perform a minimum of 100 details within the year, show leadership potential and be an expert performer. Recipients of this award were: SSgt. Douglas Thomas, SSgt. Donald Danford, Sgt. Michael Roberto and Sgt. Shawn Reiler.

Sergeant Thomas, Fuels Controller assigned to the 64th Supply Squadron, has been a member in the Honor Guard since May 1986. He's performed a total of 158 details, 37 of which were performed as a member of the Rifle Drill Team.

Sergeant Danford, chief administration clerk assigned to the 1958 Communication Squadron, was selected for the Honor Guard in May 1986. Since then, he has performed a total of 104 details, 31 of which were a result of his membership in the Rifle Drill Team.

Other recent Honor Guard awards include the "Member of the Month" for September 1988, presented to A1C Trina Douglas, assigned to the Military Pay Section, 64th Supply Squadron. Her selection was based on number of duties performed, military bearing and behavior and for her ability to answer the most questions correctly on the Member of the Month Board.

Honor Guard "Member of the Quarter" for June-September 1988, was presented to A1C Thomas Bender, assigned to the Aerospace Ground Equipment Section, 64th FMS. ## Stretching your "fun" dollars

By Capt. Russel Roberts Chief, Accounting and Finance Branch

All of us need to relax now and again and enjoy our own special form of entertainment. But the cost of this relaxation or hobby can mount up in a hurry.

Are you a movie goer? Some people only go once every year or two while others can't wait for the newest release to hit their local theater. For heavy movie buffs you can save by going on days when the theater offers discounts. Often the price is lower if you go prior to a certain hour (2 p.m. for instance). Most towns have at least one lower priced theater. The movies here are not usually first run or premiers, but if you can wait two or three months from release you might save up to four dollars per person. If there is a movie you just have to see right now, don't forget that food items, such as popcorn, candy and soft drinks often cost double at the theater

If you enjoy parties, you can be as creative as you'd like at a low cost. Popcorn parties, hot dog or marshmallow roasts, pot luck dinners and hamburger surprise parties can offer low cost entertainment.

If you're the outdoor type, you can stretch your entertainment dollar by using equipment checked out from MWR. Camping, skiing and boating equipment are available at MWR supply. On-base golf courses and picnic areas may also appeal to the outdoor part of your family.

Museums and public libraries offer a variety of leisure activities. Adult continuing education courses offered at local colleges or high schools are usually low cost activities. Hobby shops, such as the Arts and Crafts Center here, and variety stores often teach free classes to encourage use of their hobby supplies.

Entertainment for the children in your home can be for you too if you're willing to invest some time. Youth groups, such as scouting, athletics, YMCA/YWCA and Civil Air Patrol are always looking for adult supervisors and participants. Again, the dollar cost is low for hours of fun and relaxation.

For further information regarding your family financial planning, call Capt. Russel Roberts at 3432.

"Foxtrot Six Alpha, this is Bravo Two Lackland AFB, Texas. They were participat-Charley," a staff sergeant medic says into her field radio. The mask from the chemical ensemble echoes her voice.

"We have seven casualties: two immediates, three delayed, one minimal and one expectant. The two immediates are suffering from probable biological contamination ... when can we have a dust-off?"

No! The scene is not Western Europe, sometime in the future. Rather, it is Oct. 16, 1988, and 64 Reese Hospital personnel are training to test their wartime capabilities.

Only two days prior, these 64 individuals had deployed in a T-43 to Camp Rissington at ing in Continuing Medical Readiness Training (CMRT). During three days of field training, they familiarized themselves with treating patients in a wartime environment. The CMRT culminated with an exercise scenario that included chemical and biological contamination. The attendees triaged and transported patients. They also practiced decontamination and aerovac procedures.

During the previous month, a Reese Prime BEEF, manning-assistance team had helped build and improve several structures that greatly enhanced the hospital staff's deployment.

NASA to select participants for astronaut program

AIR FORCE MILITARY PERSONNEL CENTER, Randolph AFB, Texas (AFMPC)

- The Air Force will submit pilot and mission specialist astronaut nominees to the Office of the Secretary of Defense (OSD) for consolidation with other military service nominees no later than the first week of July 1989. This list will be forwarded to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) for processing, evaluation and scheduling of interviews.

At a date to be determined, NASA will announce the names of those individuals finally selected to participate in the astronaut program with recommended reporting dates. Individuals selected as astronaut candidates will enter a one-year training and evaluation program. After this period, those selected as astronauts will serve a five-year tour with NASA.

Air Force members meeting the criteria required and desiring to become an astronaut in either shuttle crew position must request an application using the appropriate procedures. An Air Force Medical Screening Board will convene May 15 at HQ AFMPC, Randolph AFB, to select nominees for each shuttle crew position. Best qualified selection method will be used in the Central Selection Board. The list of Air Force nominees will be released approximately six to eight weeks after the board adjourns.

Many base areas to be renovated

Airman First Class Robert Wanless, 64th Civil Engineering Squadron, sets the curbs for the new Reese Manor parking lot currently being constructed. (USAF Photo by SrA. Greg Spraggins) The end of the fiscal year brought over 1.7 million dollars into the base construction budget with ATC providing $828,000 and the base coming up with $915,000. The base funds are a result of everyone's efforts to save money this fiscal year.

Construction will start on projects all around the base. These projects include:

Three new Runway Control

Structures; maintenance and repair of airfield pavements; an upgrade of the strobe lighting system; the installation of a new air handler in Hangar 102; repair of 23 roofs on the flight line; installation of a new chiller for the air conditioning system in the Hospital; a new road survey of the base; chip sealing for many streets; resurfacing 2nd, F and D Streets; construction of an addition to Bldg. 566; new exterior siding for Bldgs. 11, 15 and 552; upgrade street lighting along Mitchell Blvd. in Reese Village; and construction of trash enclosures around the dumpsters in Reese Village.

Allowances, personnel items and pay to increase Jan. 1

The 1989 Defense Authorization Act includes a January pay raise, revamped household goods weight allowance system and a handful of other personnel items.

The Roundup

October 28, 1988

Effective Jan. 1, basic military pay and subsistence allowances will increase 4.1 percent. Housing allowances will increase an average of 7 percent, depending on pay grade and dependent status.

The household goods weight allowance system will change in WASHINGTON (AFNS) — July to a two-tier with- and withoutdependent rate. Previously, weight allowances were set by pay grade alone. The new two-tier system allows larger weight allowances for people with dependents.

> Weight allowances will increase for most pay grades. Junior, enlisted rates, increased in 1986, will not change.

Other personnel items include: • A bonus for critically needed military doctors. · Emergency travel at government expense for people on temporary duty overseas.

· Clarification of a program offering free round-trip travel stateside for people who extend overseas.

• Transfer of alcoholic beverage sales to the exchange services.

· No privatization of commissaries

• Expanded spouse employment preference to GS-1 jobs.

Thanks, Reese, for caring

Whether you are aware of it or not, Reese hosts a blood drive every other month. In past years, Reese. has averaged 30 units of blood donated at each drive. Since our goal for each drive is 50 units, you can see your turnout has been below average.

However, thanks to you, the tides are turning! During the last three blood drives, we have averaged 60 plus units of blood. In a nutshell, the turnout has been outstanding! As a result, the blood suppliers for Lubbock and surrounding areas are beginning to rely on Reese as a reliable source for blood needs.

Because participation has greatly increased, overcrowding is turning some donors away. Remember, your donation is very important! We don't want to lose a single donation if at all possible. When planning to donate remember the following items:

• If you have been ill recently or on medication, check with the technician before starting the donation process. You may be ineligible to donate.

• The busiest times for donations are between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. (lunch hour). If you can donate other times during the day, service will be much quicker.

• Inform your supervisor that you would like to donate. Many supervisors are willing to work around your work schedule for such a worthy cause.

• If you have any questions or concerns about donating blood please contact your squadron or the base Blood Drive Officer:

A sure bet? Check the regulation

By Capt. Sandra D. Grice Assistant Staff Judge Advocate

The World Series, Monday Night Football, the Presidential race—what an exciting time. And what great opportunities to make some fast cash by just winning a few bets. "Great, I'll just put a little down in the office pool on the A's and call Airman Bornyesterday on a couple of football games. Shoot, I'll be ready to buy myself a Christmas present. In fact, if I really put my mind to it, I could probably create my own little form of lottery at work and challenge anyone to a game of one-on-one basketball over at the base gym for, say, $25 a game. Hey, enterprise - the American Way, I can see that new CD player in my room right now."

Wrong, wrong, wrong! In the above scenario, Sgt. Lucky has violated not one, but four prohibitions found in Air Force Regulation 30-30. This regulation, among other things, prohibits any Air Force personnel from taking part in any unauthorized gambling while on Government-owned or leased property, or while on duty. Thus, Sgt. Lucky's participation in the office pool, lottery, and challenge basketball violates AFR 30-30. Furthermore, it is a criminal offense for an NCO to engage in gambling with an airman (or an officer to gamble with an NCO).

While there are some unique exceptions to these prohibitions, everyone should be aware of the standards outlined in AFR 30-30. Contact the legal office today if you have questions concerning any part of AFR 30-30.

Signing a lease? Know what you're signing

By 2nd Lt. Darril C. Bill Base Legal Office

Before you begin looking through newspaper advertisements in an attempt to find an apartment, it's a good idea - and also mandatory — to check first with the Housing Referral Office (HRO). The HRO maintains a list of Lubbock apartments, current prices, good and bad neighborhoods and a list of all those establishments that have given Air Force personnel problems in the past.

When you think you've found that perfect apartment, read the lease carefully before signing it. Most of the following clauses in your lease will probably be important to you:

Military Clause

The military clause is a must because in the event of your transfer, it allows you to cancel the remainder of your lease without paying rent on the outstanding months. It should be noted that a move to onbase housing doesn't count as such a transfer. Therefore, you may want to add that to the lease.

Rent

Be aware of the set amount of rent per month, and the rights of the landlord and the penalties he or she may impose for delinquent rent.

Bills

Know the additional bills for which you are also responsible. Often, the lease will stipulate that the landlord will pay for some of the bills such as water, sewage, gas and garbage. However, any items not listed in the lease are the responsibility of the tenant. Some of these include:

after you move into a "no children allowed" establishment, you may be forced to move out.

Waterbeds

If you own or plan on purchasing a waterbed, you should be aware that the lease may require that you purchase waterbed insurance before you are allowed to assemble your bed. This type of insurance runs about $35 per year if bought from a local waterbed store. Less expensive insurance may be avail-

Additionally, if you have a child able as an addition to your home renter's policy.

Alterations

Most leases contain specific clauses that allow little or no alterations to the apartment without the written permission of the management. Even simple changes such as replacing curtains or adding a door lock are often forbidden.

Oral Agreements

Before agreeing to rent an apartment, check over every room thoroughly. Any changes or items in need of fixing should be taken care of before you sign the lease. Get all agreements in writing because the last paragraph of most leases usually states that "By signing below, I understand that no oral agreements have been made."

The most important thing to remember about a lease is that after reading it thoroughly, if you have any questions, bring it to the base legal office for a free examination before you sign it.

Deposits

Many establishments require a deposit of $50-250 up-front before you move in. Some, however, will lessen or waive the deposit for military personnel.

Children and Pets

Many landlords don't allow children or pets, or require up to a $400 additional deposit to cover expenses like carpet cleanings, defleaing, wall washing and so forth.

For the first time Chaplains (89XX) and Chapel Management personnel (893X0) are recognized as related career fields. Chapel management personnel are total and complete members of the team with responsibilities to support all aspects of the Chaplain Service.

The Reese Chaplain Division has four chapel managers assigned to support the total religious program for the base. "With a staff of four active and five reserve chaplains who minister to over 500 personnel in weekly worship, not to mention the many unit functions we support, we could not function without the dedicated chapel managers," says Chaplain (Maj.) I am a 16-year-old high school runner. My father doesn't want me to run because he thinks running will enlarge my heart. Then if I stop running, my heart will turn to fat, he says, and shorten my life.

Tell your father not to worry. Your heart is a muscle, and muscles can't possibly turn to fat. Muscles contain protein, which is made up of building blocks called amino acids. The amino acids constantly

Jack rabbits, rattlesnakes and tumbleweeds

The 3500th Air Police Squadron held a Reunion Monday at the 64th Security Police Squadron. Retirees and their wives gathered here, from locations across the United States, to talk about "old times" and enjoy one anothers company once again. Among the 20 attendants were Col. (retired) William W. Overton, Squadron Commander from 1949-1952, and Msgt. (retired) Sam Keyes, the squadron's first, First Sergeant.

"Since my time at Reese, many changes have taken place. When the base first opened in 1949, all it was, was a cotton field turned into a runway and lots of jack rabbits, rattlesnakes and tumble weeds." Commented MSgt. Keyes, during his tour of the base.

The approximate three hour visit consisted of a slide presentation, a demonstration of guns and equipment, a drug-dog demonstration and a tour of Reese AFB.

Now is a perfect opportunity to get your unit's story told. How? It's easier said travel out of the muscles into the bloodstream and then back into the muscles. This happens whether or not you exercise. Exercise, however, is a major stimulus to drive the amino acids into the muscle tissue at an increased rate. As a result, the muscle enlarges and becomes stronger.

If you are a regular exerciser and suddenly stop exercising, there is less stimulus for the amino acids to return to the muscles, which will become smaller. Instead, the amino acids go into your bloodstream and, since your body has no way to store extra protein after it is released from your muscles, the amino acids are broken down into ammonia and organic acids that are eliminated in your urine.

I was shocked to read that my seasoned pepper contains lactic acid. Will lactic acid hamper my running?

Not in the least. When you run, your muscles use fat and sugar for energy. If you run slowly enough to get all the oxygen you need, the sugar is broken down into carbon dioxide and water. On the other hand, if you exercise so vigorously that your muscles can't get all the oxygen they need, sugar is broken down to lactic acid, which accumulates in the muscles and spills off into the bloodstream.

The lactic acid makes your muscles acidic and it is the acid that makes your muscles feel tired and hurt. The lactic acid is not bad. It is good. It can be used by your liver and brain as a source of energy. Also, as soon as there is enough oxygen, the lactic acid can be broken down to carbon dioxide and water.

The lactic acid in food will go into your bloodstream and be broken down immediately to be used for your body's needs.

Pet trainer to conduct seminar

"It's never too late to teach a dog to obey," according to Jay Rapp, creator of The American Method of Dog Training, and trainer of thousands of family pets.

Rapp will be in Lubbock on Saturday, Nov. 5, helping frustrated dog owners learn how to communicate with their pets.

"I don't use force," Rapp explained. "I appeal to the dog's natural desire to please. Then I use that desire to teach any dog to obey and at the same time to break bad habits."

Some of the most common bad habits include jumping up on people, running out open doors, begging for food and pulling on a leash.

Rapp will be conducting a free demonstration of his American Method of Dog Training at Farmers Depot (North University & FM 1294, Lubbock) on Nov. 5, at 2 p.m.

A free seminar on canine behavior will be held at Lubbock Inn (Stetson Room), 3901 19th St. at 7 p.m.

This will give participants a more thorough knowledge of Rapp's methods and a chance for questions such as: are some breeds smarter than others? Can dogs reason? Why do dogs dig? How did my dog become the boss of my house? Why do dogs jump on people? How can I quickly and easily housebreak my dog?

Copies of Rapp's latest book, "The American Method of Dog Training" will be available at both events.

Dog owners should not bring their dogs to the demonstration or the seminar.

Rapp's presentations are sponsored by Merrick Petfoods, Inc., of Hereford, manufacturer of Beef-Pro and Beef 'N More dog foods. Door prizes, samples, and coupons for the dog foods will be distributed at the demonstration and the seminar.

Rapp has written six books on dog training and has trained dogs for police work, drug detection, search and rescue efforts, and guide dogs for the blind.

Sea World adjusts schedule

Sea World of Texas has adopted a five-day per week schedule for fall and winter instead of being open every day, according to Sea World of Texas Chairman George J. Becker Jr.

However, the 250-acre marine life showplace in San Antonio has extended its hours on Fridays and Sundays. Becker said the park will be closed on Mondays and Tuesdays during the fall, winter and Crisiy spring months.

The revised park schedule is 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Wednesdays and Thursdays, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays and 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Sundays.

"Since Labor Day and the end of the very busy summer vacation season, we have found that most of our guests visit the park during the middle or latter parts of the week," Becker explained. "We feel it is simply good business to adjust our hours accordingly.

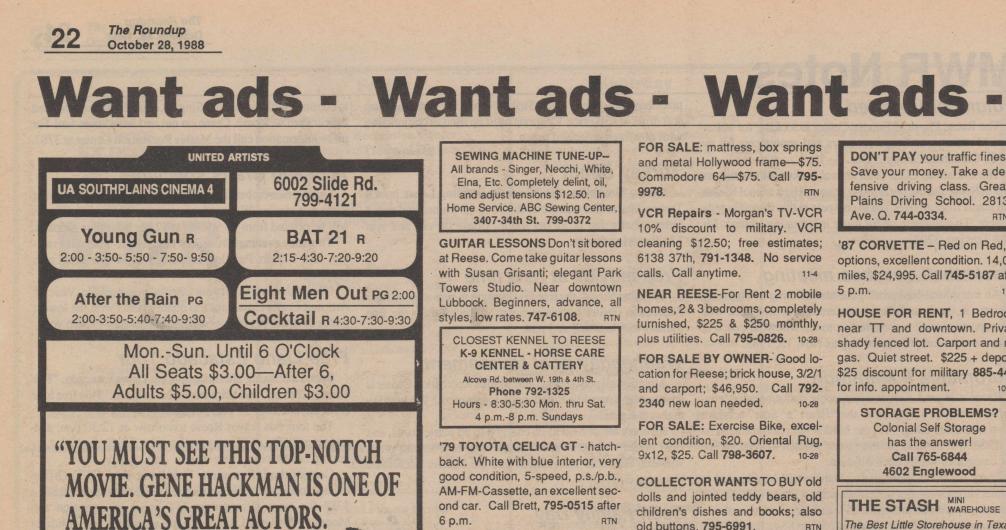

"At the same time, we have decided to close later on Fridays and Sundays at the urging of our guests.

For instance, this will enable families to enjoy our Cypress Restaurant buffet at their leisure and still have plenty of time to see our marine animal shows and educational exhibits."

For more information call the Mathis Recreation Center at 3787.
