Officer promotions to be delayed

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — Due to larger year groups entering the promotion zone for colonel and lieutenant colonel and very good retention of senior field grade officers, the Air Force may have to delay promotion boards for those ranks until next year.

Because the year groups entering the promotion zone are larger, it is taking longer from the time of selection to the time of pin-on. This has created a backlog of colonel and lieutenant colonel selectees waiting to assume the next rank.

For example, 1,011 lieutenant colonels were selected for promotion to colonel by the calendar year 1986 colonel selection board. All officers on that list will have to wait to pin on colonel's rank until approximately July of this year. That means the 1,099 lieutenant colonels selected for colonel by the CY 1987 board will not begin to pin on colonel until August. The CY 1987 colonel promotion list is not expected to be exhausted until February or March 1990.

The CY 1988 lieutenant colonel selection board chose 2,151 for promotion. The CY 1986 list is not expected to be exhausted until July. In August, those selected by the 1987 lieutenant colonel selection board will begin to pin on. That list 1,953 is not expected to be exhausted until August 1989.

A final decision concerning the delay of these boards is expected in April.

Healthy Heart Clinic is scheduled to open

Ready to take a positive step and take control of your cardiovascular health? Reese's new Healthy Heart Clinic, scheduled to open Monday, offers the opportunity to learn and understand cardiovascular health better.

The clinic, set up by 1st Lt. Doug McCoy, a physician's assistant at USAF Hospital-Reese, was designed to promote a healthier lifestyle in the Air Force. "The clinic is focused more on the prevention of heart problems," said Lieutenant McCoy. "The clinic will give patients a minimum of serum cholesterol checks, blood pressure evaluations and a lifestyle assessment. People who have problems can then be referred to the proper organization," he added.

The clinic will be open to active duty, retirees, dependents and possibly in the future, civilians.

Interested individuals should report to the main lobby of the hospital between 8-10:30 a.m. or 1:30-3 p.m. Monday - Friday. There will be a table with several forms with instructions on how to fill them out.

After filling out the forms, sign out your medical records. Report to the Primary Care Clinic window with the filled out forms and your records, and identify yourself as a Healthy Heart Clinic client.

You will then be weighed and have your pulse and blood pressure measured, and have an appointment scheduled.

Your appointment will usually be scheduled for two to three weeks after this initial visit so that blood studies drawn and necessary x-rays can be performed. Electrocardiograms, if needed, will be scheduled to coincide with your appointment.

At your appointment, your medical and family history will be reviewed and a cardiovascular exam will be performed. Your risk for developing cardiovascular disease and recommended intervention will be discussed. If any further appointments are needed at that time, they can be scheduled.

For more information, call Lieutenant McCoy, 885-3285.

Lights on for safety day

RANDOLPH AFB, Texas (ATCNS) — Air Training Command officials are adding a new twist to April Fool's Day. They've designated today as a "Lights on for safety day" throughout the command and are encouraging everyone to voluntarily drive with their automobile headlights on today.

The official theme for the day is "Don't be fooled, be seen," and the special day serves two purposes: it increases awareness, and reminds people of those we've lost in traffic related accidents.

Six ATC people have died and one was seriously injured as a result of automobile accidents since Dec. 23, 1987. Five of the six resulted from drinking and driving, either directly or indirectly. Although only one Air Force member was driving while intoxicated, the end result is the same—six dead, one seriously injured. Additionally, most of the fatalities and the injury involved head-on collisions, and most happened after midnight.

With warm weather coming, most people will spend more time on the road. More good driving weather means increased risk on the highways, making spring a critical period. ATC officials say we must carry our defensive attitude from the job and include it in our off duty environment.

Officer evaluation briefing to be held

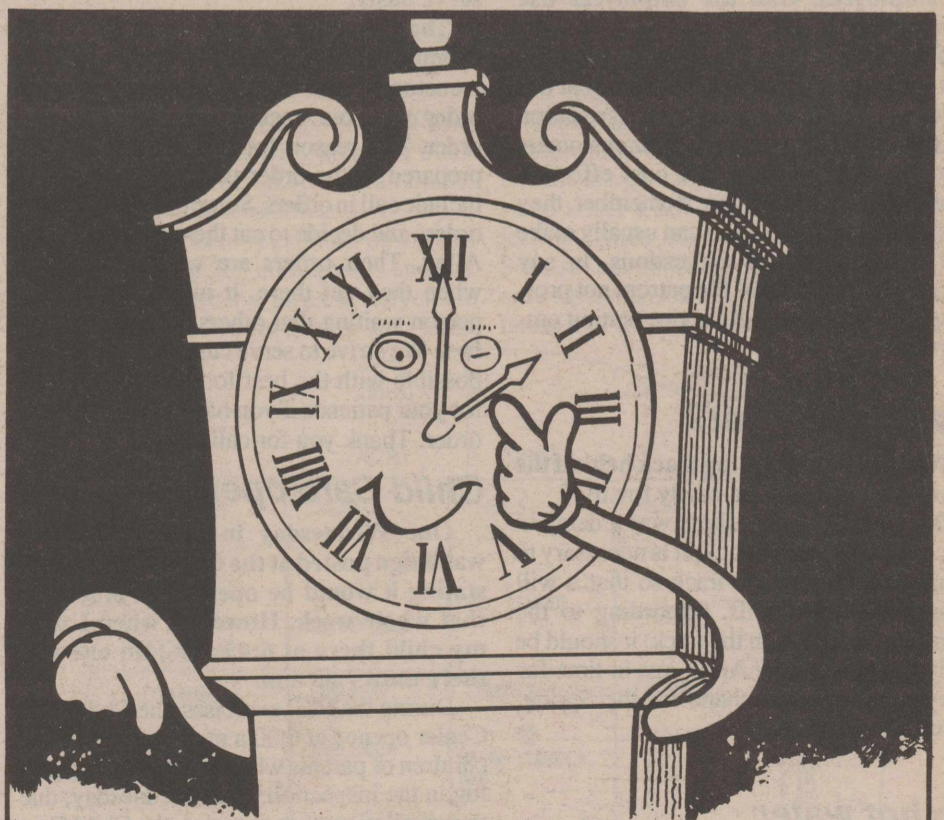

RANDOLPH AFB, Texas (ATCNS) — Headquarters Air Training Command officials have announced the officer evaluation system briefing team's schedule, which will cover the entire command in May and June.

ATC's goal for its two briefing teams, each led by a general officer, is to brief all officers in groups of 100 by the end of June. The proposed OES briefings for Reese will be June 15 through 17.

Most ATC bases have tenant units or are tenant units of other MAJCOMS, so some overlap is expected by briefing teams. Since all MAJCOM briefing teams received the same training, all tenant or geographically separated unit officers are encouraged to attend the briefing of the host or nearest base. To attend a briefing, GSU officers need to call the Consolidated Base Personnel Office.

The briefings are part of a three-phase approach to educate the officer force on the revised officer evaluation system.

Phase I, already implemented, is the letter from Gen. Larry D. Welch, chief of staff of the Air Force, to all officers the week of March 21. Phase II is comprised of Major Command briefing teams that are going to each base April through June. The last phase consists of unit-level training on how to evaluate performance, provide performance feedback and use the new forms.

Bits and Pieces

Enough can never be said...

Among the most important, absolutely critical topics I address in this column is the concept of safety. Let there never be any doubt that properly exercising safety in every facet of our daily lives should be our top priority. Furthermore, I want everyone to know that I alone am the vested safety officer on Reese Air Force Base. Lives are too precious, equipment is too costly, and perhaps most significantly, no task is so important that it cannot wait until tomorrow in order to be performed safely.

Safety must encompass every thought and action that we perform. We can ill afford to become complacent or lazy and merely allow accidents to happen. Through the deliberate and careful use of 20/20 hindsight, we can enlighten our foresight, and try to anticipate situations where accidents may occur. Common sense and prudence demand this type of thought and action, while those who refuse to plan and adopt safety measures invite disaster. Safety begins with the individual deciding that accidents and injuries do indeed pose a real threat to them, and they begin to believe that those accidents and injuries could indeed occur. I have heard this realization referred to in many ways, but the phrase I prefer to use is "safety consciousness begins with the recognition of one's mortality." With this recognition comes an awareness that there are situations which can and will eventually occur if we allow them to.

A small price to pay...

Of course at the present time we cannot prevent all accidents and injuries, but we have proven that with increased awareness we can avoid a significant number of them. Everyone should know the answer to the question, "what price are we willing to pay to avoid a needless, preventable loss of life?" The answer becomes even more obvious when one realizes the cost is paid primarily with increased individual and group awareness and vigilance. This is indeed a small price to pay when we are talking about a person's life, health, or well being.

A similar argument can be made against needlessly wasting time and resources that are lost as a result of carelessness or inadequate preparation and planning. While equipment can, in theory, be replaced, it is wasteful and wrong to assume the taxpayer will shoulder the burden and pay for our avoidable mistakes. Preventing damage to equipment and resources is a top priority of the safety program as well.

Remember, safety is an attitude that results from a conscious decision to make our lives more safe through the use of foresight and planning.

Col. Mark H. Lillard III, Wing Commander

Lt. Gen. Shaud to visit Reese

Lt. General John A. Shaud, Air Training Command commander, and his wife Janelle will visit Reese on Monday and Tuesday.

A quiet arrival is scheduled for Monday evening. On Tuesday General and Mrs. Shaud will follow busy separate agendas.

General Shaud will fly a T-38 sortie with members of the 54th Flying Training Squadron. He will also meet separately with flight commanders and instructor pilots from each of flying squadrons, and squadron commanders. Following a tour of the base housing renovation project, he will meet with the wing and deputy commanders to discuss a variety of currently important topics.

While traveling around base General Shaud will recognize three award winning units. The Services Squadron and Cantu Services personnel responsible for Reese's Dining Facility being selected the best in Air Training Command will be honored after breakfast. ATC's outstanding disaster preparedness and readiness division personnel will be honored after lunch and the weather detachment staff will be honored prior to departure from base operations at day's end.

Mrs. Shaud's schedule will have her visiting the new Family Support Center and the Thrift Shop to meet with their staffs. During the day, she will meet with Red Cross Volunteers at the hospital, the officers and enlisted wives club members and a number of other groups of wives. She too will tour the new family housing refinishing project before departing Reese.

Careline

The CARE Line is prepared by Col. Mark H. Lillard, III, 64th Flying Training Wing commander, on a weekly basis. All information provided to the CARE Line will be held in strict confidence. Callers are urged to give their name and duty telephone number so that a personal reply may be made; however, neither are mandatory. Callers should use the CARE Line only after all possible means to air their views or complaints through the chain of command have been exhausted. The CARE Line number is 885-3273.

Pressure tactics unacceptable

Sir, recently I encountered what I felt to be pressure tactics to buy certain items at the Exchange Service Station by one of the employees. Can the employees use such tactics?

If anybody at the service station used any high pressure sales tactics please accept our apologies. The workers at the service station make every attempt to serve their customers with the most efficient and cost effective recommendations they can. Remember, they are experts in this field and can usually make very wise and sound suggestions. In any case, the best interest of the patron, not profits, is the concern of all service station employees.

Track ready yet?

When will the running track behind the Simulator Building be ready for use?

Due to bad weather there was a delay in the completion of the track. It is necessary to repaint the lines on the track so that it will comply with standards. According to the contractor working on the track, it should be ready for use in early April, just in time for everyone to get into shape for the Spring. Thank you for calling.

No hot water

I live in one of the dorms and the people who live here had to spend an entire weekend with no hot water, which is very uncomfortable.

I'm sure it is and I apologize to everyone in your building.

In this particular instance, the heat shop personnel from the Civil Engineering squadron started working on the situation as soon as they received the call. They found the heater to be clogged with hard water residue which could not be removed mechanically.

After acid removal of the residue made only minor improvements, an emergency contract had to be put in for a new heater.

This whole process had the CE folks working around the clock to restore the hot water. Although very inconvenient, please try to bear with us through times like this. Thank you for calling.

First come, first served

I've been to the bowling center snack bar and noticed that some people who came in after me got served before I did. Shouldn't they work on a first come, first serve basis?

The Windmill Lanes snack bar does operate on a first come, first serve basis. As a customer, you might come and place an order with our cashier and wait for your order. The reason for this is all orders are prepared in the order they are received, to include call in orders. Some customers call in orders and decide to eat them at the Bowling Alley. Their orders are waiting for them when they get there. It might appear to a person waiting that others are being served first. We strive to serve customers as soon as possible with the best food available. I ask for your patience if you have to wait for your order. Thank you for calling.

Child Care opens at 7 a.m.

One Wednesday in February, there was a sign posted at the Child Care Center stating it would be opening at 6:00 a.m. that whole week. However, when I took my child there at 6:45 a.m., no one was there until 7:05 a.m.

During the MCI exercises, the Child Care Center opened at 6:00 a.m. to accommodate children of parents who would be participating in the inspection. That Wednesday, due to cancellation of an exercise, the Child Care Center was instructed to resume normal duty.

Unfortunately, all parents could not be contacted in time to be informed of the change.

From now on, Child Care Center employees will be arriving early in order to receive the children by the 7:00 a.m. opening.

Sorry for the inconvenience and thank you for calling.

Participate in VHA Survey

The 1988 Variable Housing Allowance survey was distributed in March by a DoD contractor to approximately 157,000 military personnel. This survey is the primary source of data used to establish the variable housing allowance rates.

Because the VHA entitlement is one of DoD's highest legislative priorities for funding FY89, accurate data must be provided so that future rates may be determined. If you have any questions on the VHA survey, contact 1st Lt. Moshier, HQ ATC/DPXP, AUTOVON 487-6844.

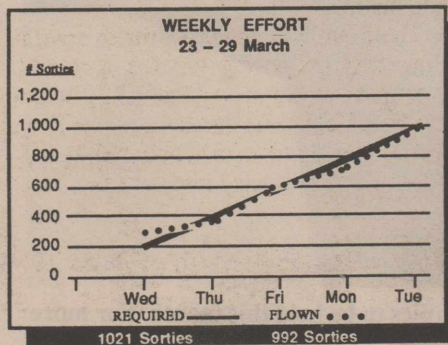

The survey was sent to randomly selected people of all grades who receive basic allowance for quarters. Most of the surveys were sent to personnel within the continental United States, although some were sent overseas to sponsors whose families remained in the United States.

The VHA program began in 1980 to assist people in finding suitable and affordable off-base housing by supplementing basic allowance for quarters.

The survey asks questions about costs associated with home ownership or rental. Accurate cost information is needed because the data may be subject to verification by a government audit agency. Wherever possible, records and receipts should be used to help substantiate actual costs.

The survey was conducted in 1986, with a 78 percent return rate for all armed forces, and the Air Force setting a record with an 82 percent response rate.

No one loses in the Special Olympics

The Lubbock area Special Olympics is April 29-30 at Estacado High School. The Special Olympics are an exciting event for hundreds of area handicapped children.

Each year the base provides countless volunteers for the games, last year's total being 389. Once again, Reese volunteers are needed to assist in the Olympics. There are many positions to volunteer for: timers, photographers, parade of flags, huggers and many more.

One special program to be aware of is the "Buddy Program" for Lubbock State School. Lubbock State School has 104 handicapped children who are anxious to compete in the Special Olympics. Each of these individuals requires one-on-one attention. If you are interested in becoming a "Buddy" for one of these kids, or would like more information, call 2nd Lt. Jeff Moore, 3744, by April 22.

Help is still available for filing taxes

By Maggie Seymour
Base Tax Advisor

April 15th will be here before you know it. If you still haven't filed your 1987 tax return, now is the time to get started. Remember, tax help is available here on base. Most units have a designated tax advisor who will be able and happy to help you with your taxes.

The Base Tax Advisor in the Legal Office is available to anyone who doesn't have a unit advisor or has an especially complex tax problem. Contact the Legal Office at 3505 to find out who your advisor is or to make an appointment.

Whether you need help or not, don't wait until the last moment to start working on your return. The Tax Reform Act has made many changes in the tax laws and you may find your situation more difficult than you anticipated. An extension of filing time may be requested, but any tax due must be paid by April 15 to avoid penalties and interest. Anyway, the sooner you get started, the sooner the whole mess will be behind you (until next year!) Don't hesitate to ask for help if you need it—it's free and much better than facing an audit later.

The following tax tips have been developed in response to the questions most frequently asked of the Legal Office:

- The number of W-4 allowances claimed won't necessarily equal the number of exemptions on your tax return. Allowances may be claimed for things such as excess itemized deductions, child care expenses, or a non-working spouse.

Therefore, claiming three allowances on your W-4 doesn't mean you are automatically entitled to three exemption deductions on your return. Complete a W-4 if you are unsure of the number of allowances you should claim.

- There are NO penalties for overwithholding—that is, getting too big a refund. However, it is not wise financially to let Uncle Sam hold your money all year long. You won't have access to it, and the Government won't pay you any interest on it.

- If you refund is overdue and it has been more than ten weeks since you mailed your return to the IRS, there is a toll free number you can call to find out the status of your refund. This is an automated system and you will need to know your social security number, your filing status, and the exact amount of your refund. The number for this area is 1-800-554-4477.

- Non-deductible contributions to an IRA account cannot be made after the end of the year to be credited to the past year's account. Deductible contributions, however, may be made until April 15 of the following year.

- An extension for filing may be secured by filing form 4868 and paying any tax due by April 15th. This extension is automatic. You may not file a 1040EZ if you have requested an extension.

- Anyone who can be claimed as a dependent on another taxpayer's return (such as a parent), may NOT claim a personal exemption ($1900.00) for themselves.

- All children over the age of five must have a social security number to be claimed as a dependent. Form SS-5 is used to apply for a number.

- State of legal residence cannot be changed at will—simply because you don't want to pay taxes to that state any longer. Specific actions must be taken to change your residency. Be aware of your state's particular laws regarding residency and the military. Some states consider you a non-resident for tax purposes if you leave the state under military orders, some exempt military pay, and others tax every penny you make no matter where you are currently living. Check with your home state to be sure.

- The gain from the sale of a principal residence is taxed if another home is not purchased (for more than the selling price of the old home) within two years. This two year period can be extended another two years for people currently on active duty—for a total of four years.

- All active duty military members are considered to be active participants in a retirement plan, even though they are not vested. This means that IRA deductions may be limited.

Thunderstorms: know what to do

EDITOR'S NOTE: This information was taken from Wing Pamphlet 355-1 (Disaster Preparedness Family Emergency Plan). For a copy of the plan, call Disaster Preparedness, 3703.

The thought of thunderstorms doesn't bother too many people, since they usually come, and then they go. Sometimes these storms cause severe floods and damage, and if you don't know what to do, they could become life-threatening.

One of the main things to understand, is the difference between a thunderstorm watch and a thunderstorm warning.

A thunderstorm watch means weather conditions are favorable for the formation of severe thunderstorms, and severe thunderstorms may be expected.

During a thunderstorm watch, you should:

- Monitor Emergency Broadcast System for official Weather Bureau information (in Lubbock, KFYO 790).

- Secure all movable objects in the vicinity of your residence or work area.

- Have the movements of children restricted to the immediate vicinity of your home.

- Gather emergency supplies and have them readily available (flashlights, battery-powered radio, spare batteries and the like).

- Weather information on the television: The following weather symbols may appear in the lower left hand side of the screen:

TRANSPARENT WATCH

A transparent cloud against background of screen means a watch is in progress.

SOLID WARNING

A solid cloud against background of screen means a warning is in progress.

Television and radio stations will broadcast what counties the watch/warning will cover (see area county map) when the cloud symbols are used.

A thunderstorm warning means a severe thunderstorm has been sighted.

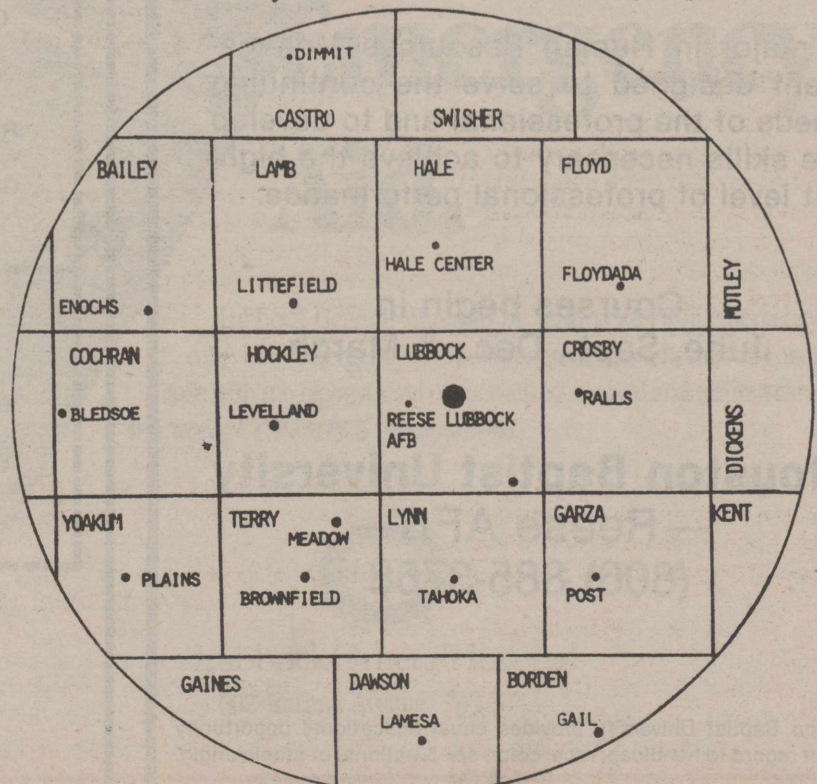

- Stay inside! Blowing debris or lightning are some thunderstorm dangers.

- Monitor radio and television stations for information of storm's location and direction of travel.

Many areas around Lubbock and Reese are prone to flooding, during and after thunderstorms. For this reason, it is not advisable to drive during thunderstorm activity. If you must drive, be especially cautious on 4th and 19th Streets, Loop 289 underpasses and any other areas that have low areas. If the vehicle stalls, abandon it immediately and seek higher ground. Rapidly rising water may engulf the vehicle and occupants and sweep them away.

When lightning is occurring, get inside a house, a large building or automobile. Do not use the telephone. If caught outside, do not stand under a tall isolated tree. Avoid projecting above the surrounding landscape. Seek shelter under a group of small trees. In case a person is struck by lightning, resuscitation and CPR may help revive the victim.

Commander's column

By Col. Fred M. Blosser
Hospital Commander

Although much has been said about the hazards of drugs, the vast majority of medications are safe for most people if they are used as directed.

Be cautious with medications

Before a new drug can be marketed in the United States, it must undergo rigorous testing in both animals and humans. However, all drugs have desirable and undesirable effects, and many do not mix with each other or with certain foods. The potential for unwanted effects can be minimized if you have reliable information. Your doctor and pharmacist are the best sources for specific information about the drugs you take.

Information garnered from friends, relatives, newspaper or magazine articles, and other nonmedical sources should not be used to alter a drug regimen without checking with your doctor. Also, never share your prescription medicine with others, as it has been tailored especially for you and your particular condition.

The more well informed you are, the better you will be able to take your medication correctly. You should also know what to expect from the drug prescribed and what things to report to your doctor.

Know exactly why you are taking the medication: whether it is to control hypertension or blood sugar, to prevent angina pain or convulsive disorder. Know the product's name and generic name and their correct spellings. Know exactly how much medication you should take and how often. If a liquid has been prescribed, use a standard measuring spoon, as household spoons tend to vary in size. Ask what to do if you happen to miss taking the drug at the required time.

Know if the drug should be taken before, after, or with meals. If the instructions are to take the drug on an empty stomach, it should be taken at least one hour before or two hours after eating.

Keep a list of foods, drinks (including alcohol), or other drugs you should avoid while on the medication. For example, if you are taking tetracycline, your doctor will probably tell you to avoid consuming dairy foods with your medication, as they interfere with the absorption of this drug.

Ask your doctor or pharmacist if the drug will make you feel sleepy or have any effect on your mood, ability to concentrate, or mental alertness. Ask how much time will pass before you will feel the effects of the drug; some antidepressant medications, for example, do not show any beneficial effects until you have been taking them for two weeks or longer. Know what kind of side effects might occur with the drug. All drugs have a potential for side effects; some are temporary and some can be reduced by changing the dosage scheduling or substituting another medication. Ask which side effects should be taken as serious warnings that should be brought to your doctor's attention immediately. Know how long you are supposed to take the drug and if (and when) your prescription should be refilled.

Know where and how the drug should be stored. In general, drugs should be stored in cool, dry places and not in your medicine cabinet, which may become hot and steamy. Ask whether you should save any remaining drug for future use or throw it away.

Know what is in your medicine cabinet and what medications you and your family are taking. This is one matter where "what you don't know" definitely can hurt you!

Half-staff flags may honor CMSgts

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The Air Force Sergeants Association (AFSA) announced that the Secretary of the Air Force, Edward C. Aldridge, Jr., has granted all commanders of Air Force installations discretionary power to fly the American flag at half staff upon the death of an active duty or retired Chief Master Sergeant of the Air Force.

The new policy, which amends

Air Force Regulation (AFR) 900-3, gives commanders of Air Force installations the discretion to fly the national flag at half staff for a day and during the day of a memorial service at installations hosting a service.

The amendment to AFR 900-3 honors the memory of the Air Force's top enlisted member and was approved after close cooperation between the Air Force and AFSA since the untimely death of CMSAF (Ret.) Richard D. Kising in 1985. Prior to the amendment, Chief Master Sergeants of the Air Force were not specifically mentioned in AFR 900-3 as being entitled to this honor—causing questions as to whether such an honor was within Air Force policy.

"Our current and past Chief Master Sergeants of the Air Force are held in great esteem by all enlisted members...lowering our nation's flag to half staff in their memory is one of the truest forms of respect and dedication that our nation and our Air Force can bestow upon the Air Force's top enlisted member and the enlisted community as a whole. This association dedicates its actions in this momentous occasion to the memory of late CMSAF (Ret.) Richard D. Kising and is proud to have played a decisive role in making this honor a reality," commented AFSA International President CMSgt. (Ret.) John A. McBrien.

AFSA represents and serves the interests and concerns of 160,000 active duty and retired Air Force, Air National Guard and Air Force Reserve enlisted professionals of all grades and their families through nearly 300 chapters worldwide.

Convert to new GI Bill

Members who currently have the Vietnam era GI Bill (Chapter 34) are eligible for conversion to the new GI Bill if they are on active duty July 1, 1988.

By converting to the new program, earned benefits may be used beyond the Dec. 30, 1989 termination of the Vietnam program.

An important requirement for conversion is to have completed a high school diploma or GED certificate by June 30, 1988.

This mandatory requirement will govern whether or not you may use your benefits after Dec. 30, 1989, and applies regardless of the number of college hours you may have accumulated.

For more information call the Education Center staff, 3634.

New custodial contract

Beginning today, A & W Maintenance will take over base custodial services from Environmental Aseptic Services Administration.

With this change in contractors, we will be seeing a restructuring of our custodial services. Many services that were previously accomplished at night will be done during normal duty hours. The frequency of many custodial services will change, to include the addition of services to some areas and a reduction of services to other areas.

As many of these changes vary by building, the Quality Assurance Evaluators will be sending separate notices to all building managers detailing the exact changes to their building as soon as the new contractor submits his schedule.

Questions should be directed to Randy Pendergraph or Sgt. Anthony Sanchez, 3929.

Housing Needed

The Housing Referral Service has a continuous need of non-discriminatory housing for military and DOD civilian personnel. If you have a house, apartment or mobile home for sale or rent, a listing service is available.

The service is free. To register your property, stop by the Housing Referral Office. Providing a photograph of your property may aid in the sale or rental of the property.

For more information, contact Paul Young, 3601.

Coupon savings help

If you are interested in saving some money on your grocery bill, stop by the Family Service Center, Bldg. 310, and browse through the coupon box. Family Services is open from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Fulfill your lease

The Housing Referral Office has received several complaints from apartment managers and homeowners complaining of one co-resident wanting to vacate his quarters because the other co-resident is unable to fulfill the lease. The Texas Apartment Association Lease states:

"Except under a military clause below, residents will not be released on grounds of voluntary or involuntary school withdraw or transfer, voluntary or involuntary business transfer, marriage, divorce, reconciliation, loss of co-residents, bad health, death or any other reason, unless otherwise agreed to."

If you cannot abide by a lease, then do not sign it until it is agreeable. You are liable for the lease.

If you have any questions, contact the Housing Referral Office, 3601.

Family budgets can help

Saving money now can be very important to many of us in the future either for a rainy day, someone's education, or simply for enjoyment after retirement.

Often we say, "Oh, I'll save next month," and continue to put off this very important activity.

Here are a few rules which may help you begin a simple savings plan now without putting a large dent in your wallet.

The first rule of family budgeting is that it must be a joint affair. Husband and wife must join in establishing financial goals and reducing expenditures. Both must take budgeting seriously.

The best way to start the family budgeting process is to analyze your savings and spending history. You should note that savings is included in the budget. It is important that you put some money in savings each month, no matter how small, and establish a savings goal. Use your checkbook and receipts to record how much money you are spending monthly on such items as housing, food, utilities, clothing, transportation, insurance and entertainment. Add any other category applicable to you such as education expense.

After you determine how much you spend, decide if you can reduce your spending in some areas. Take into account the basic necessities first. Items such as housing, food, utilities and clothing are the most important and should be your first priority. There can be other necessities depending on your circumstances like transportation, and insurance. Entertainment and education expenses, although they may fall in last place in the priority system are important. Educational expenses represent an investment that can increase the earning potential of the family at some later date.

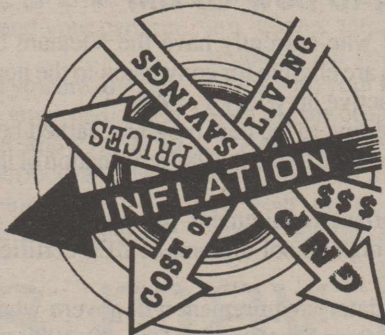

Everyone must have some form of recreation or entertainment to maintain their well being.

When you have set your goals, keep a record of actual expenses for one month. Once recorded, make a comparison between actual spending and your goals. If you have spent less than you had anticipated, re-evaluate your goals and place more in savings. If you exceeded your spending goals, determine the causes and discuss them with your family. Adjusting your goals upward may be needed; however, you must discipline yourself and your family to strive toward goals once they are established.

Each month, you should continue comparing your spending with your budgetary goals. If you work together, you will discover that meeting these goals will be much easier and you can manage family finances without adversity.

"Retention rates are running too low. To sustain the FY 92 requirements, we have to keep each new pilot for an average of more than 14 years after completion of pilot training. This equates to a cumulative continuation rate of about 60 percent. But current rates are projected to fall below 50 percent for this fiscal year. If current undergraduate pilot training production and current retention rates continue, we would be 970 pilots short of the FY 92 requirement."

Morale affects everyone in our daily work

By TSgt. Mark A. Sams
64th Organizational Maintenance Squadron

As defined by Webster's New International Dictionary morale is:

1. moral principles, teachings, or conduct.
2. a confident, resolute, willing, often self-sacrificing and courageous attitude of an individual to the function or tasks demanded or expected of him by a group of which he is a part that is based on such factors as pride in the achievements and aims of the group, faith in its leadership and ultimate success, a sense of fruitful personal participation in its work, and a devotion and loyalty to the other members of the group.
3. a sense of common purpose or a degree of dedication to a common task regarded as characteristic of or dominant in a particular group or organization; Esprit de Corps.
4. a state of individual psychological well being and buoyancy based upon such factors as physical or mental health, a sense of purpose and usefulness, and confidence in the future.

The fourth entry would appear to be the most widely accepted. It states that at the individual level we must have confidence in the future to achieve a state of proper morale. If the first three parts of the definition were excluded, we would find that it would be impossible to achieve the fourth.

In order to maintain homeostasis, or balance, attrition of resources must be replaced by some form of positive input, and as members of the military, confidence in the future may be a very abstract and an elusive feeling due to the contradictory fact that we have all agreed to do our jobs until it kills us. In order to maintain this balance, the military supervisor must realize that attrition is caused by external, uncontrollable forces.

An interesting paradox occurs in the military environment concerning morale. We agreed to support and defend the Constitution and obey the orders of the President and all officers appointed over us. Though it is not directly stated, we know that these officers include members of Congress and their orders include all legislation which affects our lives as military members.

Metaphorically, morale can be compared to the mortar which holds together a wall of bricks. A wall of bricks stacked together with no mortar may have the appearance of solidity but let an external force such as the wind blow on it hard enough and it will tumble to the ground. A properly mortared wall will withstand tremendous amounts of external force.

We as NCOs are the masons of my metaphor. A mason is the skilled craftsman who trims and shapes his bricks to fit properly and then mixes the mortar to exact specifications before applying it. After he has built his wall he protects it to the best of his ability until it is cured.

We as NCOs are required by law and by morality to shape and train our subordinates to function as a part of a kind of wall—in that a wall serves to protect its interior from an external threat.

Discipline, concern and leadership are the tools you can use to accomplish your very difficult job.

It is the duty of all NCOs to protect their people from morale breakdown by creating a positive environment for them. If persons are properly trained and motivated and feel vitally important, they can be utilized to their fullest and feel that they can and will succeed and advance in their organization and will almost assuredly not fall apart and become ineffective simply because some external force such as a slight pay cut or benefit erosion has occurred.

Beyond the call of duty lies a medal of honor

By SSgt. Glen Cruz
PME Center

The Medal of Honor is the highest military decoration awarded to individuals. It is awarded to those who, while in the Armed Services of the United States, have distinguished themselves conspicuously by gallantry and courageousness, at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty.

Originally authorized by Congress in 1861, it is sometimes called the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Five of our NCO predecessors have earned the Medal of Honor: four in WWII and one in Vietnam. These distinguished individuals are: Sgt. Maynard H. Smith, May 1, 1943; TSgt. Forrest L. Vosler, Dec. 20, 1943; Sgt. Archibald Mathis, Feb. 20, 1944; Sgt. Henry E. Erwin, Apr. 12, 1945 and Sgt. John L. Levitow, Feb. 24, 1969.

Sergeant (then A1C) John L. Levitow was the first Air Force enlisted man to receive the Medal of Honor.

The sergeant was a loadmaster aboard an AC-47 gunship on a support mission for Long Binh

Army post, South Vietnam, on Feb. 24, 1969, when his story began.

During the mission, his aircraft was racked with a violent explosion. It had been hit by an 82mm mortar shell that left a two-foot hole in the wing and more than 3500 shrapnel holes in the fuselage. Shrapnel wounded everyone in the cargo compartment.

At the moment of the explosion, Sergeant Levitow was standing near the cargo door, setting ejection and ignition timers on magnesium illuminating flares being dropped to help ground forces ward off an enemy mortar attack. The blast ripped an activated flare from the launcher's grasp and it landed near one of the miniguns, amid a jumble of spilled ammunition canisters.

Stunned by the concussion of the blast and suffering more than 40 fragment wounds in his back and legs, Sergeant Levitow staggered to his feet and turned to assist a crewmember who was bleeding heavily. He saw the flare as he was moving his wounded comrade forward and away from the open cargo door.

Although suffering from loss of blood and a partial loss of feeling in his right leg, he struggled to reach the flare which was rolling wildly from side to side. Unable to grasp the flare in his hands, he threw himself bodily upon it, hugged it close, and dragged himself and the flare back to the open cargo door; it ignited in the air at almost the same instant, but at a safe distance from the aircraft and crew, saving them from almost certain disaster.

Today Vietnam war hero John Levitow lives a quiet life with his wife and children in rural Connecticut.

Voting is a right we have earned

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — The 1988 elections are only a few months away!

Thirty-eight states or territories began holding presidential primary elections Feb. 16. In addition, all states will hold primary elections for other federal and state offices from March through September.

One-third of the members of the Senate, all House members, 13 governors and numerous state and local officials will be elected this year. In many instances, primary elections are as important as the general election, and the decisions made by these officials can have a significant impact on military people and their families.

The federal post card application is accepted by all states as either an application for registration forms or for registration, or as an application for an absentee ballot.

Registration requirements vary from state to state. Many states allow the voter to register and request an absentee ballot with a single FPCA. However, other states may require two separate FPCAs, one to register and one to request an absentee ballot.

Generally, FPCAs requesting a ballot only should be received by election officials at least forty-five days before election day to allow time to process the request and mail the ballot. If applying for both registration and an absentee ballot, the FPCA may have to be mailed even earlier.

Under normal circumstances, most states begin mailing ballots to voters 20 to 45 days before an election. Ballots should always be completed and returned no matter when received. Court decisions sometimes require the counting of ballots voted by election day, but received late.

For voting purposes, the legal state of residence is the state where the voter last resided prior to entering military service or the state which has been claimed as the legal residence. Even if the voter no longer maintains formal ties to that residence, such as property ownership, the address is needed to place him in a proper voting district or ward.

Military people may vote in the state where stationed if they change their legal residence to that state. However, a legal officer should be consulted before making such a decision because there are legal obligations which may be incurred, such as taxation, when changing the state of residence.

State primary update

Five presidential primaries are scheduled for the month of June. Those personnel and their families who wish to vote absentee in the states of California, New Mexico, New Jersey, Iowa, and Montana need to follow these procedures:

- Those personnel who wish to vote absentee in the California presidential and state primaries may do so by submitting a Federal Post Card Application to the County Clerk no later than May 9. Because ballots will be mailed 29 days before the election, FPCAs should be mailed early. Party affiliation needs to be provided when requesting a primary election ballot. The California primary is scheduled for June 7.

- Those Reese personnel who want to vote absentee in the New Mexico presidential and state primaries may do so by submitting a Federal Post Card Application to the County Clerk no later than the Thursday before the election. Separate FPCAs need to be submitted for the primary and general election. Party affiliation needs to be included when requesting a primary ballot. The New Mexico primary is scheduled for June 7.

- Those personnel who wish to vote in the New Jersey primary may request an absentee ballot by mailing a Federal Post Card Application to the County Clerk no later than seven days before the election. However, absentee voters should mail the FPCA in early. A separate FPCA must be submitted for both the primary and general elections. Party affiliation must be provided when applying for a primary ballot. The ballots must be received by the close of polls on the day of the primaries which is June 7.

- All personnel who wish to vote in the Montana primary can register and request absentee ballots for both the primary and the general elections by sending a Federal Post Card Application to the County Election Administration no later than May 8. All ballots must be received by the close of polls on the day of the election. The Montana primary is June 7.

- Those personnel who want to vote absentee in the Iowa primary and state primary to select candidates for state and federal offices may do so by submitting a Federal Post Card Application to the County Auditor. If both boxes are checked then you may receive your ballot for the general election also. Party affiliation must be provided when applying for the primary ballot. All ballots must be received no later than six days after the election. The Iowa primary is June 7.

If you have questions about any of the June primaries they may be referred to: The Director of the Federal Voting Assistance Program, Department of Defense, room 1b457, Pentagon, Washington, D.C. 20301, Autovon 225-0663 or Commercial (202) 695-0663.

Construction throughout the base to continue

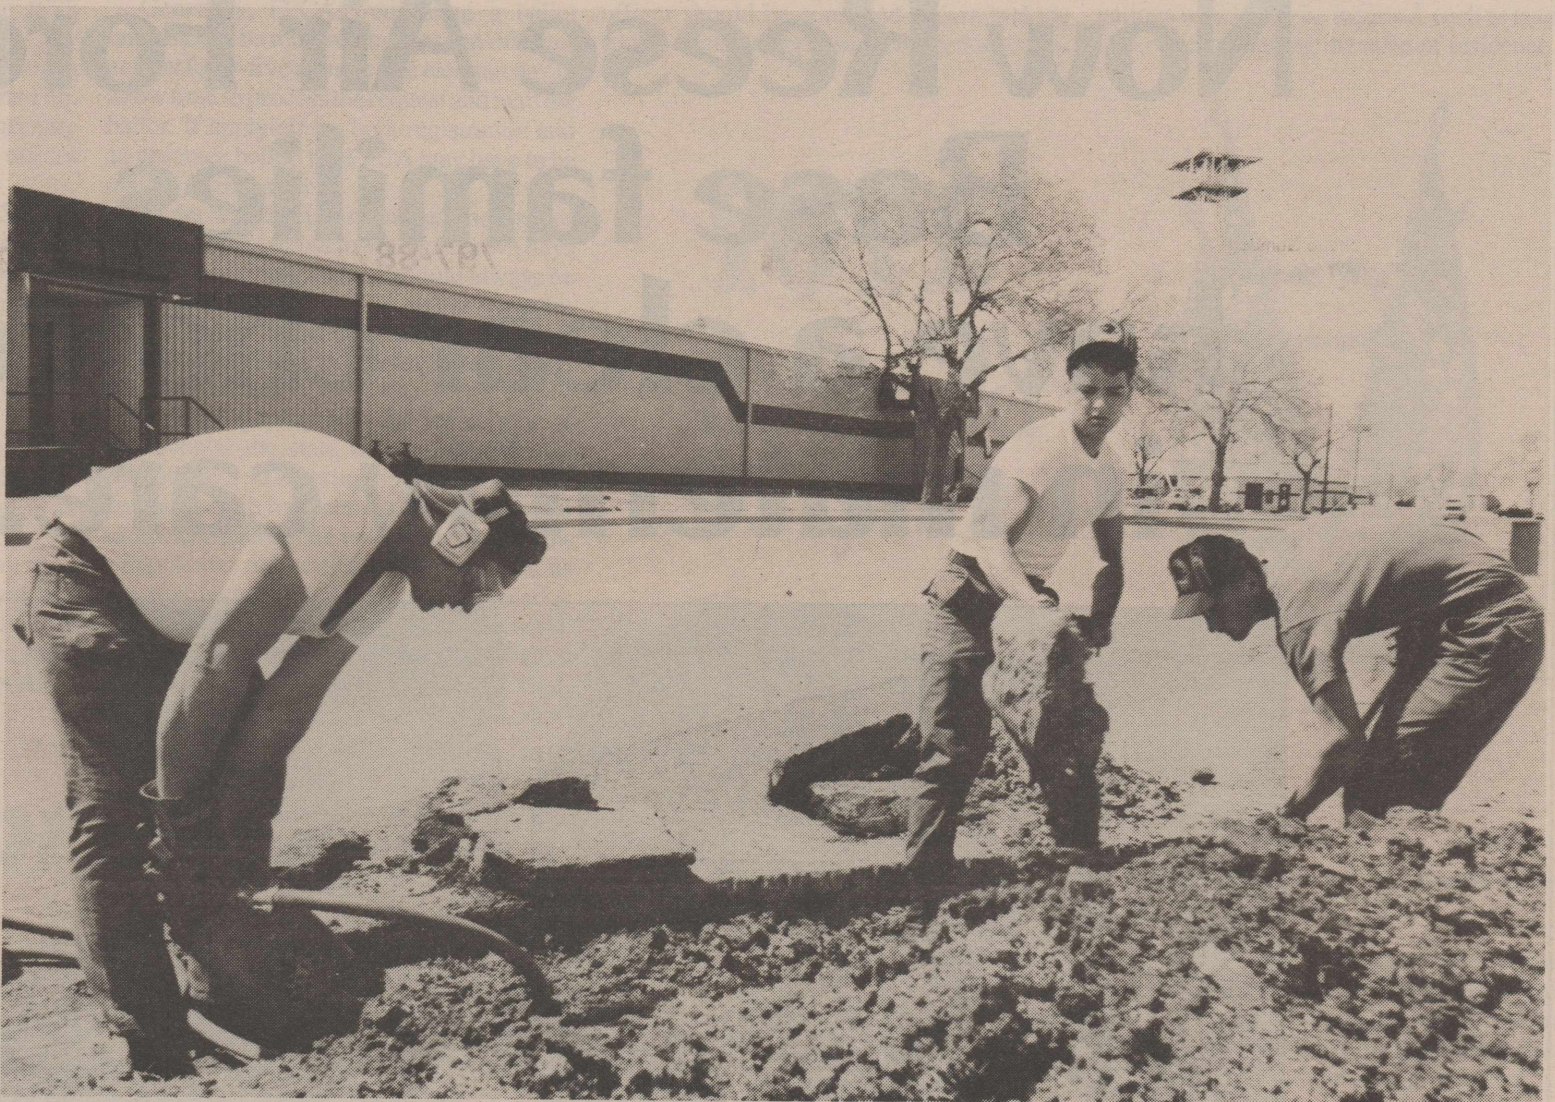

The Civil Engineering Squadron has provided the following update on construction projects currently underway here at Reese.

The new running track will get sod in the next couple of weeks. Be patient and stay off the track until it is opened for use.

Currently there is a large trench dug along the side of building 820. This is a new storm drain that will require 8th Street to be temporarily closed, restricting traffic at the intersection of Hangar Line Road and 8th Street during the month of April. Try to route your trips to go around this area. In the housing area, renovation is going full speed and many have moved into recently finished renovation units.

Problems are still occurring with children playing in the construction areas and around the contractor's equipment. Families should be advised of the dangers involved. Some residents are parking their vehicles too close to the driveways in the housing area, causing problems for the refuse collection trucks. Parking control lanes will be placed around the driveways on Mitchell Boulevard to help prevent this problem. Recently completed projects on base include the control tower renovation, the new golf course parking lot, the fire department training area, and an upgrade of the airfield electrical system.

Some construction problems at the firing range have been resolved and work is now moving along.

Leroy Robertson, Amn Donald Ryan and A1C Dean Tassone, 64th Civil Engineering Squadron, repair a curb after communications lines had been put in the area. (USAF Photo)

Carrots Deluxe

Carrots can be included as a good source of Vitamin A, which you should try to include in your diet several times a week. And here's a new way to enjoy cooked carrots without a lot of fuss in the kitchen.

- | | |
|--|---------------------|
| 6 medium carrots, pared in thin strips | 1 tbsp. lemon juice |
| 1 tbsp. margarine | 2 tbsp. water |
| 1 tbsp. chopped chives | |
| 1 tbsp. chopped parsley | |

Melt margarine in a saucepan; add lemon juice. Arrange carrots in layers in a baking dish. Between each layer pour in the lemon juice and margarine mixture and sprinkle with chives and parsley. Add the water. Cover and bake at 350 degrees until the carrots are tender, about 50 minutes.

Yield: 4 Servings

Buying tip: Carrots are also great heart-healthy snacks. They can satisfy a craving for something crunchy. Keep raw carrots in the refrigerator in case of a sudden need for a between-meal energizer.

Easter sunrise service scheduled for 7:30 a.m.

By Chaplain Robert Stroud

The Protestant Easter Sunrise Service is scheduled for Sunday at 7:30 a.m. rather than 6:30 a.m. as earlier reported. The reason for this change is the shift to Daylight Savings Time on Easter morning.

The change in time was not taken into consideration when the service was originally scheduled. Thus, the sunrise on April 3 will occur at 7:34 a.m. rather than 6:34 a.m.

Chaplain Bill McGraw notes that with the time shift, the hour may feel like "0-dark-thirty" in either case.

Members of the Reese community are invited to attend the chapel for the Sunrise service at 7:30 a.m. and the continental breakfast which follows.

Mayo is distinguished graduate

In competition with 801 students in Class 88-B, Captain James E. Mayo earned Distinguished Graduate honors, graduating in the top 7 percent of the class at Squadron Officer School (SOS), Air University, Maxwell Air Force Base, Alabama.

In addition, selection for this distinctive honor was recommended by a review committee and approved by the SOS Commandant.

Squadron Officer School is the first of the USAF's professional military education schools.

The mission of the 8 1/2-week course is to provide for the professional development of company grade officers so they can better perform and value their role in the conduct and support of the Air Force mission.

The evaluation system consists of four phases: academics (25%), writing (25%), speaking (25%), and leadership (25%). The student must excel in each phase.

Church to present Easter program

First Baptist Church of Lubbock will present its annual Easter musical/drama, The Passion, at 2201 Broadway on Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings, April 1, 2, and 3, at 7 p.m. each night.

The story of Jesus' last days on earth will be told through music performed by the Sanctuary Choir and drama provided by the drama cast.

This annual presentation will portray Jesus' last days on earth; how He loved the people around Him; how He died upon the cross at Calvary, and how He gloriously arose three days later.

First Baptist Church, the Fellowship of Love, invites all of the South Plains area to worship with them as they celebrate Easter. Child care will be provided.

NOW to sponsor regional conference

The Lubbock Chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW) has been selected to sponsor the 1988 Regional Conference for the South Central Region. The Conference will be held at Lubbock's Holiday Inn Civic Center from April 22-24.

The conference will feature speakers, workshops, plenary sessions, and exhibition booths. The main purpose of the event is to elect Board members who will represent the region at National meetings. The South Central Region includes Texas, New Mexico, Colorado, Oklahoma, and Kansas.

Child care will be available. For more information, contact Barbara Becker at 793-0582.

"Cats" performances scheduled for Lubbock

Tickets went on sale Tuesday, March 29, for the three upcoming Lubbock performances of "Cats," the Tony Award-winning international musical hit by Andrew Lloyd Webber, based on T. S. Eliot's "Old Possum's Book of Practical Cats."

"Cats" will be performed in the Lubbock Municipal Auditorium on Tuesday, April 19 at 8 p.m. and Wednesday, April 20 at 3:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. "Cats" is being sponsored locally by Texas Tech Cultural Events and the UCP Fine Arts Committee.

Tickets can be reserved and/or charged by phone or by mail, or may be purchased in person at the Texas Tech University Center Ticket Booth or at Sears in the Mall.

Tickets for the two evening performances are $25, $20, and $12; tickets for the afternoon matinee are $22.50, $17.50 and $12. All seats are reserved. Due to contractual stipulations, no discount on ticket prices can be given to Texas Tech students.

"Cats," which originally opened in London and was an instant success, continues to play to capacity audiences in the West End, on Broadway, and in cities around the world ranging from Tokyo to Budapest to Lubbock, Texas.

With its unusual sets and costumes, its memorable music and dance numbers, and a cast of 31 singer-dancers playing various breeds of cats, the hit musical won seven Tony Awards including Best Musical of 1983, the Outer Critics' Circle Award for Best Musical, and a Grammy Award for Best Cast Show Album.

Annual talent show - a chance for stardom

By Becky Pillifant
MWR Publicity

"The stars are out tonight", will be the theme for this year's Base Talent Contest. The Base Talent Contest is a preliminary for Air Training Command and Worldwide competition.

Winners of the Worldwide competition will proceed to "Tops in Blue" which is the highest honor a performer can receive. To participate at base level you must be active duty military or a family member over 18 years of age. Only active duty military can advance to ATC level.

There are 13 categories of competition in the talent show:

1. Male music vocalist-not self accompanied
2. Female music vocalist-not self accompanied
3. Music vocalist-self accompanied
4. Vocal duet
5. Vocal group
6. Instrumental solo
7. Instrumental group
8. Classical
9. Dramatics
10. Dance
11. Master of Ceremonies
12. Potpourri musical
13. Specialty

The winners at Base level will travel to Keesler AFB, Mississippi, to compete in the ATC Talent Contest which will be held May 8 through 14, 1988, to select the ATC representatives for the Air Force Worldwide Talent Contest. The Worldwide Talent Contest will be held at Lackland AFB, Texas, May 20 - 30, 1988. Those who win the Air Force Worldwide Talent Contest will perform as a member of the "1988 Tops in Blue" team.

There are two Tops in Blue touring groups. Individuals chosen for the CONUS Tops in Blue tour will remain at Lackland AFB, Texas, and begin their staging and then go on the road, from May through December 1988. Those selected for the overseas Tops in Blue tour will return to their home base and report for staging mid-August 1988 through mid-January 1989.

Over a quarter of a century ago Major Al Reilly, USAF (now a retired Colonel) had the idea of a "family entertaining family." He believed that talented Air Force people could display their talent while lifting the spirits of other Air Force personnel who were flung in the far corners of the world.

Today Tops in Blue reaches every country where Air Force people are stationed. The cast travels by bus, car, plane, helicopter, truck or whatever means available to reach their Air Force family. The tour isn't easy but is very rewarding! The cast members know they are appreciated and loved by all who see and enjoy their exciting performances. Tops in Blue team members travel hundreds of miles and tote thousands of pounds of equipment from place to place while meeting a very demanding schedule.

Still the enthusiasm and excitement fills the air as each Tops in Blue performer appears on stage.

If you would like to be a Tops in Blue star, contact the Mathis Recreation Center at 3787 for more information. The sign up deadline for the base talent contest is 5 p.m. on Wednesday. Hope to see you in the spotlight on April 14 at 7 p.m. in the Base Talent Contest.

New life preservers designed

WRIGHT-PATTERSON AFB, Ohio (AFNS) — Ejecting from an aircraft can be extremely hazardous to a pilot's health. Over water, the odds of making it are even worse—at least until now.

Air Force is developing a three-part system to help keep crewmen afloat when they must eject from their aircraft.

The anti-drown triad consists of a life preserver that ensures the pilot floats face up, a back-up riser that disconnects the parachute, and a release system that removes the oxygen mask.

All three devices activate when they hit water, even if the pilot is unconscious or injured.

The automatic life preserver replaces other manual life preservers. It fits around the neck and is suspended on the chest in horse-collar fashion. First Lt. Toby Jones, program manager for the preserver, said it provides enough buoyancy to keep a pilot afloat with his head above water in a face-up position.

The sea-water activated release system is a back-up canopy release that automatically separates the parachute from the pilot. Project manager Rita Dyer said the device will prevent pilots from being dragged across the water in windy conditions if he is unable to release the canopy himself.

The third element, the mask release system, also is activated by fresh or salt water. Even with a life preserver keeping the pilot's head above water, the oxygen mask hose connected to the helmet could cause drowning if not released.

First Lt. Veronica Campelli said a small device placed on the helmet removes the mask from the face. Activation is delayed several seconds to let the pilot surface after hitting the water.

The life preserver is in the field now, while the parachute release system is in production. The mask remover is still in research and development.

Aeronautical Systems Division's life support system program office here is directing the project.

The new Air Force life preserver, right, is part of a three-component system designed to help prevent drowning even if a pilot is injured or unconscious. The preserver automatically inflates on contact with water, left, and supports the pilot in a face-up position. (Air Force photos)

Three new aircraft added to AF inventory

WRIGHT-PATTERSON AFB, Ohio (AFNS) — Three aircraft deployments — a first and two finals — and system developments on aircraft ranging from the advanced tactical fighter to the national aerospace plane will keep the Aeronautical Systems Division busy this year.

Despite budget reductions, major programs are expected to move toward developmental milestones, but sometimes at a slower rate.

To be delivered during 1988 are the 100th and final B-1B bomber to Strategic Air Command, the new Air Force One presidential aircraft to Military Airlift Command, and the last of 60 KC-10 aerial tankers, also to SAC.

B-1B No. 100 will be delivered to McConnell AFB, Kan., in May. The B-1B force then will be in place at Dyess AFB, Texas; Ellsworth AFB, S.D.; Grand Forks AFB, N.D.; and McConnell.

In November, the first of two executive-configured 747-200B aircraft built by the Boeing Co. to serve the president as Air Force One aircraft will be turned over to MAC at Andrews AFB, Md. Boeing received a $249.8 million contract to build the two planes in July 1986. The contract includes systems, aircrew and maintenance training, and a sophisticated on-board communications system.

The final KC-10 will be accepted in December at McDonnell Douglas Corp.'s Douglas Aircraft Co. in Long Beach, Calif., and will be flown to Seymour-Johnson AFB, N.C. The aircraft will close out production that began in 1980 to bolster airlift and tanker forces.

Also at Douglas' Long Beach plant, assembly of the first C-17, the Air Force's next generation transport, will begin in August.

The year also will mark the start of fabrication and assembly for the high-priority advanced tactical fighter. Lockheed's YF-22A and Northrop's YF-23A prototypes are being prepared for flights early in calendar year 1990. Each company will build prototypes. One version will use the Pratt and Whitney YF119 prototype engine, and the other will be powered by the General Electric YF120 engine. The aircraft will succeed the F-15 Eagle in the air supremacy role.

The national aerospace plane — with conceptual design for both the propulsion and airframe completed — begins a three-year effort that will result in ground tests of large-scale engine modules and selected aircraft components, as well as preliminary designs for the experimental vehicle.

Envisioned as smaller in size and lighter than a B-1B bomber, the aerospace plane will cruise at hypersonic speeds (Mach 6 and above) at altitudes as high as 350,000 feet and, possibly, ascend directly into low orbit.

In midyear, the first flight of the V-22 Osprey tilt-rotor aircraft is slated. The vehicle will take off and land like a helicopter and convert to conventional aircraft flight. The V-22 is being developed by the Boeing Helicopter Co. and Bell Helicopter Textron for the Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps, with the Navy providing lead management. First flight will be at the Bell facility at Fort Worth, Texas. The Air Force version is designated the CV-22A.

Other scheduled activities during the year are:

- First production targeting pod for the Low Altitude Navigation and Infrared Targeting System for Night-LANTIRN — will be delivered to the Air Force in July. All pod deliveries, which will give F-15E and F-16 fighters a revolutionary, night and bad weather attack system, will be completed in 1993. The navigation pod turns night into day with its infrared sensor, while the targeting pod with a similar sensor allows the pilot to locate, track and attack ground targets from several miles away.

- Rollout of the MC-130H Combat Talon II aircraft for the Special Operations Forces is scheduled for March in Greenville, Texas. The aircraft will have a global, day and night, bad weather capability to airdrop and land troops and equipment to support low-level and deep penetration special operations.

- Seek Spinner is scheduled to begin a flight demonstration program late in the year. Boeing Military Airplane Co. is developing the low-cost, propeller-driven, container-launched missile used as an anti-radar attack weapon.
