Rivercrest, Ore City Tie In Exciting Football Action

By Britt Morgan

As a matter of technicality, Rivercrest won the battle of the Rebels, the first district 20-AA game, last Friday night by defeating Ore City's Rebels by two first downs. What? Well, its like this. The score was tied 13-13 when time ran out. Technically the game would then go to the team with the most penetrations inside the opposition's 20 yard line, but, guess what, the penetrations were tied 3-3. Then the game goes to the team with the most first downs and with 1:40 left in the game, the first downs were tied 15-15! But the Rivercrest Rebels had the ball and picked up two first downs before time ran out to technically win the game.

The game started good for Rivercrest as they took the opening kick-off on their own 28 yard line and proceeded to march 72 yards downfield to paydirt, using nine minutes of the clock in doing so. James Strickland did the honors by carrying the ball over from the one. Charlie Skaggs kicked the extra point and Rivercrest was up by seven. But Ore City showed they were here to play too. They returned the kick-off 30 yards to RHS's 49 yard line and in ten plays they traveled those 45 yards with quarterback Mark Motley scoring from four yards out to tie the game at 7-7. Jerry Mervhant then returned Ore City's kick-off 25 yards to the 47 of Rivercrest, but the express couldn't get started good and Strickland punted the ball into the end-zone. Ore city then started their drive, but it only lasted six plays when Bradley Moore intercepted a Motley pass and brought it back 20 yards to the RHS 43 yard line, but a clipping penalty took the ball back to the 28. But Rivercrest's drive only lasted seven plays when they fumbled the ball away to Ore City just before the half-time break.

Ore City took the second half kick-off from their own 20 yard line and proceeded down field aided by passes of 24 yards and 11 yards and a 29 yard run by Motley. They were beset by penalties totaling 20 yards, but this did not stop Motley from adding six more points to the seven that showed on the board. The point after fell shy of the goal-line and Ore City led once again, 13-7. But when the Rivercrest express gets cranked, there's no stopping it! Merchant took Ore City's kick-off 48 yards to their 47 yard line to get the express its way. Wade Cline finished the job as he carried the ball the final 24 yards, breaking four tackles, to paydirt with 3:38 left in the third quarter to tie the game. Both defenses made spectacular goal-line stands with the Rivercrest Defense holding Ore City just inches short of a first down. Then with 1:40 left in the game RHS took over and Cline, after fumbling a pitch from Strickland, picked the ball up and ran 16 yards down the left side to get the winning first down. Strickland added another first down before letting time run out.

Cline led rushing for Rivercrest with 86 yards followed closely by Merchant with 85 and Strickland with 44. Defensively, Bradley Moore led tackles and intercepted one pass. Merchant, Stan Wood, Damon Ward, and Billy Stewart also played good defensive games. Head coach Milford Groves was pleased with the performance of his squad and impressed with the way the offense moved the ball and played as a team.

The Rebels second district test will come next week as they travel to Harmony for a 7:30 battle with the Eagles.

Results Of Victory March Announced

Area residents contributed $674.79 to the recent Victory March for Arthritis.

"The cooperation from everyone was so heartwarming and we are deeply grateful to all who helped in making the March a success," said Mrs. Geri Knowles, Bogata chairman. "That $674.79," she said, "means added hope to arthritis patients in terms of greater research efforts and in terms of expanded patient services."

30,000,000 American citizens with arthritis severe enough to require medical care. Each year it claims 1,000,000 new victims.

Speaking for the North Texas Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation, she thanked the countless individuals and volunteers for their generous response to the arthritis appeal.

"It has been a rewarding experience for me to serve on the arthritis team, her and see the Victory March go over it's goal," Mrs. Knowles said.

"The campaign is over," Mrs. Knowles said, "But arthritis itself goes relentlessly on. Those who have not had an opportunity to contribute as yet are urged to send their checks to the North Texas Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation at 5415 Maple, Suite 417, Dallas, Texas 75235."

The first geese flew over going south yesterday. They were very high and far away, but still their echoing cry fell down to earth.

It has to be one of the saddest, and yet most pleasant sounds in the world.

They speak of ending-winter coming, as do the busy squirrels, dying leaves and eloquent coyotes.

An yet there is a promise in all of the signs of autumn, whispers of warm fires, hot chocolate and holidays that makes it impossible to miss the passing summer totally.

Each season has it's privileges, and autumn perhaps has more than any other. There are harvests to gather, a summing up of summer. There are glorious colors to see, and gray skys to contrast them.

No other sound nor season feels the same as geese in the fall. Young animals are reaching maturity, and the entire year is winding slowly down towards it's end.

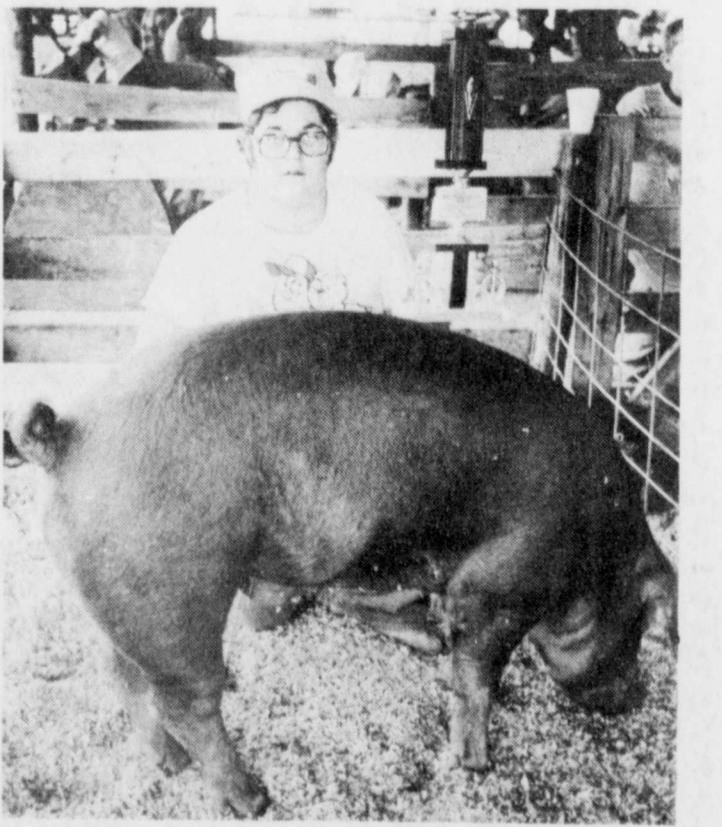

Soon the sound of geese flying over will be a common sound, as flock after flock makes it's long way south.

But all too soon, before we know it, those same birds will be making their way back north for spring time. When they do, take notice the cries don't sound lonely then, only happy!

Dear Editor:
On behalf of all of us involved in the recent Victory March for the North Texas Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation, I am writing to thank you, your staff and everyone in Bogata who participated in or worked on the campaign.

Not only did it help us to raise $674.79, but the cooperation from everyone was so heartwarming that we are deeply gratified. An important part of this program was devoted, as you know, to public information and education, for only through greater public understanding can we look forward to the necessary financial support which will one day bring about the ultimate conquest of arthritis. The wonderful news coverage we were privileged to enjoy in the Bogata News did indeed widen understanding, which resulted in our success.

Please accept my personal thanks and those of the entire Foundation for your efforts.

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. Geri Knowles

Zucchini Help Is On The Way!

It's the time of year when home gardeners begin to wonder what led them to plant so many hills of zucchini. This prolific variety of summer squash, developed in Italy, can take over a garden in seconds. In an almost magical manner, the young tender young squash of last night seems to turn into a baseball bat-size monster by morning.

Instead of pondering the why's of last spring's planting, now is the time to harvest and enjoy the bounty of the garden. Much to its credit, zucchini has a very mild flavor which allows for many different methods of preparation. Zucchini can be boiled, fried, baked or eaten raw. It is enjoyed hot or cold, alone or mixed with other vegetables and meats. And, because it is almost 95 percent water, shredded zucchini can be used to make wonderfully moist quick breads and cakes.

Woodlands Improve Wildlife

Management of woodlands to favor deer browse is of importance to landowners in the Red River County. Whether for family recreation or farm leased hunting, many landowners have found that improved deer habitat provides added income.

Over 250,000 acres of forest land provide food and protection for deer here in the county. Browse production is the major criteria in supporting the maximum deer population. Such browse may be managed with timber management techniques.

Acorns provide an excellent food source for deer, but are available only in the fall. Browse is a collective term for the twigs, buds, and leaves of woody plants, and is the staple diet of the white-tailed deer during all seasons. This is why many deer exist in the upland pine situations.

A reliable browse plant must be palatable, available throughout the year, and high in nutrient content. By applying some forest management practices you can improve the quality of your woodlands in all three respects.

Prescribed burning, is being used more and more each year as a forest management tool. The careful application of a relatively cool, controllable fire in the pine uplands cannot be equaled as an inexpensive method of promoting browse within reach of deer. Repeated applications of prescribed fire stimulates the sprouting of browse plants. If allowed to grow unchecked, the plants become tall for deer to reach.

The use of fire lanes to protect timber lessens the chances of large wildfires. Fire lanes are also beneficial for deer. Planting firebreaks in the winter may supplement food for deer although it will not increase the overall carrying capacity to any great extent.

Thinning and harvesting is another forest tool management. After thinning a nature timber stand, this allows the sunlight to expose the forest low growing plants for rapid growth, when it is rapidly growing in response to ideal growing conditions.

Soil conservation Service personnel can help landowners determine woodland practices that are best for their wildlife.

Small Grain Should Be Planted

Smallgrain planted in a prepared seedbed should already be in the ground, according to Dr. Sim Reeves, Jr., agronomist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. However, if producers plan to plant smallgrain in a sod, it should be drilled in October. Reeves says the amount of early grazing from sod-seeded smallgrain decreases as the planting date is delayed. Wait until sod-seeded smallgrain is about three inches tall before applying fertilizer.

Ryegrass and clover winter pastures should be planted about the middle of October. The best grazing from these pastures will come after the first of the year.

Gardeners and truck farmers should plow under the stubble from their crops when the plants stop producing. According to Dr. George Phillee, Extension plant pathologist, this practice helps reduce insect and disease infestations in next years' crop. For best results, disk or plow the area several times during the winter to expose insects and weed seeds to the cold weather. This management tool could save on both labor and pesticide for the next year.

Methodist Bazaar Slated

The public is urged not to forget the annual bazaar and dinner held by the First United Methodist Church in Bogata the first Saturday in November which will be

Nov. 7 this year. There will be a variety of handmade articles to be sold and a delicious noon meal. Mark it on your calendar of things to be remembered, please.

The annual Homecoming was held Sunday Oct. 4 at the Marris Chapel Cemetery with a large attendance. Mrs. Ada Barton, 92, of Mesquite was recognized as the oldest one present and also the only living child of the original Marris family of settlers. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Townsend of Perrytown came the farthest. Roy Marris of Bogata is president, Wayland Ward of Mt. Pleasant is Vice Sun Overloads The nation's electric power distribution systems are becoming increasingly vulnerable to interruptions that take place on the sun. The charged particles and magnetic fields blasted off in sunspots have led to overloads on power lines that have exploded a transformer and tripped safety relays and circuit breakers nationwide.

NO "FREE LUNCH"? October 4, 1981

Background Scripture: Isaiah 55. Devotional Reading: Ezekiel 36:22-32.

The Bible asks some tough questions and none is more disturbing than the one in Isaiah 55:2—"Why do you spend your money for that which is not bread and your labor for that which does not satisfy?"

Why, indeed? Much of our lives is spent in laboring for "that which does not satisfy" us. We surround ourselves with things that do not satisfy us—not in the long-run, that is. We spend our money on experiences that may be exciting for the moment, but do not stay with us. We spend most of our lives working...for what? We want something out of life, but do we really know what it is we want? BUY WITHOUT PRICE!

We lose our health before we realize that health is invaluable and cannot be bought at any price. We search for happiness, but no price we pay can ever put a downpayment on it. Actually, the price is more than we can ever afford. As Jesus said, "For what does it profit a man if he gains the whole world and loses or forfeits himself?"

Yet, when we finally realize that we can never have enough to purchase what we want out of life, we are also ready to discover that it was never intended to be bought, but given: "...he who has no money, come, buy and eat! Come, buy wine and milk without money and without price" (Isaiah 55:1). It is a gift, but it is not a giveaway. It is intended to be given to all, not just a few deserving: "Ho, every one who thirsts, come to the waters."

Actually, the emphasis is on the Giver, not the gift. That doesn't mean that the gift is not important, but that if we focus only on the gift, we will miss both it and the Giver. The key, then, is not in our "spending" or in our "labor which does not satisfy," but in the Source of what it is we are looking for: "Hearken diligently to me, and eat what is good...Incline your ear, and come to me; hear that your soul may live" (5:2b,3).

WHILE HE IS NEAR Thus, our task is not to work and strive for happiness or even to attempt to "nail down" our salvation, but to "Seek the Lord while he may be found, call upon him while he is near" (55:6). Pursue God, not happiness, and happiness will be thrown in. "Seek first the kingdom of God" and all the other things will be added to our lives by his grace. But it's not a "free lunch," for it costs God enormously.

It sounds as if the prophet believes that sometimes God is "near" and other times far away, sometimes to be "found," and sometimes not. That's a very human perspective, but the truth is that God is always near us, always ready to be found by us—or better to find us—but there are times in our lives when we are more aware of and responsive to the great banquet of eternal life which he wants to give us. It is particularly at those times that we need to "return to the Lord."
