Rebels Play Hawks For Bi-District Championship

By Britt Morgan
A rematch is reborn. The Rivercrest Rebels and the Hawkins Hawks are set to fight again this Friday night at 8:00 p.m. The battle will be fought in Mt. Vernon at Tiger Stadium where the teams have fought twice before, both times in bi-district battles. This will be the first time the teams have met in two years, but the basic game plans of the teams have not changed that much, although the personnel have. The Rebels are out for compound revenge in this fifth battle as Hawkins has taken victory from the Rebels all of the preceding four encounters.

Hawkins claimed the right to post-season play by defeating Winona last Friday night and capturing the district 19-AA championship. The Rebels share the co-championship of district 20-AA with Maud's Cardinals, but Rivercrest will represent the district at the bi-district contest because they simply penetrated Maud's 20 yard line in a hard fought 0-0 tie.

But the Rebs will be playing without ace half-back-linebacker Wade Cline. Cline hobbled off the New Diana field two weeks ago with torn ligaments in his knee. To take up the slack, head coach Milford Groves has moved sophomore running back Randy Galloway up from the junior varsity. Galloway has proven himself time and time again with excellent running and blocking. Groves feels that Galloway will add the needed spark that went to the sideline with Cline.

The Rebels have had two weeks to prepare for the showdown and they have made a few changes to use as a surprise to the Hawks. Groves says that he and the players are very pleased to be playing bi-district once again and this time they feel a little more prepared as the extra week has given small injuries and bruises time to heal. Groves is also pleased with the attendance of the fans and the sportsmanship shown by players as well as the fans this year and in preceding years. He hopes that this good representation of the school will continue through the next few games and years to come.

Board Hears Progress Report

The Board of Trustees of the Talco-Bogata Schools met in regular session at Rivercrest on Tuesday, November 10, 1981 at 7:00 p.m.

Claire Jessee, Band Director, met with the Board to give a brief progress report on the various Bands. Even though the present high school band is small, Mrs. Jessee was optimistic that there would be a considerable increase in size for the following year. It was stated that of the 20 Jr. High Band students, 13 of these 8th graders will likely be in the High School Band the following year. Mrs. Jessee also said that she had 31 enthusiastic 6th grade students in the Beginning Band who would eventually make a contribution to the band program.

Gerald Capps, Insurance Servicing Agent for the district, met with the Board to further discuss and recommend fire insurance coverage for the various buildings. Approval was given to a new 3-year policy which increases the amount of coverage by 30 percent on the majority of the buildings and with a larger increase on the Bogata Jr High and Elementary buildings and the Talco Elementary building which were all under insured on the previous policy. Through a package plan which also includes personal liability, the new policy was obtained with very little increase in cost even though the overall increase in the amount of coverage is substantial.

A request by the Talco PTO to be permitted to build a covered walk-way for the purpose of loading and unloading students was approved. Also, permission was granted to extend the road into a circular drive to help the flow of traffic.

Board approval was given to policies to implement S.B.341- Term Contract Nonrenewal Act. As a part of this bill, the 67th Legislature made it mandatory for school districts to evaluate all certified personnel at least once annually, give reasons in case of nonrenewals, and establish policies for hearings when requested.

The Board accepted a bid for the various surplus school vehicles that had been advertised for sale and approved the selling of a school owned house on the Talco campus. The house will be advertised for sale either to be moved or sold with the lot. Also, other surplus school equipment in the district is to be accumulated in one location and after public notice is made, is to be sold on a first-come basis.

In other action, the Board cast its allotted number of votes for its choice of nominees for the Red River County Appraisal Board, approved the various financial reports, and agreed to advertise for bids for new carpet in the business offices at Rivercrest. Also approval was given for the district to participate in a Gifted and Talented Program for 4th and 5th grade students in the school district. This program is being coordinated through Region VIII Education Service Center and involves approximately 10 other schools in the region.

After an executive session for the discussion of personnel matters, the Board reconvened and then adjourned. The next regular meeting of the Board will be Tuesday, December 10, 1981 at 7:00 p.m. at Rivercrest with the general public cordially invited to attend.

This Week's Money-Savers

The best buys at the supermarket meat counter are ground beef, pork and poultry.

In the beef department you'll find a good buy on corned beef and some stores carry both corned round and brisket.

When purchasing a brisket, select a flat cut since it consists of one solid muscle with a minimum of fat.

Pork prices continue to be stable, but look for specials on pork loins.

You'll also find chops and roasts featured as weekly specials.

State Shows Solid Financial Record

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Monday said Texas' prospering economy and healthy business climate played a vital role in the state's solid financial record during the last budget year.

"Business is welcome and comfortable in Texas and that's a situation that contributes to an economy that continues to outpace other states as well as strengthen the tax base and tax collections," Bullock said.

Bullock's assessment was drawn from the State of Texas 1981 Annual Financial report covering the state's fiscal year which ended on August 31, 1981.

"Texas finances remained sound," Bullock said in the report's transmittal letter to Governor Bill Clements.

Bullock noted that the Texas economy fared well in 1980, which is generally considered a recession year nationally, and that growth in population, personal income and jobs had a direct positive effect on state revenues and taxes.

The ability of Texas to absorb a high population growth while maintaining relatively high levels of employment and per capita income has been the key to the strong posture of the Texas economy, the report said.

The annual report showed that the state gained more than 300,000 jobs in the past year, and that this economic growth was instrumental in an increase of per capita income for Texans.

Texas income grew at an average annual rate of 4.6 percent between 1977 and 1980, compared to U.S. income over the same period of 3.2 percent.

The report showed that total revenue and beginning cash balances of $16.05 billion financed net expenditures of $13.19 billion.

Bullock said the state ended up with a possible "cash surplus" of about $230 million—a General Revenue fund ending cash balance of $676.3 million, minus about $440 million in existing spending authority and obligations not recorded or paid.

Bullock said the ending cash balance in the General Revenue Fund was less than one percent off the figure that he predicted in a Revenue Estimate to the Legislature last January.

Improved data collection and economic analysis continue to improve the state's ability to monitor its financial transactions, he said.

"The state's financial health is tied directly to the strength of the state's economy and is part and parcel to the government's financial well-being," Bullock said.

Energy production, because of higher prices, pushed oil and gas production taxes to record levels—$2.19 billion in 1981—but still well behind state sales tax which produces $2.9 billion.

Oil, gas and sales tax collections were responsible for 81 percent of the 62 percent increase in tax collections, Bullock said.

Motor fuels, franchise, business, alcohol, motor vehicle, insurance, and miscellaneous taxes totaled about $2.1 billion.

State expenditures during the year increased about 11 percent over 1980.

Educational outlays claimed about half of the increase, followed by increases in welfare and highway spending.

Support for state and local education totaled $5.1 billion. Welfare expenditures reached $1.8 billion and outlays for highway maintenance and construction totaled $1.6 billion.

Texas received $2.88 billion in federal funds during 1981 and this money accounted for 21.4 percent of the state's total net revenue.

Footprints From The Past

By John W. Hood

The other night after the evening meal I was eating a dish of ice cream and it took me back to how we used to make ice cream.

It was always a treat because it had to be home made, there weren't many places to buy ice cream. You could buy it in town, but that wasn't practical when most folks lived out on the farm.

We bought ice in town, and the only way to keep ice was by wrapping it in old flannel clothes. Lots of times the neighbors came over to visit and it turned into kind of a party.

Of course ice cream meant ice, salt, home grown cream and eggs and it sure tasted good.

Every once in awhile the young people of the community would have an ice cream party. The young folks would go in and buy the ice and the girls would bring the ingredients.

The girls turned the handle until it began to get stiff, and then all the boys would show off their muscles by turning the crank until the ice cream was firm.

It was a perfect opportunity for a little "sparking".

We made all different flavors of ice cream, but one of our favorite was to buy a package of grape nuts and put them in the ice cream. We also used fresh peaches. None of this took much money, but it sure was a lot of healthy, good fun!

BUDDY'S WORKSHOP Draft Inside Wall May Influence Thermostat

The furnace in the old home we recently purchased is only five years old. The house is well heated, but it seems that the furnace is constantly switching on and off. A friend suggests we may have a faulty thermostat.

The thermostat could be faulty, but it may be working improperly because of air drafts inside the wall. Drafts inside the wall may seek outlet at the opening through which the wires are drawn. The periodic influx of cold air into the back of the thermostat signals the elements to switch on the furnace. Unscrew the thermostat and fill the opening behind it with firproof insulation and you may solve the problem.

When I visited the local lumber yard, I noticed that lumber was stored several different ways—some flat, some on end, and some in an "X" arrangement. I should have asked them about it, but didn't. Yet, I am still curious.

Lumber that is expected to remain undisturbed over a period of time is usually flat stacked. The pole stack, or crisscross method, saves space and allows the lumber to shed rainwater. The crisscross arrangement also allows maximum exposure of surfaces. The end stack method is generally used for seasoned wood and allows boards to be removed easily.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

ARE WE STILL "PLAYING CHURCH"?

November 22, 1981

Background Scripture:
Ephesians 4.

Devotional Reading
Colossians 2: 8-15.

I don't know about you, but when I read the fourth chapter of Ephesians, I feel a deep sense of shame. The words are beautiful, but their power to judge us is fantastic. You don't even have to read the whole chapter to know what I mean:

"... forbearing one another in love, eager to maintain the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace..." (4: 2, 3) "There is one body and one Spirit, one hope... one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of us all..." (4: 5-6)

"... the whole body, joined and knit together by every joint... makes bodily growth and upbuilds itself in love" (4: 16)

"Let all bitterness and wrath and anger and clamor and slander be put away from you, with all malice, and be kind to one another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, as God in Christ forgave you." (4: 31, 32)

No Longer Children

Read each of those passages along with your daily newspaper and you cannot escape the terrible knowledge that Christ's people on earth are projecting anything but the image of the Church described in Ephesians. "Maintain the unity of the Spirit"? What unity? "Be kind to one another"? No, Christians are not kind to one another, they are contentious, judgmental, and divisive. "There is one body and one Spirit"? Hardly! There are many bodies, and it would seem, all contending that they alone possess the one Spirit.

Oh, to be sure, sometimes the Presbyterians, Methodists and U.C.C.'s get together for a service, or sit together with the Episcopalians and the Lutherans in a council of churches. Yes, and sometimes the Pentecostals sit down with the Baptists and the Church of God acknowledges the Nazarenes. And Roman Catholics and Protestants have buried the hatchet, haven't they? (—except in Northern Ireland, where they're burying one another).

The Truth In Love

But if you think that's what Ephesians 4 is all about, no wonder we're so divided. Ephesians 4 is speaking of a unity and love that does not issue into constant conflict and division. Ephesians 4 is the antithesis of Christians attacking each other, impugning each other's faith, deriding each other's efforts, and denouncing each other's discipleship.

The writer of Ephesians calls us to "mature manhood" (personhood) "so that we may no longer be children, tossed to and fro and carried about with every wind of doctrine..." (4: 13, 14). But, until we learn to accept our unity in Christ we will still be children "playing church."

SENIOR CITIZEN'S CORNER

HELPFUL IDEAS FOR SUCCESSFUL RETIREMENT

NURSING HOMES

The care and feeding of a parent or grandparent who is not self-sufficient sometimes forces important decisions. The sharing of responsibility works well for a time. Trouble develops when too much responsibility falls to one individual because others have job demands, sickness or personal needs. At this point the nursing home comes into consideration.

There was a time when many Americans would become indignant at the idea of going—or sending—a relative to a nursing home, but this was back when nursing homes were not the modern and professional institutions most of them are today. In most parts of the country, quality care for residents is virtually assured because the institutions operate under a variety of federal, state and self-imposed regulations.

The future of these regulations and the maintenance of a high standard of quality in nursing home operations are concerns in some areas. The federal government is apparently planning to rewrite or eliminate many federal nursing home regulations. Under the leadership of Vice President George Bush, the federal Task Force for Regulatory Reform is considering several plans for deregulation. The announcement of their plans and open hearings on the program are months away. Their proposals, and the hearings, are sure to attract the interest of senior citizens, especially those who are now or may soon be nursing home residents—as well as the industry, whose continued growth may well depend upon its ability to regulate itself.

"Messiah" To Be PJC Feature

The 35-member Texas Little Symphony, which is the core of the Fort Worth Symphony Orchestra, will perform with the Paris Junior College Chorale in presenting the "Messiah" on Sunday, December 6, said Richard Benefield, PJC's vocal music director who will conduct the performance. Tickets, priced at $3.50, are on sale in the College Store at PJC and Belew Music Co. The performance is set for 3 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Paris.

Styled after the small classical orchestras of Mozart's time, the Texas Little Symphony is recognized as one of the leading musical ensembles of its type in the United States, Benefield said. The group, which was founded in 1976 by John Giordana, music director and conductor of the Fort Worth Symphony, made its New York debut only four years later in 1980 by inaugurating a series of international chamber orchestra concerts in Carnegie Hall.

The full-time, permanent core of the Fort Worth orchestra was asked to play Carnegie Hall in 1977, just one year after the group's inception as a separate entity from the full orchestra. After hearing the little symphony play at the 1977 Van Cliburn Piano Competition, Julius Bloom, then executive director of Carnegie Hall, suggested that the group be invited to play there. Texas Little Symphony was one of two American orchestras asked to appear that year, and the performance marked the first by a Texas orchestra in about 10 years.

The quality of the reviews received by the symphony performance at Carnegie Hall gave the orchestra a "great deal of credibility" and made people realize that Fort Worth "is respected not only for our visual arts(museums like the Kimbell) but also on an artistic performance level," said Conductor Giordano. Just back from its first international tour, the Texas Little Symphony performed in Guadalajara and Puerto Vallarta, Jalisco, Mexico, on October 30, November 1 and 2. The tour was planned and scheduled under the auspices of the Texas Cultural Alliance, based in Austin, the Departments of Fine Arts and Tourism of the State of Jalisco, Mexico. The symphony will undertake its second international tour in the spring of 1982, when it travels to the People's Republic of China by special invitation of the country's Ministry of Culture. The "Messiah" performance in Paris will include the Chorale, some community voices, the Texas Little Symphony, and four guest soloists, Benefield said. Written by George Frederick Handel, "Messiah" is one of the "great masterpieces of all time," the music director noted, and the Paris performance will be very close to the authentic 18th Century version. The performance is made possible by grants from the Texas Commission on the Arts and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency.

GARDEN Japanese Plum Bears Fruits During Winter

Rare indeed is the plant that will flower and bear fruit in the depths of winter, but such is the Japanese Plum or loquat. Native to China and Japan, the plant is adaptable to areas of the South and Southwest.

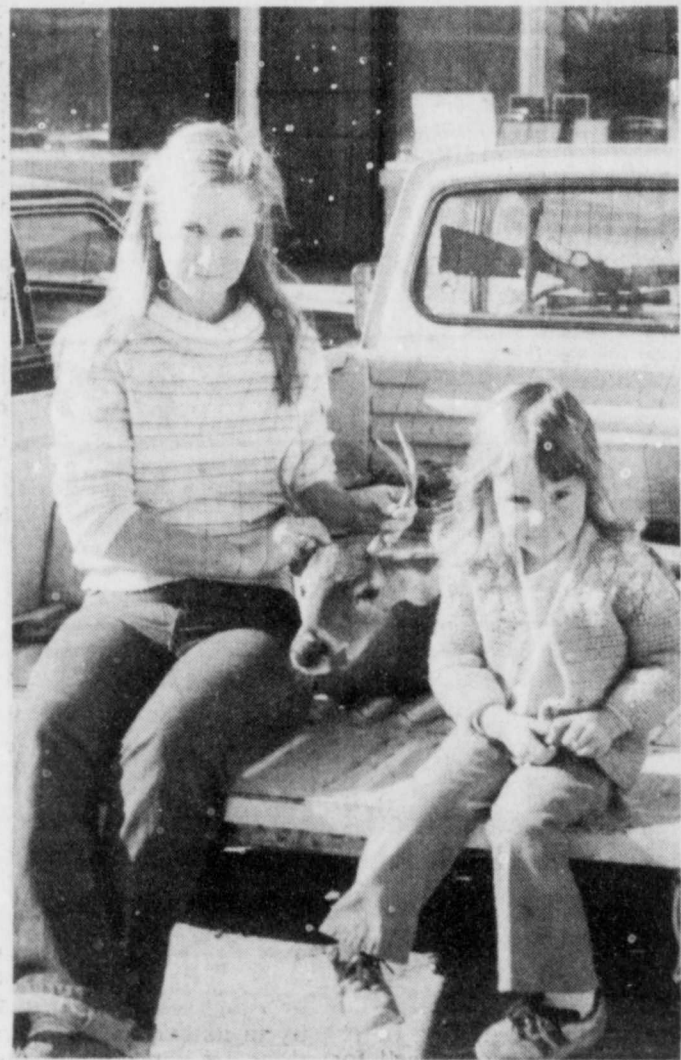

This handsome evergreen tree sports a foilage of dark, glossy-green leaves that may be 6-12 inches long and 3-6 inches broad. Flowers are yellowish, emerge in late autumn or winter as woolly clusters and are followed by plum-sized, edible fruit which ripens in early spring.

Propagation is by seed or layering in ordinary garden soil in half-shade to sunny locations. Regular watering may be required, but the Japanese plum will thrive in the humid winter atmosphere.

ly make their growth during winter and go dormant during the summer. However, if potted in cool greenhouse locations, they may bloom in late summer. Interesting and artistic flowers emerge from tall stems in the fall and are followed by Amaryllis-like foliage, which remains green throughout winter.

Interesting and artistic flowers emerge from tall stems in the fall and are followed by Amaryllis-like foliage, which remains green throughout winter. Grants Approved For Senior Citizens

Lamar County Judge Brady Fisher has announced that the Ark-Tex Council of Governments Executive Committee has approved two grants for the benefit of senior citizens through the Lamar County Human Resources Council.

Fisher, a member of the ATCOG Executive Committee and the Area Agency on Aging, said that one grant provides $68,697 in Federal funds for the continuation of HRC's nutrition program, and the other grant provides $30,811 in Federal funds for the continuation of programs for transportation, outreach escort, telephone reassurance, residential repair, and senior citizens facilities.

The grants were approved at the ATCOG Executive Committee's regular monthly meeting held recently in Mt. Pleasant, according to Fisher.

Gary O'Conner, HRC past president, made the presentation on behalf of the programs.

Agricultural Update

Commercial peach producers should spray their trees with Kocide 101 when about 75 percent of the leaves have fallen or when the leaves can be stripped off easily and with the hand, says Dr. George Philley, plant pathologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. This is not a 100 percent cure-all, but will help in the control of bacterial leaf spot, Coryneum blight, peach leaf curl and bacterial canker. Dr. James Robinson, Extension entomologist, says that peach producers are running out of time for applying PDB crystals around peach trees for peach tree borer control. This treatment should be made within the next few days if possible. Robinson also says that producers who are storing grain on the farm should inspect the grain for weevils and other stored grain insects. If more than one weevil is found per quart of grain, the infestation is great enough to warrant treatment in most instances

Texas Earns Top Spot In Business Magazine

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said it's no accident that Texas earned the top spot in the nation in a Boston business magazine's survey of states to locate small businesses.

Bullock said the October issue of INC Magazine rated Texas as the number one overall place to run a small company. "The healthy attitude Texas takes toward small business is a conscious policy which has been and must be tended to carefully at every level of government and economic life," Bullock said. "If any state could be pegged as Number 1 overall as a place to run a small company, Texas would be the one," the magazine reported. Texas made the top 10 in labor, taxes and capital resources; more tip rankings than any other state, according to the magazine. Bullock said the magazine singled out Texas in taxes because the state has low debt per capita and the lowest employer unemployment contribution rate. The magazine concluded that in the area of taxes the most important feature of the state was the absence of a corporate or personal income tax. Tax rates are the most important factor in a state's business climate, Bullock said, and it's hardly any surprise that the state did so well. The magazine assigned each state a letter grade from A through F, with the rankings showing 10-A's, 18-B's, 11-C's, 6-D's and 5-F's.

HOW TO READ YOUR ELECTRIC METER

Reducing energy consumption can result in lower utility bills. If you'd like to see exactly how many kilowatt hours you have saved through your energy saving steps, you can easily monitor your electric meter, keeping weekly or monthly records.

Begin with the dial on your left, choosing the number the indicator has just passed. In the illustration, subtract the previous reading "88543" from the present reading "89018" to get the kilowatt hour usage. Be sure to record the dates the readings are taken, since the reading is good only for measuring kilowatt usage for the number of days between readings.

FHA's Learn About Birth Defects

"Healthy Babies: Chance or Choice" was the theme of the program for the November meeting of the Rivercrest Future Homemakers of America. This is a national project of FHA in cooperation with March of Dimes. A letter to teen-agers written by Mrs. Helen Layne of Tyler, grandmother of Brandi - a 1981 March of Dimes poster child, was read by advisor Mrs. Bonnie Gage. Mrs. Layne told the group about the serious and heart-breaking birth defects which Brandi - now five years old, has suffered probably as a result of her mother's addiction to drugs during pregnancy. She closed her letter with this plea to teens, you have just heard the story of a child who was born less than perfect, who has not had all the advantages that some of us have. She did not make the decision of whether to smoke pot or mainline heroin, and yet she has suffered because someone else made that decision, without considering the consequences. I'm not telling you that all birth defects are caused by drug abuse, or even that Brandi's problems were caused by drug abuse. But in my opinion the chance is just too risky to take.

Natural gas has no smell... SO WE ODORIZE IT!

Most natural gas has no odor at all. The gas we deliver to your home or business DOES have an odor, because we put one into it. A harmless chemical odorant we've added as a safety precaution to help you detect its presence if there should be a leak.

If you smell gas, and the odor is light, check your appliances.

- If the odor is strong and persistent: 1. Do not turn on any lights, electric switches or appliances. 2. Ventilate your home by opening doors and windows. 3. Call Arkla Gas immediately. 4. Turn off the gas valve located at your meter.

Natural gas has a better safety record than any other form of energy. Please help us keep it that way. ARKLA GAS
