Rodeo Activities Begin Today In Bogata

By Nanalee Nichols
The blackberries are just about ripe. The brambles are loaded down with clusters of berries ranging from ruby red to that deep black, touched with purple that means the choice morsel is ready to eat.

Picking blackberries, as most people know, isn't an easy chore. There are hazards connected to picking these succulent products of nature.

They include: snakes hidden deep within the confines of the berry patch; chiggers, lurking to nibble on those careless enough not to "dip" themselves in insect repellent; ticks, dangling happily on the vines just ready to hop a ride on the unwary human; hot, humid weather to pick berries in; usually no shade; likewise no breeze; and last, but most certainly not least, the fact that blackberries themselves are armed with the darndest collection of tangled vines covered in sharp, hooked thorns!

So why do east Texans swarm to pick them so? Why do we brave the heat, the bugs and the brambles for a few gallons of blackberries?

One of the main reasons is that they are GOOD! Nothing is much better than a blackberry cobbler with a crisp golden brown crust.

And blackberry jelly is the finest of all.

But I think there is another reason, too. It has to do with the fact that they are one of nature's free blessings. They grow profusely most everywhere. They ripen and mature without the benefit of mankind at all. And then, there they are, lush and ready for us to take advantage of.

So many things provided by nature can't be found anymore. So many things are so expensive now.

But blackberries are one of the finest things nature provided us with, and they are still available in abundance. The price we pay, a few insect bites, a scratch or two, is small compared to the feeling of satisfaction that we have not wasted such a delightful gift!

Cable Company To Rebuild

The stockholders of Arena Cablevision Corporation approved a rebuild of their CATV systems in Reno, Blossom, Detroit, Bogata and Deport, in order to give a high quality and dependable picture and has engaged WED Co. Cable TV Construction to rebuild and handle the engineering of these systems.

A sincere effort is being made by the company in taking this action, according to manager Don Hathorne, to provide true quality cable television to customers of Arena.

DEADLINE

For News and Advertising Tuesday At Noon

Activities begin today, (Thursday), for the Bogata Rodeo Association, as the curtain goes up on the first performance of the annual Bogata Rodeo.

First on the agenda of activities is the downtown parade, scheduled for 5:00 p.m. through the downtown area.

A special appearance by the Sunshine Girls from Canton, Texas will enhance the rodeo performances on Thursday and Friday nights. The group of talented horsewomen have made numerous appearances at rodeos in the area, plus have competed in the Pasadena Drill Team Finals in Pasadena, California, and rode away with top honors for group performances as well as individual national titles. The group is gifted with the participation of Shelley Bridwell, a nine year old youngster whose mount has captured World Champion Drill Team Horse, along with top honors garnered by his rider. The vibrant horseback group does routines to such selections as "Cotton Eyed Joe", "Tumbling Tumbleweeds" and other country-western favorites. For the crowd's entertainment, a specialty act of trick riding and roping will be premiered at the Bogata rodeo by Brother and Vicki Taylor of Wimberly. 1983 will mark their initial year in Bogata for the Frontier Day Rodeo.

An excess of 250 cowboys and cowgirls have entered the rodeo competition in the six major championship events for the rodeo.

Among contestants entered are Kelly Allred Ray of Lavaca, Arkansas, who is currently seeking her fourth consecutive C.S.R.A. championship in cowgirl's barrel racing. Kelly is the 1982 Arkansas Barrel Racing Champion, and has made numerous appearances at the regional finals across the country.

Carolyn Rose of McAlester, Oklahoma, the 1979 C.S.R.A. barrel racing champion is also entered in competition. Carolyn leads the 1983 standings for the championship in the barrel racing event. She will be trying to retain her lead throughout the rodeo season to receive the championship saddle and buckle at the end of the year. Bogata's Gary Hiner is entered in the bull riding event for the 1983 rodeo. Hiner is the 1981 C.S.R.A. bull riding champion and has captured the Finals average championship three consecutive years. He currently leads for the 1983 bull riding championship again this year.

Though the crowd will be watching the contestants entered in the rodeo, they should also note the livestock, celebrated across the United States, which is owned by Bogata's own Jerald and Joan Smith.

Bucking bulls that have proven their prowess again and again in rodeo competition will be at their peak for the 1983 version of the Bogata Rodeo.K-Bob, bull No. 4, who withstood an unclaimed bounty during the 1982 rodeo season in the Central States Rodeo Association, upheld his record of being unriden through last week of rodeo competition in Durant, Oklahoma where he unseated both contestants drawn to him at the rodeo. He has been phrased "dynamite in a small package" by many, and has been classified as "unrideable" by the cowboys who have tried to stay aboard for the full eight seconds.

Mr. Pibb, bull No. 103, is another bull that has been unriden to date in 1983, along with No. 10, Pole Cat, whose size is awesome, also remain unconquered.

Bareback horses and saddle bronc horses as No. 20, Fiddler, and AL, First Chance, 1982 Bucking Horse of the Year, will make return engagements to the Bogata arena. No total figures have ever been documented as to the amount of money won on these two horses alone, but it would go upwards of $30,000 each.

Doug Williams, announcer from Idabel, Oklahoma will make his 26th appearance before the spectators at Bogata in 1983. Williams was presented a plaque in appreciation for his service to the Bogata Rodeo Association during the final performance of the 1982 rodeo. He has been selected to announce rodeo Finals in Oklahoma and Texas repeatedly and is heralded as the best in his field.

Casey Jeffery, Bogata native, a professional bullfighter, is scheduled to perform at the rodeo this year. However, due to a previous injury suffered earlier in the arena this year, he may not be able to perform to capacity. Jeffery has been a professional rodeo clown for three years and his injury this spring was the first major injury he has received.

Rodeo performances will begin at 8:30 each night.

Queen Contestants Judged By Horsemanship, Personality

There is more to being a rodeo queen than just looking pretty, as the stiff requirements for the Bogata Rodeo Association's queen will attest to. The candidates for the 1983 Rodeo Queen will be put through their paces all during the week of the rodeo, being judged on personality, appearance and horsemanship.

Queen candidates will ride in the parade on Thursday afternoon at 5 p.m. and will participate in the Grand Entry at the rodeo each night as a group.

The horsemanship competition will be held Saturday morning at 8 a.m.

at the rodeo arena with the public cordially invited to attend. That afternoon at 2 p.m., the personality phase of the competition will be held at Mrs. Sammy Woodall's home.

Three qualified judges that live away from this area have been selected for this year's competition.

The 1983 rodeo queen will receive $100.00, a charm, flowers, banner and the privilege to wear the queen crown for one year.

The first runner-up will receive $50.00 and a charm.

The queen crowning will take place Saturday night at the rodeo, with the assistance of last year's queen, Darlene Brooks.

Blackmon Bankruptcy Action Affects Area

businessmen, banks and John Deere Corporation, leaving a number of farmers with financial difficulties, and a legal tangle that rivals even the best of movie plots!

JERRY JONES, President and Chief Executive Officer of the Talco State Bank has announced the election of Jo Anschutz to Assistant Cashier. Mrs. Anschutz has served the bank for seven years and worked as teller, proof operator and head bookkeeper.

Her new duties will include the supervision of the bookkeeping department. Joe is married to Tony Anschutz who is employed with Texas Utilities Generating Company. They have two children, Marc 16 and Kelly, 15. (Staff Photo)

Blackmon Bankruptcy Action Affects Area

After several weeks of speculation and rumors concerning exactly what was happening concerning the closing of Blackmon Machinery Company on May 16, it seems that a number of facts have begun to emerge.

That the figures involved in multiple loans and mortgages related to the businesses of Eddie Blackmon, Jr. will reach into the multi-million dollar range seems certain, according to parties involved.

Blackmon's John Deere dealerships, both in DeKalb and Clarksville, were closed on May 16 apparently because of inventory investigations by John Deere Corporation and financial inquiries by area banks. Blackmon filed for bankruptcy during the week of June 6 on the implement business, Blackmon Farms, Inc. and Western Sports, Inc.

After the business closed reports of missing machinery from the inventory, including several expensive combines, valued at $70,000 to $80,000 each, totaled around 19 pieces.

A number of area banks have discovered that equipment had as many as five liens upon a single piece of equipment, with the transactions filed in different counties.

Since there is only a serial number on farm equipment, no titles exist, and the sale will be registered only in county records, which made such multiple liens difficult to "catch".

It appears that there may even have been fictitious serial numbers presented as collateral basis for loans on implements from Blackmon Machinery.

A number of farmers and ranchers having purchased equipment from Blackmon Equipment have now found they have dubious legal claim to the expensive items, or no machinery, yet a loan payment to make.

An area banker stated that among some of the transactions that were irregular were: loans secured on a piece of equipment from more than one bank, each loan in a different county. Cooperation of a secondary purchaser would be necessary in such a transaction; fictitious serial numbers presented for a loan on equipment which did not exist, or exists in another state. An innocent customer would be given the serial number by a dealer in this situation, with the dealer leaving the impression that the equipment would be held with the dealer until a specified date.

A piece of farm equipment could be released for use of the farmer, but would not be removed from inventory records. Then, during maintenance on the vehicle, it would be cleaned, and left on the lot of the dealership to be counted by John Deere officials as a part of the inventory inspection.

A number of other methods of fraud apparently exist, although are not provable.

John Deere has filed suit against some of the "third party" farmers for right of possession, according to sources.

The "mess" is tremendous, and will obviously take months, and probably years to straighten out.

Banks in both Texas and Arkansas are apparently involved in loans and mortgages concerning Blackmon's personal and business transactions.

DeKalb, New Boston, Lone Star, Mt. Pleasant, Texarkana, Clarksville and Bogata were listed among them.

The First National Bank of Deport holds a 1983 wheat crop for cash flow collateral on Blackmon's personal loans, and has asked for confirmation of possession of a backhoe tractor. So far, the piece of equipment has not been confirmed as the one pledged as loan collateral.

The impact of the bankruptcy, double and triple mortgages and other problems, will apparently affect farmers,

Letter To The Editor:
 We Kincaids in North Carolina would like to hear from the families of two Kincaid men who lived in the Paris area in the 1920's. Their father, Pink Kincaid and his brother, both raised in North Carolina, went to Texas after the Civil War, probably about 1870.
 Pink Kincaid's niece, Mrs. Willie Kincaid Jones of Ft. Worth wrote a couple letters to my grandfather shortly before his death in 1924. My grandfather was also named Pink Kincaid, not the same Pink.

BANK CENTS
By Neil Rozell

In the simplest case, a business with established credit standing with his bank, needing ready funds in the amount, of say, $10,000.00, borrows from the bank by tendering his promissory note as evidence of the debt. The bank acquires an income-yielding asset, and the businessman asks that the loan be credited to his account. Assuming that the bank has adequate reserves to meet its legal reserve requirements, the banks' customer has an addition to his checking account and the bank has acquired a new earning asset.

C.S.R.A. Approves Rodeo Contest In Bogata

The Central States Rodeo Association is the largest regional pro rodeo association in the country, serving contestants and rodeos in seven states, Oklahoma, Kansas, Texas, Arkansas, Missouri, Nebraska and Louisiana.

In the last six years, Central States Rodeo Association has proven to be one of the most innovative rodeo associations in America. It has pioneered the first successful regional central entering system for contestants, as well as sanctioned jackpot rodeos and free rodeo clinics. In addition to innovation, Central States is known for its service to the rodeo industry. The association does its best to serve all areas of rodeo, including the contestants, rodeo committees, producers and sponsors and rodeo fans.

The association was formed in 1976 to serve the needs of cowboys and cowgirls in this region. Before the energy crisis of the mid-1970's, cowboys normally traveled throughout the country each year to compete at rodeos. But when fuel prices began to rise, they were forced to travel closer to home.

The C.S.R.A. was ideal to meet those needs. The association became an ideal choice for cowboys hardest hit by high fuel prices. From Tulsa, the geographic center of the association, there is no sanctioned rodeo more than 500 miles away.

With a membership in C.S.R.A., rodeo contestants are able to hold a full time job and still compete for top honors on the rodeo circuit. If the cowboy is a full time contestant, he is able to attend several rodeos during the week.

For a group that holds a C.S.R.A. rodeo, the association can attend to the needs of that rodeo better than a large national association could. The C.S.R.A. believes there is no such thing as a "little" rodeo in the Central States region.

The association has grown greatly since the association was formed. There were 57 rodeos in 1977, 87 in 1982 and in 1983 there will be more than 125. The total payoff to the cowboys and cowgirls in that first year was $271,419. In 1982 the total payoff was $769,843 and the association expects to break the $1 million mark this year. More than 4,200 persons have held active memberships in the association since it was formed.

The biggest rodeos of 1982 were at Seminole, Oklahoma, which paid out $29,469 and Tahlequah, Oklahoma which paid a total of $27,450.

Bull riders earned the most money in 1982, taking a total of $166,807.

Some CSRA cowboys and cowgirls who have their sights set on a national level leave after a few years to try their hand at the Professional Rodeo Cowboy's Association. And many of them do quite well.

For instance, Bobby DelVecchio won the CSRA bull riding title in 1979, and has twice finished runner-up to the bull riding championship in the PRCA. Butch Myers, CSRA finalist in 1979, has since won the steer wrestling event and finished as runner-up in his first three seasons in the PRCA.

Kathy Spears, who finished second in CSRA competition in 1981, won the rookie of the year award in the WPRCA in 1982. Two other Central States Alumnae, steer wrestlers Gary Green and Joel Edmondson, also appeared at the NFR in 1982.

But not all the top cowboys and cowgirls go on to the PRCA. Some of the best in the world remain in the Central States Rodeo Association.

Bareback rider Jim Martin, of Canadian, Texas is an example. Since the association was formed, Martin has either won or finished runner-up to the bareback championship each year. In six years, he has won the title four times.

Another four-time winner is Paul Lee Foreman of Barnsdall, Okla. The team roper was the first to win a C.S.R.A. season event title three times in a row. That record was tied this year by Kelly Allred Ray of Lavaca, Ark., when she won her third straight barrel racing title. She has won more than $24,000 in C.S.R.A. competition.

Jimmy Crowther of Gypsum, Kansas, became the first person in C.S.R.A. history to win back-to-back All-Around titles in 1982. Crowther, who is also one of the top stock contractors in the region, has won the bull riding title three times in the past six years.

Another C.S.R.A. bull rider, Gary Hiner of Cuthand, Texas, has set some records of his own. Along with winning the season title in 1980, he has won the Finals average title the last three years. During the 1981 Finals, he twice rode bulls for a score of 89, a C.S.R.A. record.

Here's Some Tips On Pro Rodeo

One of the foremost thoughts of a first-time rodeo spectator is wondering just what is going on down there in the arena.

It's easy to tell if a cowboy makes the whistle in a riding event or takes all day in a timed event—but why are some cowboys that make the tooter given a no score and how come some ropers were fined ten seconds and others weren't.

Well, each event has its own set of rules. These rules are made by the contestants themselves and usually serve two purposes: make it harder on the cowboy; easier on the livestock.

In the horse riding events, the rider is required to spur his horse out of the chute. This means that his spurs must be touching the horse somewhere ahead of the shoulder slope the first time his mount touches the arena floor with his front feet. Miss one out and the no score is automatic. If the judge turns away from the rider right there in front of the chute, he's usually writing down a zero for violation of this rule. A hand can make a perfect ride on an impossible horse and still get a "goose egg" for missing the horse out.

In all riding events, the cowboy is required to keep one hand free and in the air at all times. If he so much as touches his mount with his free hand he is given a no score. This infraction is most common in the bull riding.

How come one cowboy rode a rank horse and another rode one my kid sister could ride and still scored higher? Easy, cowboys are judged on how well they ride, usually meaning where and how much they spur their mount. The animal and the rider are marked separately and the total is what counts. Thus, a poor ride on an outstanding bucking animal will usually not beat a good riding on an average animal.

All other timed events are conducted behind a barrier. The barrier gives the calf or steer a head start and leaving the box too soon costs the contestant 10 seconds for a broken barrier.

A calf roper can catch his calf any way he can make the rope fit but a team roper must catch his steer around the neck or horns before the heel catch may be made.

A steer wrestler is simply required to throw his steer so that he is on his side with all four feet clear from under him. He must be touching his steer when he is flagged by the field judge.

15 started Rodeo Association in '48

The Bogata Rodeo Association was established at the 1948 meeting in Rosalie and after a cattle show in 1949, the first association's first rodeo was held on Aug. 17, 18 and 19, 1950 at Bogata. Stock for the initial rodeo was provided by Ramsay's Ranch of DeKalb.

There were approximately 15 charter members of the Bogata association, with the four surviving members being Hale, Gibson, Jessie Gray and Steve Biggerstaff. There are currently 70 members of the Bogata Rodeo Association. The group holds monthly meetings throughout the year and will begin plans for the 1983 performances immediately after this year's rodeo is concluded.

"They are a busy bunch of hardworking men who go to a great deal of trouble to have the great rodeos you have in Bogata each and every year," a spokesman says.

Although reports give no estimate on the crowd at the 1950 rodeo, it was stated that the "grandstands were full and overflowing."

Those 1950 performances were held at 8:30 p.m. and were lighted by 14 large electric lamps of 1500-watt capacity.

June 6, 1952—The rodeo was held June 12-13. M.N. Whitten of Idabel furnished a string of horses.

BARREL RACING is one of the major contest events for the Bogata Rodeo in 1983. Here Cindy Hiner, Cuthand, Texas, turns the second barrel in C.S.R.A. competition during the Longview, Texas rodeo.

GARY HINER of Cuthand, Texas, marks 89 points on this ride during the 1982 Central States Rodeo Association

Finals in Tulsa, November, 1982. Hiner rode four of four to capture his third consecutive Finals average championships, marking 89 points twice during the week's competition, placing in three of the four go-rounds of competition.

Rodeo Remembrances....

June 8, 1956—The rodeo was labeled "entertaining" by the media. Pete Belcher won first in the bronc riding and Pop Bivins won third. Alice Ann Mitchell won first in the ladies barrel racing.

June 5, 1959—June 25-26-27 were dates for the rodeo. Clyde Crenshaw again furnished the stock. Seating capacity at the arena was increased by about 50 percent. Sam Barnard was the president, R.L. Fennell was vice-president and Billy Allen Legate was secretary.

May 18, 1956—The rodeo opened May 31-June 2 with Lester Davis providing livestock.

May 7, 1954—The board voted to add $5 to the ladies flag race each night of the rodeo.

June 3, 1955—The rodeo was held for three days. Admission was $1 for adults and $.50 for children. Lester Davis of Tishomingo, Okla. provided the stock, as in 1954.

May 30, 1963—Eliminations for junior barrel racing were to be held June 13-14-15 at 7:30 each day. Boys and girls 12 and under were eligible to try out. Six riders were picked to participate in the rodeo, according to George Marshall, president of the rodeo association.

DARLENE BROOKS, age 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Brooks of Johtown is the 1982 Bogata Rodeo Queen. She will relinquish her title to the incoming queen at the Saturday performance of the rodeo. (Staff Photo)

Courageous clowns

If the desire to ride bulls is mystifying for the average rodeo spectator, the occupation of a rodeo clown must appear to be downright suicidal.

To a bull rider, the clown is one of the most important men in the world.

When a bull rider leaves a bull — intentionally or not — only the clown is there to keep the bull from hooking, butting or running over the fallen rider.

Most bulls don't lower their head and charge. They will keep their eyes glued to a fallen or scrambling cowboy and they can move with lightning speed.

They can hook and butt and they don't seem a bit concerned about where they put their feet. A rodeo clown may often have to slap a bull around the head to get him to turn his attention away from a fallen rider.

Whatever their specialty, most bullfighting clowns have contested in rodeo and are hooked on the sport. Along with cowboys, they share in the emphasis the sport places on freedom.

They would rather lead a tough life than trade one bit of freedom.

Remember?

July 3, 1959—184 horses were participants in the rodeo parade. W.J. Corbell led the parade. Neil Rozell, N.A. Gibson and Pete Storey were standard bearers.

Thursday, June 23 Is annual Hub Whiteman Night At Bogata Rodeo

Whiteman was one of the most popular and prominent cowboys in the business.

Whiteman started his rodeo career in 1929, after a spell with the 101 Ranch Wild West Show.

He won recognition as an all-around cowboy and a top flight bronc rider. He rode three of the toughest bucking horses in rodeo history, "Midnight", "Five Minutes 'Til Midnight", and "Hell's Angels".

For several years, Whiteman was one of the biggest winners in rodeo and one year, at the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show Rodeo, he won both the bronc riding and bulldogging awards.

He was the world's champion bulldogger in 1941 and went into the Army soon afterwards, serving in the European Theatre during World War II. After the war, he returned to rodeo activity on a fulltime basis. After his active contestant career, he judged many of the largest rodeos.

In 1936, he was one of the organizers of the Cowboys Turtle Association, forerunner of today's Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association, and served on the Turtle's board of directors.

Thursday's opening performances of the Bogata Rodeo will be observed as the sixth annual Hub Whiteman Night, honoring the late champion rodeo performer from this area whose outstanding rodeo career spanned some three decades and won for him a niche in the sport's hall of fame.

Prior to his death on Sept. 1, 1977, Whiteman served on the board of directors of the Cowboy Hall of Fame's rodeo historical society.

On Thursday, June 23, 1977, the Bogata Rodeo Association honored Hub for his accomplishments and efforts to promote rodeoing nationally by presenting him with a plaque and by designating the first performance of the 1977 rodeo as

"Hub Whiteman Night."

On Jan. 28, 1978, Whiteman was inducted into the Central Texas Cowboy Hall of Fame, at Belton, posthumously.

More recently, he was posthumously inducted into the Rodeo Parade of Champions Hall (an area for world champion cowboys only) at Colorado Springs, Colo.

In Whiteman's memory, his widow, Mrs. Marie Whiteman, will award a $100 Savings Bond to a rodeo fan in attendance at the Thursday night opener, with the recipient to be chosen in a special drawing.

Cuthand's Gary Hiner set wind-up

There was no cowboy alive who could beat the streak Gary Hiner, of Cuthand, was on the last few months of 1981.

Although he wasn't in contention to repeat the bull riding championship he had won in Central States in 1980, it didn't keep him from competing better in the last three months of 1981 than ever before.

It began with "The World's Richest Bull Riding" at Billy Bob's honky-tonk in Fort Worth in October. Hiner was matched against the best bull riders in the world -- the ones from the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association.

Hiner scored more points than PRCA stars Donnie

Gay, Denny Flynn and Bobby DelVecchio to take the first prize and more than $20,000, the richest purse ever in bull riding.

Three weeks later Hiner came to the Central States Finals Rodeo with the same attitude. As a result, he came away with the best showing of any cowboy in the history of the Finals.

He won the Finals average, taking first in three of the four go-rounds. In two go-rounds he had record scores of 89 points.

Hiner finished the Finals with 341 points, 33 points more than his closest competitor, Dale Haraway of Oklahoma City.

His lowest score at the Finals was an 81 to take third place in the fourth go-round.

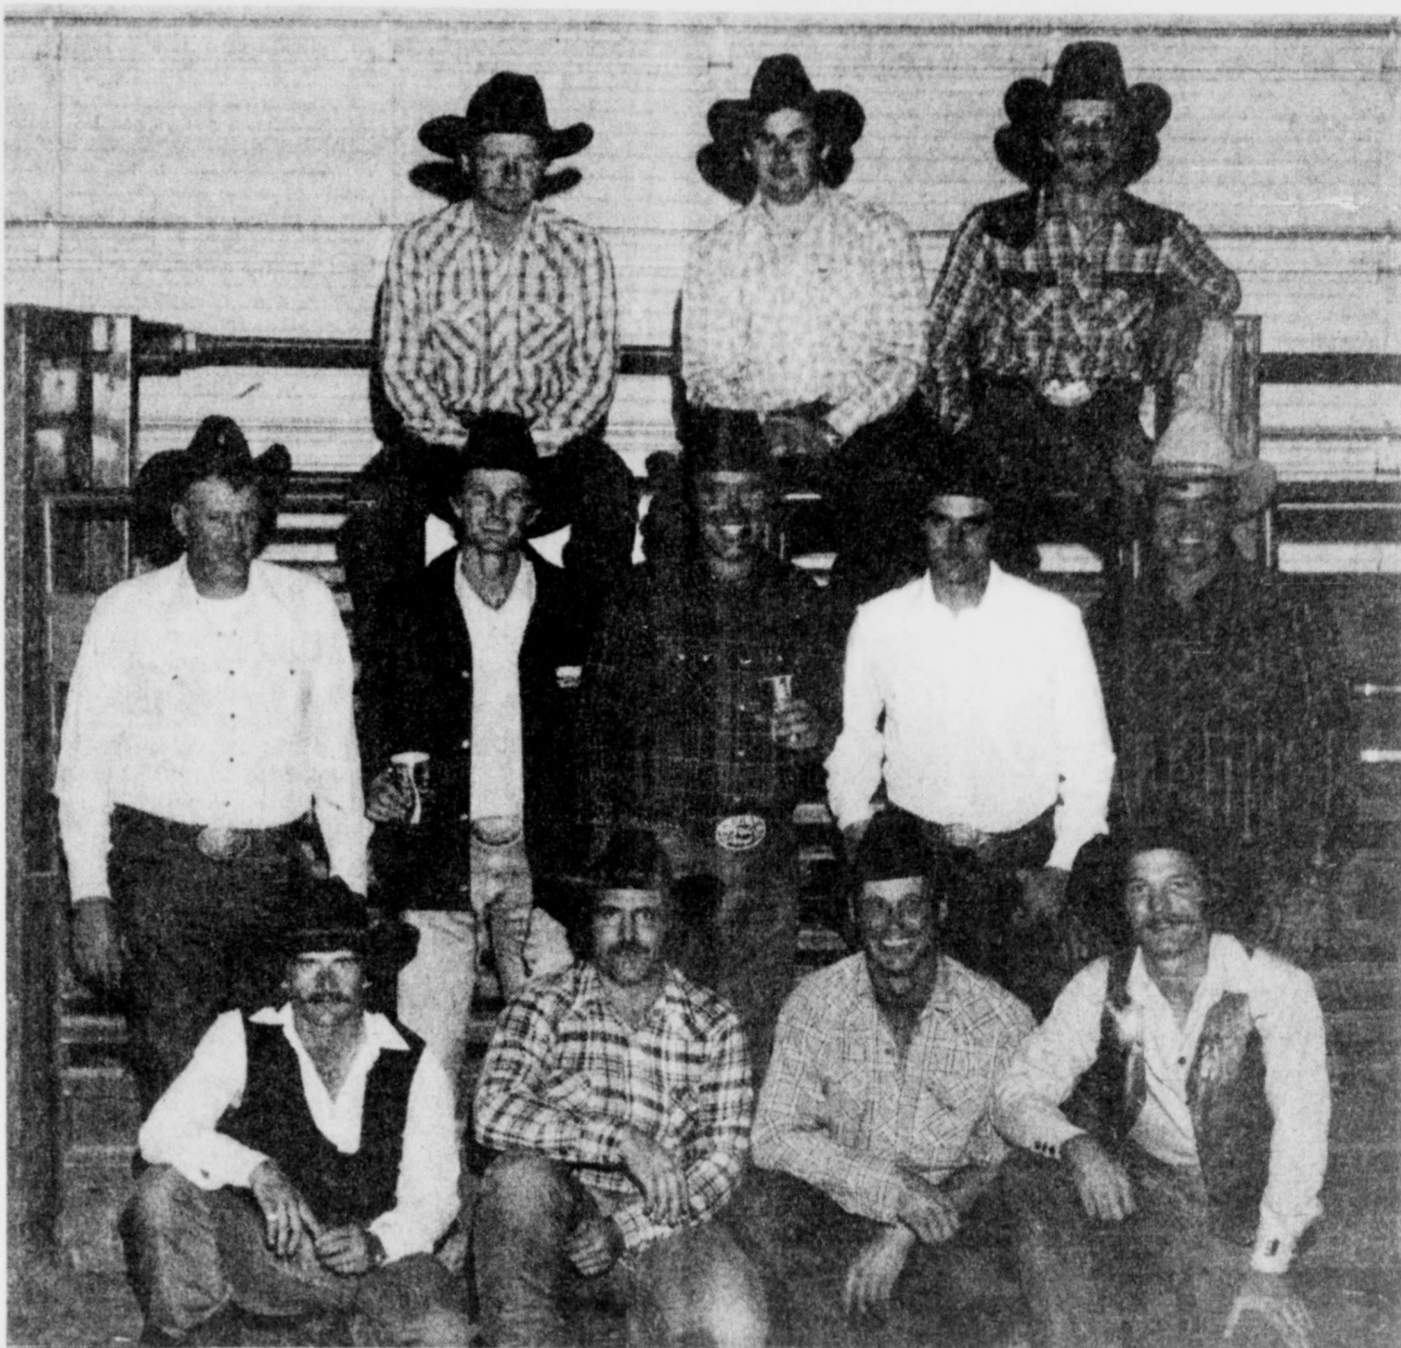

July 6, 1951—Sue Legate of Fulbright was crowned Tomato Queen by balloting done over the city in various ballot boxes. Jack Maddox won first in the calf roping the first night of the rodeo, Bobby Dickey won third in bronc riding and Ruth Wood won third in the ladies flag race. In the second performance, Jack Maddox won first again in the calf roping, Bennie Stevens won second and Slim Hulen won third. Bobby Dickey won second in bronc riding, Red Hulen won first in ladies flag race and Carabel Ward won third.

The princess-candidate selling the most advance tickets to the rodeo, at $3.00 each, will be crowned princess.

The winner will be announced at the Saturday night finals of the rodeo.

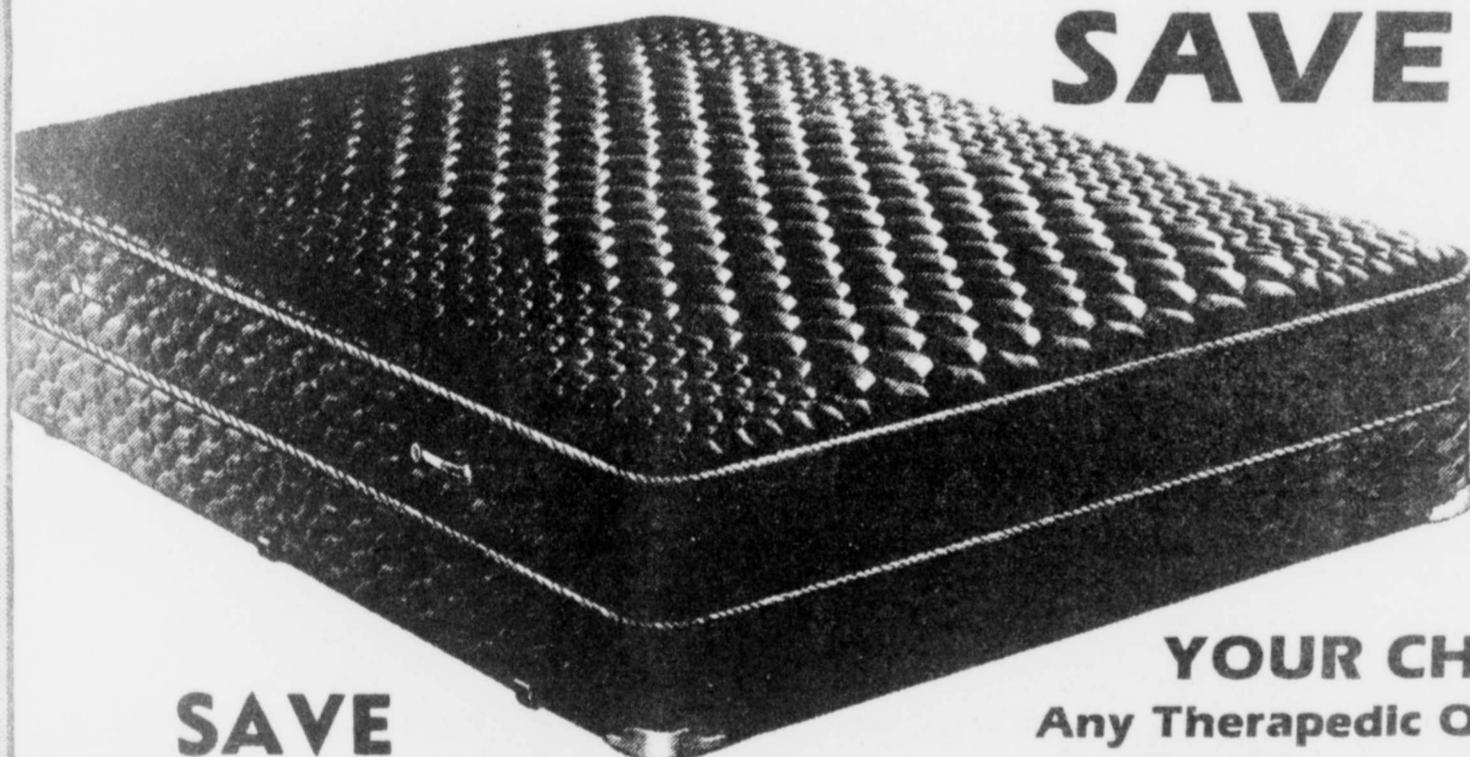

RED RIVER COUNTY was well represented for the CRA Finals in Sulphur Springs for the 1981 Finals. IRS Grants 30-Day Extension

The Internal Revenue Service recently said that it is granting to all payors of interest and dividend income an automatic 1-month extension of the requirement to withhold tax scheduled to begin July 1, 1983. The automatic 1-month extension is being granted to alleviate any undue hardship to payors.

The recent action is being taken in light of the June 16, 1983, Senate action to repeal the withholding provisions which were enacted by the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982. The IRS noted that there has been no final action concerning repeal. The Congress continues to consider expanded backup withholding and other compliance measures.

to mention here, but as I have said I grew up on a farm south of Deport in a small community called Lone Oak (not Lone Star) and there was always something going on there like the croquet court that the men and boys of the community got together and built. First they measured off the dimensions then they scraped it of all the weeds and grass and then smoothed it to where it was as smooth as could be then they went to the woods and cut them some logs all about the same size and peeled all the bark off and lined the court with the logs so they would not have to chase the ball all the time. They all pooled their money and bought a good set and then they were ready to start play. You would choose your partner and if you got beat you had to go to the end of the list before playing again. When it was pretty there was no line as nearly everyone was working in the fields, but when it rained you had to get there early or you had a long wait because nearly all of the men and boys were there when they were not in the fields. Times were hard and there were not too much to do. So, we had to find our own way of being entertained that did not cost very much, and the croquet court made the perfect place to spend your spare time and since the court was built on the grey land dirt that was packed as hard as it was, you could play on it in just a few minutes after a hard rain.

Some of the better players had their own mallets and they would let no one else use them. If you did not have one of your own, you had to use some of the ones that no one claimed. The croquet court was a great place for one to spend time even if you did not play croquet since you could see all of your friends there some time of the day.

It was real handy for me, as it was built just behind where my sister and her husband lived, and I could go to the courts when no one else was there.

Those were great times and we all enjoyed them, but I doubt that people would like to live those days over again for there was no work and no money, or very little, and to make any money your had to work hard and long hours in the fields.

This was about the same time that I thought that I was too big to go see my girl friend on a horse. I wanted me a car and would you know it, the battery went down on the Model-T and we had no money to buy a new one so it was parked under a big old tree with no battery for about six or seven months until Jack (My younger brother) had a big date. He put a box of soda in the battery and let it set over night. Then he put it in the car and that stupid thing cranked just like it had a new battery in it. I was really mad to think that was all that was needed to get that old car running again. That brought on a lot of arguments as Jack thought that he should have first chance at the car as he was the one to fix it and of course I did not see it that way. Dad had to settle a lot of fights between us. A lot of times he would settle the argument by taking Mother some where and Jack and I had to find us some other way to go to where ever we wanted to go.

Facts About Brucellosis, Quarantine

Here are basic facts of the size and scope of the Texas livestock industry: Texas has 15,000,000 head of cattle and calves; 6,265,000 are beef cows; 335,000 are milk cows; 480,000 are bulls; 1,100,000 are beef cow replacements.

There are 161,897 cattle herds in Texas. Texas is first in the nation in these categories: cattle and calf numbers; beef cow numbers; heifers over 500 pounds; cattle on feed. Texas exports about 2 million head of cattle and calves per year, mostly to these six states: California, Kansas, Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma. Cattle and calf receipts total more than $4 billion.

More than 98 percent of all cattle herds in Texas are free from brucellosis. On May 19, there were 2,184 herds under quarantine for brucellosis. Progress has been steady over the years in control of this disease. During the 1960's, herd infection rates averaged above 11 percent; today, the herd infection rate in this state is 1.33 percent.

The Texas brucellosis program allows for the state to be divided into a B and C area. The B area generally is in the western half of the state and contains 141 counties. The C area is in the eastern half of the state and contains 113 counties. Herds under quarantine in the B area total 168; herds in the C area under quarantine total 2,016. The goal of the Texas brucellosis program is for this state to achieve a B status and then advance to a Free state, which will provide for minimum restrictions of movement of cattle.

Vaccination and certified free herds are basic building blocks of the state's program. During fiscal year 1982 there were 877,637 calves vaccinated for brucellosis; this represents about one-third of the total calf crop.

There are now 778 certified brucellosis free herds in Texas. It is estimated that a federal quarantine will cost the Texas livestock industry from $80 to $130 million annually. A quarantine would impose severe shipping restrictions on cattle moved from Texas. Breeding cattle may be shipped out of state only from qualified herds. A qualified herd is one that must pass two negative herd tests for brucellosis 120 days apart. In addition, individual animals being shipped for breeding must be tested and found negative within 30 days of shipment. Animals shipped for slaughter must be "S" branded as animals exposed to the disease unless they are from a qualified herd. Those from qualified herds may be moved to slaughter if tested negative within 30 days before shipment and accompanied by a certificate showing test results. Exempt from all restrictions are neutered animals, steers and spayed heifers, over six months of age. A quarantine would mean a cutoff of most federal funds to help fight brucellosis. At the same time, federal support for herd testing and first point of concentration tests will terminate. All fee basis program work by private veterinary practitioners will be cancelled. Certified brucellosis free herds would have no status.

Fatal Motorcycle Accidents Increase

For the year 1982, 81 percent of the motorcyclists killed in traffic accidents in Texas were not wearing protective headgear. This was an increase of six percent over 1981.

State law governing the use of motorcycle helmets was revised, effective August 29, 1977, to permit motorcycle operators and passengers age 18 or over to ride without protective headgear. The fiscal year ending August 28, 1978, the first full year after the helmet law was revised, motorcyclists killed in traffic accidents in Texas jumped to 336 fatalities compared to 213 the previous year. From August 1981 through August 1982, there were 415 motorcyclists killed in traffic accidents in Texas. Ninety-eight of these people were wearing helmets, 213 were not wearing helmets, and it was unknown whether or not the remaining five were or were not wearing protective headgear. There is no doubt that in an accident, a motorcyclist's chances of avoiding death or serious injury are tremendously better if they are wearing protective headgear.

Small Town Sales Tax Shows No Increase

State Comptroller Bob Bullock recently sent checks totaling $43.8 million in local sales tax payments to 974 cities that levy the one-percent sales tax. "The cities who lean most heavily on oil and gas for their local receipts are still suffering, but the rest of the state is beginning to make up for the drops in revenue we saw earlier this year," Bullock said. So far this year, local sales tax cities have received $353.5 million, less than one percent behind the $354 million total paid by this time last year. Talco shows a 45.72 percent decrease over the same period last year, which in 1982 they received $1,515.04. Total 1983 payments to date equal $11,647.98. Bogata's total payments to date are $11,257.30, for a 14.16 percent increase over the 1982 total to date of $9,860.88. Blossom received $535.67 for their payment for the period to date, for a 15.43 percent increase over the same period last year. Deport's total payments to date are $3,452.74, showing a 14.60 percent increase over the payment last year of $3,012.79. The June checks were for taxes collected on sales made in April and reported to the Comptroller by the end of May.

Agricultural Briefs

Sunflowers are a doublecrop possibility for area farmers to use behind wheat. There are at least two markets for the 1983 crop and farmers are encouraged to check out this crop before marking it off. Stauer Seed Company was in the area in 1982 and made arrangements for a grower contract, and the crop was delivered to Greenville. Another market this year would be Interstate Seed Company. Bill Glover, company representative and Dan James of Terra Seed Company were in the country last week to discuss sunflower production and marketing. So it appears that both of these markets will be available this year. Most of the sunflower varieties available today are 90 to 95 day season varieties and were not around 10 years ago. In fact, most of today's varieties are the result of recent research work and have the ability to produce upwards of a ton per acre. A good even stand is the first step toward a profitable crop. Strive for a population of 19,000 to 20,000 plants per acre. A firm seedbed with adequate moisture at planting time is desirable. Do not exceed three inches in depth or wait for a rain if soil dries out after destroying wheat stubble. A potential problem in late planted sunflower is blackbirds. This could be avoided by planting an early maturing variety or by applying a harvest aide chemical which permits earlier harvest.

been, but God knows and over for us and him. You are all so wonderful always, in all ways. We love you, we
