Nichols Worth

By: Nanalee Nichols

Most everyone has a favorite or special Christmas memory, or memories in their mind, usually from childhood.

Christmas is a time for recalling the past, all the way back to the very first Christmas.

The earliest Christmas memory I can recall involves lying in front of a fireplace, and staring at the Christmas tree....how old I was, no one really knows, except that my Grandmother Jeffus had the only fireplace around, and swore she never had a fire in it after 1954!

But perhaps the happiest memory is of my grandmother Marshall and her sister, my great-aunt Pearl coming to visit for the holidays.

That memory is bitter sweet this year, because this is the first Christmas I've ever known without her.

But back when I was six or seven years old, the arrival of those two ladies was almost as exciting as Santa Claus to me!

They came from way up in Oklahoma, laden with presents, pictures of their latest trips, painting supplies (Aunt Pearl was a dedicated watercolorist) and neat little things like a wood duck feather they had found or a river stone polished in a rock polisher just for me.

They always had fascinating stories to tell, of how they were sent to gather the cattle on old Grey Eagle, a genuine Indian pony their dad had bought from an Oklahoma Territory brave. Or the time they sneaked off in their Sunday dresses to play in the creek instead of going to Sunday School. Naturally, they placed a rock on a snake's tail, got snake bit and ran screaming back to the house!

Grandmother Goldie told me nature tales and brought me books on fascinating places. Aunt Pearl gave me painting instructions and showed me her photos from her world travels. I stayed in seventh heaven the whole holiday!

Those memories will be with me forever, and as new ones are added each year, they still shine, fresh, sweet and happy!

"Life Between The Creeks"

By Ivy Smith

Today is my birthday, on a cold and blustery day on February 16, 1904, 74 years ago, I was born in a log cabin not over a quarter of a mile from where I now live. In those days it was not unusual to live in a house made of logs. They were warm and comfortable and cost practically nothing to build except hard work.

My father was of sturdy stock and seemed to enjoy hard work. He cut the logs, notched each one to fit into the other, bringing them together as close as possible. Then he made a mortar of clay with which he caulked every little crack. The top was covered with wood shingles, also hewn from the timber. Although we had only a dirt floor, my mother took pride in keeping her home spick and span. Her broom was made of gimpson weeds which she gathered from around the place, tying a number of them together they swept the floor and yard as clean as the best broom you could buy.

My mother's father, Bill Moore, was one of the first few settlers in this vicinity. He brought his family of ten to Titus County in 1885 and they bought several hundred acres of land which is now known as the Gieger property on the north side of what is now Talco city limits.

My grandpa Mankins located here a little earlier than that east of the present Talco townsite in the Gouldsboro, which had a post office and two stores.

The late W.H. Crawford was the first settler that is now within the Talco city limits and also one of the first men in Titus County to own an automobile.

I shall never forget the day he drove it home. By that time my parents had three children and were living at what is now known as Meadows Curve. Mr. Crawford came by our house and took us all for a ride in his bright and shining automobile. That was my first car ride and I thought it was the most wonderful thing that could ever happen to anyone.

Other pioneers here were the John Blackburns, the W.M. Kings, A.M. Giegers, G.C. Loveless's, Jim Moores, Ben Clarks and Jet Davis's.

A Look Back To Christmas, 1910

By Nanalee Nichols

We are all well acquainted with what Christmas means these days. But what was it like back in 1910? Most folks can't remember that far back. But a dig through the archives here at the papers came up with the 1910 edition of the paper, and we thought it might be interesting to take a peek into the past.

To begin with, Davenport and Franks, meat suppliers, wanted people to get their Christmas orders in the day before Christmas, and mentioned that temperatures were cold enough that the meat would keep overnight just fine.

A basket supper was being held in Bogata to benefit the orchestra at the school, and Thompson Drug Company in Deport wanted to do holiday Christmas picture framing.

For 25 cents, a "Great Excursion" was just in time for Christmas was available. The excursion was an illustrated lecture with life-like views thrown on canvas by a "Dissolving Machine". Dr. R.L. Mastin would present tours of Babylon, Jerusalem, the Dead Sea and the Jordan at the First Baptist Church.

Christmas gifting? Noble-Read Dry Goods in Deport published a suggestion list. For men they suggested linen and silk handkerchiefs, mufflers, tie pins, traveling cases, collar boxes, fancy vests and gloves.

For wife and mother (note it did not say for "women"), chinaware, knives and forks, carving sets, pillow covers, silver chests, hosiery and table linens. Perhaps wife or mother had no desire for something useful back then? For friends and sweethearts were listed Bibles, gold rings, cuff buttons and comb and brush sets.

Ads showed Santa Claus, looking only a little different, going down chimneys, and surprising wide-eyed youngsters...but few gifts were suggested for children other than candy and perhaps a wooden train set or doll.

Hints on cooking game such as wild birds, venison and squirrel were published, and it was mentioned that the correct "accompaniments" to game were fried crumbs, good gravy, fried potatoes and bread sauce.

There were articles on the high cost of living, and locals as to who visited whom throughout the area.

Ads dealt largely with such problems as non-functioning or bilious livers, stomach bitters, and various other ills. Ads for lumber yards and watch and jewelry sales were also common.

It was a slower time, and slightly less harried, but the threats of poor economics, war, and sickness hung over the people back then just as it does today.

The old papers point up basically that things really don't change that much...people stay the same, some good, some bad, some happier than others.

Then, as now, people in sorrow or trouble were rallied round. Then, as now, businesses solicited business. Then, as now, the papers wished all their readers a very MERRY CHRISTMAS and HAPPY NEW YEAR.

Rebs, Rebelettes Take Wins

By Diana Eudy

The Rivercrest Rebels met the Redwater Dragons in their first district contest Tuesday night in Jolntown. The Rebs took an easy victory 61-36.

Rivercrest gained first possession on the jump by Anthony Brown. They put the ball through the hoop for an outstanding nineteen points in the first period of play. Good defensive rebounding and stealing held the Dragons to two points for the entire quarter.

James Anderson scored eight of his team's fourteen points in the second period. Tony Jasso, Russell Rozell and Brad Anderson also contributed scores. The Dragons managed nine points in the second quarter. Rivercrest led at halftime 33-11.

Anthony Brown put through ten of his total 17 points in the third stanza. Good offensive rebounds and tip-ins were responsible for most of them. The Rebels stretched their lead to 51-16 at the end of the third quarter.

The Redwater team seemed to put things together in the final period but it was too late to make a difference. The Dragons scored twenty points to Rivercrest's ten but the Rebels substantial lead held for the victory.

Coach Wake Wood commented, "We're doing real good at times. We are looking for consistency. Tonight we looked smooth and back in the groove. I saw a lot of good things tonight. We have some tough games coming up this season. Ore City and New Diana are a couple of them. New Diana beat Ore City by two points tonight. This game tonight was our first district game."

Scoring for the Rebels were Anthony Brown with 17; James Anderson with 14; Tony Jasso with 12; Brad Anderson with 7; Russell Rozell with 6; and Bobby Thomas with 4.

The Rebels will travel to Leonard for their annual holiday tournament December 27, 28 and 29.

The Rivercrest Rebelettes had no trouble at all defeating the Redwater girls 62-13. Mary Jane Savage was top scorer with 14. Becky Brooks and Staci Griffin were also in double digits with ten each.

The Rebelettes hit for 16 points in the first period with Mary Jane Savage getting credit for ten of them. Redwater was coreless until thirteen seconds remained in the first quarter. Rivercrest led 16-2.

The Rebelettes popped the nett for 22 markers in the second period to Redwater's three. All of Redwater's points so far were on free throws. Rivercrest was on top 38-5.

With 4:51 remaining in the third quarter, Redwater scored their first two points from the floor, but the Rebelettes continued to dominate the contest throughout. The Rivercrest defense did an excellent job of rebounding and stealing the ball. The Rebelettes scored twelve points in the period to Redwater's six. The quarter score was 50-11, Rivercrest.

Rivercrest added twelve more in the final eight minutes. The Rebelettes took in layups with no opposition. They took the victory easily 62-13.

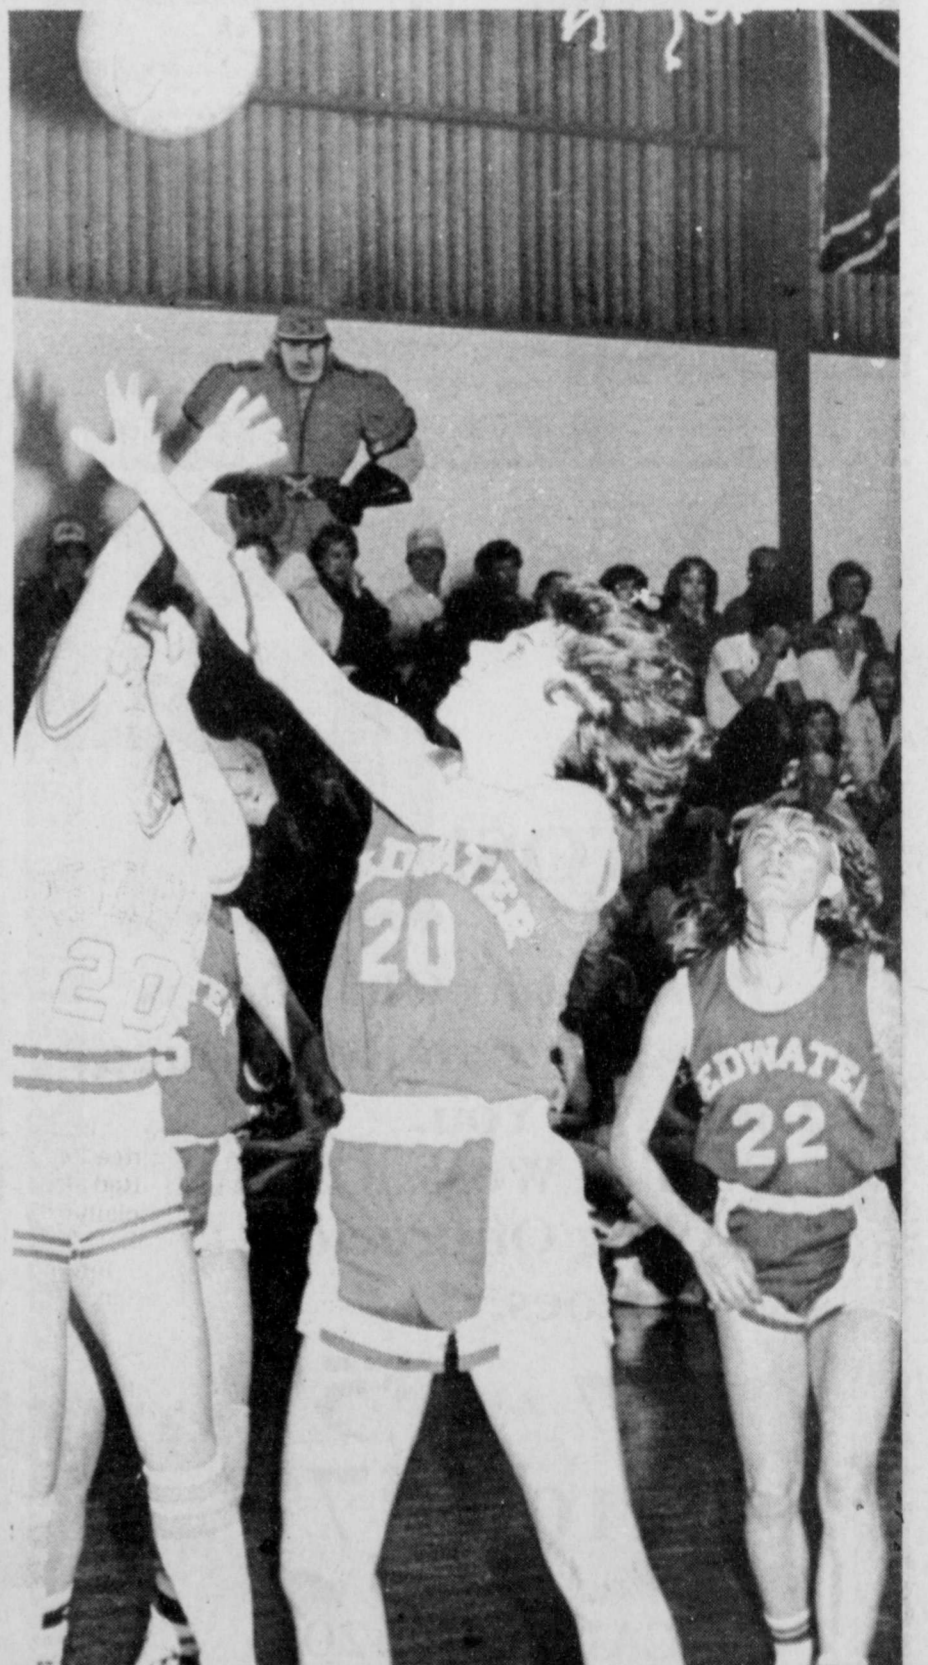

Coach Danny Buchanan said, "I'm proud of the girls. They are beginning to gel, to take time to work as a group. We have won our district games so far. Tonight's games allowed time for all to play and get experience. Karnack is the toughest team we have played so far. We have beaten them already this year. New Diana will also be a tough team."

Scoring for the Rebelettes were Mary Jane Savage with 14; Becky Brooks and Staci Griffin each with 10; Tricia Duffer, Donna Sessums and Kelly Anschutz each with six; Ranell Burns with four; and Amber Hood and Deanna Damron each with three.

The Rebelettes will compete in the Leonard Holiday Tournament December 27, 28 and 29.

Recollection Of A World War II Christmas

By Wm. C. Barnard
Most of my life I have managed to spend Christmas at home with relatives and friends. However during the last World War, I observed the event on the island of Agattu in the Aleutian Chain between Alaska and Siberia. I had a small construction crew of less than a dozen men, we embarked from the island of Attu for Agattu in a L.C.T.

with a cargo of portland cement, a concrete mixer, an air compressor with air tools, a dump truck, small tools, a few cases of dynamite, and some drums of gasoline. We also had the structural steel to erect a radar tower and antenna, a radio antenna tower, and a navigational aid, or fan marker antenna.
Agattu had no harbour and no air strip. The seashore was mostly rugged and rocky with mountains rising from the water's edge. There were a very few short beach areas. It was storming as it always is in the Aleutians. In trying to run our landing craft up on the beach, we lost the ramp in the pounding surf. There were about a half dozen soldiers with a small bulldozer on the beach to meet us. They pushed a sand ramp up to the boat, then helped us get our material and equipment off. The carpenters and riggers in my crew used our heavy lumber to build a bulkhead to replace the ramp that was lost. We then dismissed our landing craft and spent the next couple of days moving up the mountain to the work site.

Agattu was mountainous, but not rugged after we got away from the shore. It was covered with tundra mosses and grasses, but no trees. It was over one thousand miles back to the mainland of Alaska before there were trees. The temperature was about twenty to twenty-five degrees, and stayed that way for four or five months. It was rather beautiful in a stark kind of way, when you could see it, but was fogged in a lot of the time. It is located in one of the few places in which the sleet falls horizontally.

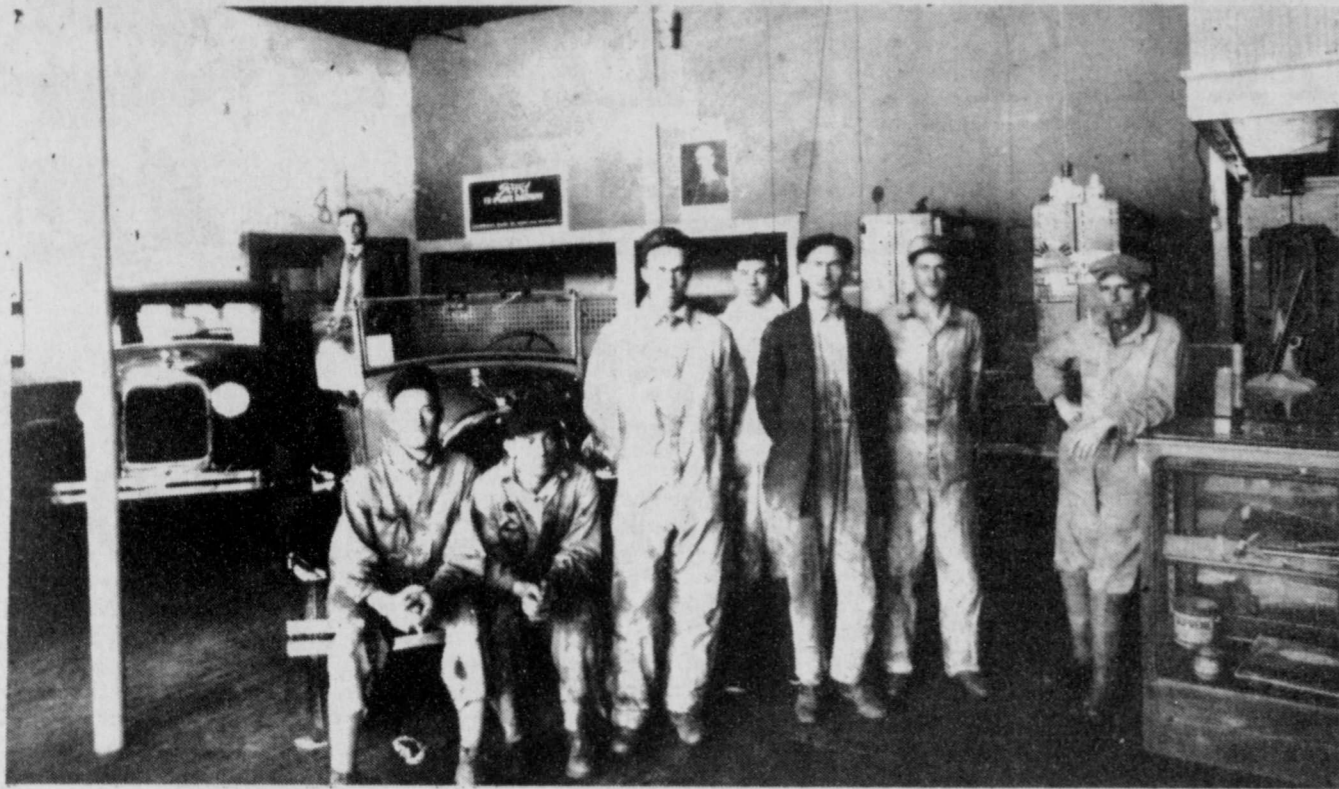

Before our project was completed, Christmas came. Santa came in a B-26 bomber, but he didn't land. The bomber made a couple of low passes over our camp, and each time opened the bomb bay and dropped our Christmas presents.

They were well packed in canvas bags and they floated down under parachutes. There was a ration of beer for each of the men in my crew and the G.I.'s. There was a ration of three bottles of whiskey for each of the two Lieutenants, a Warrant Officer and myself.

There were small packets of little items that had been put together by a patriotic lady's organization in Utah, one for each of us. My packet consisted of needles, buttons and thread, in a brown duck wrap around case. I still have it. There was a container of ice cream, enough for everyone. There was a little spruce Christmas tree, about eighteen inches tall and a half dozen candles that were too big to place on the little tree. I gave my liquor ration to my crew. The three officers and I were all sharing the same hut.

One of the Lieutenants was a catholic, so he knew what to do with the candles. We set the little tree on a table, arranged the candles and placed all the little presents around the tree. Then we played Santa Claus to each other, toasted each other and everybody, and everything, that we could think of, then told tall tales about our homes until almost morning.

The next day was Christmas, and one of the few days that we did not work while in the Aleutian Islands.

Med-Card Provides Emergency Information

McCuiston Regional Medical Center Executive Director, Arthur W. Hastings announced today that McCuiston is now offering everyone an opportunity to invest in a card that could save his or her life. In an emergency situation, when a sudden illness occurs, or at the scene of an accident, every second is critical. He explained, "Answers to questions relating to a person's medical history should always be available even if that person is unable to provide them. The emergency medical information and insurance data card which answers those questions is called the Med-Card."

The size of a credit card, it is a plastic coated, individually processed and carries each person's complete medical and insurance data on a small piece of microfilm which can be read in any medical clinic or hospital. The card carries information about the person's blood type, prescribed medications, allergies, special medical conditions like diabetes, heart, impaired hearing or sight, authorization for emergency care of treatment, name, age, address, telephone number, and name of personal physical and telephone number, religious affiliation and so on.

The back of the card contains emergency information in a quick reference section. Although, similar cards are sold for as much as $15 each, McCuiston is making the personalized card available at its cost which is $5 each.

"Because we take our responsibility to those we serve very seriously, we're strongly encouraging everyone to exercise this opportunity to invest in a personal Med-Card for each member of the family and encourage that you carry the card with you at all times," Hastings added. He further added this program is open to all persons throughout the McCuiston service area covering two states and ten surrounding counties.

In order to complete each Med-Card, a medical information form must be filled out by the person ordering it. Forms may be obtained by calling or writing, Med-Card, Community Relations Department, McCuiston Regional Medical Center, P.O. Box 160, Paris, TX 75460, or calling 214-785-7621. When completed, the forms are returned to the hospital and forwarded to the manufacturer. Completed cards are mailed directly to those who order them.

As an added bonus to each person that purchases a Med-Card coupon will be sent with the card and can be redeemed during the next use of any of the McCuiston services, inpatient or outpatient.

For further information, contact Derald Bulls, Community Relations Director, McCuiston Regional Medical Center, 214-785-7621, extension 153.

Be On Lookout For Greenbugs

By Herb Brevard
Producers should be on the lookout for greenbugs and winter grain mites on wheat, says Dr. James Robinson.

Greenbugs are aphids that develop colonies on wheat. They feed mainly on leaves, but they can feed on the roots of the plants, thus being more difficult to locate. Symptoms are yellow spots in the field that eventually die.

Chemicals for controlling greenbugs include dimethoate, disulfoton, malathion and parathion.

Insecticides for winter grain mite control include disulfoton, methyl parathion and malathion. All label directions and precautions should be followed.

Vaccination For Bangs Now Required

Time is running short for livestock producers with heifer calves born in 1984 in the Class C Area of Texas to get them vaccinated to comply with the Texas brucellosis vaccination requirement.

That's the reminder of the Texas Animal Health Commission. The regulation applies to heifers born after Jan. 1, 1984 changing ownership within the Class C Area of Texas. It is as follows:

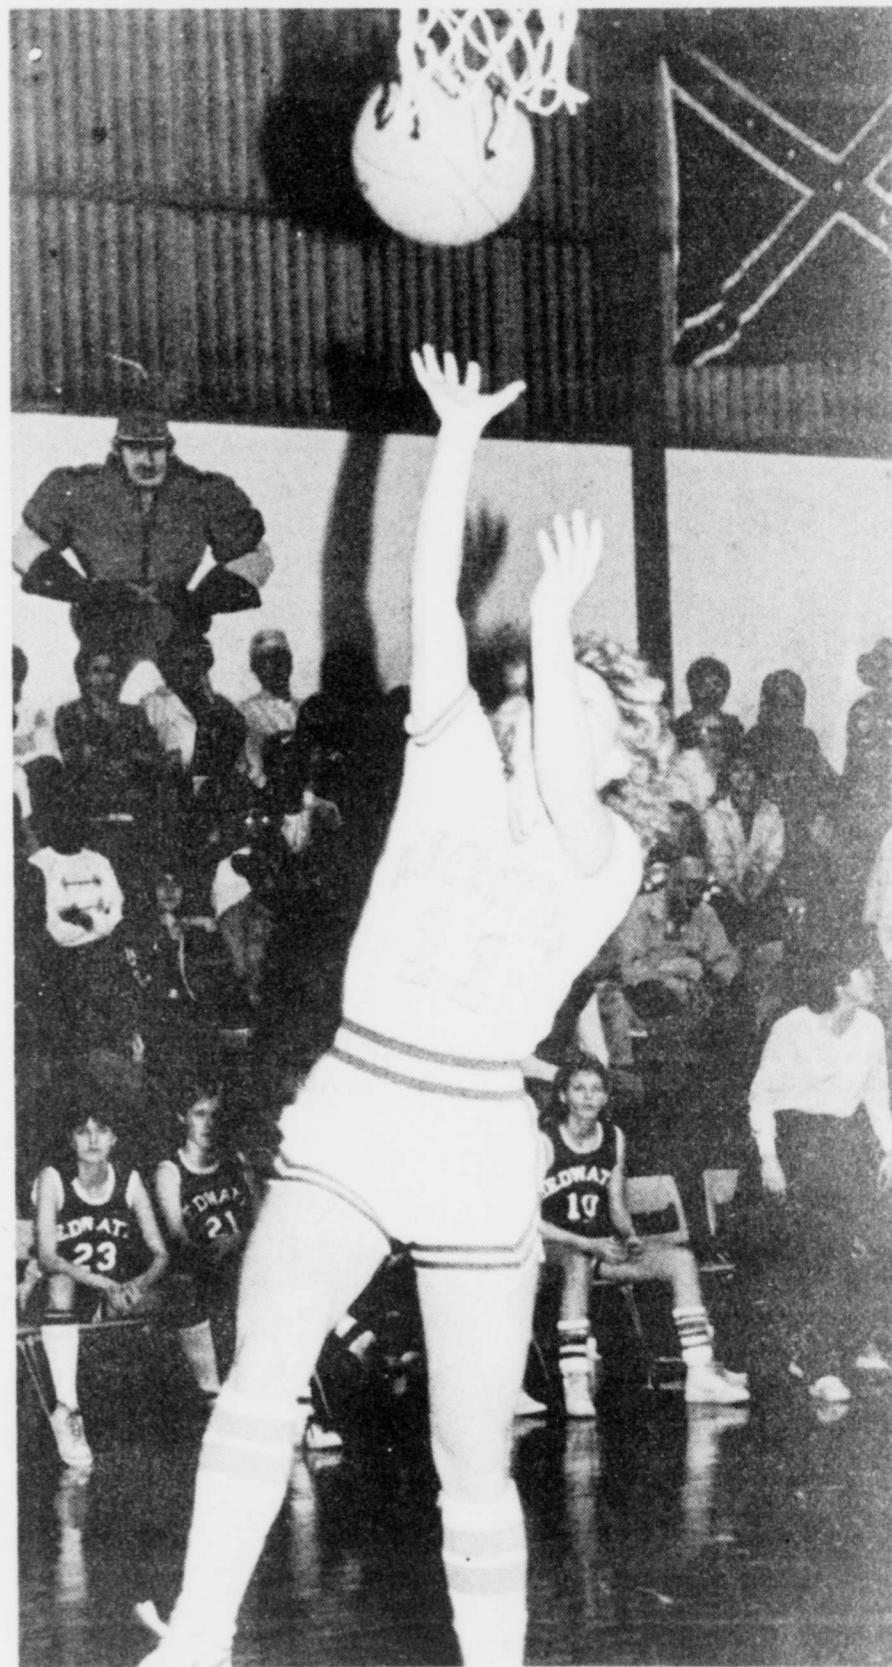

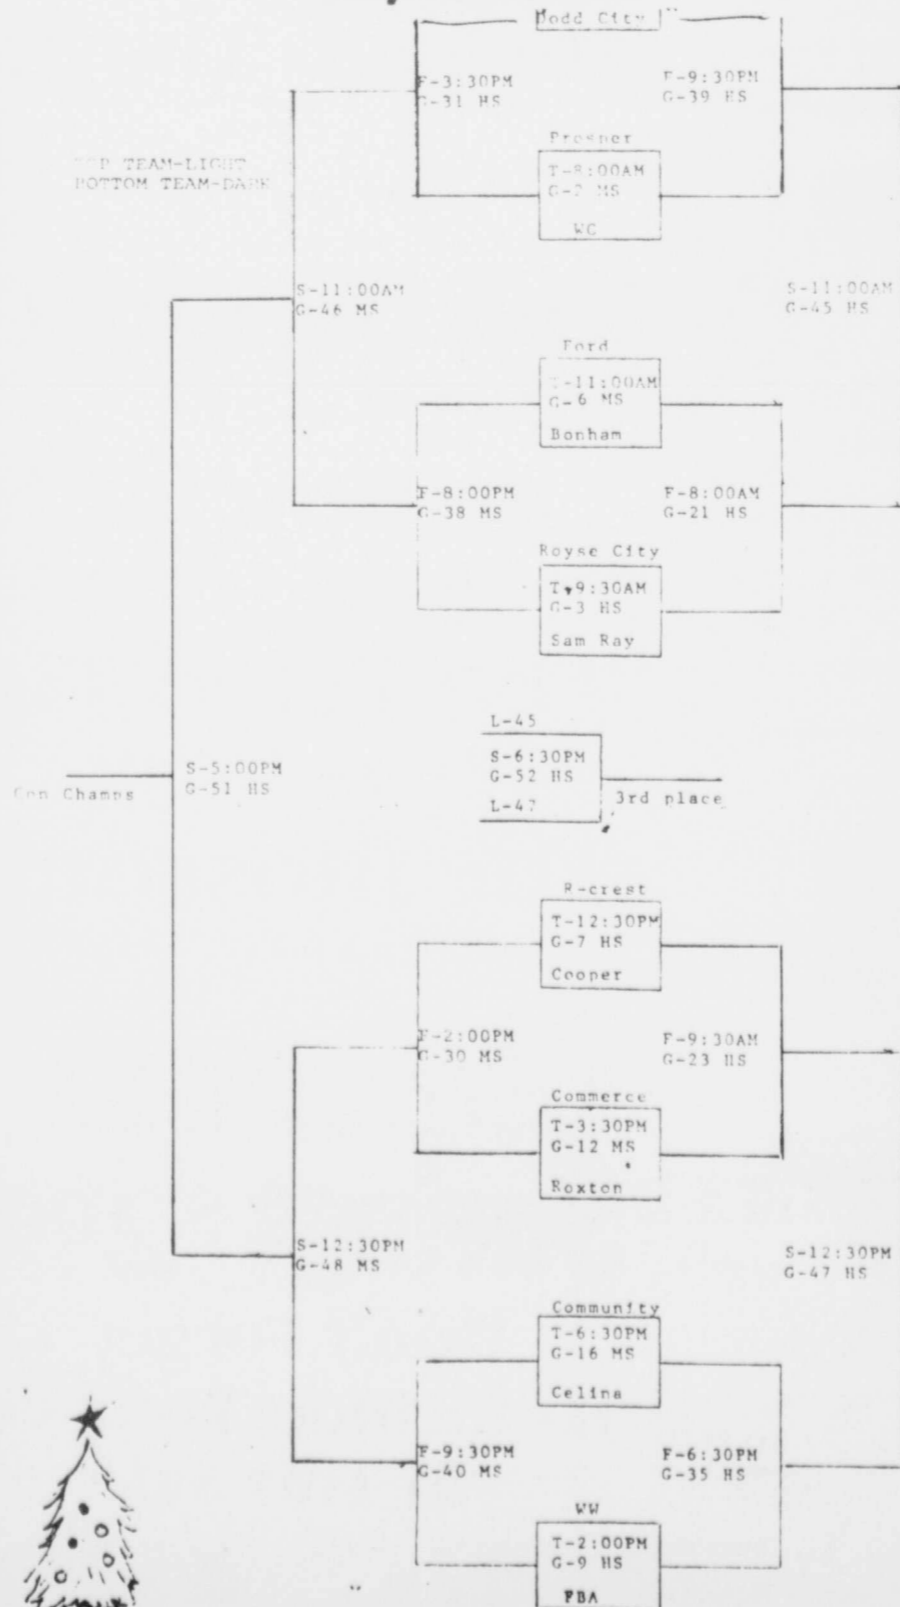

Heifers born after Jan. 1, 1984 between 4 and 12 months of age which are acquired and used for breeding, grazing, dairying or confinement in a nonquarantined feedlot must be vaccinated or be subject to these restrictions: Heifers born after Jan. 1, 1984 which are over 12 months of age and are unvaccinated can only legally change ownership after being spayed; or moved to a livestock market and S branded prior to sale; or consigned direct to slaughter, quarantined feedlot or quarantined pasture.

State funds are available for free vaccinations. Contact your area Texas Animal Health Commission office or your own veterinarian for details.

After Dec. 24, this regulation will not apply to Denton and Grayson counties as they will be transferred to the Class B area. Franklin, Hopkins, Lamar, Marion, Red River counties are included in the Class C Area of Texas.

GOVERNMENTAL ODDITIES
Curiosities And Blunders That Affect Millions

In one large city, diaper-delivery trucks are forbidden to play "Rock-A-Bye-Baby" on their horns. In other parts of the country, many other businesses are affected by other laws that seem equally silly.

Here's a look at some peculiar pieces of legislation:
• It is unlawful to play the "Missouri Waltz" at any hour of the broadcast day in Mississippi.
• According to New Mexico law, any newspaper in the town of Quemado can be fined if it misspells your name.
• In North Carolina, elephants may not be used to plow cotton fields.
• A law in Morrisville, Vermont, decrees that anyone wishing to take a bath must first obtain a permit from the board of selectmen.
• Pharmacists in Trout Creek, Utah may not sell gunpowder as a headache cure.
• In Rochester, New York, it is unlawful for youngsters to collect stamps from cigars.
• Many business people also find themselves at the mercy of outdated or just plain wacky laws. Fortunately they can get some assistance from a new book. It traces the evolution of how American companies anticipate and respond to trends and issues.
Called "Issue Management: Origins of the Future," it was written by W. Howard Chase, founder and editor of "Corporate Public Issues and Their Management." A 170-page hardcover book, it costs $24.95 and is available from Issue Action Publications, 105 Old Long Ridge Road, Stamford, CT. 06903.

• Less than one-half of one percent of all injury-producing collisions involve fire or submersion, according to the U.S. Department of Transportation. Yet, many people mistakenly use this as their reason for not wearing safety belts.
