

Rebels Win Bi-District 64-60 Lose Area

By Diana Eudy

The Rivercrest Rebels captured bi-district last Friday night in the Sulphur Springs gym. The Rebs defeated Hawkins 64-60.

The game was not as close as the score shows throughout the game. The Rebels led by 24 points at the halfway mark. The hot shooting of seniors James Anderson and Anthony Brown put the Rebs in a comfortable position at halftime 22-8.

The second half proved that a team can never let up as the Hawks came back with forty-five points in the second half. The points came from outside shooting as the Rebels effectively cut off the inside attack and answered with twenty-five points of their own.

Even though the Hawks started to eat up the Rivercrest lead, the Rebels refused to let up. James Anderson was very impressive throughout the contest. Anderson hit for 26 points and pulled down rebound after rebound. The remainder of the team passed the ball into Anderson or Brown, who was ready under the goal. Tony Jasso and Russell Rozell also added several points in the first half as did Charley Martin.

Bobby Thomas scored one point during the game and his expert ball handling was instrumental in the win. The Hawks put constant pressure on the Rebels as they brought the ball downcourt. Thomas kept control of the ball and effectively set up the plays.

With 1:12 remaining in the game, the score was narrowed to 59-56. The Rebels pulled away with the help of free shots in the final seconds. The final tally for the bi-district win was 64-60.

Scoring for the Rebels were James

Anderson with 26, Anthony Brown with 20, Tony Jasso with seven, Russell Rozell with six, Charley Martin with four and Bobby Thomas with one.

The Rivercrest Rebels played their area competition against Cooper Tuesday night in Sulphur Springs. The Bulldogs took the close victory 49-45.

The Rebels stayed with the Cooper team all the way. The score remained only a few points apart right up to the final horn.

Anthony Brown and James Anderson carried the scoring load for the Rebels. Brown finished with twenty-one and Anderson with seventeen. Charley Martin marked up four and Bobby Thomas Three.

Rivercrest swapped the lead with Cooper back and forth during the first period. Cooper went into the halftime dressing room with a slim two point lead, 26-24.

The Bulldogs got a hot streak in the third period and hit for 14 points. The Rebs marked up nine. Cooper held a 10 point lead at the end of the third period, but the Rebs were not ready to quit.

With 5:16 remaining in the contest,

Rivercrest came within three points of the Bulldogs. In an exciting finish the Cooper team took the victory, 49-45. The game could have gone either way right up to the last seconds.

Coach Wake Wood said "It was an exciting game throughout. The difference in the game was the offensive rebounding. Cooper was faster on the boards. We had trouble with free shots in the last period making 2 of 8. There were two good teams and one had to lose, unfortunately it was us. I hope some of our fans will go to the regional tournament in Tyler. Elkhart will play Cooper Friday night."

Apparently many people are related to geese. Not the "silly goose" type, but the migrating type that are flying overhead.

As spring creeps slowly over the area, bringing those first fresh, warmish winds, flocks of honkers go by, high up, returning to their summer homes hundreds and thousands of miles away.

And many people cannot help but feel a certain restlessness, and deep inner craving that causes one to pause, look up, and then go back about their duties. But the heart goes on a little way with the geese.

Everyone welcomes the sound of the geese going back for spring. They seem to have a more joyous sound about them as they fly homeward for the warm summer season. The mournful, displaced feeling they create in fall is missing.

But for many earth-bound people, the desire is created in their hearts to long for different places...new scenery, a new place to "land" every night. The sounds of the geese stir thoughts of travel, new worlds, exploration!

The geese are responsible for this...they bring to light feelings generally buried under the mountains of day to day duty...under the conventions and responsibilities that prevent folks from simply packing up and moving on.

The knowledge that it would be "safe" to travel...no snow, no winter to concern oneself with, coupled with a good solid dose of cabin fever, undoubtedly is partially behind this phenomenon.

Whatever the reasons, however faint the call to go, there are few untouched by the winter-shattering sound of the valiant flocks that beat the air high overhead these days.

So, if the call gets too strong...heed it...take a trip, get out, that's apparently what nature intends us to do!

Court House Still Undetermined

More than 150 people attended the hearing on the future of the Red River County Courthouse on Friday, with the majority wanting to keep the old structure if at all possible. Insistence on additional study of costs was broadly voiced and alternatives.

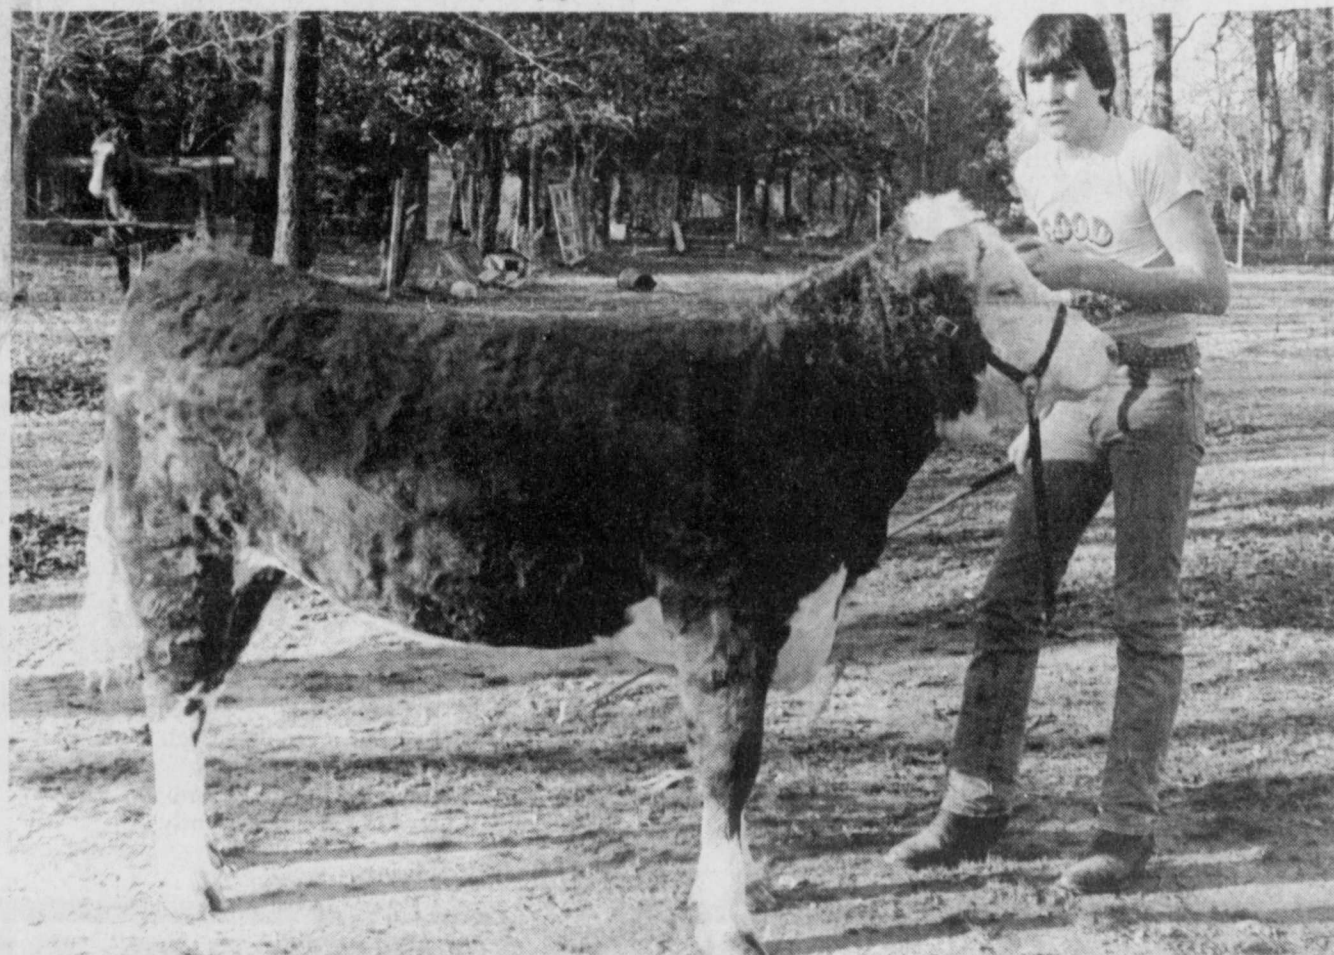

Judge W.S. Whiteman kicked off the meeting with a prepared statement "to set the record straight." He sharply denied that there was anything "secret" about the County's surplus funds and declared that he knew of no long-standing plan to use the money to build a new courthouse. Whiteman also noted that President Reagan's proposal for ending revenue sharing appeared to have eliminated the legal requirement for alterations to the County's 100-year-old courthouse. New rules for handicapped provisions had made the present courthouse's deterioration more evident and faced the County with deciding what to do.

Attorney Jim Dick Lovett received broad support for his proposal that the "best and least costly" solution might be to construct an annex to house activities now on the second floor of the courthouse and keep first floor activities in the present structure. His plan would make an expensive elevator to the second floor unnecessary and would allow the historic courtroom to be restored as funds, private or public, became available.

Lovett also proposed that a county-wide Select Committee be named to investigate alternatives and report its findings to the County Court. Judge Whiteman received this suggestion positively, but stopped short of making a decision to carry it out.

Talco-Bogata Superintendent To Retire

Talmadge Morgan, superintendent of the Talco-Bogata School District since 1967, has announced plans to retire from the school district at the end of the school year. Mr. Morgan has a total of 35 years in public schools with the past 18 years as superintendent of the Talco-Bogata Schools.

He stated that he had enjoyed the opportunity of working in public schools and with young people. Even though the school superintendency can be one of the most demanding and stressful positions in our society, it also has many rewards. Superintendent Morgan said that he had always taken pride in being a part of the Talco-Bogata Schools and having the privilege of serving as the superintendent. I believe this feeling of pride prevails among our teachers and school employees, students and patrons. We have all worked toward establishing a "good image" and have gained respect for operating a sound and responsible school district. Certainly we have our problems and needs for improvement, but we need to capitalize on our strengths and keep these uppermost in the plans as the district addresses the areas in need of improvement.

Mr. Morgan said, "I am leaving the teaching profession with a strong belief in our public schools and with faith and confidence in our young people. While there will always be a need for discipline and occasionally "calling the hand" of young people, this should never keep us from loving them and letting them know that we are here to help and encourage them."

Superintendent Morgan said that he would like to express his appreciation to the community and to present and past, teachers and school employees, students, parents and school board members, for the opportunity of working in the Talco-Bogata Schools these past 18 years and living in the community. He stated that even though he was leaving the community and public school administration, he definitely had no plans to retire and that he will be pursuing other career opportunities.

MRs. Morgan, who has been employed as an educational consultant with Region VIII Education Service Center in Mt. Pleasant for five years, had previously taught for 10 years before moving to this area. She has a Masters Degree in education and is also certified to teach the visually handicapped. The Morgan's children, Britt and Tessa, are both graduates of Rivercrest and are presently attending college in the Dallas area. Britt is a senior at the University of Texas in Arlington and Tessa is attending a Fashion and Merchandising College in Dallas.

Mr. Morgan said that the school district will soon have the opportunity under new leadership to move forward into some very challenging times. I know that you will give your new superintendent the support, understanding, and help that you have given me. Public schools are presently in the midst of some of the most significant changes in history. These are very difficult times for all school people and will call for a lot of patience and support from the public. The school board has been in the process of interviewing applicants for the superintendent's position. The new superintendent will assume duties on July 1.

Green And White Bogata Colors

By Tommie Joy Pirtle

Green and white, lest we forget, were the colors of Bogata High School. We used green and white untiringly year after year as we expressed our love and devotion to our school activities.

We had green and white football suits, basketball suits, jackets, sweaters, FFA, FHA, choral, band, pep squad, and cheerleader uniforms, year books, ribbons and corsages. Never did our loyalty falter to the good old green and white!

Hope you will join us April 13, 1985, for our annual homecoming.

To The Editor:

The February 14 edition of your paper contained an interesting letter from John Howison concerning a commissioners court meeting.

At that meeting, it was said that some of the commissioners were ready to build a new courthouse in Red River County without putting the issue to a vote. I believe that is not right, but if I could vote, which I can't, I would certainly vote no to a new courthouse.

That courthouse in Clarksville is a historic building and should be preserved. I spent many very happy hours climbing around Old Red and I surely don't want to see it torn down to be replaced by a modern plastic building. If there are funds available to build a new courthouse, then there must be funds to protect and preserve such an historic building as Old Red.

Sincerely,
Nancy Jack Rhoads Ewald

Edgar Smith's Well

By Wm. C. Barnard

Edgar Smith owned a hardware store in Deport. Behind the store and across Gray Street was the store warehouse. In the warehouse there was a well. Edgar Smith had been known to share a drink with some of his friends out in the warehouse.

It had been reported, in the hearing of some of the older boys, that from time to time, while enjoying a drink, a bottle of whiskey would accidentally get knocked off the well curbing and into the well. The more the story was told among the boys, the greater the number of bottles in the well became.

Clay Guest and I couldn't resist attempting a salvage operation. The water in the well was about six or seven feet deep, so we decided we needed some diving equipment. We made a diving helmet out of a two gallon bucket by placing a glass window in the side. Then we made a short cape out of an old raincoat and fastened it around the rim of the bucket, the cape being long enough to fit down over our shoulders. The helmet and cape was made water and air tight with asphalt tar. We rigged a garden hose to carry air from the surface to the inside of the diving helmet while under water. We also made a flashlight water tight with asphalt.

The equipment was assembled and we were ready to try it out one Sunday morning. There was a loose piece of sheet metal on one side of the building that gave easy entrance. We went in and started work.

I went down first and immediately discovered that the diving equipment wouldn't work. With no air pump on the hose to equalize pressure, the pressure of the water forced the air from my lungs and I was unable to inhale, so we discarded the diving gear and went to work bare handed. We brought up about a bushel basket full of broken and empty bottles, but nary a bottle contained the treasure.

Edgar Smith never knew that he got his well cleaned out, and that a couple of yougn boys got some experience in underwater salvage business.

Kids, Commercials And Food

By Mary Lou Williamson

Probably every parent has, at one time or another, had to deal with a crying child who wants to buy some Crunchy Munchies cereal at the store. Maybe it's too expensive, you already have cereal at home, or it is not nutritious. But these arguments do not always make sense to youngsters, especially if they have seen the product advertised on television and they want it now.

Did you realize children see as many as 10,000 food and beverage commercials a year, and some are directed specifically at the kids.

Extension home economists at Purdue University did some research on these commercials aimed at children and uncovered some interesting facts, they found that 25 percent of the advertising is for candy and other sweets like cakes, cookies and fruit drinks. About 10 percent of the ads are for fast food restaurants.

That means almost two-thirds of the television commercials are for snacks, candy and breakfast foods. Less than two percent of the commercials promote a well-balanced diet including fruits, vegetables, milk or meat.

In response to the influence of television food advertising, parents need to provide nutrition education, too.

It seems we become so involved with our day to day life skipping from work to meeting to meal time to another event that we frankly just forget what is going on in the outer world.

Terri Darnell phoned the office recently to ask how to freeze fudge and caramels. At the holiday season, she had received a quantity of fudge and caramels. In order to preserve the family's health and weight, she felt it would be wise to freeze the candy. To freeze candy, over wrap the packages with a moisture, vaporproof material that is recommended for freezing. Recommended shelf life for storage of frozen candy is 3 to 4 weeks. Candy must be over wrapped because cardboard and cellophane are porous materials and will not prevent the air from freezer burning the candy. The candy must be over wrapped to prevent freezer burn.

Weed Control Affects Hay

By Lynn Golden

The first cutting of hay in the spring usually produces the highest quality hay we can produce. The digestibility of warm season grasses is higher in the spring than any other time of the year. However, weeds are also germinating and taking their place in the pasture or meadow. Weeds in the early spring cause the hay quality to be lower and they use valuable nutrients. One rule of thumb is every pound of weeds produced is a pound of valuable forage lost.

Preemergence weed control has become more popular and has been economical in hay production in the past. As you know, many weeds emerge in the spring before the bermuda grass begins growth, removing nutrients and water that has been stored through the winter.

Preemergence herbicides need to be applied to the soil before March 15. Examples of this type of herbicide are Princep, Karmex and Simazine. These herbicides control plants that germinate from seeds. There is little control of plants that are already growing. These herbicides will also control clovers and ryegrass. Do not apply to any area that you want clover or ryegrass production.

Be sure to read the label on the chemical package. The label will give the rate of herbicide to apply and mixing instructions. The label will also explain any precautions you need to be aware of before using each herbicide.

Lice Bad On Area Cattle

By Paul D. Payne

A heavy infestation of lice on beef and dairy cattle in the Red River Valley area is severely reducing the profits for the livestock owners. As the margin of profit is already slim for the beef and dairy producer, it seems advisable to control these external parasites before more loss occurs.

Last week I, like many of you, visited one of our local cattle sale barns to see what the market was doing. I did determine that the market was up, but the alarming thing was the high percentage of cattle going through the sales rings that were infested with lice. My estimate would be 95 percent.

There is really no excuse for any of us to have a lice problem today, as there are so many products on the market that will do a good job of controlling lice. Chemicals come in sprays, dusts, pour-ons and spot-ons. They will all do the job if properly applied.

Dust bags will also do an effective job if the animals go under the bags frequently. Strategically placing the bags where the animals get the insecticide on their body is a must.

There are several brand names of the pour-on chemicals. They cannot be used on dairy cattle in milk, but may be used on dry cows within a certain time period of calving. This is usually two to three weeks. The label should be studied for all of these particular limitations.

The time required for the earth to orbit the sun increases by about .04 seconds each century.

U.S. Savings Bonds. Now paying 10.94%.

U.S. Savings Bonds now pay like money market accounts! At the current rate—10.94%—you could double your money in less than seven years. Just hold Bonds for five years and you get the new higher variable rates. Plus, you get a guaranteed return. That's the kind of change anyone can appreciate.

But some of the best things about Bonds haven't changed. Savings Bonds are still as safe as ever. They're still exempt from state and local income taxes. And since Bonds cost as little as $25, they're as affordable as ever. What's more, Bonds remain a great way to keep our country strong.

You can purchase Bonds almost anywhere. At neighborhood banks, savings and loans and credit unions. Or easier still, right through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

Variable rates apply to Bonds purchased on and after 11/1/82 and held at least 5 years. Bonds purchased before 11/1/82 earn variable rates when held beyond 10/31/87. Bonds held less than 5 years earn lower interest.

PTA Sponsors Drug And Alcohol Awareness Week

The National PTA wants parents to know there are many things they can do at home to help protect their children from the dangers of drug and alcohol abuse. That's why the 1984 Drug and Alcohol Awareness Week theme is "Prevention Begins at Home".

Drug and alcohol abuse is not limited to any race, creed, national origin or neighborhood. Drug use is too widespread to assume that it will never touch your son or daughter's life. Children are finding out about drugs and alcohol at least by the fourth grade.

Parents can get the facts and talk with their children about the dangers of drug and alcohol use before a problem starts. Parents can help their children learn positive ways to use leisure time and be less inclined to turn to drugs as a way to have fun; help their children develop strong self-esteem; and set a good example by examining their own alcohol and other drug use habits. Through their PTA's, parents can help their children avoid alcohol and other drug misuse by providing educational programs for parents, students and the community, and by working with other groups to support parents looking for help.

The National PTA, founded as advocates for children in 1897, has been concerned about the effect of drug and alcohol use on children for 87 years. Delegates to the second annual Congress of Mothers in 1898 discussed concern about youthful alcoholism. Since 1963, delegates to National PTA conventions have passed 17 resolutions calling for action to reduce student smoking, alcohol and other drug abuse. Some of the most recent resolutions addressing this epidemic among our nation's youth resolved:

That the National PTA urge state PTA's, their units, councils and districts to place special emphasis on education for parents which will help them acquire the knowledge and skills necessary for primary prevention of substance abuse.

That the National PTA attempt to eliminate the advertising, especially in movie theaters and on television and radio, of all alcoholic beverages, including beer and wine, that associates such beverages with health, recreational activities, prestige, success and sexuality.

That the National PTA urge the TV broadcasting industry to eliminate unnecessary scenes depicting drinking of alcoholic beverages from TV programming when not related to the story line.

These resolutions reflect the PTA's belief that parents can make a difference in their children's decisions about drugs and alcohol, and PTA can help.

Musical Festival Set

The Annual Red River Valley Baptist Association Music Festival was held on Sunday, February 24 at the First Baptist Church in Paris. The First Baptist Church of Bogata was represented by the Music Makers choir, 1-3 grades, the Young Musicians choir, 4-6 grades, a youth duet, Becky White and Jennifer Glass and an adult ensemble.

Judy Jackson, Leilani Ward and Pam Koerner accompanied the different choirs while June Stanley directed the Young Musicians and Gary Koerner directed the other choirs.

Jennifer Glass and Becky White received a Superior rating. The choirs received Superior and excellent ratings.

There were 47 people representing First Baptist Bogata. Linda Eiler, Dee Crayton, Mary Joplin and Linda Gray served sandwiches for the children and we stopped by Braum's for a surprise.

Rep. Alex Short On Texas Conservation Coalition

February 18, Representative Alex Short of District 1 has become one of the founding members of the Texas Conservative Coalition, a new group of more than sixty Senators and Representatives in the Texas Legislature.

The three goals of the TCC are to identify and discuss the legislation and issues important to conservatives, to obtain and analyze information from private enterprise and think tanks, and to assist in the sharing of research from one legislative staff to the next.

The Coalition is non-partisan with 26 Democrats and 38 Republicans. Some of the issues the Coalition will study include promoting efficient and responsible state government, maintaining free enterprise and providing local control of government programs.

Slide Show Honors 50th Anniversary Of SCS

A new slide show honoring the 50th anniversary of the USDA Soil Conservation Service is now available through local SCS offices.

The agency was created by an act of Congress and signed into law by President Roosevelt on April 27, 1935. Charles VanDeaver, district conservationist for SCS at Clarksville said the 16 minute presentation, which includes a cassette tape, is suitable for use by service clubs and agricultural groups. The title is "The First Fifty Years".

"We don't actually have a set in our office," Van Deaver said, "But we can borrow one from our area office in Mt. Pleasant. For that reason, we will have to schedule it well in advance to get it."

VanDeaver said he can also borrow the equipment needed to handle the show.

Weekly Agricultural Update

By Herb Brevard

February and March is a good time to stock all species of fresh water fish in East Texas, says Billy Higginbotham, fisheries specialist. Channel catfish, bass and bluegill are the primary species stocked in farm ponds in the area.

Catfish fingerlings should be stocked according to the rate of management being planned. The number may range from 100 to 1,000 fingerlings per surface acre, depending on the frequency of supplemental feeding. The better the management, the more fish that can be stocked per acre.

For bass, the appropriate forage species must also be stocked, otherwise, growth of the bass will be slow and usually unsatisfactory.

Before stocking a pond that already contains fish, Higginbotham suggests getting advice on the feasibility of supplemental stocking and possible renovation of the pond.

The pond water should be tested, whether stocking now or in the future. About 60 percent of the ponds tested last year needed agricultural lime to raise the pH level. If the pH and total alkalinity are not up to par, the pond will not reach its potential for fish production.

If the water quality is not right, most other management techniques, including stocking, will not yield satisfactory results, Higginbotham says.

Weekly Agricultural Update

By Herb Brevard

Producers interested in planting forage grasses need to prepare a good seedbed, says Dr. Sim A. Reeves, Jr., agronomist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

If the land needs lime, phosphorus or potassium, it should be applied prior to breaking or disking the land. If lime is disked into the soil, the pH can be changed in the root zone of the plants. Also, phosphorus moves very little in the soil, therefore, an application prior to disking will get the phosphorus into the root zone.

Prior to planting or sprigging is the only time the producer will be able to work these nutrients into the soil. If done prior to disking, the ground should be capable of holding heavy machinery and fertilizer trucks. Once the soil is disked, it will be more difficult to use heavy equipment.

Bermudagrass should be sprigged at 20 bushels per acre for a minimum stand. Higher sprigging rates of 50 or 60 bushels will get a cover of grass faster and help compete with weeds. Additionally, higher sprigging rates will get the forage into production quicker for hay or grazing.

The major grasses sprigged in East Texas are coastal and Tifton 44 bermuda. Reeves says that Tifton 44 has greater cold tolerance than coastal, but that coastal will generally produce a slightly higher yield than Tifton 44.

Weekly Agricultural Briefs

Peach trees require varying amounts of cold weather to bud and set fruit properly says Dr. Terry Menges. The amount of chilling required varies with variety and the available average chilling hours at a particular location. Chilling hours are the accumulated hours between 32 and 45 degrees Fahrenheit. In northeast Texas, varieties are grown that require 800 to 1,000 chilling hours. In the middle portion of east Texas, approximately from Mt. Pleasant to Nacogdoches, 700 to 800 chilling hour varieties are recommended and farther south in East Texas, varieties require 450 to 700 chilling hours.

As of January 10, only 200 hours of chilling had been accumulated at Overton. Of course, additional days have been accumulated since then, but the number of chilling hours is still short for this time of year.

The first signs of inadequate chilling hours is failure of the flower buds to swell at the normal time. Trees may begin to leaf out later than normal, bloom is spread over an abnormal length of time and some wantu sized fruit may be growing adjacent to newly opened blooms. Fruit may not develop correctly and this means loss of fruit and poor yields.

Menges says that many chemicals have been tried to break dormancy but so far, these chemicals have not worked consistently.

Dormant oil spraying may be delayed until late February, but well before bud break. Application of dormant oil this late should aid in even heating of the tree and hopefully, result in a more uniform bloom.

have a nice weekend

Restocking Pastures Should Be Done Carefully

Livestock producers who are planning to restock pastures and ranges this spring should include this basic management practice: make sure those cattle are free of brucellosis.

That's the recommendation of the Texas Animal Health Commission. Dr. John W. Holcombe, executive Director, lists these suggestions for you to follow:

Make sure you know the brucellosis status of cattle you buy. Ask the seller to provide you with proof those cattle are tested and found to be free of brucellosis.

When you get those cattle to your place, isolate them and have them retested in 45 to 120 days following purchase to check for animals that might have been in the early stages of infection.

If possible, buy herd replacements only from known brucellosis free herds.

Vaccinate your eligible heifers with the reduced dosage of Strain 19 vaccine. State funds are available for this purpose, and your veterinarian or area TAHC office can supply you with details.

Test all animals that abort or give birth to dead or weak offspring as well as slow breeders and those which fail to calve.

Keep your fences in good repair. If you have a neighbor who has an infected herd, get yours tested. Records show that about 20 percent of herds adjacent to an infected herd contract the disease.

Pointers For Parents
Facts from the U.S. Department of Transportation, National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

Specially designed child restraint devices offer small children the greatest protection in a car.

With or without safety belts, you should never ride either in the front or rear seat with an infant in your arms. In case of a sudden stop or collision, the infant could be thrown from your arms into the windshield or dashboard with great force.

Safety belts alone do not provide adequate protection. The size of a child's body is too small for a safety belt to work properly. The safest place for small children is in special restraint devices designed for them.

A Look At The Early Radio Transmitter

By Wm. C. Barnard
Back in the summer of 1924, Russell Grant and I built a radio transmitter. In fact, we built two transmitters about a quarter of a mile apart. One at his house, and the other at mine. The basic principals of radio are comparatively simple. It is when the refinements are added that it begins to get complicated.

Russell, and we decided to build one. The rig required the use of a spark coil to produce a high voltage pulsating current. These coils could be bought from specialty equipment suppliers, but the price was too high for us. It just happened that Model T Ford cars used four spark coils in their ignition system, so that problem was solved.

stationary spark gap by using two short zinc rods. The part of the circuit that selected and controlled the radio frequency on which the transmitter was to broadcast, consisted of a condenser or capacitor and an induction coil. At least one of these pieces of apparatus had to be variable, that is the length or number of turns on the coil must be able to be changed, or the area of the metal plates of the condenser must be able to be changed. Making a variable condenser was out so far as our mechanical skill was concerned, so we made a fixed condenser by placing tinfoil, (salvaged from plug tobacco boxes), between alternate panes of window glass. The induction coil was copper wire wound on a cardboard cylinder, (oat meal box), and its inductance was made variable with a sliding switch that moved along the coil to change the length or number of turns of the part that was in use. A six volt hot shot dry cell battery was used to energize the rig. A long wire was strung up between the house and barn to radiate the radio impulses.

The receiving part of the radio was just as crude as the transmitter. It was similar in that it had a coil and condenser to tune to the same frequency as the transmitter. It used a piece of galena crystal, (borrowed from the high school physics laboratory), with a brass wire cat whisker for the detector. An ordinary telephone receiver served as ear phones. No batteries were required for the radio receiver.

All this scrap junk properly wired together would transmit and receive radio signals. However a problem developed. Radio broadcasting stations began to come into operation, and many people around Deport acquired radio receivers.

Our transmitters, being as crude as they were, radiated on a very wide band. It was so wide that it almost blanketed the entire broadcast frequencies. When we fired up our transmitters, every radio in town that was turned on, sounded like a chain saw at full throttle. It didn't take long for our neighbors to locate their trouble, and request a halt in our transmissions. That ended our two-way radio effort.

Rucker Cook Book Includes Local Information

Rev. David Rucker, former minister to the First United Methodist Church in Bogata, and now in Winnsboro, has shared a newspaper article with us from the Tyler Morning Telegraph that concerns the Rucker family cookbook published recently.

The Fuller family of Deport are a part of this family also.

Mary Ophelia Fuller Rucker was born in the "Fuller House" in Deport, the big two story house that sits on the Red River-Lamar County line.

Ara, Edith and Clarence Fuller live in the house now.

Rev. Benjamin and Mary Fuller, pioneer Presbyterian minister and his wife in the Deport area, are part of the family history included in the book.

The article explains further:

The idea of a Rucker family cookbook has been tossed about for several years, and nobody is exactly sure who thought of it first.

It may have been born when one of the sons of Joseph Herman Sr. and Mary Ophelia Fuller Rucker came to grips with the fact that one day he would have to leave the country home just north of the State School where at mealtime the table was piled high with the foods he took for granted even during the Great Depression — fresh or home-canned fruits and vegetables; chicken fried in home-rendered lard; milk, cream, butter and buttermilk from the family dairy and the good things made from them.

Maybe the idea could be credited to a daughter of the late couple who, when she started to date, began to pay a lot more attention to how her mother put those delicious foods together.

At any rate, "The Rucker Family Cookbook" is now a reality, compiled by the oldest daughter, Alice Rucker Allen, with cover design by her husband, Howard, and calligraphy by her daughter, Wanza Allen Grantier. There are contributions by families of each of the nine Rucker children—Joe Herman Rucker of Fresno, Ca.; Alice Allen of Austin; Lucille Chessmore of Ft. Worth; Ruth Hickok of Houston; Juanita Marshall of Midland; Morris Rucker of Houston; Lloyd Rucker of Celina and Harold Rucker of Richardson, and Mrs. Boozer, who lives with her husband, Van, in the old Rucker home in Abilene.

It's hard, family members say, to tell who's prouder of the book, the children or grandchildren. Because Mary Ophelia Rucker didn't always cook by a recipe, many of the family favorites included in the book and credited to her have been worked out through trial and error by daughters and daughters-in-law.

The 500 recipes on almost 300 pages include modern day favorites of Ruckers and contributions by cousins and other relatives who got interested during plans for the book at extended family reunions held every two years.

In addition to the book title, Wanza Grantier did in calligraphy the grace her grandfather said before each family meal and the cover pages for each of the book's 13 recipe categories.

On page 299 there is a family roster including children and their spouses, grandchildren and their spouses.

The book is family-oriented throughout, Mary O. Fuller Rucker's recipe for Turkey and Dressing, Rucker Style, submitted by Alice Allen, is written in narrative style and includes everything a Rucker needs to know about the traditional holiday treat.

Roberta Josephine Cox Edwards' every summer day fried chicken for dinner recipe takes a step-by-step approach from 1. "Look all the likely candidates for slaughter over carefully," and 2. "Point out the biggest one to your dog and say, 'sic 'em.'", to 21. "Pour gravy into a big bowl. Be sure some grease is still swimming around the top of the gravy. It's more fattening that way." some steps -- No. 14, for example, are judgement calls, "Just before the grease bursts into flames, drop the floured chicken pieces into the grease."

Notes at the end of several recipes tell family stories.

Note: (Under Lucille Rucker Chessmore's Chocolate Pie) "I obtained this recipe when in high school, and it is the one used at home on Saturdays to make pies for Sundays. I doubled it to make two pies, often substituting cocoa mixed with the sugar for the chocolate. Scalded milk was used in place of the water. Many Saturdays I made two chocolate pies and two lemon pies to have enough for the meal on Sundays. We never knew how many people we would have (family, friends, preacher, etc.). LRC."
