Straight Answers to Your Questions

Q: Why can't something be done to stop increases in electric rates? What can I do about my total bill?

A: The company is doing everything possible to stop increases. However, in this age of constant inflation, everything purchased to deliver dependable electric service to you is increasing in cost. Everything from utility poles, wire, taxes, and fuel to generate electric power has increased every year for the past decade.

While we cannot control this external inflation to completely stop rate increases, we have been successful in keeping increases to a minimum through diligent efforts of our personnel.

The reason utility bills are higher today is not just rate increases, but increased usage. Because of more and more labor saving appliances, most homes are simply using more electricity from year to year. Heating and air conditioning are two of the high users of electricity. You can help control your electric bill by using electricity wisely and insulating your home properly.

For more information on how to get the most from your electric dollar, call our office.
