July Fourth. What can be said about the holiday that hasn't been said a thousand times before? What is there left to be pondered on about patriotism?

Probably not too much, and it will most likely take a lot better journalist than myself to come up with the new outlook.

But because something has been said before, doesn't necessarily mean it isn't worth saying once more.

The Fourth of July is a hot, sunny holiday, and most people pack a picnic basket and head for the lake, not giving too much thought to the freedoms commemorated by the holiday.

But we should. The little freedoms we take for granted just aren't available throughout much of the world.

Traveling from one state to another unrestricted...not having to cut through miles and miles of red tape simply to leave the country for a visit, being able to print what we please in magazines and newspapers...these are not the normal way of life in many nations.

We take a lot for granted. We criticize much that is wrong in our government and bureaucratic system. But the very right to criticize things is one we should appreciate.

Those Vietnamese or other refugees who have found their way into our nations recently are working hard to achieve things that were no longer possible in their home land.

People like that could give us all a lesson in appreciation. They know first hand what they have lost, and gained in coming to this country. And most of them love their new land in spite of the problems.

Patriotism doesn't mean talking about how patriotic we are. It doesn't mean flag waving.

It does mean believing in freedom and this nation.

Please, celebrate the Fourth of July with a thought or two about what a joy it is to be American this year.

Sleeping To The Sound Of Arabic Music

By Nanalee Nichols

To go to sleep at night to the eery, almost wailing sound of an Arabic song, the shrill piping of the flute, and the noises made by a tiny stringed instrument can be a thrilling experience.

As we went to sleep each night on our boat, those sounds would drift to us from the shore, as the Egyptians celebrated Ramaden.

Ramaden is a religious fasting, it lasts for an entire month, and all Moslems observe it. During that month, they let no food, drink nor smoke pass their lips from sunrise until sunset.

In a country where the temperatures soar regularly into the 110's, and the sun blazes down, it is no easy thing not to be able to take so much as a drink of water.

Then, after sunset, they say their special prayers and take a light meal. About midnight, they tend to feast, hence the sounds of singing, dancing and general merry-making.

The only people excused from the fasting are those with health problems.

However, in Egypt, if one chooses not to fast, or is not Moslem, there is no penalty. We found out on the plane, from a Saudi Arabian, that in Saudi Arabia, if one does not observe the fast, he is put in jail to enforce it!

Daily we cruised a little distance down the Nile, seeing literally into the past. The scenes that slowly unfolded looked like scenes from Bible stories!

Water buffalo turned the wheels that pumped water from the river into the fields. Galabia dressed men hoed with huge, clumsy looking mat-toks, and black dressed women carried water in clay jugs, gracefully balancing the heavy load.

Everywhere were the children, playing, working and laughing as we went by.

Camels grazed in the shrub, and water buffalo, cattle and donkeys were present in large number.

Adobe huts, roofed with palm, thatch, dove cotes made like giant bee hives, row boats with peculiar oars gave truth to the entire story.

Some things are quite univiersal,

Estimates Of Traffic Deaths Released

Estimates Of Traffic Deaths Released

The Texas Department of Public Safety estimates that as many as 17 people will die in traffic accidents in the state during the 30-hour July 4 holiday period.

"Though this year's estimate is lower than last year's death toll, the final figure could be even lower if Texans refrained from drinking and driving, stayed within the speed limit and buckled their safety belts," said Colonel Jim Adams, director of the DPS.

Last year, 20 persons died in crashes on Texas streets and highways during the July 4 holiday period. Three additional fatalities resulting from serious injuries during the period pushed the final toll to 23.

of Bogata was the stock producer for the rodeo and provided rough and tumble action for the 4,000 plus spectators at the rodeo on Saturday night.

Amy Foster was crowned the 1985-86 Bogata Rodeo Queen by the outgoing queen, Kristi Bankhead. LaTrisha Belcher was named Rodeo Princess and was crowned by last year's Princess Donna Stockton.

"This year's estimate of 17 deaths compared to the higher number of fatalities last year is in keeping with a downward trend in Texas traffic fatalities," said Adams.

In 1984, 48% of the fatalities reported during the July 4 period resulted from accidents in which speed or DWI was listed as a contributing factor.

The Department's Operation Motorcade, in which the number of fatalities will be reported at intervals through the period to remind Texas drivers of holiday driving dangers, begins at 6 p.m. Wednesday, July 3 and continues through midnight Thursday, July 4.

though. Anchored at Dendera, a tiny village, we sat on the upper deck and looked across at the village, almost close enough to touch.

Down the dusty street came five teen-aged girls. They were dressed, not in the married woman's black, but in loose fitting slacks covered by long tunic tops. They had colorful scarves tied over their heads, and balanced empty water jugs upon them.

Several teen-aged boys were lounging in the doorway of a house. Immediately upon sying them, the girls walk slowed down. They swayed and giggled...stopped to talk...moved on a step or two...moved back to talk some more.

Flirting and giggling apparently are something that no culture is ever without!

Burglars Smash Door, Steal Safe

Burglars showed an unusual amount of "gall" in their Monday morning burglary of Dean Ward's Grocery in Bogata.

Witness reports indicate that around 3 a.m., a loud crash was heard. Thinking that there had been an accident, they looked out and saw a brown Ford pickup truck, with three men in leaving the scene.

Apparently the group rammed the door at Ward's, broke down the door into the office, and bodily carried the entire safe to the truck, loaded it up and fled the scene.

An undetermined amount of cash was in the safe, and it hasn't been determined if the trio took other items from the store.

The burglary is under investigation by the Red River County Sheriff's office at present.

Hargett And Chapman In Runoff

There will be a run-off election between Democrat Jim Chapman and Republican Edd Hargett after Saturday's election. The run-off is necessary because no one candidate received more than 50 percent of the vote. The election will be held later this summer.

Hargett took 42.2 percent of the vote, and Chapman took 30.2 percent.

The election was held to fill the vacancy created when Representative Sam B. Hall resigned his post to become a federal judge.

There were eight candidates on the ballot, six Democrats, one Republican and one Christian contender.

The campaign has been lively, with visits from a number of candidates throughout the area, and debates and forums for all of them in several central locations.

Election turn-outs were generally light, throughout the entire district.

Going To The Storm House

By Wm. C. Clifford
Back when we were kids, people around Deport were very jumpy about thunder storms. Tornadoes had hit Deport in 1907, and again in 1908. A number of houses had been blown away and one man had been killed. Because of all this, almost every family had a storm house. We were living on uncle Fred Geer's place south of town. We had a storm house, but it wasn't very good.

It was made of logs and was the home of toad frogs and grand daddy spiders. The Sam Hern family lived across the road and they had a good big dry storm house that was made of heavy oak lumber. They asked us to come over and share their cellar during storms.

The Joe Boots (Hinderson) family lived down the road a couple of hundred yards from us. They also had a storm house and were very storm shy. They went for cover almost every time it thundered. They always took a bucket of water with them. They used a chain and bucket to draw water. The well pulley always squeaked for lack of grease and the chain rattled in the night.

We didn't live in Deport at the time of the tornadoes and weren't as storm conscious as the ones with more storm experience. At night when the
