It was, to put it mildly, foggy Tuesday morning. Fog isn't so bad, except for those who must drive in it. It does add a "cloak of mystery" to old, familiar landscapes.

et my mind to recalling me things that have happensome d ed in fog. Nothing important, I've always said we have never been so lost we didn't get home...although there have been a few times I've wondered!

On our trip several years ago to the United Kingdom, we had wandered up the length of Great Britain from London to Wales to the top of Scotland and back down. During that time, we never quite got to see the sea. (Since one is never more than 75 miles from the ocean on that island country, it's

We decided to make a special trip about 20 miles over to the coast to specifically and definitely see the sea.

Of course, upon arrival, the fog was so incredibly thick we couldn't see the sea...only the fog. We found the sea, by feeling our way down the beach until a wave wet our feet...but we could never say we really saw it. I took a picture of that fog, with brightly painted boats under a single spotlight. Everyone told me I was crazy. It won first place in competition that year.

In the Smokey Mountains one time I was driving through a fog that seemed thick enough to cut with a knife. The road was twisting and mountainous, and I was so proud of how well I ws doing until I realized I had pulled into a parking lot instead of the Several years ago, we tried to take Britt and Amanda Barnard (before they shared the same last name) up into the Arkansas mountains to see the fall foliage. Naturally, the fog was totally thickened everywhere. To this day the only thing they have seen are the steps to the lodge at Wilheminia State Park....not a mountain one could they glimpse!

One of the best incidents occurred only two weeks ago, when the last football game of the season (high school that is) was played in a fog so thick that it was difficult to see jersey numbes...and impossible to see the stands on the other side of the field.

All in all, fog seems to come around pretty regularly. It has, certainly, led us into some strange places, and livened up things with a good laugh. It isn't, to my mind, so very bad!

Fire Destroys First Baptist Church In Bogata

A large crowd gathered in Bogata Sunday, November 16, to watch as a blazing fire ripped through and destroyed the First Baptist Church building. Smoke coming from the attic in front of the building was detected and reported around 12:15, just minutes after dismissal of the Sunday morning services. Apparently, the fire had started during the service, although there were no indications of the fire at that time.

A number of the members later reported that they had felt uncomfortably warm while sitting in the choir loft during the morning services. Bogata Fire Chief, Berney Huddleston stated, "It was really scary, because something could have happened right in the middle of Sunday

Giving Thanks During Thanksgiving

By Mollie Williams

A couple of years ago, my later sister, Tommie Joy Pirtle, compiled several slide pictures to form a presentation called "I Am Thankful". She presented this to several clubs and organizations in the area.

The program consisted of showing the slides, which were pictures taken of the business and professional places in and around the Bogata area, and telling of their importance to her and the community.

At this time of the year, with Thanksgiving just ahead, it seems very appropriate to reiterate those blessings that meant so much to her and also to me, and I'm sure, to everyone.

It's a real blessing to live in this community and to have so many good people to do business with. We are so fortunate, as a small town, to have Dr. Brooks as our hometown physician and Dr. Troutt as our hometown dentist. We have the local businesses to supply our needs for groceries, dry goods, furniture and medicines. We have a volunteer fire department that's proved to be very efficient many times.

We have an accessible ambulance service, a city council, city marshall, city judge and Justice of the Peace. We have various clubs and organizations that are dedicated to helping others. We have a wonderful elementary and junior high and a high school just a few miles away, with caring teachers to help mold our children. We have a good cafe with good home cooked meals, beauty shops, a barber shop, a post office, a bank, service stations and garages. We have a fine convalescent home and a number of churches and we have the freedom and liberty to worship as we choose. The list could go on and on and include families, friends and neighbors. During this Thanksgiving season, let us all "count our many blessings and name them one by one!"

By Mollie Williams

Store, owned by Jess Knowles, is still standing and reminds those who pass by of a time when Maple and Cuthand were thriving communities. Mr.

Knowles built the store in 1953 and kept it in operation until 1978.

Althought most of the people in the communities had all left and business was slow the last years of the store's operation, Mr. Knowles kept the store open as long as he was able to run it.

years 1962 and 1965, I would sometimes visit overnight in the home of Patsy Sue Knowles, granddaughter of Mr. Jess Knowles. I'd ride the school bus with them to their home after school. It seemed to me that we drove for hundreds of miles on that bus. Although I loved going there, it always seemed as if the bus let us off at the very ends of the earth. You could see for miles and miles, no houses, no stores, no Tip Top, just acres and acres of barren land. I had always been a "city kid" and was accustomed to running to the store, over to a friend's house, or to "get a coke" at whatever place all the teenagers happened to be gathered at the time.

It dawned on me, after only a few minutes in Maple, that this was quite a different life style. It was with a great sigh of relief that I first visited the Maple Store. I was so happy to know that Coca-Cola was available noticed a number of new homes that have been built in the area. I even commented to my sister-in-law, who was riding with me, that I wouldn't nind having a home there now. It's funny how time changes your way of thinking. What seemed like a terrible place to have to live as a teenager, now seems like a desirable, peaceful haven. Who knows, maybe in time

Reader Views Growing Old With A Grin How do I know that my youth has

By Mildred Whitt

Just a line to say I'm living, That I am not among the dead. Though I'm getting more forgetful, and more mixed up in the head.

For something I can't remember when I stand at the foot of the stairs. If I go up for somethings, or I've just come down from there. And stand before the fridge so

My poor mind is filled with doubt, Have I put food away, or have I just come to take some out.

And there are times when it's dark outside, with my night cap on my head, I don't know if I'm retiring, Or just getting out of bed.

So, if it's my turn to write to you, There is no need in getting sore. I may think that I have written, and I don't want to be a bore. So remember I do love you, and wish that you were here. But now it's nearly mail time, so I must say goodby my dear.

There I stood beside my mailbox, with a face so very red. Instead of mailing you my letter, I opened it instead!!

I'm Fine, I'm Fine By Mildred S. Whitt

There's nothing whatever the matter with me, I'm just as healthy as I can be.

I have arthritis in both my knees and when I talk, I talk with a wheeze. My pulse is weak and my blood is thin, but I'm awfully well for the shape I'm in.

My teeth will eventually have to come out, and my diet I will have to think about I'm overweight and can't get thin, but I'm awfully well for the shape I'm Arch supports I have for my feet, or I wouldn't be able to walk the Sleep is denied me every night, and every morning I am a sight. My memory is failing me, my head in a spin, and I'm practically living

But I'm awfully well for the shape The moral is as this tale we unfold, that for you adn me, who are growing old.

It's better to say, I'm fine with a grin, than to let them know the shape
