Christmas Parades. They are a part of the season, in small towns, ns and big cities.

They don't last too long, but the crowds love seeing the floats, cars, antique cars, fire trucks, hearing the bands and choirs, seeing kids have such a good time.

But how does it all happen? It isn't easy, and it's time that all the dozens of folks who work so hard were recognized.

The organizers and executors of every parade are exhausted by parade day. They have ironed out problems, collected money, fielded phone calls, answered questions and generally accomplished a miracle of organization.

They frequently have a thankless job, for when anyone is dissatisfied, who gets jumped on? You guessed it...the organizers.

Without those who spent uncountable hours designing, building and assembling the floats and car decorations there wouldn't be much of a parade either.

Parents, relatives and friends band together to paint, cut, stuff and assemble various entires for school classes, church organizations, civic groups. They come up with some of the most original ideas around.

It's a shame that some of the designers who make such big money for the Rose Parade or Macy's Thanksgiving Parade can't come up with some of the very clever notions that local people do.

The ingenuity seems unlimited. Cardboard and plywood can transform a flat bed trailer into a wonderland of Christmas joys. It all. takes work, work and more work.

And, sometimes, rain or snow or bitter cold makes it really hard to do that work. Hours or days of labor can be ripped up in high winds or soaking deluge. But the parades go on, and nothing stops them

This year, when parade time is over...give a thought, and perhaps an expression of appreciation to anyone you see who has worked so hard to provide you with the spectacle.

A special thanks to the organizers, and the designers of all the parades

Christmas Spirit, A Special Part Of The Season

It's an East Texas Christmas...once again. Gray and rainy, bright and sunny, the only thing that probably won't show up is snow. No white Christmas around here!

But who really needs it? The Christmas spirit is as pervasive and wonderful here without snow as in New England where Christmas-card pictures prevail.

The Christmas spirit....what is it?

How does one get it? To begin with, one doesn't GET it...it comes on its very own.

Director Jim Adams.

It usually arrives while folks are working towards "getting ready for Christmas" often complaining a little.

The Christmas spirit is that feeling which catchs on and makes people smile a little bigger, a little easier than usual.

It is the tolerance that parents feel towards voungsters who are totally hyperactive in anticipation of Santa

It is that feeling (and what feels better) of pleasure while shopping for just the right gift, or watching the delight on someone's face when they open that gift.

It is the tightness in the throat one feels upon hearing the soaring beauty of familiar Christmas Carols sung by choir or church.

It is the pleasure felt looking at Christmas decorations or parades, trees, lights and garlands.

It is something else too...the remembrance of what Christmas is really all about.

Gift giving is a reminder of the gifts brought to the infant Jesus by the wise rgreens and garlands, wreaths and trees are a reminder of everlasting life.

And whether it is consciously acknowledged or not, the true meaning of Christmas sifts through all else, rekindling the faith that lurks within.

The familiar phrases never lose their meaning, never lose their hope. "Peace on Earth" is probably the most familiar and most sought after. Someday, perhaps the realization the peace must be found within will reward us all with a perfect Christmas spirit.

But until then, the Christmas spirit comes in an imperfect, but still beautiful form. In snatches and bits, moments and memories, the Christmas spirit is one of the most precious parts of the holiday season.

Treasure it, cherish it, encourage it. And have a special Christmas and managed a split with the Reb teams.

The Rebelettes took the first contest of the evening over the Lady Tigers 35-30. The Rebelettes trailed by one at the half but outscored Clarksville 20 points to 15 points in the second half for the victory.

The Rebels were not so lucky though as the Tigers shut down the Reb offense and took a 57-42 win. In the first half Rivercrest only shot 20% from the field and only scored nine points in two quarters of action. The Rebels put together a fine effort in the fourth quarter but ran out of time as the Tigers went on to win the contest.

Thursday Rivercrest traveled to Celeste for the annual Celeste Touranment. The Rebelettes faced Bells Thursday afternoon in the first round of tournament play. Bells proved a worthy opponent for the Rebelettes. Rivercrest trailed 29-27 going into the fourth quarter before pulling ahead by one basket and hanging on for a 42-40 win. The second round of play pitted the Rebelettes against Wolfe City. Rivercrest found the going rough though against a tall Wolfe Ci-

The Rebelettes managed only 25 total points allowing the Wolves to take a 48-25 win.

Saturday's final round of play featured the Rebelettes versus Campbell for the third place trophy. Rivercrest jumped on Campbell early in the contest and never let up, as they hammered Campbell 54-23 for the third place trophy. Cindy Thompson was the Rebelette selection for the All Touranment Team.

Rhonda Collins led the Rivercrest scoring effort with 14, Barbi Rackliff had 10, Cindy Thompson had nine, Lucinda Craig had eight, Kim Clark and Deanna Varner chipped in six each and Lori Alford finished with one

The Rebels faced the host team, Celeste, in the first round of action. The Blue Devils proved a formidable adversary and stayed close throughout the contest before falling to the Rebels 45-40. The second round saw the Rebels face Anna in the semifinals Friday night.

The Rebels jumped out to an early lead and led by 14 at the half. But an inspired Anna team came out smoking in the third quarter and held Rivercrest scoreless the entire quarter. A strong fourth quarter put the Rebs on top for good, 44-33.

The Repels would face the Tom Bean Tomcats in the finals Saturday evening. The game had all the signs of a blow-out for Rivercrest. But a determined Tomcat team kept the game respectable before falling 48 to Rivercrest. Rebel forward continued to lead the Reb scoring with 18 points. Russell Rozell had 10, Danny Brown had six, Kenneth Kelley had three while Brad Anderson, Bradley Wood, Craig Savage, Marvin Anderson and David Bush added two apiece, and Brad Branch had one point. Chris Anderson was named to the All Tournament Team and as Most Valuable Player in the men's division. Rebel center Russell Rozell was also named to the All Tournament Team.

Christmas around our house, when was growing up, was always a wonderful time of excitement and joy. There were the usual concoctions of cookies, Mama's date loaf candy, and lots of fruit and nuts to eat all during the season. A great amount of secrecy surrounded Santa Claus and all our presents. Mama would go to great lengths to keep our things hidden well, so regardless of how much snooping the older kids did, they very weldom ever found Santa's hiding place.

We always celebrated Christmas Eve night at our church. Every year there was a Christmas play performed by the adults, and then the kids would all gather on the platform and sing Christmas carols. At an appointed time, the leader would lead us in singing "Here Comes Santa Claus" and the front door would open wide and in would bounce Santa, red suit, white beard and all. He'd skip up the aisle all jolly and gay, clapping his hands and saying Ho! Ho! Ho! He'd stop at the end of the pews where teenage girls were sitting with their boyfriends and tease them about putting a diamond ring on their Christmas list, then he'd make his way to the front and talk to all the little kids. Later, he'd pass out gifts which had been placed under the big Christmas tree and then, as mysteriously as he had appeared, he'd slip away into the night. He always looked exactly like the Santas in the story books--not too big and not too tall, but just right.

On one particular Christmas Eve, he had come in the church doors as usual, talked to several different ones, and then had stood in front of us as we sang our Christmas songs, clapping his hands and singing along. As I watched from my place in the group, I noticed something very familiar about the way he clapped his hands. It was different than most people's hand clasp as they clapped. The only other person I had ever seen clap their hands that way was my Dad. Suddenly, a total revelation took place in my mind. In a minute's time, all the questions and things I'd wondered about Santa were revealed

Santa always came to our house while we slept on Christmas Eve night and we'd wake before dawn on Christmas Day and hurry in to see what he had brought. This custom was followed at our house for several years after the older ones married. They and their husbands would spend the night with us so we could all open our gifts together on CHristmas morning. It took a lot of coaxing to get the in-laws up at 5 a.m., though.

Christmas Day was filled with fun as we went across the road to my grandparents and met with all the clan for our annual Christmas day

The years have brought a lot of changes in our family, but we have held on to a lot of the traditions. Although my chidlren know the truth about Santa, (they learned much younger than I), they still get up early on Christmas morning to see the toys which have been placed under the tree during the night.

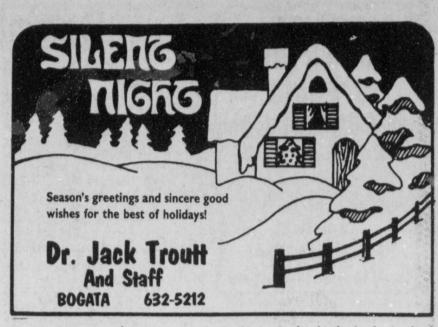

Someone once said that every age in life had its own compensations and I've found that to be true, but every year, there are things from Christmas as a child that I still miss today, like the smell of my uncle's pipe at my grandmother's house and her delicious stew she always made in addition to all the other traditional foods and the hours of playing with the cousins, whom I rarely see now. Although there's nothing quite like Christmas to a child, the season becomes much more meaningful to us as we grow older, for then we can really appreciate the true meaning of Christmas and more fully share in the love of the holidays.

Peace and goodwill to everyone this Christmas Season and always.
