My horizons have been broadened. My concept expanded. We attended a this past weekend.

ought I was a "cat nut" until seeing these people. I'm not a cat nut...they are.

Now, I asked about 15 people if they wanted to go to this cat show, in Shreveport, Louisiana, with me. I only got one taker, my niece, Joyce, from Rowlett. She likes cats, too. She came in from Rowlett and we roped Thomas into going with us, and Saturday morning away we went, on a 150 mile trip to see a bunch of pure bred

It was worth it. I don't think any of us would ever go again, but it was DEFINITELY worth seeing once.

You see, these kitty cats are kept in wire pens about three feet long and two feet high, on tables in long, long d each pen is covered on the back and sides with a cloth cover of some kind. Some kind is right. They have checked gingham with country lace, feather boas, gold and silver lame, indian prints, velvet and rhinestone studded silk!

They are ruffled, padded, quilted, embroidcred and stitched!

They are color coordinated with the bibs the cats wear. That's right. I said BIBS! Little collars with rhinestones (at least I HOPE they were rhinestones) eyelet lace or leather trim (for males). This keeps them from getting their washed, shampooed and baby-powdered fur messed up.

Now for the good part. In these cages are curtains to hide the litter boxes. Little hammocks or, no kidding, little brass beds with bedspreads.

There are miniature chandeliers, tiny pictures or toys. The food they feed these cats looks guite suitable for human consumption.

And the judging. An ordinary cat would rip a judge to pieces as he hefts it, examines it's teeth, claws and ears, tickets it with featuers and generally handles it in a manner contrary to a cat's natural instincts.

The felines react in varied manners, some in total boredom, some with an irritation barely held in check, some happily

On the cages are little signs that read, "Please don't put fingers in cage, I don't bite but my owner does" and various other things of that being.

I fell in love with the Blue Abbissinians. I priced a "pet quality" kitten. There are no new kittens at my house!

All in all, it was an informative weekend. Educational. My husband is convinced that I'm more sane than he thought. He knows what a true cat ad-

Tornado Destroys Grocery, Barns

twister hurled a tractor shed belong ing to James Norwood into the home of Eugene Norwood, damaging the house and a pickup belonging to the latter Norwood.

It apparently touched down again at the home of the Mac Webbs, destroying two large trees and damaging a garage and the house itself.

From there, it heavily damaged a hay barn belonging to Fred Swint of Deport. The huge structure, once a cotton storage warehouse, contained approximately 20,000 square bales of hay, and received serious damage.

Across Highway 271, the twister slammed into the Quickie Superette Grocery, where the largest property loss occurred. The Quickie Superette exploded, with the back wall blowing out and the roof collapsing.

Several pieces of two by four lumber from the adjacent barn were speared completely through the front wall of the building, giving mute testimony to the awesome power of the tornado.

Another barn, this one belonging to Larry Whittle of Deport, was completely destroyed during the storm.

The twister followed closely the same path as a previous tornado, which occurred on April 25, 1982, and destroyed several barns.

High winds and torrential rains accompanied the massive storm pattern which swept through the northeast Texas area, and these "straight" winds tore sheet metal and shingles loose, too. Power crews worked through the dark to re-establish electricity to Deport, which had a power outtage of a four hour duration.

Early Tuesday sunshine gave a sodden world the chance to begin picking up and thinking about rebuilding.

Starting this year, every American will have a new job.

According to a recent ruling by the U.S. Government, you are now responsible for the maintenance of the telephone wire inside your home after January 1, 1987. In other words, if you have a problem with any of the telephone wiring that runs through the house, it's up to you to fix it.

For this reason, Contel is now introducing a convenient new maintenance service called Wire Caresm Plus. With Wire Care Plus, which costs only a few cents a day, Contel will come to your home and fix any inside wiring problem at no extra charge. The Plus in the service is a set-check to determine if the problem is in the phone itself.

So why not learn more about the benefits of Wire Care Plus. For additional information, simply contact your Contel business office.
