

I received a letter last week from ding, a friend of our British Pam She was interested in the frien newspapers when we were visiting, and we sent her, per her request, a copy of each one.

The letter was so humorous, yet it opened my eyes to look at our routine world through a different view. Things we take for granted can be pretty mysterious to those not accustomed to our ways!

Here it is: "Thank you so much for the papers. I found them fascinating, worrying and puzzling. All will be revealed.

Your editorial is in the first category. You write beautifully. Although I have never seen a crepe myrtle, I think I would recognize one rite a book, I'd buy it! (of now his made me feel very good.) cour

The adverts (advertisements) were very interesting. Doesn't Thomas do well. Day to day necessities seem to be a bit cheaper with you, but what a tractor and truck pull is, I have no idea. Does one pull the other? Oh, I give up...it sounds impossible.

Worrying? Have you found homes for the two kittens? I guessed it was your own advert.

Keeping me awake at night, has anyone found the Beefmaster bull? How on earth did he come up missing. Would he have food and water wherever he went? Oh dear, do they still have cattle rustlers?

He sounds like such a nice bull. I would have joined in the search for him, as I do here for cats. Since cats come up missing in Fincheley, I suppose a bull could get lost in a place as big as Texas!

Puzzling: Why on earth do you take covered dishes to church functions? Does the church collect them? Or does it have something to do with food. But why covered? Couldn't I take a pizza?

The expression covered dish is unknown here.

I think it is time someone published a U.S. Great Britain dictionary! Houses for rent...sand delivered? Lee wants to know can we live rent free if we haul sand? I completely give up n that one.

Editor's Note: This is the last in my travel series. To all who have taken the time to call and tell me you have enjoyed it...thanks, I've enjoyed sharing it with you:

76th YEAR, No. 48

On Thursday we all set out for downtown London once again. We were told to put on dresses and ties, as we had a surprise waiting. We took the underground in. More on that later Westminster Abbey was quite an experience. Seeing the burial spots of Edward the Confessor, Mary Queen of Scots, all the other famous people, was sobering. It made us aware of the multitude of generations that have gone ahead of us.

My favorite part was the poet's corner. There T.S. Eliot, Alfred Lord Tennyson, W.H. Auden, Milton and so many more of the authors that helped to shape literature, lay at rest.

We walked through Whitehall, an area people with private (very private) residences of royalty. We were clowning with a pair of bobbies when Thomas stepped into the road to take a picture. One of the bobbies said "Move over a bit, chap, you're blocking Princess Margaret". Thomas thought he was joking. He went ahead, snapped the picture, then turned around to see that he actually HAD been blocking the Princess Margaret! Embarrassing!

We strolled on toward Buckingham Palace. Noticing some policeman setting up to block traffic, Mic politely inquired "Who is coming out?" "The Queen Mum" he replied "in about five minutes.'

So we stood as a stately, chauffeured driven black Rolls Royce limo pulled out, with a spry, smiling 85-year old Queen Mother (Queen Elizabeth's mother) swept past!

The changing of the guard was yet another example of the pomp and pageantry the British are proud of. Bright reds, flashing brass, shiny little at the angry glares we got! We seated ourselves for a short wait, then Sir Fergus appeared.

A white haired, pleasant man, we felt very comfortable with him.

We went to St. Stephen's crypt, the chapel which members of Parliament can be married in, and their children christened in. A magnificent marble baptismal font staggered the imagination.

Sir Fergus pointed out that there were two lions, one over each door.

This, he explained, was done in earin....the one with his tongue out....exit!

We chatted with him amiably, overcoming a slight tremor of awe at our special treatment, and were treated to a tour most people could only dream about! After that, I'm forced to admit that the quick lunch and cruise down the Thames seemed a little tame! The cruise, however, was nice, since it offered the opportunity to see London as it should be seen, for the river that has been her lifeblood.

Thursday, August 27, 1987

Then it was home on the underground...a situation I never hope to encounter again. For two people used to open spaces, the hundreds of people pressing on was a bit disconcerting! Every time those doors opened, I swore there wasn't room for another body...and ten more squeezed in.

Steak and Yorkshire pudding at Mic's house made up for it, though, and on Friday our friends had yet another treat in store. Pam took us that morning to the British Museum. It is counted as one of the world's finest ... and ha been a goal on my list for many years.

25 Cents

I strolled happily through gallery after gallery filled with Greek marbles, Egyptian artifacts, oriental treasures, etc.

Then we went to the Royal Tournament. It was something, indeed. Each year the branches of the military compete, and the winner sets the theme of the show. The Navy had the honors this year. The whole afternoon was non-stop pageants, military bands, tests of strength and skill, and special effects to take the breath away.

There were horse drill teams of amazing precision. There were bands from Australia, bands from the Army, Navy and Marines.

In one race, which was serious competition, a group of young men pitted themselves against another group in dismanteling a gun carriage, transporting it across obstacles piece by piece, reassembling it, and then firing it three times. They could do this in under three minutes. The whole thing was strenuous, and precise to the point where if any one person had failed to execute their part, someone would have been crushed, killed or hurt.

The finale by the Navy was awesome as hoardes of seamen ascended 90 feet up the rigging of a ship's mast in time to drum beats. The whole afternoon was a look at the traditions, pride and love the British have for their country. It was a fitting close to our stay.

Sadly, all that was left to us was a dinner (our treat) at the Manor Cottage and an early to bed before flying home on Saturday.

TNP TIPS for Year-Round ENERGY EFFICIENCY

You can keep your home energy efficient throughout the year by taking a few simple maintenance measures. TNP has compiled this list to help you get the most from your energy dollar.

Check the cooling and heating system filter once a • month. Blocked filters can cause your system to work harder than necessary.

Inspect your attic and crawl spaces to be sure they're • ventilated properly.

At least once a year, drain your water heater. This 3. helps your water heater be more efficient and may even prolong its life.

Check and clean filters on your washer and dryer. Also, keep your refrigerator coils clean.

If you have a fireplace, be sure the damper is closed J • when not in use to prevent the loss of cool air in summer and warm air in winter.
