Short takes. That's what this column is going to be this week. Tiny little pictures that can be etched on the memory, little flashes, if you will, or mini-scenes out of real life.

Try a golden shaft of sunlight illuminating shumac to a brilliant red.

The looks of absolute delight on the faces of children engaged in a treasure hunt, digging through clues to discover the hidden "treasure".

A nearly grown calf, curled up like it was a newborn, resting in the single sunny spot of a fading afternoon.

The glitter of autumn light on a clear creek surface, looking like precious jewels scattered on a solid surface.

The translucence of a hawk's wing as he wheels high overhead.

The gentle grin on the face of a grandparent when a beloved grandchild snuggles into their lap.

The exuberance and "aliveness" of teenagers tearing from classrooms to the parking lot on a Friday afternoon!

The sound of laughter drifting from a doorway on main street.

The sounds of easy rain falling on the roof and dripping from the eaves.

A little boy running across a frost-yellow yard with a puppy close behind.

The aroma of fried chicken and creamed gravy wafting from a just-opened kitchen door.

There are millions of these little scenes that the mind accumulates daily.

All it takes is the power of observation.

There are scenes like this for everyone to remember...the look of a garden as it pushes up green in the spring, or the look of it after harvest.

The smell of rich earth turned over, or the scent of cologne on a "dress up" night out.

These little scenes can be pleasant, or unpleasant, or sad, or very happy.

But they are inscribed upon the memory indelibly, and seem to spring to mind without bidding.

Try just consciously calling some to mind...or even better, just count up how many of these little vignettes you notice during just a single day!

It gives you a better appreciation of the world around us, and of our own powers of recall!

Voters Elect To Dissolve Red River County Water District Board

After over two years of law suits, elections and controversy it appears that the Red River County Water District Board will be abolished.

The highly controversial election was held Tuesday, Nov. 7, after last minute efforts, including an injunction to temporarily halt the election, failed. In a Wednesday, November 1 meeting the hearing date about the election was moved up, and it was ruled that the election could take place as scheduled.

Red River County Voters turned out in fairly heavy numbers to cast their vote yea or nay. The dissolution of the board will mean that the proposed Dimple Reservoir, the original reason for the creation of the board, will not be built.

"Buddy Poppy" Date Changed

The date has been changed for the V.F.W. and Ladies Auxiliary "Buddy Poppy" booth in front of the Peoples National Bank. The booth will be set up on Thursday, Nov. 9, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The story of the V.F.W. "Buddy Poppy", which springs from the poem "In Flanders Fields The Poppies Blow" written by Co. John McCrae commemorating the War dead, is a touching one.

The poppies have become the true symbol of all those who have given their lives in our nation's wars.

The Poppy has become recognized as the memorial flower in countries throughout the world. It is distributed by veterans organizations in Europe, in America and in most of the countries of the British Commonwealth.

Since 1922 the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States has conducted an annual sale of these "Buddy" poppies to raise funds for its charitable programs on behalf of the needy and disabled veteran, and the widows and orphans of deceased veterans.

They are sold by Posts and Auxiliaries of the V.F.W. in every state of the union and in dozens of other countries. Fourteen million are sold annually, most of them preceding Memorial Day.

More than a million and a half dollars is raised each year through these sales, all of it strictly accounted for and dedicated entirely to veterans welfare.

When you contribute to the V.F.W. Poppy Canister you have contributed to the Veterans of Foreign Wars National Home for children of deceased or disabled veterans in Eaton Rapids, Michigan, to the National V.F.W. Rehabilitation Service in

The services made possible through your donation are available to ALL needy veterans, not just those who are members of the Veterans of Foreign. Hundreds of thousands of non members are assisted with disability claims and served in hospitals each year by the V.F.W. and its Auxiliaries.

Volunteers sell the poppies. All the people who supervise are volunteers. There is someone, however who does get paid. The disabled veteran who assembled the Poppy from the original parts receives a nominal sum for his work. The amount is small, but it does help to buy little luxuries which make hospital life tolerable and permits him to perhaps purchase a gift now and then for his loved ones at home.

So when you are approached to buy a Poppy, give generously. When you wear your Poppy, do it proudly.

And when you see V.F.W. and Auxiliary volunteers working in veterans hospitals, or visiting the sick and helping, give them a word of greeting!

Tigers Use Big Finish To Beat Rebels

By Gary House

The highly favored and decidedly larger Leonard Tigers got quite a scare from the homestanding Rivercrest Rebels last week, before overtaking them with three fourth quarter touchdowns to break open a close game, 40-26. The momentum of the contest was changed on the second snap of the fourth quarter, when facing fourth and five from the Rebel eight yard line, Tiger running back Trey Trenholm appeared to be halted well short of the first down stripe by a tenacious Rebel goal-line defense. However, the official gave the Tigers "the bounce" and after a lengthy glance, awarded a first down to Leonard. Buoyed by this generous gift, the Tigers scored on the next play to take a ten point lead.

The Rebels used their season long trademark, the ong gainer, together with a no huddle Quick pitch offense to bewilder the Tigers for three periods. Senior tailback Jeremy Abshier, once again displayed his athleticism, by converting the game's second play, a simple trap call, behind the block of Chad Ingram, into an 86 yard touchdown run. The fiery Rebel rushed for 220 yards on eleven carries.

Abshier got needed help from a health-at-last fullback Marcus Savage who netted 100 yards, including a pleasurable 70 yard touchdown rumble at 2:02 of the first quarter, giving the Rebels the lead 12-6.

Overall, the Rebels accumulated 442 yards, the balance coming from the arm of Quarterback Shane Beers, who completed nine of twenty-two attempts for 109 yards. The passing effectiveness was enchanched by the Rebel's second quarter use of a no huddle Houston Cougar-type offense, which found Beers taking the snap and firing quickly to one of three wide-outs.

"That offense worked well for us, and we plan to perfect it this week to use against Cooper", commented Coach Terry Giddens.

Leonard, who now faces Wolfe City in a battle for the bi-district playoff spot, used a trio of running backs to rack up 423 yards, as all three passed the centry mark. Behind a massive Tiger offensive line, Trenholm rushed for 201 yards, and three touchdowns, while Chris Garza added 117. Perhaps the most impressive runner for the Tigers was 202 pound quarterback Shawn Wilkerson, who used his size like a fullback to account for 105 yards. In addition, Wilkerson passed for 84 yards on three completions of five attempts, all of them at critical junctures of the contest.

Although the second quarter of the contest was scoreless, the third was a topsy-turvy affair. Leonard took the kick-off and, utilizing their half-time adjustments, marched 79 yards in just under five minutes to knot the score, then take the lead on Wilkerson's two point conversion run.

Three plays later Abshier ran the sweep, and tightroped the far sideline for 72 yards to give the Rebels the lead, 18-14. The play was the Rebel's ninth touchdown of the year that has covered fifty yards or more.

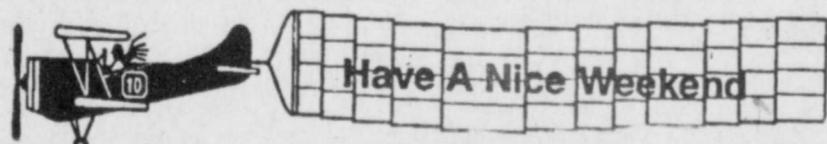

With the Tigers ahead by two points, the game's crucial play came early in the fourth quarter, and turned the tide in favor of the Tigers, who capitalized on the call as well as on their superior size. However, the Rebels managed a late tally on a three yard run by Savage, which capped a Rebel sixty-nine yard march.

The Rebels face an imposing task in their season finale, as they travel to play the fifth ranked team in Class 2-A football, the Cooper bulldogs. The Dogs, who are undefeated, have already made the playoffs. "Cooper is not just a one man team" evaluated Coach Gideens. Most of the publicity has focused on the highly touted "Bam" Morris, whom the Dallas Morning News has cited as 'the state's best running back this season.' Morris is the leading rusher, having passed the 2000 mark this week. But the 'Dogs also boast running back Byron Bonds, and quarterback Stacy Miller, who last week passed for more than 100 yards to augment the powerful rushing game.

"We're not afraid of Cooper" said Giddens. "It seems that Rivercrest always plays well against them."

The game will close the school-boy gridiron careers of seven Rebel seniors, Clint Tidwell and Joey Webb, will be sidelined by injuries. Interior linemen Chad Ingram, Kevin Binion and backs Abshier, Savage and free safety Todd Duffer have served as the team leaders this year. All have made significant contributions to the football program at Rivercrest.

men get so attached to a dog! Still timid, perhaps from abuse before her new home, Sparky is only now getting where she will allow people to pet her.

When 4 o'clock comes, she knows it's time for the trucks and men to get off work, and is always waiting to get some attention. She is a good natured, loving animal, and everyone at Texas New Mexico would like for some family, perhaps a family with children, to have her. Obviously, there is little time or attention available at a power company warehouse to spare a pet.

Anyone interested in having Sparky is asked to please contact the Texas-New Mexico warehouse. The men who work for the power company feel she's worth a special effort, and a special home.

Fire Ant Activity On Increase

By Paul D. Payne
Lamar County Extension Agent

The Imported Fire Ant is being observed in more areas of the county this fall, and this is not good news. The ant was first reported in the county five or six years ago, and they have been mainly restricted to the urban area. However, there is no reason why the pest will not eventually spread to all areas of the county. We will not be able to eliminate the ant from the county. I make this statement because efforts to control the ant in the Southeast and Texas have been unsuccessful. Therefore, we must try to manage the ant and learn to live with them.

Everything one has heard about the Fire Ant is probably true. Their sting is painful and they can kill baby calves, humans and wildlife. Currently there is no single universal solution to the fire ant problem. Before attempting any control measure, consider all of the available methods for achieving the most satisfactory results. Not controlling fire ants is one option, particularly where they do not directly interfere with man or man's activities. In areas where the imported fire ant is not widespread, individual mound treatment does less damage to native ants that slow the spread of the fire ant. Insecticidal products registered for fire ant control usually are labeled only for certain treatment sites.

An acre of land will support only a limited number of fire ant colonies. These may be in the form of a few large mounds or a large number of small ones. A few large mounds consume as much food from the environment as many smaller mounds. Established ants defend territories, preventing the establishment of new colonies in their territory. Maintaining several large, stable colonies in locations that do not interfere with the activities of man may be an ecologically sound method of stabilizing the fire ant population in certain areas.

Chemical control techniques include surface application and individual mound treatment. Mounds may be treated by drenching with a chemical, applying granular products and dusts or applying a bait formulation to the mound area. There are also liquid fumigants as well as injectable products. There are 91 products labeled for use on fire ants. One should always read the label prior to purchasing one of these chemicals to determine the method of application. For instance, dusts should be sprinkled on the mound where the ants pick up the material. Other materials are applied as a drench.

When applying a granular product measure the amount of material and sprinkle it on the top of and around the mound. Do not disturb the mound. Then, using a sprinkling can, water the mound gently, trying not to disturb the colony. Several days may be required before the entire colony has been killed.

There are several products on the market containing pesticides formulated on a bait of processed corn grits coated with soybean oil. These products are applied around individual mounds or to larger areas. They should be applied when working ants are actively foraging. Sprinkle the bait around, but not on, the undisturbed mound.

Amdro kills ants injecting this project and approximately 80% of the mounds in the treated area will become inactive within a period of five weeks. Log, Affirm and Pro-drome are insect growth regulators. They do not affect the worker ants, but render the queen ants incapable of egg production and cause the brood to develop into non-worker ants. Thus, reduction of mounds within the treated area is slow, requiring several months to a year before worker ant activity stops.

So, one can see that it is important to consult the label before making a chemical purchase. The use of a chemical name in this report does not imply a recommendation over other chemicals. For a complete list of approved pesticides request a copy of the bulletin, "Fire Ants and Their Control" from your County Extension Agent.
