Hey, anybody wanna go swimming? Well, even if you don't the weather is making us go anyway!

After a long, cool, exceptionally wet spring, summer seems to have hit with a vengeance.

As temperatures soar into the 90's the humidity is hovering at levels that would put a Florida swamp to shame and make alligators grin!

Green things grow under rocks and mushrooms pop up in shady corners.

Mildew seems able to spring up in full sunshine.

Cattle, horses, cats and dogs, being a little more sensible than the human race, simply seek the shade and the breeze, lie down and nap during the hot parts of the day. They worry not about getting "work" done.

Most of the humans in this portion of the world feel tired, un-adjusted to the heat and downright damp and cranky.

We feel as if we are trying to breath underwater. The lungs just don't seem to have enough air, and our bodies seem to be determined to run for air conditioning whether the yard work is done or not!

Sales of anti-perspirants, bathing suits, sleeveless tops and cold soft drinks are booming.

Air conditioners are going full blast.

There is an English quotation "What is so rare as a day in June?" They use the word rare to mean beautiful and priceless.

Well, a day in June in north east Texas isn't rare, fine or beautiful temperature wise.

Still, it has its compensations.

The skies are gorgeous and blue, the trees in full leaf and flowers are brilliant.

Ball fields are crowded with Little League and softball players, engaged in healthy exercise in spite of the humid heat.

Family reunions proliferate, vacations are in full swing and main street is liable to have little congregations of youngsters solving the world's problems while they enjoy the freedom from school.

Soon enough it will be time for those long, cloudless days of July where there will be no humidity to speak of.

The world we live in will change once more.

Thankfully, the muggy days of June don't last long, but for now all we can do is scuttle from air conditioned spot to air conditioned spot and wish it were cooler!

Comptroller Sends June Rebates Totalling $105.6 Million

State Comptroller John Sharp today sent a total of $105.6 million in June sales tax rebates to 934 Texas cities and 105 counties, a 7% increase over payments a year ago.

Another $142.5 million in quarterly payments went to six transit authorities in the state's largest cities.

Houston received the largest city sales tax rebate for June, $14.1 million, down 5.6% from the city's $14.9 million in 1991.

Locally, Mt. Pleasant received $113,991.85 for this period, a 4.15% decrease from last year.

Talco received $1,042.11 for a 12.63% decrease.

Bogata received $1,574.31 for a 16.99% decrease while Clarksville received $16,984.36 for a 0.11% decrease.

Blossom received $1,250.07 for a 0.46% decrease.

Deport received $667.35 for an 11.52% increase.

Paris received $185,655.17 for a 5.75% decrease.

"Eroded consumer confidence and other recessionary woes have resulted in cancellation or delay of many construction projects and dampened demand for manufactured goods. Strong job gains in the government, services, transportation and trade sectors in Dallas have helped balance losses in other sectors," said Sharp.

This month's sales tax payments include taxes collected on April sales and reported to the Comptroller in May by businesses filing monthly tax returns.

Country Cooking

By Gerrie Bankhead

The Country Cooking Column is coming to you this week from the overflow file folder of recipes I want to share that I have received lately or have had quite sometime.

It is very exciting to receive country cooking mail. Recipes have come from many, many different states since I started this column and I thank each of you for the great response.

I know many of you have great recipes to share who live too far away to be interviewed, so I'm encouraging you to continue sending them in. Also I want to encourage you who raise a garden, etc. to send in vegetable recipes or fruit recipes that we may not have run. For example: squash, there are lots of things you can do with this vegetable and right now we have an abundance of it and need new recipes. This also holds true with tomatoes, okra, etc. Two of the recipes I'm sharing this week come from two of my sisters-in-law, one from Lubbock, Elba, and one from New Mexico, Elaine. Both are extremely great cooks and I hope you enjoy these recipes.

Recently we had a request for syrup pie. I have received a syrup pie and a syrup cake recipe to share from Wootie Harville of Bogata. She says these two recipes were her mothers and if she were alive, she would be 104. Wootie has used the recipes for over 50 years. Thanks, Wootie. I also had a request for a chocolate chip pie recipe and have had great response. I want to share two recipes I received and I will run another one later. Bobby Slusher of Cunningham sent the Chocolate Chip pie recipe and Kitty Mays of Clarksville sent the Derby Pie recipe. Thanks to both of you and also to Nellie Lowell of Dallas for sharing her Easy Caramel Pie recipe with us.

If you have a recipe to share, a request, or a suggestion, please call 652-6032 or write to Rt. 1, Box 56C, Deport, TX. And don't forget, keep those recipes coming.

Due To A Very Busy Schedule, Gerrie Bankhead will No Longer Be Doing the Cooking Column. We DO NOT want to Do Without This Column. Anyone Wanting To Write This Column Should Contact Nanalee Nichols at 652-4205 or 652-5823 to Discuss Salary and Requirements or Call Gerrie To Talk To Her About It. PLEASE Help Us OUT!

Mr. and Mrs. Jackie Whitney

Dillard-Whitney Exchange Vows

Lisa Dillard and Jackie Whitney were married in an afternoon ceremony on Saturday, May 23 at North Ridge Church of Christ. Jim Parker, minister of the church, officiated the vows.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. James Dillard and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whitney. Lisa and Jackie are students at the University of North Texas in Denton.

Vows were repeated before a luminous background of candlelight provided by a crested candelabra and brass hearis outlined with candles. Flower stands of white wicker filled with white gladioli and flowers of the bride's chosen colors completed the setting.

Wedding music was provided by Allen and Rhonda Curry. Songs included "Sunrise, Sunset", "Just You and I", "There is Love", and "We've Only Just Begun".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a formal length gown of white satin and organza. The fitted bodice of Alencon lace was heavily covered with white sequins and pearls with a wedding band collar. Back of bodice featured a keyhole opening with five strands of pearls extending across the keyhole; leg-of-mutton sleeves with sequined and beaded appliques of Alencon lace. The full organza skirt came to a point in front with ruffled tiers. The back of the skirt, caught at the waist, with a large organza bow, extended into a cathedral train. The veil of illusion was edged with re-embroidered scallops attached to a tiara crown of iridescent beads and sequins.

She carried a cascading nosegay bouquet of silk white roses with pink sweetheart roses and long satin streamers.

Maid of honor, LaDonna Bates, wore an ice pink taffeta dress with ruffles lined in white taffeta. Serving as bridesmaids were Lisa Kuhl, and Faye Whitney, sister of the groom. Their dresses were identical to the maid of honor's and they carried nosegays of mixed spring flowers in shades of pink and yellow.

Traci Lawrence, cousin of the groom, was flower girl. Her dress was also ice pink taffeta.

Serving as best man was Bradley Woods. Groomsman were Brad Williams and Dale Screws. Clay Travis, a friend from Denton, assisted the groomsman with ushering the guests.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the east room of the church.

The bride's cake was displayed on a table covered with white satin and lace. The three-tiered bridal cake was decorated with a ruffle and rosette design in the bride's chosen colors. Porcelain bride and groom dolls, created by Bessie Seekings as a gift to the couple, served as the centerpiece. Punch, mints and nuts were served from silver place settings. Napkins featured the couple's names and wedding date.

Coffee and the traditional chocolate groom's cake, topped with a bride and groom in chains, were served from his table laid identically to the bride's table.

In the houseparty were Leonna Cooper, Judi Hix and Nicole Parrish with Diana Bagley at the register.

After the wedding trip, the couple will reside in Denton.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whitney honored their son, Jackie, and his bride-elect, Lisa, with a rehearsal dinner in the East Room of the church on Friday, May 22. All immediate relatives and the wedding party were treated to a barbecue supper.

A bridesmaids luncheon in honor of the bride-to-be was held in the home of Mrs. Doug Bragg on May 22.

Hospice To Hold Training Course

A volunteer training program for Ella C. McFadden Hospice at St. Joseph's Hospital and Health Center will begin Monday, June 22.

Hospice is a concept of care that seeks to meet the needs of terminally ill patients and their families through a home-care team approach that provides physical, emotional and spiritual comfort. Volunteers are an integral part of the concept.

The training program, which will be presented on Monday and Thursday evenings, June 22, 25, 29, July 2, 6 and 9 will provide background information to help the volunteer better understand the dying patient and the bereaved family. Training is very important in this area and volunteers are expected to attend all sessions before they are assigned to work with a patient.

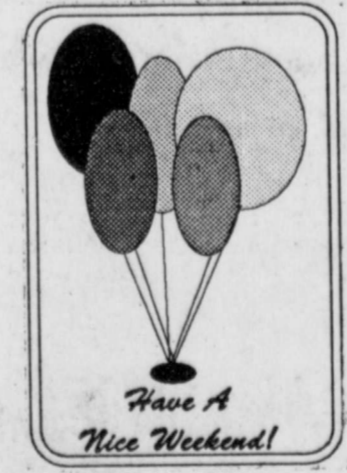

Applications may be picked up from Sue Preston in the hospice unit at St. Joseph's or may be obtained by calling her at 737-3622.

Tales of Skye and Highland Flings

Here is a continuation of our vacation in Scotland. A I've said before, don't read it if you don't have interest, it's purely voluntary.

Anyone who has ever been in the city of Edinburgh knows that castle hill dominates the city.

Early the morning after our late night prowling the dark, wet streets of the old town we were back for a daylight tour of town and castle.

Archie was our guide that morning, a spry 84 year old dressed in his kilts and telling tales of the old city.

The view from Edinburgh Castle is absolutely superb.

Misty islands were visible in the harbor, and big ships plied the water.

We saw the dog cemetery, where animals attached to military regiments were buried, and toured the state apartments, wandered up and down.

The Scots crown jewels, while not as impressive in England's, are the oldest in Europe.

Most of the Scottish crown jewels were looted by the English, leaving very few pieces.

We saw Deacon Brodie's tavern, the Robert Lewis Stephenson House, Admiral Nelson's monument (a huge tower built in the shape of a telescope) and the monument to Greyfriar's Bobby.

This is a little fountain topped by a long haired, floppy eared dogs likeness.

Bobby was a dog who followed his master's funeral procession into the cemetery. After everyone departed he continued to lie on his master's grave. This the faithful little dog did for fourteen years, leaving only to go to a nearby pub for a meal, then returning to his master's grave.

Holyrood Palace was closed to the public because the royal family would be coming up from London soon.

We did see the ruined abbey, the grounds, fountains and ornate gates.

Then we rode up to Arthur's seat, a wilderness park with wild flowers blooming.

That afternoon Thomas and I wandered around the Royal Mile. We found a grocery store and bought Scotch eggs (hardboiled with sausage wrapped around them) and sodas, then repaired to Canongate cemetery for lunch and a long look at the gravestones.

We made our way to Registry House, where every birth, marriage and death is recorded, shopped for some gifts, then came back to our hotel worn out, but contented.

We joined the rest of our tour group for an evening of Highland Dancers, bag piping and singing, plus a meal.

Held in an old stone stable, with a canvas roof, we were a little disappointed in the evening, finding it too "touristy" for our tastes.

Next morning it was up and on our way for a beautiful day's drive.

A brief stop at the eighteenth hole of St. Andrews golf course put the avid golfers into heaven. The wind was howling at 35 mph, and the waves on the north sea were being stripped of their tops and blown back out to sea.

At the small town of Pitlochry we toured the Blair Atholl Distillery, seeing how one of Scotland's major exports is made. Scotch Whiskey is world famous. We went through the old stone buildings, past vats of fermenting liquid, through rooms with enormous copper stills, then to a room where we were offered a "wee dram" (taste) of the whiskey made there. I'm sorry, but it tasted terrible to me!

We visited Blair Castle, a snowy white building filled with artwork and armour.

Then we wandered along through the Grampian mountains, capped with snow and absolutely magnificent.

Throughout the day our tour director, David, had proceeded to tell us that we would be getting up at 3:30 in the morning to go hunt Haggis.

The Haggis, he insisted, was a tiny bird that was very elusive.

We would go out in our "wellies" (rubber boots) with Firkle Sticks and Gotcha sticks to frighten the birds into falling down the mountain, then use the Gotcha sticks to capture them.

Imagine his surprise when a tour member phoned him at 3:30 in the morning to tell him that there were six tour members in the lobby waiting to go Haggis hunting!

A good sport, he took the joke quite well. It had, after all, happened to him before.

The next day we drove to the most famous Loch of all...Loch Ness. Twenty-three miles long, one mile wide and 900 feet deep, it's a lovely lake (excuse me, loch), we didn't get a sight of the monster, of course, although we did see a striking ruined castle on the banks.

Up at the peaks of the mountains we stopped in the middle of nowhere for a view that was breathtaking.

As far as the human eye could see mountain peaks swept in paler and paler shades of blue and purple until they could no longer be distinguished from the sky.

Lochs and trees whispered and rippled in the wind below us, and the road stretched on, seemingly forever.

We made our way to the isle of Skye then.

Skye is one of the famed "misty Isles" and is reached by a ferry.

The famous song about bonny Prince Charlie goes "Fly bonny boat like a bird on the wing, onward the sailors cry, carry the lad that was born to be king, over the sea to Skye."

This refers to Charles Edward Stuart's flight after his massive defeat at Culloden, when the Scots would not reveal him to the English who had placed a huge price on his head.

Skye is an island isolated and pleasant, with small cottages and stunted, sea- and- wind twisted trees.

While on the island we visited the "Black House" a crofters museum with furnishings and articles showing what the harsh life of long ago must have been.

A pleasant smelling peat fire burned in the fireplace. Peat burns with no sparks, and chimneys can be made of mud and straw!

We returned to the mainland by the ferry once more, learning that construction of a bridge to the islands is now underway, practical, I'm sure, but certainly not as romantic.

A boat ride on another loch made famous in song completed the day. Loch Loman was gull filled, cool and pleasant, and our boat ride delightful.

It was much warmer and sunnier than had been going back to the Drumossie Hotel, perched above Inverness.

That night we had a treat, the Highland Dance School had a host of little girls on hand to do the Highland Fling, and many other Scottish dances.

These little girls weren't polished and professional, but were so much fun to watch.

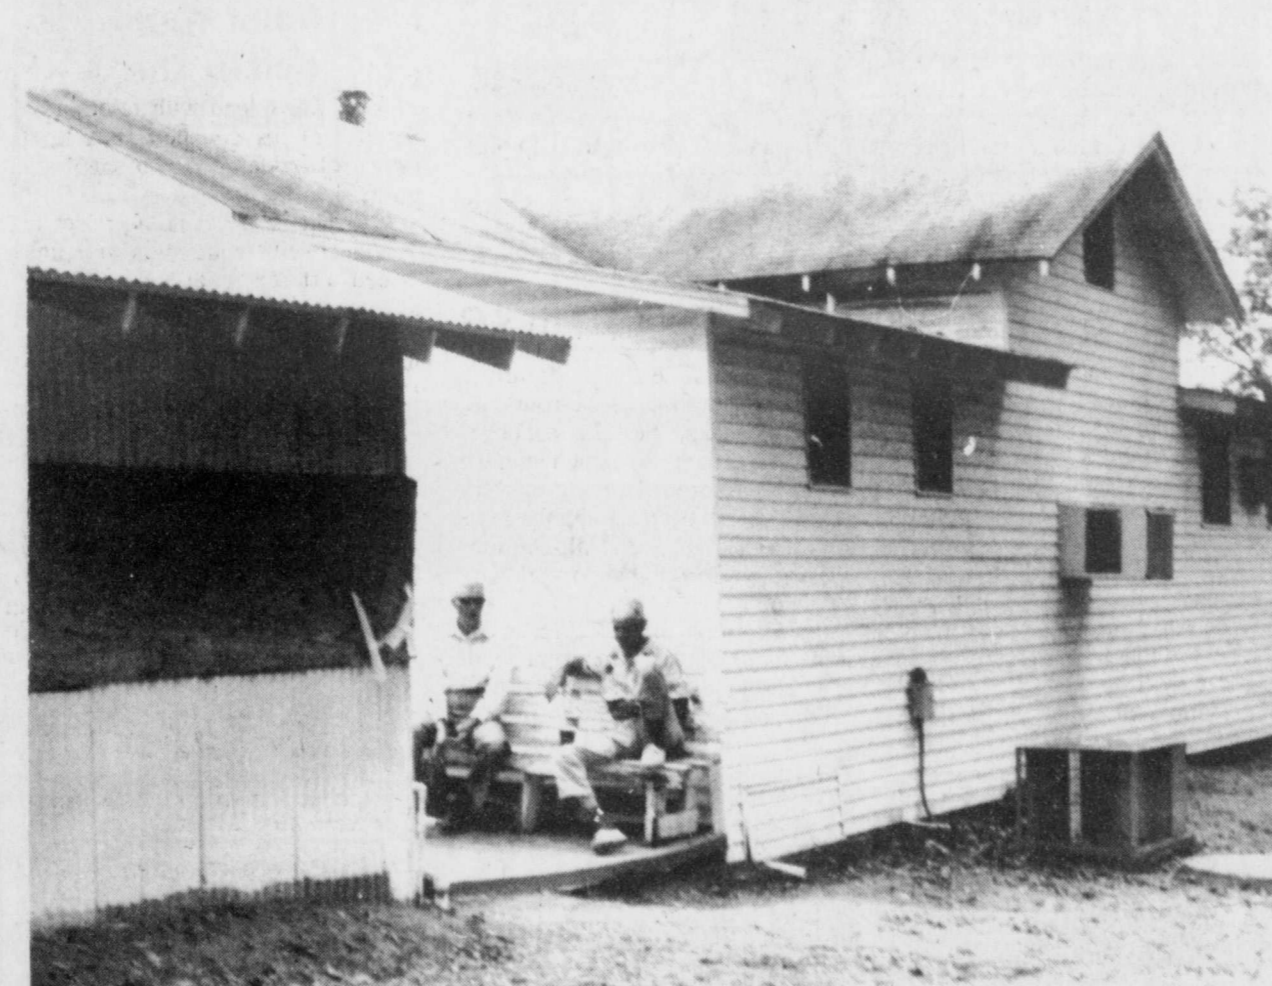

Since we were sitting next to a little red headed girl's parents and grandparents we were soon in conversation with them, learning about the hours of practice and the competitions the child was in.

We branched out to general conversation soon, and really ended up having a great visit with these folks. They seemed to have as much fun talking to people from Texas as we did talking to them.

Next week we will set out for the big city of Glasgow, through more pretty scenery and more history.

Lillian Taylor Says Good-Bye To Rivercrest

Sometimes the community must say good-bye to someone who does far beyond their duty. Lillian Taylor retired as Rivercrest High School secretary at the Board of Trustees meeting June 9, 1992. It's going to be hard to see her go.

For the last eighteen years, Lillian has been part of the driving success of Rivercrest. It takes someone who is as giving and as dedicated to do what she has done. This past year has been very challenging for her.

If you have ever talked to Lillian about the school or the students, her affection for them is shown. Sitting beside her at a sports event or awards program, she is proud of each student's accomplishment.

Walking into the Rivercrest office won't be the same. Lillian always had everything in order, or at least knew what was suppose to be happening. The past year she has helped me a great deal. She always did more than she should.

We hate to see her go. Thanks for being who you are. Your shoes are going to be hard to fill!

Lillian Taylor, retiring from Rivercrest High School

Rene Koehn Honored With Wedding Shower

Tuesday, June 9, 1992 Rene Koehn, bride-elect of Brad Anderson, was honored at the Justin Strawn home with a bridal shower.

Mrs. Justin Strawn, Rene Koehn, Mrs. Willard Koehn and Mrs. Bill Anderson greeted the guests as they arrived. Carolyn Strawn registered the guests. Sharon Strawn and Becky White served cake and punch. The table was covered with a white lace tablecloth and a peach bouquet centerpiece.

Hostess were: Mrs. Buddy Damon, Mrs. C.D. Glass, Mrs. Jerry Gray, Carolyn Strawn, Sharon Strawn, Mrs. Justin Strawn, Mrs. James Walker and Mrs. Glen White. A large number of nice and useful gifts were received.

PICKUP MEN-These cowboys you see at every rodeo are very important to the success of the rodeo performance. They are called "pickup men", and their duties include rescuing bareback and saddle bronc riders from their mounts, as well as keeping the arena cleared of timed event livestock, and if necessary, roping an unruly bull or horse who can't find the let-out gate. Pictured are, left to right, Jimmy Crowther, Gypsum, KS and Randy Franks, Clarksville, TX, who were voted to work the 1991 C.R.R.A. Finals Rodeo held in Tulsa, OK last October. Wing Rodeo Company Sweeps Stock Awards

Bogata's own Wing Rodeo Company again dominated livestock awards that were presented to stock contractors for outstanding livestock during the 1991 rodeo season.

The awards were presented by the Cowboys Regional Rodeo Association at their annual awards banquet held at the Park Plaza Hotel in Tulsa, OK last October at the conclusion of the 1991 CRRA Finals Rodeo.

Tracy Snort, #23, was voted Bareback Horse of the Year, +3, Gentle Jim was voted in a tie for Saddle Bronc of the Year honors.

Bucking Bull of the Year was voted as Bugle Boy Skoal, #9.

In addition to these livestock awards, Wing Rodeo Company was voted by the membership of the association as Producer of the Year, an award the Wing Rodeo Company has won for the last three consecutive years.

In the Rodeos of the Year category, the following rodeos were produced by the Wing Rodeo Company. Benton, AR was chosen as Most Improved Rodeo in the 1991 season; while Gainesville, TX was chosen Best Produced. Bonham, TX was voted Best Promotional Rodeo and Gainesville received the Southern Region Rodeo of the Year award.

Bogata, TX received the Southern Region Rodeo of the Year award in 1989.

ANNOUNCER of the Year honors in the Cowboys Regional Rodeo Association in 1991 went to Doug Williams of Idabel, OK, who has served as the Bogata Rodeo emcee for the past 27 some-odd years. Williams' award in 1991 marked his seventh consecutive Announcer of the Year award in the CRRA. (Photo by Rex Deal Photography)

Help Stop Your Kids From Joining The Crowd.

Let's face it, drugs are everywhere. They're a part of growing up and a part of the crowd.

And it's our children's decision to experiment with drugs or turn them down.

So, what can we do? We can teach standards of right and wrong, and demonstrate these standards through example.

We can help children resist peer pressure to use drugs by supervising their activities, knowing who their friends are, and talking with them about their interests and problems.

We can learn about drugs and signs of drug abuse.

As concerned parents, it's our responsibility to educate ourselves and our children about the dangers of drug abuse.

In fact, educating our children to refuse drugs is the surest way to fight the problem.

Talk to your kids.

Bogata Rodeo Association Charter Members Recognized

As the Bogata Rodeo for 1992 approaches it might be a good time to pause and give thought to those people who started the whole thing!
 The Charter members of the Bogata Rodeo Association worked and some are still working hard to produce the best rodeo in the area.
 Living Charter Members are: Travis Hale, Steve Biggerstaff, James Gibson, Jessie Gray and Travis King. Those Charter Members who are deceased are: Lee King, Paul Williams, Alvin Wood, Paul Hill, Henry Hudson, William Rozell, Raymond Fennell, Guy Smelser and Lewis Clark.

These members undertook the huge job of organizing and creating the first Bogata Rodeo and worked diligently to perfect the ensuing traditions.

The result has been an event that Bogata and the entire area can be proud of.

Bogata VFW Meets

The VFW Post 8187 and the Auxiliary had their monthly meeting Monday, June 15. The members enjoyed a delicious meal of fish with all the trimmings. The fish was furnished by Buddy Rushin and Larry Crow. The next meeting will be July 20. All members are encouraged to attend. There will be a pot luck meal before the meeting.
