Worth

By Nanalee Nichols

A next-door neighbor (on main street, not at the house) stuck her head in the office door the other day and said, "Nanalee, have you ever wondered if life in heaven is as complicated as it is here on earth?"

She then zoomed on down the street to attend to numerous items of business, while I proceeded in my vain quest for the unseen-but-suspected-to-be-there top of my desk.

After another hour or two of delightfully attending to piles of urgent, very urgent and should-have-been-done-yesterday news items, photos and bookkeeping matters, I had little time to ponder on what my friend had asked.

Later that night, after a meeting, a doctor's appointment, a photo session, about two dozen phone calls, feeding the new duckling, cats, baby kittens, dogs, checking on the cows, fixing the evening meal, watering the plants and taking my bath I finally had leisure to consider her query. My poor husband was still in the hay meadow, with equipment problems.

As is usual with me, I was doing my worry routine. One of my phone calls had required some careful diplomacy. The meeting had not solved any problems...only put them off.

The budget both at the paper and at home was suffering its annual summer depletion.

The lack of rain was (and is) serious...crops and grazing are drying up. Meanwhile, to make matters worse, the nightly news was on and I could witness what too much water will do. That, and the strife and starvation that seems so rampant throughout the world just about finished me off!

I worried around on all these problems (none of which were solved or resolved by my fretting). Finally I came up with a very obvious answer to the question I was asked earlier that day.

"Is life as complicated in heaven as it is here on earth?"

Obviously not...or it wouldn't be heaven!

Just A Note To My Readers: Yes, last week's tale of the orphan duckling is true...every word of it. And, as a matter of fact, ALL my tales are true...I haven't made a single one up! I have had several people ask if all these things really happen to me, and they do. I don't know how come I'm so lucky! ?

Area Drought Worsening With Heat, No Rain

Crops are rapidly deteriorating as the moisture situation worsens throughout the entire Red River Valley area. It has been about a month since any appreciable amount of rainfall has been received, and that coupled with high winds equates to a disaster.

Nevertheless, we have much for which to give thanks, and perhaps we should be thankful that we have made some production and our cattle have not been swept down the river and our homes and farmsteads are not inundated with water and several feet of mud.

Soybeans are one of the hardest hit crops at this time. The early maturing varieties (Group III & IV) are in the bloom and pod filling period in their development at the present time. The Group III and early Group IV varieties have set pods while the later maturing Group IV varieties are blooming presently. If moisture doesn't come soon, the beans in the set pods will not fill and the beans blooming will not set pods. A good rain this week would be very beneficial.

The area hay crop is running upwards of 50% of normal based on reports from custom hay operators and farmers. The first cutting was extremely short, as bermuda grass did not grow until the weather warmed up in late May. Consequently, the first grass cutting contained very little bermuda. This shortage has caused prices of most commodities to go up, and we should expect feed cost to escalate when the full impact of the midwest flood is realized.

McCuiston Hospital Affiliates With Presbyterian

McCuiston Regional Medical Center has announced that, based on the recommendation of the hospital's administration, the Board of Directors has chosen to affiliate with the Dallas-based Presbyterian Healthcare System.

According to hospital administrator, Anthony A. Daigle, "Since early 1992, McCuiston's Board of Directors and Administration have been exploring options related to providing high quality healthcare for Paris, Lamar County, northeast Texas and southeast Oklahoma in the face of challenging financial restrictions. "McCuiston and Presbyterian," Daigle said, "share a common philosophy of providing the best possible care to patients and their families in the most appropriate and convenient setting."

Doug Hawthorne, President and CEO of Presbyterian Healthcare System, added, "Both of our institutions enter this agreement from positions of strength. In creating this affiliation agreement, we are teaming for the future. Presbyterian represents a major health care network composed of 1300 physicians, 5000 employees in hospitals and urgent care centers throughout north and east Texas."

The selection of PHIS, Daigle stressed, provides added assistance in the efforts McCuiston is making to establish new and needed programs for its service area as well as expanding existing programs. "Working with Presbyterian will strengthen our ability to provide solutions to some of the problems related to access of adequate healthcare by our aged and indigent population; control and hopefully reduce healthcare cost to our patients; increase the access to all levels of service by our patients and their physicians, and enhance the quality of healthcare in our service area."

The hospital leaders also announced that cooperative actions are being reviewed with St. Joseph's Hospital and Health Center, Paris. Several meetings have been held with leadership from both facilities. The ongoing effort is to provide effective solutions to the needs and concerns of the community. "Because it is our desire to help support the needs of the Paris community, Presbyterian Healthcare System will pursue grants which will aid in meeting the identified community needs and will benefit all of those who seek and provide healthcare in this community," Hawthorne emphasized. Many needs were identified through a community needs assessment which St. Joseph's conducted in 1992.

The Presbyterian Healthcare System affiliation promotes care at the local level and creates an ease of access to desired levels of service by patients and their physicians while strengthening the physician-to-physician relationship with staff members at Presbyterian Hospital-Dallas. Additionally, the strengths of both organizations complement the existing strategic plans for McCuiston and reinforces the joint strategic planning of both local hospitals in meeting community needs. By sharing current resources, McCuiston would not have to develop programs that exist in the Presbyterian Hospital System freeing up local capital for other endeavors.

"By selecting Presbyterian, we have created a relationship without legal hassles or entanglements," Daigle noted, "and have not given up local decision-making power or operational management. I believe this affiliation means the broadening of our horizons to ensure the best possible care for the citizens of our community for today and tomorrow."

A GREEN THUMB OR IS IT A RED THUMB?- Bobby Hervey displays some of the tomatoes he has grown this year. (Photo by Judy Screws)

Bobby Hervey Has A Green Thumb

Bobbie Hervey, of Bogata, says he only has a small garden, and gives most of the vegetables he raises to other folks. Even though he tries to be modest, his tomatoes are really something to behold. He says that both this year and last year his tomatoes have done better than usual. He took one to the grocery store to have it weighed on a produce scale. It weighed around 2 1/2 pounds. Bobby raises vegetables other than tomatoes, but for the most part the other things are average size. He set out some winter tomatoes last year, and has done so again this year, but he says they are not as good as the summer ones, and caring for them is a lot more trouble.

I enjoy listening to people talking about doing things they enjoy doing. Bobby and Billie seem to really enjoy gardening. He says that his garden is a little easier to handle because it is smaller.

It's hard to talk to the Hervey's very long without Arietta's name being mentioned. We were discussing the home Sam and Arietta Hervey (Bobby's Daddy and Mama) had in Johnstown, and I mentioned Arietta's bread pudding. Bobby quickly corrected my mistake and told me it was biscuit pudding. Regardless of how she made it, it was good.

Does anyone else have a pretty garden this year? If so, tell us about it.

Country Cooking

By Judy Screws

This week's featured cook is less than excited about being featured in a cooking column. Also once again I am featuring one of my favorite people, and she is getting her mother out of a bind. My cook this week is our daughter, Tana. She prefers to cook quick and easy dishes. She also will not cook anything which has over a few grams of fat in it. In fact she will just not eat anything which is filled with fats unless it happens to be one of her eating days. Those are days on which she gives herself some relief from her eating plan so that she will not get bored and go back to eating candy bars and fried foods. Tana began a low fat eating plan on the first day of January, and since then she has lost 32 pounds. She says that she has about 25 more pounds to lose. I hope she makes it.

Tana is our older daughter. She went to First Ward, Paris High, Paris Junior College, East Texas State and Northeast Texas Colleges. She has a Bachelor's Degree and is certified to teach physical education, health, and driver's education. She taught one group of Driver's Ed kids at Rivercrest this summer. She said she really enjoyed the kids. When Tana was a kid, she played Tennis and Softball. She can still play pretty well, if she takes a notion to do so.

Tana is a department head at the WalMart Store in Paris. She has been employed there since September of 1989. She works in toys, and it is her opinion that everyone should get the chance to work in Toys at least once in their lifetime, especially at Christmas Time.

One of Tana's favorite things to do is take videos of, go places with, and just spend time with her "little people." These little people are her six nieces and nephews. She also gets a kick out of watching Soap Operas, and working with her Personal Computer.

The recipes Tana is sharing with us are some that she has revised from a low fat cook book. They are Mexican Pizza, Quick Chocolate Cake, and Spanish Rice.

I appreciate Tana helping me out even if I did have to take out a bank loan to pay her.

Party Held For Krystal And Valerie Williams

On July 23rd Krystal and Valerie Williams, of Odessa, had a very lively swimming party at the home of Doyle and Betty Williams. The occasion was to honor Krystal's 13th birthday. Thirty three people attended the party.

The adults enjoyed the water show which was put on by the children with much laughter and a few gasps, as the daredevils attacked a large whale (Johnboat) and the braver ones rode the cable and pulley ride to see who could do the wildest jump at the end of the ride. Other events were the Mud Slip and Slide and the floating lock. The young engineers turned it into a kid powered paddle boat.

All were revived with hot dogs and colas before cakes in the shape of trolls were served.

The kids were already planning an even bigger and better party for next summer, while the hosts were just planning to collapse and try to get their brains and bodies moving again. A good time was had by all. Krystal and Valerie are the daughters on Marty Williams of the Maple Community.

Gift Means More Than Sender Can Know!

Every now and then something happens which makes deadlines, debts and the hassles of weekly newspapering well worth while. Two Christmases' ago we had a Christmas Color Photo contest. A Talco Subscriber, and former Deport resident, David Teague, (now a resident of Goshen, Indiana) won the contest with his beautiful snow scene of a red barn.

The other day a wooden box arrived at the office. In it was an absolutely beautiful enlargement of the original snow scene in a gorgeous handcrafted frame made from Indiana barnwood in faded red and white, with a small brass plaque.

The letter accompanying the picture said that it was because of the many years he had enjoyed the paper. Also included was an article for the Talco Times, and a photo of a painting that was done by a relative of mine.

I don't think anyone can ever understand just how meaningful gestures like this are.

We do put a massive amount of effort into putting our five papers. And we do make mistakes, leave things out and sometimes even anger people.

That's why the "bouquets" such as this beautiful picture are so special. The painting will be on a special place, both at our home and in our hearts. Every time we look at it we are reminded of the many readers we have who put out extra efforts to help make a better paper. Words or gestures of appreciation are worth much more to us than the plaques or certificates we may earn at press conventions, because it represents our readers. Our readers are our reason for existing, after all.

We have run the story, and want to encourage any and everyone to submit articles that they think we might use. We probably will be glad to have them!

As for David Teague, and every other reader who says "thank you" we can only say, "Thank YOU, you really make our day".

POOL TOURNAMENT WINNERS- Billy Adams and Andy Speir display the trophies they won at the VFW Pool Tournament.

On July 6, at the semi-annual pool tournament held at the VFW in

Mail Order Pharmacy
Prescription medications are the largest out-of-pocket health care expense for many people. They vary widely in price, but recently a low-cost option has become available: Prescriptions by mail.
Some insurance plans contract with physicians who then mail their prescriptions to pharmacies. The insurance company pays, and you get the medicine in a week or two.
The Johns Hopkins Health Letter says mail service pharmacies (MSPs) are relatively safe. The largest is run by the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP). One concern is that an error may be made. Here is the Health Center's advice on making MSPs work for you:

- They are best for chronic disorders. Savings are available for larger orders.
- Don't order medications you need to have before the two-week lead time.
- Keep a copy of the prescription so you can compare the name against what appears on the label when the medication arrives.
- Be knowledgeable about your medication. Understand dosage and be familiar with generic and brand names.
- Don't hesitate to ask questions if a pill looks different from what you're used to. Whatever type of care you are getting, you must play an active role whether the medication comes by mail or from the local pharmacy.

Monthly Sales Tax Rebates Received by Local Cities and Counties

State Comptroller John Sharp delivered a total of $111.4 million in monthly sales tax rebates to 977 Texas cities and 108 counties, a 6.9% increase over the payments of one year ago.

Texas cities received $100.3 million, up 7.7% over the $93.1 million they received last July. Counties received a total of $11 million, virtually unchanged from their July 1992 payment.

This month's sales tax rebates include taxes collected on May sales and reported to the Comptroller in June by businesses filing monthly tax returns.

"Employment across the state has continued to expand since May 1992. The service sector led all other industries, adding 63,000 jobs over last year. The government, wholesale and retail industries also increased by 43,000 and 31,900 jobs respectively," Sharp said.

The city of Houston received a sales tax payment of $14.6 million, the largest rebate for July, and a 2.8% increase from its $14.2 million in July 1992.

"Proposed plans to relocate some manufacturing facilities to Houston, as well as the addition of new retail stores, could bolster employment and break the city's stagnation," Sharp said.

Blossom received $1,675.92 this year as compared to $1,303.80 last year, an increase of 7.22%.

Deport received $684.88 this year as compared to $565.68 last year, an increase of 8.38%.

Paris received $163,867.73 this year as compared to $169,019.35, a decrease of 5.98%.

Bogata received $1,929.39 this year as compared to $1,951.57, a decrease of 5.23%.

Clarksville received $14,873.80 this year as compared to $15,882.98, a decrease of 1.85%.

Detroit received $853.30 as compared to $678.85, an increase of 21.88%.

Mount Pleasant received $125,848.46 as compared to $105,076.22, an increase of 15.63%.

Talco received $933.41 as compared to $942.38, a decrease of 6.04%.

Windows Offer Scenic Views But Contribute Little To Home Comfort

A wall of windows may offer a scenic view, but it offers little to a home's comfort level or energy efficiency, according to Texas-New Mexico Power Company.

The R-value of a window shows why windows may contribute up to 20% of a home's summer heat gain or winter heat loss through heat transfer. R-value is a relative measure of a material's resistance to heat transfer. The higher the value, the higher the resistance to heat transfer. A double-paned window generally has an R-value of R-1.5, compared to a standard wall, which has an R-value of R-11.

Although windows can never achieve the efficiency of a wall, homeowners can take steps to reduce energy waste through windows, said Gary Petty, Bogata district manager with TNP.

Most of these steps involve either some type of insulation for the windows or shading for the outside of the window. Insulation can involve something as simple as heavy drapes that fit tight to the wall and have a cornice to control air flow at the top. Mini-blinds, on their own, offer very little insulating ability, Petty said, but they can be helpful in trapping layers of air when used in conjunction with drapes.

The most effective interior treatments, he said, are the use of movable insulation such as thermal curtains and shades and thermal shutters.

In the summer, a solar screen installed on the outside of the window can help block from 50% to 70% of the direct radiant heat of the sun. Solar screens look similar to tightly meshed insect screens and are available with reflective and non-reflective finishes. The reflective screens reflect solar heat away from the house, while the non-reflective mesh blocks sunlight and absorbs some of the sun's energy.

The screens can be purchased or assembled the same way insect screens are assembled. They have the added advantage of being effective with the window opened, and they can be removed during the winter so that the sun can be used to warm the house.

Shading windows on the outside is another way to reduce energy waste during summer months. Shading options include awnings, landscaping, shutters, exterior roll shades and roof overhangs. Shading should be planned so that it not only reduces heat in the summer but allows the heat to come in during the winter, Petty said.

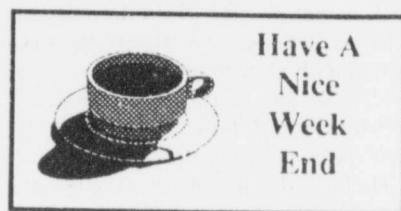

For customers building new homes, TNP recommends taking care to place windows where they minimize energy loss. A southern exposure is best, Petty said, especially if there is a deep overhang with the window. Northern and western exposures are the worst, depending on the time of year.

TNP also reminds customers that windows can be a source of air leakage. Caulking and weatherstripping are easy and inexpensive ways to prevent this leakage.

"Obviously, windows can make a big difference in the visual appeal of a home—from the inside and outside," Petty said. "That's why we're not recommending that customers consider living in a windowless environment. We just want them to be aware that there are energy use trade-offs for the aesthetic appeal, but that there are ways to reduce that trade-off."

A Letter From The Editor

This is a letter from the editor, and while my opinion is strictly my own, I believe someone should be aware of how very unsympathetic some people are with the pain and distress of others.

A few years back a local family's daughter disappeared. The family has exhausted every avenue of search available, as of course has the law enforcement community. There has never been any contact of any kind, therefore the grieving mother hangs onto the last words she heard her daughter say, which were, "If anything ever happens, Mama, remember, I love you."

This last week, this mother received a phone call from some giggling girls, pretending to be her granddaughter (the child of the missing woman) the mother heard her missing daughter say. The lady called a law enforcement officer, and was told, very nicely, that they would do anything they could to help her, but the only way they could hope to help her with phone calls, would be to put a tap on her phone.

The family does not want a tap on their phone. They do not want crank phone calls. The only thing they are really interested in is honest information about the whereabouts of their daughter.

I understand that people do terrible things of this nature just to get attention, or sometimes they really do not realize how horribly painful a call of this nature would be.

I don't want to serve someone's purpose in getting attention by printing this. But if, somewhere out there, there is someone who is guilty of these crank calls, (whether to this family or some other suffering family) and they happen to read this, I beg of them...please, please don't do this. The pain you are causing just isn't amusing!

The first Presidential news conference to be televised was held by President Eisenhower on Jan. 19, 1955.

Keeping Healthy

Lose Weight Sensibly

Think nutrition, not calories! Surprisingly, a candy bar may contain the same number of calories as a salad, but the salad contains vitamins, minerals and fiber—not sugar and fats.

Cut every ounce of fat off of meat and remove the skin from your poultry. This will lower your fat and cholesterol intake.

Lightly steam your vegetables instead of boiling them. This helps preserve nutrients and the fiber content.

Drink eight glasses of water a day. Many dieters assume that drinking water contributes to water weight, but the opposite is true. The body retains water when it's not getting enough of it. Water contains nutrients and helps wash away impurities.

Supplement your diet with increased activity. End your affair with your car—walk right out!

Keeping Healthy

Never Too Late

Exercise isn't just for the young. "Exercise—even when begun at a late age—can improve the quality of life significantly," says a California Medical Assoc. Health Tip.

Seniors who follow a safe exercise program designed for their needs and capabilities can improve their muscle strength, cardiorespiratory fitness, physical endurance and mobility.

In addition, regular exercise can help regulate blood pressure, prevent the bone deterioration that can lead to osteoporosis, lower the concentration of fat in the blood that causes atherosclerosis, and help prevent weight gain by encouraging better eating habits and regulating metabolism.

Exercise can provide important psychological benefits, too. Elderly adults who exercise regularly appear to be more self-confident and self-sufficient than their sedentary peers.

Walking is perhaps the most convenient exercise for older adults and is extremely beneficial, as it places minimum stress on the heart while improving musculoskeletal function and benefitting the cardiovascular system.

Texas Motor Vehicle Drivers Need To Comply With The Law

In the nearly 33 months that Texas-based commercial motor vehicle drivers have had to study for and take the tests necessary to receive a commercial driver license (CDL), some 412,000 persons required to have the license have done so.

"We're concerned, though, that some drivers in our state who are required to have a CDL don't yet realize that they are now considered commercial drivers," Inspector John Hall, who administers the Texas Department of Public Safety's Commercial Driver License program, said.

"The law requires some drivers who previously did not meet the criteria of a commercial driver to get a CDL," Hall said. "For instance, a person who drives a vehicle designed to carry 16 or more people (including the driver) now is considered to be a commercial driver, and that could include drivers of vehicles used by churches and day care facilities," he said.

The Texas Department of Public Safety began issuing commercial driver licenses in September of 1990 and the law mandating that drivers of certain classes of vehicles obtain a commercial driver license went into effect April 1, 1992. The Texas law was implemented to conform to the federal Commercial Motor Vehicle Safety Act of 1986 that, among other things, makes it illegal for an operator of a commercial motor vehicle (truck or bus) to have more than one license. In addition, it defines who is categorized as a commercial driver.

The law also makes a CDL mandatory to drive a vehicle that weighs more than 26,000 pounds or carries certain hazardous materials. There are exemptions for farm, military, emergency and personal-use recreation vehicles.

"The law also helps prevent abuses by interstate and intrastate commercial drivers, who in many instances had multiple licenses and could spread traffic offenses over different states to circumvent license suspension or revocation," Hall said.

"A driver could use whichever license was most advantageous if stopped by a law enforcement officer or asked to produce one so that a potential employer could check a driving record," he said.

The federal law set up a national registry for commercial driver licenses in order to track in which state a person is licensed. Also, the registry allows driving records from other states to be combined with a driver's home state driving record.

The new law imposes stricter penalties on commercial drivers who violate certain traffic and alcohol/drug laws.

The law also gives Texas the authority to use traffic convictions from other states to suspend a CDL and adopts the federal criteria for disqualification of commercial motor vehicle operators.

Since the law went into effect nearly 15 months ago, DPS and other law enforcement agencies have issued citations to persons who do not have a CDL but were required to. CDL suspensions-disqualifications for various lengths of time have been taken against drivers of commercial vehicles.

Anyone needing a CDL or with questions about the CDL law should contact the nearest DPS Driver License Office. (This was a press release from the Texas Department of Public Safety)

GARDEN

To Beat Heat, Try These Garden Tips

The dog days of summer can daunt even the most spirited of gardeners. But abandoning the garden because of drought or heat can greatly reduce yields.

Here's some help to beat the heat and drought:

- Avoid the scorching mid-day heat by working in the garden late in the afternoon or early in the morning. But don't start too early; waiting until the morning dew is dry will help prevent the spread of diseases.
- Harvest vegetables in the morning before they wilt or get too large.
- Spread an organic mulch such as straw or pine bark over the garden. The mulch will hold moisture in the soil and reduce the amount of time you need to spend weeding.

• Be sure to cultivate weeds when they are small. If you wait until they become well established, you'll have a harder time removing them. Also, the weeds will consume moisture and nutrients that your vegetable plants need.

• Instead of watering every day, try watering only once a week. But be sure to give the garden a thorough soaking, wetting the soil to a depth of 6 inches. Gardens need an inch of water a week.

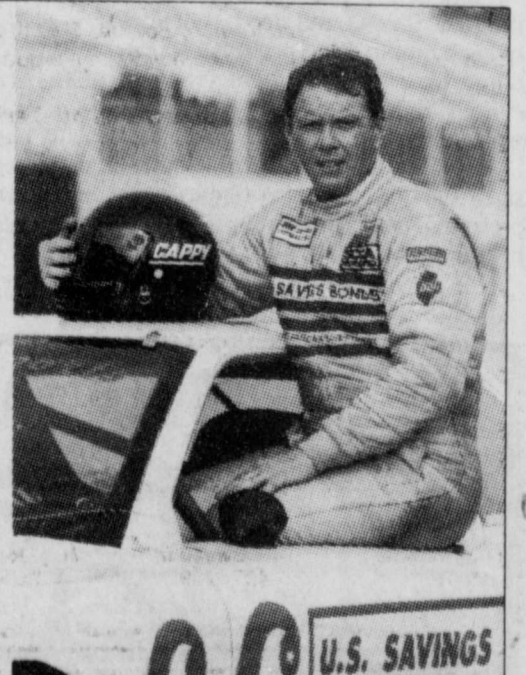

Remove plants from the garden when they have finished producing. By doing so, you'll reduce the chance of having serious disease and insect problems to handle.

Stopping Energy Loss From Windows Is A Breeze.

Windows are great when you can let a breeze cool your house, but during months when you use your air conditioner or heater, windows can reduce your home's energy efficiency. To prevent windows from wasting energy, make sure any cracks around the window are caulked. Heavy drapes that fit tight to the wall can also help improve your home's efficiency. Other options to consider are thermal drapes, curtains and shutters and, for the summer, solar screens installed on the outside of windows.

For more information about saving energy, call or visit your local TNP office and ask for the free fact sheet, "Straight Talk about Window Treatments."

Red River Haven And Clarksville Nursing Employees Play

Clarksville Nursing Center Employees Whomped the Red River Haven Nursing Home Employees with a score of 47-36. Please note:

this was a softball game, not a basketball game. This game, among other activities, is part of a concerted effort to involve the nursing home associates in activities, and to act as an incentive toward giving 24 carat customer service at the Nursing Facilities.

A concession was available for the convenience of the participants and the fans. Proceeds from the concession stand as well as money from the chances on the basket of housewares will be used to buy things for residents of the home when they cannot afford it, and to buy gifts for employees as an extra reward for special service. The drawing for the basket will be held at the next staff meeting at Red River Haven.

The ballgame was a Blast. Those participating were: Coaches Billy Scales and Charlie Brown, Players for Bogata; Sally Alsup, Lucy Burress, Betsy Brown, Alice Perry, Debbie Moreno, Linda Thomas, Evelyn Scales, Tracy Osborne, Susan Campbell, Tina Ward, Theda Watkins, Tommie Wood, and Princess Antone.
