Commissioners Hold First Meeting Of Year

Members of the Commissioners Court of Haskell County met Monday, Jan. 13, in the County Auditor's office for their first meeting of the year. Present for the meeting were County Judge B. O. Roberson and Commissioners R. L. Edwards, J. R. Perry and C. A. Turnbow. Following the reading of the minutes and approval of bills, the Commissioners began a discussion on the salaries of County officials and employees. After a study of the salaries of other counties, the group decided that a percentage raise for employees was in order. Commissioners agreed however to slight raises in the salaries of County employees. They also discussed the Justice of the Peace, Veterans Service, and Deputy Sheriff.

All other county salaries remain the same as in 1974. The commissioners voted to set the hourly wage at $2.00 per hour.

Bank Assets Total 25 Million

Three banks in Haskell County listed total assets of $25,422,031.49 as of the close of business on December 31, 1974.

Haskell National had total assets of $17,202,765.27, Home State Bank in Rochester listed total assets at $4,490,011.61, and Farmers National in Rule listed assets at $3,729,254.61.

Total deposits were as, $15,822,469.33 for Haskell National, $4,081,361.10 for Home State, and $3,436,984.25 for Farmers National.

Liabilities of the three banks totaled $23,542,387.08. Broken down the totals show: Haskell National with total liabilities of $15,981,450.94; Home State, $4,101,838.79; and Farmers National, $3,459,097.35.

Thornhill Gives Lions Club Program

The regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Haskell Lions Club was held Tuesday at the Haskell Steak House.

Lion Darold Roberson led the song session accompanied by Jo Overton at the piano. Lion Sam Sharp gave the prayer.

Lion Charles Thornhill, program chairman for the meeting presented a humorous talk about things which happen in today's society. The talk included several humorous stories and some serious thoughts about what we, as individuals, can do to improve our society.

During a short business session, Secretary O. W. Tooley stated that the Club had donated $100.00 to the West Texas Rehabilitation Center during their annual telethon.

Program chairman for next week's meeting, January 21, will be Dr. J. G. Vaughter.

Members of the court accepted the monthly and quarterly report.

The commissioners voted to cash four certificate of deposits and deposit $10,000 in each precinct and $1,118 in the general revenue sharing fund. They also voted to transfer $10,000 from the general fund to the officers salary fund.

Commissioner J. R. Perry was appointed as County Judge Pro-Tem.

Names drawn to serve on the 1975 grievance committee were George L. Ballard, Danny Stewart, and Melvin Vojkufka.

Rotary Hold Reg. Meeting

The regular weekly meeting of the Haskell Rotary Club was held at the City Cafe at noon Thursday, January 9th, with president Ferrel Coston, presiding.

Charles Thornhill presented a most interesting program, using as his subject the much publicized UFO's which has been covered by the news media for the past few years. He stressed that he was not endorsing the belief that there were such things as men from outer space who had made landings on the planet Earth. However, he advised his audience that there were many unexplained sightings of what appeared to eye witnesses as air craft not known at present time and that no satisfying answers for the phenomenas had been presented thus far.

The invocation for the meeting was given by Rev. Dudley Bragg and the singing led by R. C. Couch Jr. with Joan Dean providing accompaniment on the piano.

No guests were present for the meeting.

Rotarian H. V. Woodard is program chairman for today, Thursday, January 16th.

MEETING CALLED

Howard Cemetery meeting is called for Tuesday, Jan. 21 at 6:30 p.m. in the Paint Creek Methodist Church. Ladies are asked to bring cookies and drinks.

City Council Holds Meet

Members of the Haskell City Council met Tuesday night in the City Hall for their regular meeting. Attending the meeting were: Mayor Belton Duncan, Councilmen Carl Anderson, Jimmy Browning, Guy Kennedy, Buster Gholson and Loraine Johnson. Councilman Buster Gholson gave the invocation.

THE SCIENTISTS TELL ME ...

By Robert L. Haney, Science Writer
The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station

Weed-Eating Bugs Offer Goathead Control

Scientists have come up with a new one-a-weed-eating bug that won't eat anything else. The weed is puncturevine (goathead to most Texans), and the insect is the puncturevine seed weevil. Besides goatheads, the weevil eats a close relative of goathead called kallsstroemia.

Scientists first observed the weevil feeding on goatheads in India. After noting that it lived exclusively on goatheads, the insect was moved to Italy for additional observation. After more studies on the weevil's feeding habits, it was brought to the U. S. and later released.

The life cycle of this unusual insect begins when the female weevil chews a small pit in the side of a young bur, deposits her egg and seals the pit with fecal cement. A small larva hatches and feeds on the inside of the bur. The fully grown grub transforms to a pupa and later to an adult which bores itself out of the seed. One, two or three weevils may complete their development within a single bur. The egg to adult cycle usually requires about 25 days. The lifespan of the overwintering adult is about 1 year. Adults will suck juice from puncturevine leaves and stems but do not cause appreciable damage to goathead plants by this type of feeding.

In August, 1962, N. E. Daniels and A. F. Wiese, two Experiment Station scientists at the USDA Research Center at Bushland, obtained 250 of these "goathead weevils" from the Biological Control Section of the USDA in California. One-half were turned loose in a goathead patch at Goathead seedpod and four stages of the weevil that attacks it.

Big Spring and the others at Bushland. Those released at Big Spring survived over winter, but weevils were not found the next year at Bushland.

In 1963 at Big Spring, the first year after release, the weevils spread over an area with a 0.5 mile radius. In spots, up to 60 to 70 percent of the burs were infested. During the fall of 1963, weevil-infested goatheads were spread on marked areas near Wellington and Amarillo. In 1964, farmers and researchers spread infested plants over the entire Panhandle and as far south as Midland. By the fall of 1966, the goathead weevil covered an area extending from Wheeler to Lubbock and west to the New Mexico line.

The southern boundary of infestation extended from the New Mexico line east to Midland and northeast through Abilene to Vernon. Infestations varied from 40 to 98 percent of the burs. The weevil had spread to most areas in Texas where goatheads were a problem except in the Panhandle north of Lubbock.

The scientists observed that the adult weevils hibernate in weedy and trashy places from October until late May. In dry springs, weevils get off to a slow start because there isn't any food.

Since 1966, either weather conditions have been more favorable in the northern Panhandle or the weevils have become more cold tolerant.

By 1974, this beneficial bug had spread northward to every county in the Panhandle. Infestations ranged from 40 to 80 percent. The weevil was found on goatheads as far south as Temple, Texas, west to Albuquerque, New Mexico, and throughout central Oklahoma. Other releases spread the weevil over most of the southwest part of the United States.

After observing this unusual insect for over 10 years, Daniels and Wiese state that "the weevil offers some promise of reducing but not eliminating goatheads." In areas where weevils infest over 90 percent of the burs, enough seed escape to start a new crop. The scientists, however, are confident their efforts will reduce weed control costs in sorghum and cotton.

And it will reduce some of these weeds in cities and small towns. Thinning out goatheads in alleys and vacant lots might save one or two patch jobs a year on bicycles. This obscure benefit alone might save Texans over $100,000 a year. But there's no way to put a dollar value on the saving of pain to the bare feet of children and pets.

All-Risk Crop Insurance Now Available

Farmers in Haskell County are eligible for increased benefits under the All-Risk Federal Crop Insurance programs on cotton for the 1975 crop.

Sam Johnston, field representative from the District Office at Vernon, said today that insured farmers are now able to value their guaranteed protection under the FCI programs at a 17-to-40 percent higher level than a year ago depending upon which crop is insured.

The highest increase is in the cotton program where the price paid for losses was raised to 35 cents a pound from a previous high of 25 cents.

"These changes have been made to help insurance coverage keep pace with rising farm production expenses in the past two years," Johnston says.

As production costs—including fertilizer, seed, labor, chemicals and machinery—continue to increase at a rapid pace, it is more necessary than ever for Haskell county farmers to protect against crop destruction hazards beyond their control. This is especially true if borrowed money is at stake, he says.

Johnston will be in the county for a limited time advising farmers of the FCI program changes for 1975 and taking applications from those interested in participating in the U.S. Department of Agriculture volunteer program.

During the 1974 growing season more than 12,000 farm units were insured in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico with Federal Crop Insurance protecting $47.5 million worth of growing crops on nearly one million acres.

Johnston may be contacted through the FCI District Office, 5015 College Drive, Vernon, Texas 76384, telephone 817-553-3941, or by contacting the local ASCS office.

and will be effective through January 24, 1975. Beef prices show signs of fluctuating in coming weeks, and fryer chicken prices will increase immediately but sugar prices indicate a downward trend.

More grass-fed beef is now available, and the current beef supply is plentiful—however, there will likely be fluctuating prices in the coming week.

Fryer chickens will probably show an immediate increase in price, though, because demand is usually heavier after holidays.

The sugar prices, pointed to a decrease in demand for sugar as one reason.

Pork supplies are starting a decline, and consumers can expect prices to increase at the retail level soon, the specialist noted.

Although eggs currently are priced at last year's level, they will show a substantial increase in price later in the year.

At fruit counters, grapefruit and oranges are in peak supply with good quality.

Fresh vegetables include plentiful supplies of dry beans, peas and potatoes. Dry bean and potato prices are down substantially from the 1973-74 crop year, as are dry onion prices.

Steady prices include those on broccoli, cabbage, lettuce, turnips and rutabagas.

CONSUMER WATCH-WORDS: Food retailers may sell some food below cost to attract customers. That's happening now at many egg counters—which makes eggs an "economical must" these days.

Isbell, Dutton Repeat Vows

Miss Janice Isbell became the bride of Frank Dutton in a double-ring ceremony in the Paint Creek United Methodist Church, January 9, 1975. The Rev. Ray Milhaun, pastor of Gillespie Baptist Church, read the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Isbell of Paint Creek, the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Dutton of Weinert.

The altar was decorated with an archway of greenery flanked on either side by a candelabrum holding six graduated white tapers. A white velvet kneeling bench centered the altar. Huge arrangements of yellow gladioli, mums and carnations graced each side of the altar.

Mrs. Phyllis Coleman accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Nancy Mickler, cousin of the bride, who sang traditional wedding music.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a full length gown of white miramist over white satin. The bodice was designed with a low rounded neckline banded with an Alencon lace ruffle bordered with white orange blossoms centered with seed pearls. The neckline was filled with miramist softly gathered around the throat. The long full sleeves were gathered at the wrist to make a full ruffle over the hands. The skirt was softly gathered at the waist band and fell to ankle length. It featured four bands of alternate orange blossoms centered with seed pearls and Alencon lace ruffles, to the hemline. Her illusion veil fell from a Bandeau covered with orange blossoms centered with seed pearls and they also banded the hip length veil. Both the gown and the veil were made by the bride.

She carried a bouquet of white roses and white orchids which were interspaced with white baby's breath. The bouquet was carried on a white Bible. For something old, she carried a handkerchief that belonged to her deceased grandmother, Mrs. Ben Isbell and a gold wedding band belonging to her other grandmother, Mrs. Bill Mickler of Stamford, and wore a penny in her shoe.

Mrs. Don Comedy, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and bridesmaid was Lisa Dutton, sister of the bridegroom. Craig and Andrea Guinn, niece and nephew of the bridegroom, were ring bearer and flower girl. Candelighters were Andy Searcy, cousin of the bridegroom and Cynthia Isbell, cousin of the bride.

The bride's attendants were dressed in gowns fashioned after the same pattern as the bride's gown. The gowns were of royal blue satin with a royal blue miramist overlay. Quala Buerger registered guests.

Rodney Dutton, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and groomsmen was Danny Isbell, brother of the bride. Ushers were Bill Hoster and Dwight Overton.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the H. P. Morrison Memorial Auditorium and was hosted by the bride's parents.

Serving in the houseparty were Sandra Guinn, Shelia Hester, Janice Isbell, Ruthie Watson, Linda Yates, Reda Campbell and Deb Robertson. Rice bags were handed out by Kristi Dutton and Wayne Hester.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted in the Weinert Community Center by the parents of the bridegroom.

Don't Skid Into Winter

With the arrival of the season's first snowflakes, you should be prepared for the hazardous driving conditions that occur every year in many parts of the country.

In other words, prepare your car for the inevitable ice, sleet and snow and be willing to drive a little slower and a lot more cautiously than during the summer months.

Those words of advice to motorists were offered by the Department of Safety and Research of the Combined American Insurance Company, Dallas, in the hope that the highways will be safe even when slick this winter.

Whether that hope becomes a reality is up to the drivers, however, the safety experts cautioned. It depends on how well their cars are maintained and equipped and how skillfully they drive them.

As an aid to motorists, Combined researchers prepared two winter safety checklists, one for the vehicle and one for the person behind the wheel. Here are some items to consider in preparing your car for winter:

--Are the snow tires in place--and in good condition?

--Is the car equipped with a brush, scraper, flashlight, sand or salt and an extra supply of nonfreezing wiper fluid?

--Are the wiper blades and heating and defrosting systems in good working condition?

--Is the battery in order? If not, replace it.

--Has your car had a pre-winter tuneup with special care to eliminate any deadly carbon monoxide leaks from the exhaust?

--Are fluids at necessary levels in the transmission, differential and power-operated units and the windshield wiper reservoir?

Once those items are attended to, drivers should check up on themselves, the Combined safety advisers said. Here are some of the things you need to be prepared to do on wintry days:

--On subfreezing days, turn on the car lights for a moment to warm up the battery a little. Then switch them off and make sure all other accessories are off before starting the engine.

--Let the engine run a few moments with the defroster on so that the windows don't suddenly fog up and blind you. Then turn the wipers on.

--Scrape all ice and snow from all windows, sides and back as well as front, before getting into the car. And remove accumulations of snow from the hood so flakes can't fly onto the windshield.

--If the car is outdoors in snow, turn the wheels sharply back and forth to clear as much of a path as possible. Then slowly and gently move the car in as straight a line as possible.

--If the wheels spin, put salt, sand or a piece of carpeting under them and then try again to move. If that fails, rock the car gently back and forth, from low to reverse, until you can get traction. Never race the engine and cause the wheels to spin you into a worse rut.

--Once on the road, keep a much safer distance than usual from the vehicles in front of you and drive more slowly. Never brake on a curve or while driving over an area you think may be coated with ice; don't downshift abruptly either.

--If you go into a skid take your foot off the gas, but don't put it on the brake. Immediately steer into the direction in which the car is skidding--not against it--and you should straighten out. Never panic.

--Turn on parking lights in stormy or foggy weather. Drive slowly in sleet, fog and snow. If the storm gets bad, pull off and turn on your flasher lights.

--If you are stuck for long, open one window a tiny crack and heat the car by racing the engine to what would be about 30 miles per hour while having the car heater turned up full blast. Idling in neutral drains the battery. When the car is heated, turn off the engine for awhile to conserve gasoline.

--Always turn off wipers before shutting off the engine and free the blades before starting to avoid damage to the wiper motor when the car is started again.

--Beware of hydroplaning, which happens when a wedge of water builds up between tires and the roadbed, causing a loss of traction and control. The best preventive is slow driving through standing water.

--Avoid abrupt changes of direction or speed and slow down in anticipation of patches of ice on bridges, viaducts and underpasses and in shaded areas. Remember that a slight rise in temperature increases slipperiness on roadbeds.

--Allow more room for passing and always slow down when reaching the crest of a hill, lest there is a stalled car or an accident lurking in your path.

--Never let the gasoline supply drop below the half-way mark if you can help it. That will insure plenty of fuel in an emergency.

--Keep your headlights clean. The splatter from snow-covered roads can reduce their effectiveness sharply.

Mrs. Buster Gholson announce the engagement and marriage of their daughter, Rebecca Luann, to James Brazell. Miss Gholson is a 1974 graduate of Haskell High School and is attending Amarillo College majoring in Business Administration. Brazell, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Brazell of Haskell, is a 1972 graduate of Paint Creek High School. He has been attending Texas Tech University majoring in Wildlife Management. He is continuing his studies at Amarillo College. The couple plan a May 17 wedding at the Haskell First Baptist Church.

ALTERNATIVES TO USE OF MINERAL FERTILIZERS

High cost and periodic shortages of commercial fertilizers in some locations are having an impact on farm operations," stated Edward E. Thomas, State Conservationist, Soil Conservation Service, Temple, Texas.

It is pointed out that we must consider alternatives to mineral fertilizers and the equivalent plant nutrient values of organic materials.

Alternative measures adaptable for Haskell County are: manure, both summer and winter varieties. Annual crops such as guar, winter peas, cowpeas, alfalfa, mung beans, and vetch, properly inoculated, will supply nitrogen for crops to be established in the future. These legumes, when managed as cover and green manure crops, have a nitrogen equivalent value of up to 80 pounds of nitrogen per acre.

High residue crops of small grains and sorghums and managed as cover and green manure crops will turn good amounts of nitrogen, phosphate and potash into available nutrients.

Manure-Based on an average chemical analysis of 23 feedlots compiled by the USDA Great Plains Research Center, the equivalent substitution of manure per ton for mineral fertilizer is as follows:

27 pounds of Nitrogen per ton
24 pounds of Phosphoric acid per ton
34 pounds of Potassium per ton

The available nitrogen and phosphorus at 50 percent of the above quality manure can be substituted for nutrients in commercial fertilizer as follows:

13 pounds of Nitrogen
12 pounds of Phosphorus
34 pounds of Potassium

Quantity of cattle manure is not known, not less than three tons will supply the above nutrients. Manure must be incorporated into cropland soils as soon as possible after application except where wind erosion of soil is accelerated by soil disturbance. In these situations the manure should be incorporated with the soil as a part of the preparation. Manure normally should be applied at 4 to 6 tons per acre prior to seeding field crops.

The amounts of cotton burs, along with other weeds, which contain nitrogen per ton of burs, will supply the following amounts of nutrients:

25 to 30 pounds of Nitrogen
8 to 10 pounds of Phosphorus
50 to 100 pounds of Potassium

Manure is in short supply this winter. Every effort should be made to return every ton produced to the soil, even if you can only use supplemental fertilizer as recommended. Manure should be managed to leave most of them on the ground for protection against wind erosion. Incorporate into the soil at time of seedbed preparation, thereby affording protection to the soil.

WIND EROSION HAZARDS
and moisture conditions in Haskell County are near the hazardous conditions. Recent light rains have made the soil moisture good, but with the event of dry weather, moisture can disappear quickly. Be watchful for erosion. Be ready to do emergency tillage if necessary. Every effort to reduce soil losses from wind erosion to the minimum. Haskell County had no reportable damage last year. Help your Soil Conservationists so that no reportable damage will have to be reported this quarter.

Rep. Finnell
Finishes 8 Yrs.
In House

Rep. Charles Finnell of Holliday, finishing his eight years of service in the Texas House of Representatives has urged caution in the handling of the state treasury surplus in order to avoid any new taxes.

Finnell, who on January 14, completes his fourth term in the House recalled that during his tenure of office the demands for state government services—notably in the area of education—increased greatly but that the Texas Legislature kept the books balanced while meeting these needs.

"When I was sworn-in in 1967 we adopted a two year state budget of 4.9 billion dollars; as I leave this office, our state is operating on a two-year budget of 9.7 billion dollars."

"I am proud that this increase reflects that we met growing needs of a growing state, and yet kept this state on balanced, and fiscally sound, footing."

"In fact, because of the prudence exercised in these previous years, the state enjoys an unprecedented surplus in the treasury, the largest state financial surplus in the nation."

"It is my sincere desire that our state government continue to operate in-the-black as prescribed by our present state constitution. It is my sincere desire that any new capital expenditures be viewed with caution. With wise money management, our present monetary surplus should enable the State of Texas to operate for years and meet the real needs of its citizens."

"I wish to say I have endeavored to serve the best interest of this district and to provide the kind of representation which you deserve. The task has been both humbling and challenging but always interesting."

Finnell will continue to practice law in his district. "As a concerned citizen I encourage each of you to make your views known to your State Legislators and United States Congressmen."

"I can be contacted thru Box 468, Holliday, Texas 76366."

To The Editor

To the Haskell Free Press I wish to compliment you on the Christmas issue of the Haskell Free Press. I am keeping this copy to put with other things I treasure, it is beautifully put together.

My brother, Richard Bischofhausen, gives me a year's subscription every year for my birthday present. I have a warm place in my heart for the Haskell Free Press. They printed our wedding announcement letters, November 8, 1910. They had to send it away to printing as they were not yet set up for this. I still have some copies.

May the new year bring all of our friends the best of all things good.

Sincerely yours,
Margaret Boothe

The Same Sad Story... Texas Is First, Second, And Third... Cotton Marketing Still Dull... Census Forms In Mail.

It continues to be the same sad story for Texas farm prices and parity. As of the middle of December, parity stood (or slumped) to 73; this is down three points from November and off a whopping 17 points compared to a year ago.

All categories of livestock continue at levels well below parity. Crop prices, with the big exception of cotton, are above parity.

Wheat in Texas averaged $4.62 per bushel, parity is $4.21. Sorghum averaged $5.34, parity is $4.76. However, both wheat and sorghum were higher priced in November than in December, reflecting a general softness in grain markets.

Cotton averaged 32.7 cents per pound while parity stood at 76 cents per pound.

Hog prices are $10 below parity; feeder cattle are virtually two-thirds under parity. Beef cattle prices are about half of parity. Hog prices a year ago were $3 higher; feeder cattle prices were twice what they are now, and beef cattle prices were $7 higher a year ago than now.

Milk averaged $9.40 per 100 pounds while parity is $11. Eggs at 70 cents a dozen as of the middle of December compared to 75 cents a dozen parity ratio.

Wool and mohair are also at prices considerably below parity.

TEXAS is the first, second and third in production of vegetables in 1974. Texas is first in the nation in harvested acreage for fresh market of cabbage, spinach, and watermelons.

It is second in harvested acreage of cantaloups, carrots, cucumbers, honeydews and onions.

It is third in harvested acreage, production and value of fresh market vegetables. Texas ranks behind California and Florida in this category.

Estimated production of 14 principal fresh market vegetables and melons for 1974 is 12 per cent less than 1973. And they had a total value of $135 million. This is 26 per cent below a year ago. Leading crops in order of value were onions, watermelons, carrots, cabbage, and cantaloups.

COTTON marketing continues on the dull side. Markets throughout the state were reported more active, but producers were continuing to decline offers. Prices ranged from 20 to 34 cents per pound throughout the state.

Cotton planting is set to begin in February in the Rio Grande Valley, but the outlook for cotton continues bleak due to a recession in the general economy and a downturn in business in the textile industry.

Currently, the estimate for cotton production in the Valley is around 150,000 to 175,000 acres. This would be about 40 to 50 per cent less than in 1974. Similar cuts in production are expected throughout the state.

First Citrus Starts Out From Valley

AUSTIN-- Between 150-200 cartons of navel oranges were harvested and were on their way to market the first week of September, marking the first shipment of oranges from the Lower Rio Grande Valley for the 1974 season.

Grapefruit picking was expected to begin by mid-September, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said.

Although the U.S. Department of Agriculture has not released its estimate of the Valley crop, White said a reduction of 40 percent from last year is expected due to a December freeze.

Production loss will be felt mainly at plants that produce juices. Fresh shipments of citrus are expected to equal last year's. About 13 million cartons were produced in the valley in 1973.

A NEW GRANDMOTHER'S PRAYER Dear Lord, Who's excited about a first grandchild? Please Lord, forgive my being ungrammatical. I want to have a girl in the family.

Dear Lord, thank you for sending Gene and Paige Michelle back to the second time around. Please make Paige Michelle healthy. And see that she is not afraid of turning her head to watch things grow, and feed cattle and horses with her granddaddy. May she love to sing, and dance, and learn to cook and dance, and have a good mind, and be a good citizen, and like Sunday school, and a sense of humor, too.

Dear Lord, thank you for helping me cross the Month Number Nine and Cloud Seven. And don't let it be too early to reserve a dorm room at Texas Tech University? Please, don't let her want to go to the Valley.

Dear Lord, thank you for helping Mike find a better job to Texas A&M and be in the Corps of Engineers. And help Mike take care of those little hands, and to learn to be patient.

And thank you, too, for having somebody give me a boy about four or five years ago, a boy who was good enough for Paige Michelle. See that he stays in the Boy Scout, and has nice boys and girls for friends. And get along with his in-laws. Please Lord, see that he is happy and young.

Dear Lord, help her have a bright and healthy future. Our Paige Michelle Overton. And for this and all the other things you have done for us, we humbly thank you. --Mary

Bankers Open Offices In Austin

The Independent Bankers Association of Texas has opened executive offices in the City National Bank Building in Austin. The office will be under the direction of Mr. Don Cavness, a former State Representative of Travis County, who will be assisted by Mr. Thomas Prentice and Mrs. Judy Talley. Mr. Prentice was formerly a special assistant to Senator Oscar Mauzy. Fred T. Brooks, President of the Merchants State Bank, Dallas, is currently President of the Association.

Brooks stated that the Association, which was organized only last year, now has almost 400 member banks. Among the concerns of the Association is the growing concentration of banking resources by multi-bank holding companies in Texas. In the December Business Review of the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas, it was reported that the five largest holding companies control more than 60% of the deposits in the Dallas area.

Where there were only four multi-bank holding companies in the State in 1970; today, if all the holding company applications pending were approved, there would be 30 companies controlling 236 banks which would control over 60% of all the deposits in the State.

This growing concentration of deposits is not considered desirable by all Texas citizens, bankers, members of the Congress and State Legislators. And more recently, even members of the Federal Reserve Board are showing concern and have urged restraint in the further acquisition of banks where competition is eliminated.

Two Federal Reserve economists who play a key staff role in bank holding company regulations in Washington stated recently in the American Banker that the claims for big bank holding companies are exaggerated. These economists are Samuel B. Chase and John J. Mingo. Both economists said the impact of holding companies on the economy, on their subsidiary banks, on competitors and on society in general is only partially understood by Federal regulators.

The economists further stated that the idea that "banking holding companies are more efficient and less risky than independent banks may well have been greatly overstated by champions of the holding company movement."

"Among our Association members are some of the leading banks in the State," Brooks emphasized, "and its members are also members of the Texas Bankers Association and support that association on banking issues generally." He added, however, that the Independent Bankers Association of Texas is the only organization in the State presenting a unified voice for the locally owned, locally controlled independent banks, and taking an aggressive stand against unbridled growth of multi-bank companies.

1974 Safest Year in Decade

AUSTIN—Though final figures won't be available until late March, it appears that 1974 was the safest year on Texas streets and highways in a decade. And if the traffic death rate per 100-million miles is compared with prior years, 1974 was the safest year on record.

Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said he believes the 1974 traffic toll will reach 3,042 when all reports are received. If so, this will be a saving of 650 lives from the record 3,692 lives lost in 1973. The latest comparable death toll was 1964 when 3,006 persons were killed in Texas traffic.

Of the 3,042 deaths, it is estimated that the final rural total will be 1,817, with 1,225 traffic fatalities estimated to have occurred in incorporated cities. Rural deaths decreased about 19.2 per cent from 1973 totals, while those in cities are down approximately 15.1 per cent.

Speir said the death rate per 100-million vehicle miles, which is the nationally accepted criteria of traffic safety effectiveness, is forecast to be 3.9. Last year it was 4.6, with these numbers comparing to 14.6 when the DPS first began tabulating traffic statistics in 1937.

The DPS director said total vehicle traffic accidents during 1974 were down more than six per cent from 1973. The latter year saw 464,226 collisions compared to an estimated 432,100 in 1974.

"In normal times, we might have expected increases in both accidents and deaths during 1974," Speir said. He noted that both licensed drivers and registered vehicles rose last year—the drivers reaching almost 7.5 million and vehicles about 8.3 million.

The question, then, is what actually happened to cause the dramatic reduction and Speir believes the answer lies in factors associated with the energy crisis.

"It appears that vehicle miles driven declined from 80.6 billion in 1973 to just over 78 billion in 1974. This reduction in driving, coupled with the reduced speed limit, especially on rural highways, seems to have made most of the difference," Speir said.

But he also attributed credit to improvements in vehicles and highways, beefed-up enforcement, and increased public awareness generated by both governmental and private efforts.

On the subject of enforcement, the DPS chief pointed out that Highway Patrol troopers last year issued a record 678,664 speeding citations—an increase of 121 per cent from the 306,668 in 1973. Moreover, the 1974 speeding arrests alone exceeded total Highway Patrol arrests for all violations in 1973.

Total arrests for all violations in 1974 exceeded 950,000.

Speir cautioned that an increasing disregard for the 55 mile speed limit, as evidenced by the arrest figures, may cause deaths to rise once more in 1975. He pointed out that the largest reductions in total fatal accidents during 1974 came early in the year when there was better voluntary compliance with the speed law.

He noted that Department of Public Safety statisticians are conducting an in-depth study of the 1974 traffic accident reports and said this information would be used to "fine tune" enforcement activities in the year ahead.
