The guru of garage sales is a little intimidating!

My cousin is the guru of garage sales. As such, she has the process of bargain seeking down to a fine art. At a recent visit to her home in Amarillo I had the pleasure of tagging along on her quest, and came up with a few bargains of my own. However, my attitude lacks the fire, vim and vigor for a true aficionado.

Thursday night she took her newspaper and began making a list of garage sales in areas she knows to be "good pickings". She categorized them so that we wouldn't be back tracking, then announced I had to be up by 7:00 a.m. in order to be there first.

Her sister-in-law, Gabriella, wanted to go too, so arrangements were made to call her nice and early too.

I arose, dressed and was sleepily trying to down my first cup of coffee when it was snatched from my grasp and instructions barked to "grab a roll and some sausage for Gabby and lets GO".

We sprinted for the car, squealed out into the street and tore over to pick up our other bargain hunter. Medora barely slowed down enough for Gabby to leap into the vehicle before we were off.

After a masterful display of parallel parking we disembarked at our first location to prowling fast and furious before leaping back into the car and head on to another.

It's better than mining for jewels. What treasure would be lurking beside a 1970 model eight track player, or hidden behind a slightly used child's "Speak N' Spell"?

I found a china plate that matches my wall paper, a brand new comforter, bedskirt and sham set for $10 that is brand new, and a package of candles that I didn't need but couldn't resist.

The problem was that I began to feel rather inadequate. Medora and Gabby could spot a florescent pink or green garage sale sign propped against a stop light about two blocks away. They never missed a cardboard box leaned against a sign, nor a hidden treasure in a stack of old clothing. My eyes began to cross as things began to blur together.

My knees began to ache at about the 19th "shot from a cannon" exit from the car and things began to run together. Abruptly, at 9:30 they announced that the real bargains were gone, and we might as well adjourn until Saturday morning. On Saturday our pace was a little slower, but we repeated the whole thing.

I had a great time, got some bargains, but still don't feel I have the intensity level right. As I watched the grim determination of my cousin impatiently waiting at a red light, I realized my heart and soul just weren't in it the way hers was!

If I was really devoted I'd have found some way to load the dining room table and four chairs into the Jeep for the long trip home instead of sadly leaving it behind.

Nice

Price increase necessary due to printing, postage increases

Effective September 1, 1997, the Bogata News, Blossom Times, Deport Times and Talco Times will have a price increase.

The price will go to $17 in Lamar, Red River or Titus Counties, and $20 anywhere else in the United States.

Publisher Nanalee Nichols says "We have tried very hard to hold the line on prices, but with a 15% increase each year for the past two years in printing, and a similar increase in postage we have no choice." It has been well over two years since the paper went up in price. She continues "At $17 per year in county the cost of the paper is still less than $1.42 per month! Considering the news, photos, school news, local news, recipes and ads it contains, that extremely reasonable." "Besides", she adds, "In December we will have our annual paper sale. It will still save subscribers $2, putting the price at $15 for an in county subscription, the price is only $1.25 per month. That's just really hard to beat."

"While we try to keep our prices the lowest around, we have to pay for our printing and postage increases, and of course there have been increases in wages, utilities, supplies and everything else. We still think we have some of the best papers around with wonderful coverage and a very low price. We don't charge for engagements, weddings, anniversaries, obituaries, or lost animal ads. But, in order to be able to continue to serve the communities we have to have this increase," Nichols finished.

Editor,

Several weeks ago, I wrote a "Letter to the Editor" in regard to the condition of the cemetery but I guess it wasn't "fit to print".

A number of people had talked to me about the cemetery association letting the bluebonnets bloom, go to seed and then mowing them. With the rain that we have had, the weeds really made a good crop before they got it mowed.

In my previous letter, I stated that I had talked to Mrs. William (Frances) Rozell who had been a member of the cemetery association since its inception and she told me that they had decided to just mow the whole cemetery, including the bluebonnets in the future. She also told me that it costs about $6,000 a year to keep the cemetery mowed. This money comes from contributions, of course. Some people might clean off their family graves once a year, but most do not. There are people who do make yearly contributions to the cemetery association, but the most do not. Apparently a lot of people think that keeping the cemetery mowed is a free service and never give a thought to where the money comes from to provide this service.

I do not believe that it is fair to blame the caretaker for tombstones that have been knocked over or fallen over. There are some people who think it is "fun" to ride four wheelers all over the cemetery and ramming into the tombstones and it has been known that cars have been used for this same purpose. So it is not fair when a tombstone has fallen or been knocked over to automatically say "the caretaker did it".

Remember that the cemetery association operates on contributions. Alice Ann White is the association's treasurer and will be glad to accept contributions to the cemetery association for the upkeep of the cemetery.

Sincerely
Bettye Jane King

Liz Irwin

Our featured cook this week is Lisa Melot of Blossom. I became acquainted with Lisa on the Blossom campus last year where she was working as a substitute teacher. We enjoyed several lunches together and of course the subject of cooking came up. We talked about our likes and dislikes and it became apparent that Lisa had a penchant for cooking as I do. She enjoys trying out recipes and likes to try all varieties and types.

Lisa is married to Lee and they have lived in Blossom since March of 1996. They tried Dallas and Paris, but prefer the small town living of this area. They have 2 children Halie is 3 and will begin classes in Kiddie Kollege shortly. Jesse is 18 months and maybe by press time Sabrina Diane will make her entrance. You see, she is well on her way and is expected anytime. Of course her doctor told her not to paint anything pink until she gets here, just in case!

Along with her husband and children, Lisa enjoys needle point, sewing, yardwork and has done some stained glass work. She would like to go back to substituting after the first of the year. She enjoys being around the students at school.

Chicken and Dumplings is her first recipe. She uses carrots and celery along with raw canned bisquit dough for the dumplings.

An old stand-by favorite is Liver and Onions. She said that Lee loves it and she enjoys making it for him. We had quite a discussion in this area during one of our lunches. I told her I prepared this for the girls at least once a year so that they would get a yearly "dose of vitamins". . . . my daughter Amy, overheard me and said yea right! She did it to torture us! Their version was a little different than mine.

Her Lasagna uses three different cheeses along with mushrooms and tomato sauce.

Chicken Cordou Bleu is a mixture of chicken, ham and cheese rolled in bread crumbs, dipped in melted butter and baked. Sounds delicious.

Apple Pie is a favorite of everyone's. With a mixture of spices and sugar, this makes for a perfect ending to any meal.

Pumpkin Bread straight from the oven is delicious for a breakfast snack or any time of the day.

We hope you enjoy this week's column and we will see you in the kitchen! If you know of a good cook in our reading area, let me know!

LISA MELOT of Blossom is pictured here with her 18-month old son Jesse. Lisa is expecting their third child any day, a daughter Sabrina Diane. She and husband Lee also have a 3 year old daughter Halie.

Mrs. James Freelen
The Former Kelly Cantrell

James Freelen-Kelly Cantrell repeat vows

Kelly Cantrell of Blossom and James Freelen of Bogata were married Saturday, August 2, 1997 at East Post Oak Missionary Baptist Church in Post Oak, Texas. Pastor E. R. Reynolds performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Phillip and Beverly (Bebo) Cantrell of Blossom. The groom is the son of James and Patricia Freelan of Bogata.

For her wedding the bride chose a silk taffeta gown fashioned with an Alencon lace bodice featuring a Queen Anne neckline. The bodice was overlaid with Alencon lace motifs lavished with pearls and iridescent sequins. The sheer Elizabethan sleeves were heavily accented with beaded lace. The full skirt flowed into a chapel-length train and was framed with a band of lace. The bride wore a headpiece of pearls and iridescent sequins which held her fingertip veil.

Wedding music was provided by Trava Ables. Selections were "God, Woman and Man" and "In This Very Room". The wedding march was performed by Glenda Davis.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents. Attending the bride as maid of honor was Trinity Bowden of Blossom. Kristy Cantrell, sister of the bride served as bridesmaid.

Best man was Jason Freelen, brother of the groom of Bogata. Groomsman was B.A. Sessums. Candlelighters were Jeff and Alyssa Pasquill.

A reception followed the wedding in the fellowship hall of the church. House party members included

Stephanie Dunagan, Karen Brewer, Mandy Babb and Brittney Ladd at the bride's table. Attending ghte groom's table was Kathy Williams and Helen Roberts. Jamie McLeroy presided at the registry. A miscellaneous shower was given by Susan Coston and Dana Parker, aunts of the bride. Another miscellaneous shower was given by Donett Lyon, Donna Dunagan and Gayla Babb. Magnolia Blossoms Daycare also hosted a shower for the bride. A Honey-do shower was hosted by Phyllis Vaughn, Gail Vaughn and Glenda Davis at the church. A recipe shower was hosted by Trinity and Janice Bowden and Frankye and Breah Sessums at the Paris Golf and Cpuntry Club. A personal shower was givenby Trinity Bowden, Kristy Cantrell, Stephanie Dunagan and Karen Brewer.

The groom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner Friday night at the church.

Following a wedding trip to Galveston, the couple will make their home in Bogata.

The bride is a graduate of Prairiland High School and attends Paris Junior College. She is employed by Magnolia Blossoms Daycare. The groom is a graduate of Prairiland High School and is employed by Lowe's Warehouse in Mt. Vernon.

Painting the gazebo

By Jack Dodd

We built a house in Rosalie in 1988. Two years later we built a back porch - gazebo - with three large picture windows, one regular window and an outside metal door. It's time to paint the outside again. It doesn't look like much to paint, but there is quite a bit to paint, all white. We're talking about a lot of paint here.

I don't paint because I like to paint, but I want to paint. I was born at the beginning of the great depression and was greatly affected by it. I am against paying someone else for something I can do for myself.

I have painted occasionally all my life. But for some unknown reason, my wife, Ann, decided I shouldn't paint anymore. I think it had to do with some paint that got on the house bricks and a few shingles. A little on the grass and shrubs. Then a little white paint on the red brick patio I built, plus a smidgen on the driveway and sidewalk. I don't think women understand that painting is messy. The painter doesn't have to be messy. Paint is messy all by itself. I studied Physics at Texas U and Dr. Brooks can verify this. "If a paint can is open, paint will get on something." It's a law of Physics and has nothing to do with the poor slob doing the painting.

I now have permission from my understanding wife - I can paint as high as I can reach without standing on something. I don't like this agreement, but she insists that since my back surgery is only three months old I should not be reaching and stretching. It's been two years since I fell off the roof (nothing permanently damaged) and six months since I fell out of the pecan tree. With a record like that, I think I ought to get to paint the high stuff, don't you?

J.R. I coming Saturday - to paint the high stuff.

Ann says I am getting forgetful especially in names and faces. I explained to her there is a benefit to this - you meet new people every day.

There were two 97 year old men at Wood's Funeral Home last Saturday for the services of a 98 year old friend. After the service the two men were lingering and looking at their 98 year old pal. Finally one said to the other, "You know - it's hardly worth going home."

Mrs. Vickers once told me, "I'm getting so old all of my friends in Heaven will think I didn't make it."

J.R. is 32 - but messy.

Mental illness has warning signs, too.

Withdrawal from social activities. Excessive anger. These could be the first warning signs of a mental illness. Unfortunately, most of us don't recognize the signs. Which is tragic. Because mental illness can be treated. In fact, 2 out of 3 people who get help, get better.

HOSPITAL HAS NEW TELEPHONE SYSTEM!!!

E.T.M.C.-Clarksville is pleased to announce the installation of our new telephone system. You will now be able to call all patient rooms, and all departments of the hospital, by direct-dial.

Our main number will remain the same, 427-3851.

However, if you know your patient's room, you may now dial: 427-65--(room number), and your call will go straight in to their room, without having to go through the PBX Operator.

For example, if you want to call a patient in Room #311:

Dial: 427-6511. If their phone does not answer within 6 rings, your call will then be redirected to the Operator, for assistance.

We believe this new system will prove to be very helpful in your day to day communications with ETMC-Clarksville, as it should prevent you from having to encounter a busy signal when you call the hospital.

We are continually striving to update every area of patient care, in an effort to improve treatment and satisfaction, and hope that the new telephone system will be just one of the many areas of improvement that you will notice as you visit the ETMC-Clarksville facility.

This week's query is from Mark Ward, 3431 Covey Trail, Missouri City, TX. 77453. He is hoping to locate relatives still living in the Red River County area and learn more about his own family. One family he is researching is Massey, his ancestor, Josephine "Josie" Massey, born 1849 GA. lived on the Detroit and Blossom Road in 1910 in Red River County, with son Walter D. Massey. Other sons, James C. and Robert "Bob", were living in the area in 1900. The family had lived in MO. and AR. before settling in Red River County. Later, some of the family moved to Lamar County and some to Choctaw County, OK. Some probably stayed in Red River County. Josephine's husband was Henry Leonida Massey born in 1833 in MO., who seems to have died in AR. before the rest moved to TX. Any information anyone may have on this family would be appreciated.

If you can help Mr. Owen, please write him at the above address. If you have a query which you would like to have printed in this column, please send it to the Red River County Genealogical Society, P.O. Box 516, Clarksville, Texas, 75426.

Tips for parents as new school year begins

By Dr. David Brown
Texas A&M University

The school bells are ringing and parents, children and teachers are beginning a new year of working together to help each child reach his potential.

As the new year begins, students prepare for a new challenge. Parents' participation and involvement are essential to student achievement. Parents can support the literacy development of children in many ways.

Here are some suggestions:

Talk up school as a positive place for learning. Show children that you are interested in their achievement and their extra curricular activities.

Homework can be a positive experience if planned carefully by students and parents. Monitor your child's behavior and performance during the year. Some children will need to adjust to different learning and studying needs. First, parents and children should decide on a definite time of the day for homework. Most children should complete their homework immediately after school.

Every home with school age children should designate an area used for completion of homework. This area could be used for independent homework, writing and reading. If you have a personal computer, place it near the homework area. Encourage children to use the computers in writing reports, narratives and other types of word processing.

Can you remember your child's first attempt to ride a bike? Perhaps it was less than perfect. Likewise, his first project, first math test, and first report will be less than perfect.

The confidence that children gain in receiving your support and acceptance over a period of time will motivate them to strive for continued excellence. Please work to establish and maintain a risk-taking environment in your home.

Encourage your child. Take time to sit down and talk. Find at least one thing to praise: conduct, attendance, no tardies.

Show interest in what your child learned. Ask questions and let him or her tell you about it. Remember, poor grades don't reflect the value of your child as a human being or your performance as a parent.

Children usually score lower on tests when they are tense. Try to soothe your young worrier with these tips: explain that tests are just one part of school; suggest a relaxation exercise, such as tensing and relaxing tight muscles; encourage your child to study ahead of time to avoid a last minute panic.

OLD CALENDAR-This calendar, which is dated April, 1915, was discovered in a box of old valentines. It shows a young boy fanning a sleeping baby while his friends wave and go off to play. The verse under it reads "He loves his mother's youngest child, when sister has to mind it; But how his budding pride is soiled, when he is seen behind it!". The name of the business on the calendar is Anderson Clothing Company, Clothing and furnishings, Montezuma, Iowa. (Staff Photo)

American Viewpoints

Patriotism is your conviction that your country is superior to all other countries because you were born in it.
George Bernard Shaw

Choosing a candidate

By Jack Dodd

In the past we always asked two question of a candidate running for a high state or federal political office. Number one; Are you a democrat or a Republican, Number two; are you a conservative or liberal. Past history tells us the Republicans in office take care of the rich and powerful in the country while the democrats look after the middle and lower class of Americans. So we are led to believe.

The past also tells us the conservatives don't like changes while the liberals thrive on new policies and dramatic changes. The conservatives have in the past approved some changes but only after the change has become a bandwagon such as separation and federal support of schools. The liberals want change. They believe change is progress, the status quo is no good. Some liberals would tell us to teach a cannibal to eat with a fork is a change, but is it progress?

All of the above comes under the make up of being a politician. Whether you are a Republican or Democrat, conservative or liberal comes from what part of the country you grew up in and who you associate with. If you look at the Presidents and their associates, chief of staffs, advisors, cabinet members, etc., these people were chosen either because they could be helpful to put the president's ideas and philosophy into action, or they gave a huge sum or sums of money to the campaign. So a year or so after all the promises were fulfilled the cream rose to the top and the rest were given the responsible jobs.

This brings us to the most important question we now need to ask all candidates and those in office, "What are your moral beliefs?" In every administration there have been many known, and the Lord only knows how many unknown acts of violation of good moral judgements by all grades of office holders.

President Truman had a terrible group of appointed office holders and had a terrible time cleaning up his dirty group. Ike had the same problem. Nixon became one and made many more of his staff unworthy to hold office. We all have read of the Kennedy fun and games in the White House. Our own Lyndon Johnson made some terrible assignments. Even Carter, until he decided to have a chief of staff had some scandals around. China shot a few missiles toward Taiwan prior to the last election. President Clinton sent 2 war ships to Taiwan to ward off any trouble. The political parties in Taiwan own businesses, big businesses. President Clinton sent his Secretary of Defence to Taiwan to tell the people in power there now, the U.S. should be reimbursed for some of the cost of the 2 ships. They concurred and gave Bill Clinton 15 million (That they admit to - close to 21 million believed, to Clinton's campaign fund. This was given from the profits of the political parties business ventures.) I thought the ships belonged to the U.S., not Clinton.

We all knew and loved General Patton. He was once asked by reporters while in Europe if he read the Bible. His reply, "Every damned night." Evert Taft Benson was a devout Mormon of high Character. He asked President Eisenhower if the cabinet meetings could open with a silent prayer. Benson, a secretary at the time, and all the other cabinet member were ready to have a cabinet meeting. Ike was in a hurry and started the meeting. Nixon seated next to Ike informed him they had not had their moment of silent prayer. This was done very discreetly and very quietly whereupon President Eisenhower blurted out, "We forgot the damned silent prayer." These are not necessarily the type of morality we are speaking of. We are speaking of the morals of each and every elected official. They tell us what they want to do for us and the country. We need to know what they expect for themselves.

Governor Edwards of Louisiana on 60 Minutes was asked if one of his supporters gave him $30,000.00 for him or his staff. Governor Edwards said, "The report was a lie, a lie of the worst sort. He did not pay #30,000.00 for the appointment, it cost him $45,000.00. We no longer hide our thefts and wrong doings. We put them in the paper and on T.V.

I am no longer too concerned whether a candidate is Democrat or Republican, conservative or liberal, but am concerned with what the person running for office expects for himself.

From now on we need to ask, after the candidate has told us what he will give to us, And just what do you expect for yourself? "What kind of crowd do you associate with. Are you a person of high moral standards? Even though we may forget the silent prayer now and then. We need to challenge our people of power on proper ethics and leave them with no uncertainty that fraud and improper moral actions will not be tolerated. With all of these requirements, candidates may be hard to find, but they are out there and ready to serve if we support the proper person to represent us.

I want to know what you all plan to do for us, but I am more concerned what you are going to do for you. We must have a political profession that is an honest ethical profession again. Anything short of this is unacceptable.

A report from Red River County Water Supply

By John Ragsdill,
General Manager
Red River County WSC, opened bids on August 5 for approximately 2.8 million dollars of improvements to the existing system. This extension has been in progress for several years and has surely tried the patience of some prospective members. For that we apologize.

Red River County WSC has a long range plan with a specific mission. We want to serve all of rural Red River County residents and industry with the safest, cleanest water at the most reasonable cost.

This project was planned with no increase in water rates and that optimism was reinforced at the August 5 bid opening when the overall bid price was below engineers' estimated cost. Our last increase to our customers was in 1990, when we increased our rates by 11 percent over the 1985 year rate.

We have made improvements in our system and will continue to be the best we can be.

This project will be funded by a 1.7 million dollar grant and a 1.1 million dollar loan from Rural Development branch of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. We are proposing to add nearly 200 members to our system that presently accommodates over 1600. We are looking forward to building tanks, drilling wells and laying nearly 75 miles of pipeline on this project. This extension will require access to many parcels of private property where hopefully we have already secured signed easements, however, we have state and county permits to travel outside private property where objections were encountered.

We want to take this opportunity to thank all our members and prospective members for your diligence and watch care over our system. The calls we get about leaks and digging activity around our pipelines are very helpful and appreciated. Please don't hesitate to call, it is easier to go and check a location and find no conflict than it is to not investigate and have a line cut and require repairs and have customers out of service.

This project will offer us the greatest challenge we have encountered since the original construction of this system, and we are looking to the future with great appreciation and optimism.

WELCOME TO BOGATA-
