Cemetery Contributions Needed

Contributions to help build a chain-link fence across the front of the old Deport Cemetery are coming in slowly, according to Edith Fuller, secretary-treasurer of the Deport Cemetery Association.

We need more contributions, she says, adding that letters have gone out to most Deport business and professional people asking for donations to the fence building fund.

The fence is needed to help prevent vandalism in the historic cemetery.

Contributions may be made to Miss Fuller, Box 142, Deport Texas 75435, to Ed Bryson, Association president, box 362, Bogata, Texas 75417, or left at the First National Bank of Deport.

Your contributions are appreciated.

Deport Scout Troop Lots Of Fun, Work

Is Boy Scouting fun, or is it work? Lonnie McMikel Jr., patrol leader of Troop 19, Deport Boy Scouts of America, grinned and replied, it's both, lots of work and lots of fun.

Scout meetings are held on Tuesdays at 7:00 p.m. at the Deport Fire Station. The scout group is small presently, but the boys hope that other youngsters will begin to participate.

At the meetings the boys plan what they are going to do and what trips they may take.

The Deport scouts have already been on several camping trips and do all the cooking, cleaning and menu planning at the camps in order to earn their skill awards. After the routine camp chores though, there is always plenty of time for swimming, hiking and telling stories around the fire. The stories are primarily aimed at scaring one another.

The scouts earned money to go to Camp Dierks Boy Scout Camp in Oklahoma by washing car windows. It took a lot of window washing to pay for the trip, but was worth it. The camp lasted a week and during that time the scouts explored the river and woods, took swimming lessons, and met a lot of scouts from other troops. The Deport troop came in third in a cross country race run by Lynn Bush and Lonnie McMikel.

George Stanley, a Senior Patrol Leader, was tapped out, in the Order of the Arrows Ceremony. This is considered a great honor.

The boys have also been camping at the Sulphur River, and are planning to go on tour Friday, August 14 to the Merico Bakery in Paris. On August 21 there will be another camping trip, and many other activities are planned.

One of the most worthwhile projects the boys have undertaken recently is the mowing of Grant Park in Deport. It took them an entire Saturday to mow the overgrown Dallas grass, but the park is better looking and the boys have earned more credits.

The Deport Troop 19 extends an invitation to all boys, ten and one half years old or older who are interested in joining, to do so.

They can call Scout Master Lonnie McMikel at 652-6565 for information or come to a meeting at the Deport Fire Station at 7:00 Tuesday evenings. Lots of fun plus valuable learning experiences await them.

PROJECT—Troop 19, Deport Boy Scouts, mowed Grant Park Saturday. The all-day job helped them earn six hours of credit for their troop. The park was heavily grown up and the boys used push mowers to mov. (Staff Photo)

Blossom Local Option Election Sept. 5

A local option liquor election in Blossom will be held on Saturday, September 5, 1981 to decide whether liquor sales will be legal in the city of Blossom.

The election will be held in the city's community center from 7:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. The dates for absentee balloting have not yet been set, but the court appointed Blossom City Clerk Mildred Justus as the absentee clerk. The election was scheduled after County Clerk Margaret Coplin verified that 97 of the 107 signatures on the petition calling for the election were registered voters, Blossom residents and that the necessary information on the petition was included with the names.

Lamar County Commissioners court then approved the petition.

Harold Balckburn, a petition organizer, submitted the petition only one hour before the official deadline for filing, Thursday, August 6.

According to Texas Attorney General's Office, equation for computing the number of signatures needed to call a local option election in a community split between two voting precincts, only 63 valid signatures were needed to submit the petition.

Advocates of the bill say it will help the city with taxes, and that the city is already having to handle problems such as litter because of its proximity to Sun Valley, which already has liquor sales.

Blossom Housing Open House Well Attended

The Open House of the Blossom Housing Authority was attended by a number of people. Representative Edwina Carrington, Cardorva Construction Co. President Billy Cardorva and his family, Project Superintendent Shirley and Blossom Mayor George Lemley were all there.

County Commissioner Jimmie Sparks, Dade Wheeler, County Judge Brady Fisher and Many residents of Blossom and Paris were there to tour the newly completed structure. In all, over one hundred fourteen people registered at the event.

Lamar County Commissioners court then approved the petition.

Harold Balckburn, a petition organizer, submitted the petition only one hour before the official deadline for filing, Thursday, August 6.

Those against the bill say the hazards and problems will outweigh the benefits of extra tax money.

The controversy over the election is expected to result in a heavy voter turnout.

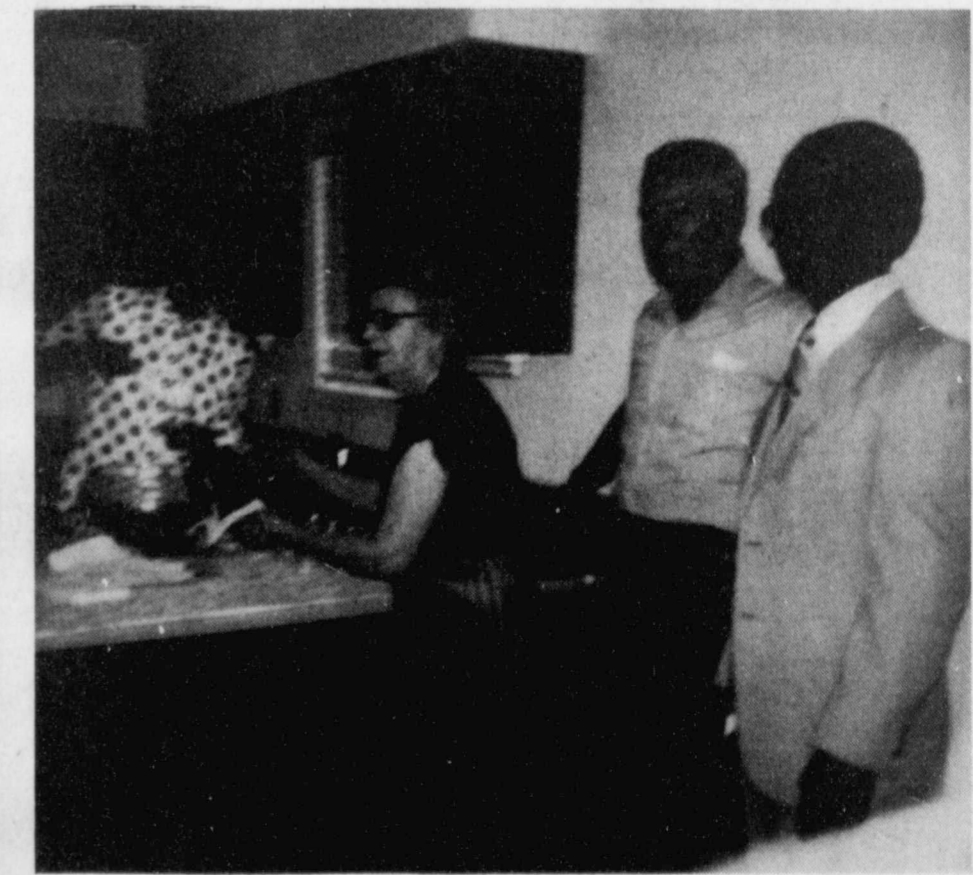

McDowra Elected To Board

Another Lamar County youth, Thomas McDowra of the Prairiland FFA, was elected to the board of directors of TJLA. Thomas is the first junior from this part of the state to serve on the state board.

Now is the time for 4-H members to select steers for 1982 Lamar County Junior Livestock Show and Sale. The official weigh-in will be either the first or second Saturday in November. If assistance is needed with selection, 4-H members should contact 4-H leaders or our office.

Randy Cole will begin his career as assistant county agent in Lamar County on Friday, August 21. He is a recent graduate of ETSU. He will be working primarily in the 4-H program and is anxious to get to know all of the 4-H members, their parents and leaders.

OPEN HOUSE at the Blossom Housing Authority was attended by a number of people. Superintendent Shirley were a few of the guests. Linnie Williams, Alford Stewart and Project

Nichols Worth

By Nanalee Nichols

The Deport Boy Scouts Troop is small, but they did a giant size job last Saturday. For whatever reason, funding or lack of time, the Grant Park located at the west end of Deport has not been mowed by the highway department on a very regular basis this season.

The Boy Scouts remedied that Saturday, spending the entire day mowing knee high dallas grass with push mowers. They labored long, hot and hard, but the results are a much prettier park. That is especially nice now, when the Crape Myrtle trees are in bloom. The park is a place to be proud of, the Boy Scouts are worthy of pride and praise too. Keep up the good work!

Faith Baptist Revival Scheduled

The faith Baptist Church of Deport will hold a revival from August 16 through August 23 at their new church. Services will begin at 7:00 p.m. nightly with the pastor, Jim Muston conducting services. Music director will be Rab Skidmore. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Redistricting Causing Mistake

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Tuesday said that some legislators may be under a mistaken impression that their own districts will be in trouble with the Legislative Redistricting Board if they don't vote a certain way on congressional redistricting.

Bullock is one of five members of the Legislative Redistricting Board which definitely will redistrict the state Senate and which at this point apparently will also redistrict the House. The Board is set up by the constitution and has no authority whatsoever over congressional districts.

"I can't speak for the other Board members, but for my part there will be no retaliation, retribution or recrimination against any member of the Legislature for his vote on congressional districts," Bullock said.

"Congressional redistricting is exclusively the business of the Legislature—not the Board—and I intend to leave it that way," he said.

Bullock said he has "resisted attempts by numerous people to get me involved in the congressional considerations."

The Insulation Investment

But if you're looking for a significant lowering of your utility bill, insulation is the answer. Summer or winter, proper amounts of insulation installed in the attic can help prevent costly heating and cooling loss, and could lower your bill by as much as 50%! In a few years, your insulation investment can be paid back in utility savings. And, the insulation keeps on saving energy, year after year. When it comes to lower utility bills, the insulation investment is the answer.

Weekly Agriculture Briefs

By Paul D. Payne
Winter Pastures
 Been thinking about planting winter pasture for stocker cattle, dairy herd or cow-calf beef herd? They are going to be expensive. In fact, economic figures worked up by Wayne Taylor, Area Economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, indicates about a 23 percent increase over 1980-81 costs.
 Preliminary figures indicate that small grain and ryegrass pasture will cost approximately $157 per acre. Much of this increase is in a 40 to 75 percent increase in cost of planting seed. For instance, Elbon Rye is projected to sell for $19 a hundred and ryegrass for $35 a hundred. These are only projections at this time and very well could change as planting time get closer.
 An alternative to the traditional stocker-winter pasture operation is contract grazing since the risk of owning cattle may be too great and grazing on a contract per pound of gain could be an opportunity for some. This does offer some possibilities of area wheat producers.
 Grazing wheat improves wheat providing the cattle are removed around the middle of February. Grazing reduces insect problems in wheat. There is less winter grain mite problem and fewer problems with greenbugs. Also, there is less likelihood of wheat being frozen where grazed.
 On the other hand, additional nitrogen will be required where grazed and producers should strive for a September 15 planting date where winter grazing is expected.
 If wheat is to be grazed, producers should consider planting Coker 68-15 even though it has had some powdery mildew disease problems. This variety will produce more forage than other soft and hard wheat varieties planted in the area.

 If one is just planting a winter pasture and has no intention of harvesting grain, then a combination oat or rye plus ryegrass is still the best bet. Results of demonstration and research plantings in the area continue to show oat varieties to be the top forage producer. The only exception to the above statement would be those years where oats are frozen out.
 The Walken oat was the top forage producer at Noble Foundation located near Ardmore, Ok. in 1980-81. The rye varieties produced on the average 4500 to 4600 pounds while wheat was in the lower 4000 pounds and upper 3000's.
 Producers wanting additional economic information on winter pasture costs or yield data on small grains should either call or stop by our office.
 Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.
 Wayne Taylor, area economist-management for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, is calculating budgets for winter pastures and stocker calf operations in East Texas for next winter. These cost and return estimates will be available from local county Extension agents within the next few days.
 Preliminary figures indicate that small grain and ryegrass winter pasture will cost approximately $157 per acre. This is an increased of about 23 percent over last winter. Contributing to the cost increase are seed costs—up 40 to 75 percent, higher interest rates and higher fertilizer prices. Taylor says that his figures are only estimates but that individual producers can adapt the budgets to their own operations and expected cash flow.

 Taylor's calculations also indicate that producers interested in growing wheat for grazing and grain can expect expenses in excess of $200 per acre by the time the wheat is harvested.

have a nice weekend...
