

Blazing Summer Slows Down Pace

By Nanalee Nichols
Main Street, U.S.A.-Texas: it's the same all over. Main thoroughfares drowse in the blazing summer sun, and the only visible movement seems to be the mercury in the thermometer, on it's way up. This week's temps are predicted to hit 105-110 degrees!

The "dog days" are here with a vengeance. Even canines seek the shade of the trees rather than doing their loitering on the street.

It is a time of year that is peculiar to hot climates. Activities have been pared down to the bare minimum. Those who can seek shelter in air conditioning do so, those that can't move around as little as possible.

The year's activities are in recess in deference to old sol. The girl scouts and boy scouts have called a halt to their meetings. The forty-two and domino clubs won't resume until fall. School is still out, and all it's related activities are, too. Little League baseball and softball is over, the practice sessions and games a memory. In yards and gardens no activity is found except early in the morning or late at night. Water hose in hand, the hardy gardener soaks down heat-plagued flowers and shrubs, while vegetable gardens are mostly bare.

The vegetable harvest has peaked, the produce canned, frozen or consumed, depending on the nature of the bounty.

On Main Street, a sleepiness seems to have taken hold. Greetings are slower, activity almost non-existent. No shopping trips are made for fun, only necessity prompts a trip.

Vacations have depleted the ranks of regulars...those kids who spent a good portion of the summer holiday riding their bikes up and down the center of town. Even those who remain are more likely to be found sitting on the curb with a cold coke than popping "wheelies" on their bikes.

A cold glass of iced tea, a frozen slush drink, popsicles are all favorites for everyone.

It is a time for relaxing a little. A time for pondering, reading a good book, spending the weekend at the lake. Water is evryone's friend. Whether swum in, boated across, or poured on lawns and children alike, it retains a comfort almost disproportionate in scale.

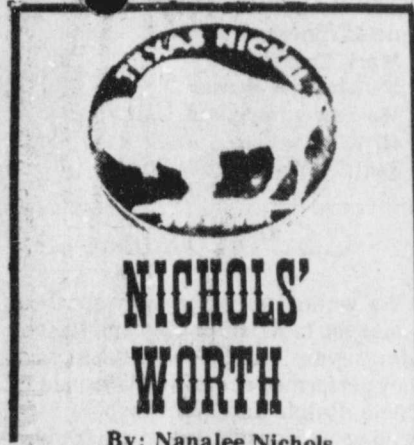

Spring has become a memory, fall is only a wistful idea. East Texas is in the grip of summer.

Even the combines harvesting milo seem muffled in their roaring course up and down the rows, while hay meadows have a strange silence about them, as balers plunk out yet another and another bale. The time when those bales will be needed to fend off winter's bitter stab seems unreal, unobtainable.

Summer is a time for reunions, homecomings, vacations. A time when somehow, in spite of air conditioning at home and at work, the body's rhythms slow down in time to the season, and everyone makes allowances for "summer doldrums".

It is natural, and it feels, somehow, good.

What has happened in Deport can happen in any small community with a volunteer fire department. Hopefully, it will not. Perhaps someone reading this will think twice before they take something from the fire station, no matter how trivial it seems.

Saturday morning the Deport Volunteer Fire Department responded to a call...a five year old boy in a cistern.

In this case, the child had already been there too long, and there was nothing that could have saved him, despite desperate efforts. But the operation was severely hampered by the fact that when the fire department arrived, the flashlights had been stolen.

It was dark in that well, and IF the child had still been alive, the rescue operation would have been hampered by that darkness, and the time lost locating a light source. What if the casual theft of one of those flashlights had caused the death of a child? What if the lack of flashlights had hampered rescue operations at a fire, or a night-time wreck?

The necessity of having lights there and ready is critical. The firemen cannot waste precious time checking to see that all of their equipment is in place, nor can they lose time with a locked fire station...the volunteers from fire to fire vary, and everyone cannot carry a key to all the doors, nor take the time unlocking side doors, garage doors, equipment doors, etc.

This isn't the first thing to come up missing from the station. Gloves, and odds and ends have disappeared before. An air pack was thrown into a nearby pool. Those air packs cost literally thousands of dollars, the gloves are special fireproof equipment, and cost over twenty-five dollars a pair. Again, each piece of equipment needs to BE IN IT'S PLACE at all times.

As the fire department's letter this week states, it takes a special kind of person to climb down into a cistern full of water and retrieve the limp body of a child. It takes a special person to know, and administer the proper efforts of revival.

But those efforts are overshadowed by the senseless theft of valuable, critical equipment.

How frustrating it must be for those volunteers to feel that what they are trying to do is cancelled out by the careless contempt of someone else.

I prefer to think that whoever took these things didn't really think about the consequences. Hopefully they aren't as sensitive as to realize they could cause loss of life or property by their theft.

Hopefully, they will give it careful consideration now, and realize that it could be their home, their brother or sister, their OWN life that they could lose because of their thoughtless act. Come on, folks, let's bring this to a halt now...before tragedy does.

LOWERING a ladder-The Deport Volunteer Firemen recovered the body of five year old Thomas J. Massey from a fifteen foot deep cistern in Fulbright Saturday morning. The boy and his one year old sister had been playing at their home next door to the abandoned house where the cistern was located. His grandmother missed the children and located the sister by the well and the child's body in about four feet of water at the bottom of the brick and cement structure. (Staff Photo)

Five-Year Old Dies In Cistern

An abandoned cistern proved a death-trap Saturday morning in Fulbright, as five year old Thomas J. Massey fell into it and apparently drowned.

The youngster and his sister, age one year, were playing near the family's home in Fulbright when the grandmother, Marie Massey, noticed them missing and began searching for them.

Mrs. Massey found the little girl standing near the cistern at an empty house next door. She discovered the boy's body at the bottom of the cistern, and called authorities, including the Deport Volunteer Fire Department.

Volunteer firemen put a ladder down the fifteen foot deep cistern, which had a concrete coping about two feet high around it, and went down and retrieved the child's body.

CPR was started, and all efforts were made to revive the child, he was transported by Red River Ambulance Service to McCuiston Regional Medical Center where he was pronounced dead.

A sheet of peg board, some tin and boards had apparently covered the old cistern, which had about four feet of water in it.

The child was the son of Tommy and Brenda Massey.

Funeral arrangements were made at Turrentine-Jackson-Morrow Funeral Home in McKinney, after Gene Roden's Sons transferred the body to them.

City Of Deport Being Sued For Negligence

The City of Deport has retained J.D. McLaughlin to defend them in a lawsuit filed against them by James Elrod.

Elrod maintains that he suffered injuries and damages caused "on or about" April 12, 1985 when he was pulling a trailer with his pickup east across the bridge located at the north end of Main Street in Deport.

The tow bar struck the raised portion of the bridge, according to Elrod, jerking the pickup to an abrupt stop, causing his injuries.

Elrod and his attorneys, Baird, Payne and Grossnickle, claim that the accident was a direct result of the negligence on the part of the City to properly maintain the bridge, and failing to adequately warn that the bridge contained a raised portion.

Elrod claims to have undergone surgery for a ruptured disc, and to have incurred substantial doctor, hospital and medical expenses, plus a permanent physical impairment and loss of earning capacity, due to the accident.

The suit was filed in March of 1986, and Elrod is claiming actual and special damages, plus interest and court costs.

NO INJURIES, but heavy damage occurred Tuesday morning when these two vehicles collided on Hwy. 271 in Deport. Margie Skidmore was the driver of the pickup, and Bob Lavery was the driver of the 1984 Oldsmobile. The Lavery's were moving from Kansas to Shreveport, LA. (Staff Photo)

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To The Editor:

It takes a special kind of person to go down into a 12 foot deep cistern with eight feet of water in it, after a child.

Our fire department had that type of person. It takes a special kind of person to administer CPR under the conditions we had at Fulbright Saturday. Our fire department had that type of person.

Our job could have been easier if someone had not stolen four hand lanterns out of the two firetrucks. By necessity, we cannot lock the fire station.

Please do not bother our equipment. The life we are trying to save could be yours!

Ladies Come Out Of "Retirement" For Softball

Well, it ought to be interesting, to say the least. As the Deport Ladies

Softball Association gears up for their big tournament August 14-15-16, some women are dusting off their track shoes and coming out of a dubious retirement to hit the softball field.

Hopefully, there will be no serious casualties.

Among those who will be on teams competing are: Bobbie Gifford, Diana Hutchings, Phyllis Gifford, Sue Farris, Marlene Morgan, Sue Shephard, Carol Harper, Pat Speir, Kathy Holt, Faye LaRue, Shirley Gifford, Charlene Borders, Vicki Tucker and a wide range of other gals.

It's all for a good, good cause, as the Deport Ball Association attempts to raise money to pay off some of their bills and eventually create two more ball fields.

Come one, come all, the more the merrier!

There will be a WORK DAY this Saturday, August 2, for the Red Oak Community Center. Those wishing to work on the building, please be there Saturday morning ready to work....

KIMBERLY KAY REEP, daughter of Freddy and Martha Reep of Blossom and KELLI BALLARD, daughter of Norris and Elaine Ballard, are entered in the PRINCESS contest at the Paris RODEO this year....Good Luck, girls....

All NEW BAND members for the Prairiland Band should meet at the BAND HALL from 8 a.m. until 12 noon....August 4...this is just for new students....

The 1976 graduating class of Prairiland High School will hold their ten year reunion on Saturday, August 30 at Chisholm's Restaurant in Paris,

BLIND KNOT-Doug Pickle of the Clardy-Jennings community, pulled 237.7 feet with his four wheel drive truck "Blind Knot" at the Paris Young Farmer's annual tractor and truck pull last Friday night. A number of area folks, especially youngsters, thrilled to the noise and power of the big vehicles. (Staff Photo by Thomas Nichols)

Frustrated by Your Summer Electric Bill? Try the Average Billing Plan

It's nice to beat the summer heat with air conditioning. As temperatures increase however, keeping cool has probably caused your electric bill to rise. This is because your air conditioning equipment is having to work harder to overcome the summer heat. These seasonal "highs" in your electric bill can make it difficult to stay on your household budget, but this can be avoided. The Average Billing Plan offered by Texas-New Mexico Power Company allows you to pay approximately the same amount each month all year long. With the Average Billing Plan, you already know about how much your electric bill will be, so you can better plan your household budget. We're here to help you with the Average Billing Plan. For more information call our office today.

Ed Bryson, Lifetime Newspaper Work, A Special Person

By Mollie Williams

Nanalee Nichols

Edgar Lee Bryson, better known to those who know him...and that's just about anyone in the area, as Ed, is a retired newspaperman.

Retirement, however, hasn't been a restful, leisurely thing for Ed, as he has been as busy retired as he was working full time.

At 79, his interest in reading and free lance writing is undiminished.

A book lover from youth, he now possesses a large collection of books. Though the volumes have no visible order to an outsider, Ed can find any book desired promptly.

Included in his collection is a Cherokee Bible. Having some Cherokee ancestry, he intended to visit Oklahoma and do a study on the Cherokee Indians, something he hasn't given up on yet.

In his late teens, Ed wrote poetry for magazines and newspapers and had some short stories and articles published.

He began working at the Deport Times back in 1930, when the depression set upon everyone's shoulders heavily. During World War II he served four years in Navy Aviation. After the war, in 1947, he began to work for the Paris News.

Later he moved to Beaumont where he became the City Editor for the Beaumont Journal. Later, he became the Chief Editorial Writer and Editor of the editorial page, working for Enterprise Company in the Ivory Tower, a secluded area designated for the editor. He was there for seventeen years. He also did book reviews in Beaumont, and worked for the Dallas Morning News for a while.

When he retired, back in 1971, he received a telegram congratulating him from Lyndon B. Johnson, whom he knew and had written about.

Now, Ed and his wife Edith live in Bogata. One daughter, Jeanne Haydock of Deer Park, brightens their life. He is a member of the United Methodist Church in Bogata, and a member of the Masonic Lodge. He is a former member of the Lions Club and Chamber of Commerce.

His hobbies, he says with a wide grin, are "reading, writing and rocking". He writes the Sunday editorial page feature and an occasional Monday column for the Paris News.

He is a "Democrat and professional Texan". He is also one of the most thoughtful people around. Anyone doing worthwhile things, from a good article in the Bogata News on, is likely to receive a postcard from Ed letting them know they are appreciated.

His interest in other people and the dedication to the profession he spent his life in, is evident from the articles he writes.

"I have a great respect for people in small communities," he states, "they are special people".

As in most cases, those who see others as "special" are usually pretty special themselves. Ed Bryson appreciates people, he likes them...people like and appreciate Ed, too.

Children's Choir Having Fund Raiser

Anyone wishing to make a donation to the Deport Community Children's Choir, under the direction of Abby Strickland, can receive a chance to win a Bearcat Scanner for every dollar donated. Donations can be made at Gifford's Food Store, Deport Nursing Home and other locations.

This choir needs the community's support. They sing at the nursing home, housing authorities and various other occasions, and are a delight to hear.

Ford Commercial Filmed At Deport

The Deport Baseball Park was the scene for some rather unusual activity Saturday, as the girls and spectators in the softball tournament going on there, were filmed for use in a commercial by Ford Motor Company.

The people filming the action and obtaining releases said that the commercial should air nationwide sometime this fall. The local folks should be in a segment of the commercial.

White-Dollins Exchange Wedding Vows

Miss Bille Annette White and George Alan Dollins were married in a semi-formal ceremony Friday, June 27 at 7 o'clock in the First Assembly of God Church in Detroit. The Rev. James Evert Clark of Manchester, great-uncle of the bride, heard their double-ring vows.

The bride is the daughter of Ms. Rose White of Paris and Douglas White of Blossom. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Allen Hoskins of Bagwell and Albert A. White of Blossom and the late Lois White. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Dollins of West Post Oak. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Felix Cunningham and Mr. and Mrs. A.L. Dollins, all of Emberson.

Wedding music was presented by Mrs. Janis Garner, aunt of the groom.

She played "The Rose" as guests were seated and accompanied Tina Dollins as she sang "Long and Lasting Love".

The wedding scene was decorated with an arch entwined with ivy, blue and white silk carnations, white doves and accented with a blue and white satin bow with streamers tied in love knots. The arch was flanked by two seven branched candelabra and the unity candelabra.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her uncle, Larry Dell Hoskins of Manchester. She wore a gown of white eyelet made by her aunt, Mavis Miller of Paris. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace belonging to her aunt, Mavis Miller.

Matron of Honor was Mary Ann Hoskins of Manchester, aunt of the bride.

Billy Rance White of Paris, brother of the bride, served as best man for the bridegroom.

Kristy LeAnn Dorse of Detroit, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer. Catrina Lynn Rose of Detroit and Jeffery Dell Hoskins of Manchester, both cousins of the bride, served as candlelighters.

Dwight Hoskins of Sulphur Springs, uncle of the bride, and Billy Garner of West Post Oak, uncle of the bridegroom, served as ushers.

The bride is a graduate of Paris High School and is employed as a medical assistant to Saleem H. Mallick, M.D.

The bridegroom is a graduate of North Lamar High School and is employed by Harrison, Walker and Harper Construction Company.

After a wedding trip in Dallas-Ft. Worth, the couple is at home in Paris.

Jeanna Gerringer Receives Scholarship

Jeanna Renea Gerringer, the 1986 Valedictorian of Prairiland High School, has received the J.A. Love Valedictorian Scholarship Award to Paris Junior College for the 1986-87 school year.

Dr. Dennis Michaelis, president of PJC, recently made the scholarship presentation to Miss Gerringer.

In making the presentation, he noted that the scholarship award is given in recognition of the valedictorian's outstanding academic achievement. The scholarship also may be presented for the sophomore year if the student continues to qualify.

At Prairiland High School, Miss Gerringer was Academic All-American for mathematics and English and was elected to the United States Leadership Association and to Who's Who Among American High School Students. She was editor-in-chief of the yearbook and was a member of Beta, Computer Science and Math and Science clubs.

An aerospace engineering major, she plans to continue her education at Texas A&M University after graduating from PJC. She is the daughter of Jo Ann Gerringer of Blossom and Gene Gerringer of Early.

Weed Control Helps At Old Cemetery

Something new has happened at the Old Deport Cemetery south of town. Oil and other chemicals have been poured on the troublesome waves of weeds and grass. Paris fireman Ronnie Blount added, free, the chemical touch to his regular mowings.

The poisons were bought by the Deport Cemetery Association at a discount from local businessmen, according to Edith Fuller, secretary-treasurer of the association. Mayor Charles Foster and the city council provided surplus soil from street improvements to fill low places in the cemetery grounds.

"We're thankful for all efforts", said Ed Bryson, association president, who added that thanks also goes to Commissioner Jimmie Sparks for keeping the roadside ditch open in front of the grounds.

Contributions are always needed and welcomed and may be made to Miss Fuller, Box 124, Deport, TX 75435; or to Ed Bryson, Box 362, Bogata, TX 75417. Or they may be left at the First National Bank for the Old Deport Cemetery fund.

PJC Has Financial Assistance For Students

Persons interested in attending Paris Junior College in the 1986-87 school year may be eligible for financial assistance to cover much of the cost, according to Dr. Jerry deBin, director of student financial aid.

The college has financial aid programs in the form of grants, low-interest loans or work-study employment to help students pay their educational costs. Often, these programs will cover tuition, fees, books and supplies for students who are eligible, deBin said. Students then only have to pay the normal living expenses of room and board.

All prospective students are encouraged to apply for the financial aid; many eligible students fail to make application because they do not think they can qualify. Requirements for eligibility differ from program to program and constantly change. The awards are based on various factors other than income, so prospective students should take the time to apply for the assistance.

The Pell Grant Program is the largest federal student aid program. For many students, these grants provide a foundation of financial aid, to which aid from other federal and non-federal sources may be added. Unlike loans, grants do not have to be paid back. Supplemental educational grants may be obtained in addition to the Pell grants.

To apply for the Pell grant only, students should complete the U.S. Education Department's Application for Federal Student Aid. Those applying for the Pell grant and other types of financial aid should complete the American College Testing Program's Family Financial Statement. Awards range from $200 to $5,000 or more, depending upon the student's need and the availability of funds.

Veterans who have eligibility entitlements also should apply through the Financial Aid Office at PJC. Texas veterans whose benefits have expired may apply for a tuition waiver through the Hazelwood Act. Prospective students interested in PJC scholarships should contact the department head in the program of their major interest.

A large number of applicants for the 1986-87 school year have not submitted the required documents for the particular aid they are seeking, the financial aid director said. Until these procedures are completed, the aid cannot be awarded. There are certain documents which must be submitted before any money can be awarded.

Area residents should take advantage of the opportunity for a college education at a community college with reasonable costs. PJC's in-district tuition for a full time student for one semester is $202 while out-of-district tuition is $286. Additional costs include laboratory fees, books and supplies.

These educational costs are often covered by the financial aid award, the director explained. Therefore, all area residents have an opportunity to work toward a college degree which will make a difference in their lifetime incomes.

Before deciding that college is too costly, students should visit the PJC Financial Aid Office in the Rheudasil Learning Center, Room 130. Applications may be obtained from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 8 a.m. to noon on Friday this summer.

Sorghum Infested With Midge

By Paul D. Payne

Producers with sorghum fields are still in the flowering stage should monitor the fields daily for midge activity. In fact, it is almost a certainty that infestation levels of the tiny orange colored insect are high enough in every field to require spraying. Now, we certainly do not advocate the application of an insecticide without checking it, but insect numbers are extremely high throughout the area.

Due to the wet spring, the sorghum plants within a field are in various development stages. In many fields part of the crop has already begun to change color while other plants in low spots are just now beginning to head. This fact complicates the situation as to when a field should be treated.

The life of an adult midge is about 24 hours. This is why it is so important for one to inspect his crop. If an infestation is found today, it should be treated if the crop is in the proper development stage. Waiting a day to treat will only result in a significant loss in grain.

One should determine the economic injury level for their crop. This takes into account the cost per acre to treat and the market value of the crop. More than one application of an insecticide could be required this season. Applications at three to five day intervals are suggested if a sufficient number of the crop is still in the flowering stage.

There are several insecticides that are labeled for midge control. Pydrin is the latest insecticide to get a label and is being used extensively in the area. It will cost $2.23 per acre plus application. Lannate will cost $3.89 for one pint per acre and Lorsban will cost $2.61 for one-half pint. Parathion is a cheaper insecticide at $1.30 per acre, but evaporates soon after application. Other chemicals suggested include Sevin, Diazinon, Malathion and Di-Syston.

Since all insects are bad this year, we can anticipate Sorghum Headworms to be bad in sorghum once the grain begins to harden. This is the same worm that gets on corn, the Corn Earworm.

Grub Control Should Take Place Now

By Herb Brevard

June bugs or May beetles had a peak flight from mid to late June. According to Dr. James Robinson, entomologist, the best time to treat for white grubs, the larval stage of the June bug is from late July to mid-August. Lawns should be checked for grub population before applying an insecticide. Treat if more than four grubs per square foot are found. Diazinon and Dursban are two of the old standby insecticides for grub control. Water in the insecticides with one-half to one inch of water immediately after application.

The same insecticides applied for grub control should also control chinch bugs in the lawn. This is the time of year that chinch bug infestations begin to build. Follow label directions for applying the insecticides.

Whiteflies and scale are increasing an Eonymus and some other landscape plants. Both whiteflies and scale can be controlled by several insecticides, including cygon, orthene and MSR.

Aphids are common on pecans this time of year. The water-stage spray for insect and disease control, which is due now, should kill the aphids. Additionally, fall webworms are becoming more prevalent. Control of the hickory shuckworm in pecans should begin about the middle of August. Preparation should be made now to carefully scout the orchard and apply insecticides at the proper time.

Producers should keep a close watch for armyworms in forages. Although none have been observed, this is the time of year for infestations to begin.

County Crop Tour August 5

By Paul D. Payne

Crop producers and others interested in evaluating the county milo variety demonstration and the soybean research plots are invited to participate in the County Crops Tour Tuesday, August 5. All of the stops will be on the farms of Melvin Webb and Reginald Crawford.

The first stop will be at the county milo variety demonstration on Webb's place. We expect a number of research scientists from Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana to make the tour. It will conclude around 3 p.m.

Properly watering plants tends to be one of the most misunderstood and confusing gardening chores. Often, ardent gardeners do not realize their inadequate watering methods until it is too late and the plant is badly damaged or dead.

How often should I water, and how much should I apply? are, at this time of year, the most often asked questions from gardeners. Since water is both essential for healthy plant growth and often costly to apply to plants in quantity during the summer, it is important to get the water to the plant's roots and keep it there. The following are several suggestions for easier and more effective watering.

Never water strictly by the calendar. Learn to recognize dry plants and soil and use these as your tip-off for watering. Too many factors determine how fast a soil dries for us to put watering on a regular basis. We need to conserve water, not waste it when it is not needed.

When the plants are dry, water thoroughly. Water lawns so that the soil will be wet several inches down to encourage deep rooting and drought tolerance. One of the worst mistakes people make on their lawns is to try to sprinkle them each day by using their thumb and the end of a running hose. Most gardeners do not have the patience to stand in one spot long enough for deep penetration.

Water trees by taking the sprinkler off the end of the hose and let the water run slowly for hours, being sure that run-off does not occur.

Most plants should be watered in the morning. Watering during the day results in some water loss by evaporation and can result in burned leaves where sunlight hits the water droplets on new foliage. Evening watering increases the likelihood of disease invasion, and most disease develop most rapidly in cool, moist conditions. This is particularly true with St. Augustine grass.

While watering your lawn, try to keep water off the leaves of trees and shrubs as much as possible. This is especially true for plants as crape myrtle and roses, which are troubled by leaf disease which spread rapidly on wet surfaces.

Organic matter, such as peat moss or rotted manure, can reduce water loss by run-off when they are worked into the soil. To keep moisture in the soil, use a mulch, such as redwood bark, pine needles or gravel. In addition to reducing evaporation, mulches also keep the soil cooler and make weed pulling easier.

Be especially careful to keep newly planted trees and shrubs well watered. Their developing root systems are sensitive to under and over watering.

Water for plants is essential, as is the method of applying the water if healthy plants are to be maintained during the summer.

Keeping Healthy

Hot Weather Hard on the Elderly

Older people have an increased risk of heat-related illness and the National Institute of Aging of the National Institutes of Health warns against heat exhaustion, heat cramps and heat stroke.

The Institute suggests several ways to cool off during a hot spell: taking lukewarm or cool baths or showers, allowing the body to air dry; placing an ice bag or wet towels on the body; staying out of direct sunlight and avoiding strenuous activity; wearing lightweight, light-colored, loose-fitting clothing; wearing a hat outdoors. Whenever possible, remaining indoors in a cool place is advisable.

Another suggestion from the Institute is to drink plenty of water or fruit juices to replace fluids lost through perspiration but to avoid alcoholic beverages.

Elderly relatives or neighbors should be checked on routinely, and especially those who live alone. Danger signs such as nausea, dizziness, fatigue or fever require prompt medical attention.
