NICHOLS' WORTH

By: Nanalee Nichols

I am probably going to get into trouble...actually I KNOW I'm gonna get in trouble for writing about this.

Perhaps it should be entitled "The Great Bean Chefs".

On Labor Day, friends Dicky and Jayne King, their youngsters and Thomas and I went to my brother's cabin on Little River in Oklahoma.

Coming work schedules sent Thomas and Dicky and the kids on ahead and Jayne and I arrived about six hours later.

The "boys" decided that they wanted to cook a pot of pinto beans over an open fire.

I dug out the cast iron pot, Thomas ground the rust from it, and we cured it somewhat on the stove before they left.

I carefully measured out salt and spices, made a special trip to the store after a chunk of salt pork, and handed the guys a package of beans. I gave careful directions, including "cook only half of these beans". I remember clearly saying that a couple of times! Well...it was pitch dark when Jayne and I arrived at the cabin, which is located, literally, at the ends of the earth.

The lights glowed in a comforting manner. I had told Jayne of the bean cooking. We had a bet on as to whether they would be done or not.

"Well," she announced, "look at that". Simmering over the fire was the cast iron pot, steam escaping from under the lid.

However, when we raised the lid, the only thing in sight was clear boiling water!

It seems that the fellows just won't listen to directions. They had stopped by Dicky's parents, Travis and Jimmie King, and Jimmie had given them directions for cooking beans, too...including cooking only half of that package.

The first thing they did was decide that half a package COULD NOT be enough, so they dumped in all the beans. Then, instead of simmering, they built a roaring fire under the pot. Then, to cap it all off, they abandoned the beans, wandered down to the river to swim and didn't come back for a couple of hours!

Even the raccoons wouldn't touch those blackened chunks of beans! Neither would the birds. As far as we know, that pot of burned beans was still untouched by ANYTHING when we left.

Of course, Jayne and I were totally unmerciful in our laughter. We made fun of them, to put it mildly. We asked them to check and see if anything had eaten the pile of beans yet. We made remarks at dinner time like "boy, some good beans would have set this off just right."

We were, in short, tacky! We also enjoyed it immensely. Now, of course, the world knows that our husbands can't cook beans. Now, of course, I'm gonna get in trouble for telling!

Patriots Begin Season With Victory

By Thomas Nichols

The Prairiland Patriots started their 1986 football season on a positive note last Friday when they handed their neighbors, the Rivercrest Rebels, a scoreless game while posting fifteen points for themselves at Rebel Stadium.

Head Coach Jim Chambers said, "I was just tickled to death for us to win this first game." He continued, "It gave the kids a positive beginning, important since so many of the boys didn't start last year."

The Patriot defense held tough against the Rebel running attack early in the first quarter, and the defensive backs were also effective in battling down the passing game.

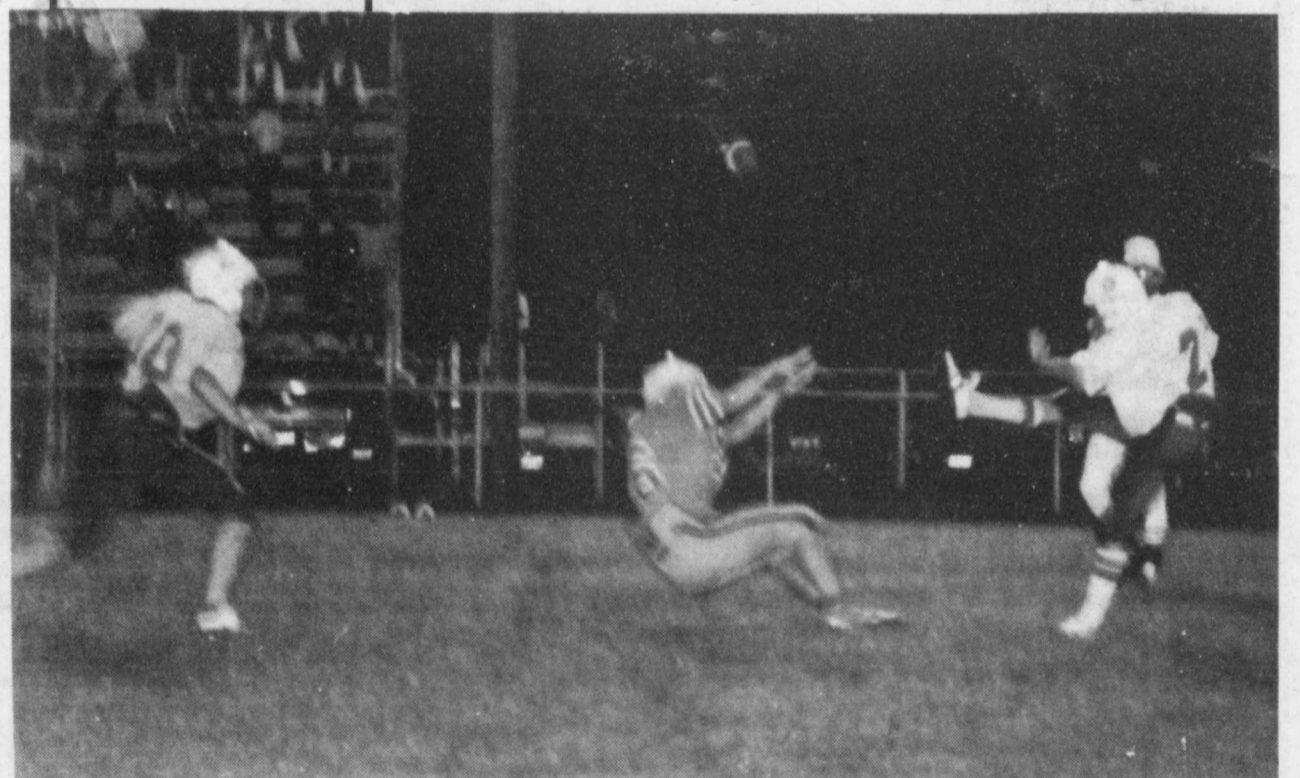

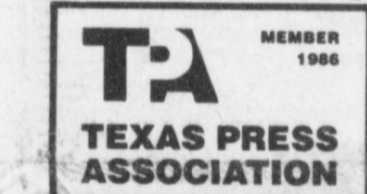

At the end of the first half, the Patriots received a Rebel punt on the Rebel's 25-yard line. Steven Johnston raced for the first and 10 on the Rebel 15-yard line. Two plays later, he finished the trip across the goal line for six points. The two point conversion was good and the Patriots retired after the first half, 8 to zip.

The third quarter of play was basically a battle of defenses. Both teams were unbending, and gave up their precious turf at a high price.

However, with 52 seconds left on the clock, Patriot Steven Johnston plunged from ten yards out for the final TD of the game. The icing on the cake was spread by Jack Kindle, who banged the pigskin through the uprights for the PAT, giving the Patriots their fifteenth point of the evening.

It's a new year, and a new beginning for some players and coaching staff at the Patriot camp, and they have some tough competition coming up, including the game this Friday night against North Lamar.

Coach Chambers says, "To win against North Lamar we're going to have to play our very best football. They have a big school size difference, three students to every one of us, besides, I hear they always play their best against Prairiland." He has hopes for a victory, however, and is looking forward to the game.

Deport Ball League Has Great Year

The Deport Ball League had a great year in 1986. The league started out with a total of $1,309.06. The ball teams brought in a total of $4,201.08, the Women's Softball Tournament brought in $944.92, that totals $6,457.06. The league's expenses totaled $6,528.70, so the total deficit for the league is $71.64. The Deport Ball Association and board has planned some events to alleviate the difference.

A great big thank you is extended to the merchants, the people of Deport and parents for their cash donations and help, because without their support, none of this would have been possible.

A special thanks goes to the merchants, parents and people of Deport who helped raise a total of $944.92 in the Women's Softball Tournament which was held August 14-16.

The Deport Ball Association wants to thank everyone involved in the '86 year who helped make it a great year and an even greater year in 1987.

An Important Message About Power Line Safety

We're here to Help

The benefits of your electric service are enormous. Every day, you can see how electricity helps make our quality of life better and our work places more productive. But with all the benefits of electricity, it is sometimes easy to forget that if electricity is carelessly handled, it can be harmful.

Here are a few tips about electrical safety:

1. Never touch a power line with any object.
2. If power lines are down, do not get close. Instead call your local law enforcement officer or our office immediately.
3. When using tall equipment, do not operate near a power line.

Making sure you know about electrical safety is one of our jobs. Providing you with valuable safety information is one more way we're here to help.

RRV Deaf And Hearing To Meet

The Red River Valley Deaf and Hearing Association will meet Saturday, September 13 at 7 p.m. at Wade Park in Paris for a covered dish picnic supper and business meeting. If it rains, the association will meet at the First Assembly of God Church.

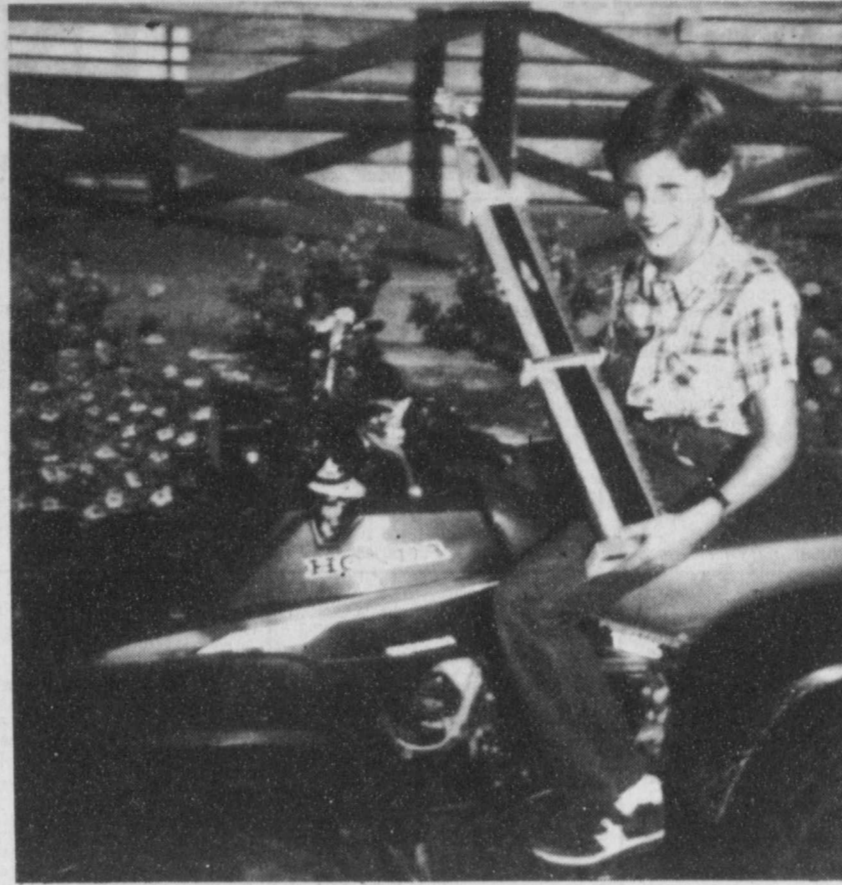

The reason for the change from the third Thursday of the month is a special meeting finalizing plans for National Deaf Awareness Week, Sept. 21-27. Second on the agenda is membership drive. Although membership is dated first of the year to first of the year, most organizations begin membership drives in August or September. Third, the association's phone number is a toll call. It may be best to change it to a local number. Also, decision for keeping the name in the United Directories is necessary. Fourth, election of officers for the coming year.

Mrs. LaQuinta Long, whose parents are deaf, will be working at A.M. Aikin Elementary School. Kathy Hall will be at Aikin High School.

Judy Pridemore will have an art exhibit at InterFirst Bank of Paris during Deaf Awareness Week. Dates are Sept. 17-28.

Membership dues are $5.00 per person or $10.00 per family. The association's address is Route 4, Box 137, Clarksville, TX and the president's address is Mrs. Carol Lampard, Ph. 427-2438.

"There hath not failed one word of all his good promise."

Deport's Dinner Playhouse Reaps Applause

It's been more years than anyone can count since Deport had a dinner playhouse production. Let's hope it isn't very long before they have another one!

Friday night, in front of a sell-out crowd, the Deport Methodist Women presented "How The Story Grew" after a meal. To say that they delighted their audience would be an understatement.

The meal consisted of homemade ham tart, corn, carrots, toast and cheesecake, served on white covered tables at the Deport American Legion building.

About 135 people then turned their attention to the "stage" where Juanita Sparks, Betsy Merritt, Thelma Warren, Jeanne Burns, Ruth Cheatham, Margaret Parks, Virginia Kirkland and Martha Glover portrayed their characters to perfection.

The subject of the four act play was gossip, and the fantastic proportions it can grow to. The story grown from a family moving into a vacant house until, at the end, the house was peopled with gangsters, murder had occurred and the town of Deport was under seige!

The success of the evening prompts thoughts of a community theater group, and hopes for more entertainment of such calibre.

Serving on the food committee were Dawne Darden, chairman; Odell Harvey, Rena Good and Beulah Shipp, plus many silent volunteers. The table decorations were under the supervision of Abby Strickland, chairman.

Ticket committee members were Nina Sparks, Ina Sparks and Ida Lou Read. The clean-up crew was headed by Tom Webb, chairman.

Without the efforts of these people and many volunteers not named, the evening would not have been possible. Rev. Chief Warden, pastor, the cast and crew thanks everyone for sharing their first performing effort.

GOSSIP-And how it grows, was the subject of the dinner playhouse put on by the Deport Methodist Women last Friday evening. The dinner and play was sold out, and an enthusiastic audience applauded the cast. (Staff Photo)

PJC Offering Music Course

Music classes for students in grades 1 through 12 are scheduled to begin the week of September 2 at Paris Junior College, said Barry Russell, facilitator of the college's preparatory fine arts program.

The music program, for those ages 6 to 18, includes lessons in piano, voice, guitar and other instruments. Purpose of the program is to develop sound musicianship and performance skills necessary for the enlightened listener and amateur musician, Russell explained. It is also helpful for college-bound students planning to major in music.

Piano students receive instruction in playing by ear, composing and improvising, as well as learning to sight read and play the best of piano literature. Beginning piano classes are for students between the ages of 6 and 9. Students meet weekly for two 50-minute classes and special emphasis is given to the rudiments of piano theory as well as keyboard technique. After the first semester, students are enrolled in the intermediate class. Parents of students must have a conference with the instructor before enrollment.

Private instruction is given to students in voice, guitar or other instruments, Russell said. The lessons consist of one 30-minute class weekly. Students may take the lessons for their own enjoyment or to develop skills for college entrance or U.I.L. sponsored events.

Piano lessons for sixteen weeks will cost $145, and all other lessons for eight weeks will be $65. Private lessons and class times will be assigned after registration is made.

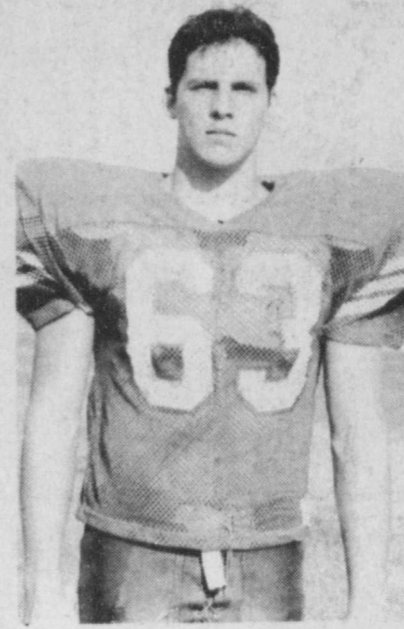

Registration may be completed by paying the fee in the Continuing Education Office at PJC or by calling 784-9447 for information on registration by mail.

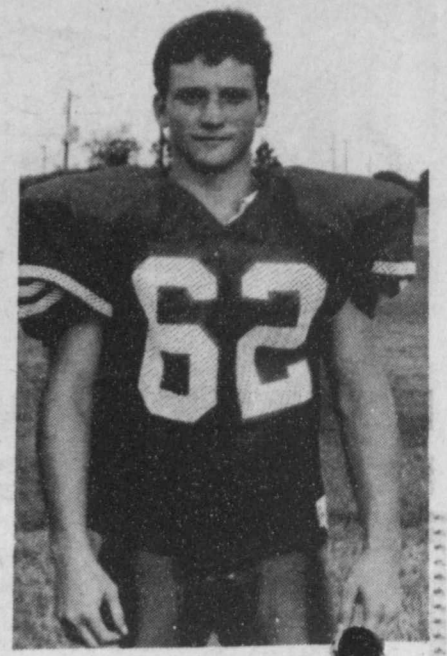

OFFENSIVE players picked for the week at Prairiland High School are Number 30, Steven Johnson, a running back and Number 74, Lloyd Whelchel, a tackle. Both boys are juniors. (Staff Photo)

DEFENSIVE Players of the Week for the Prairiland High School football team were Number 63, Joseph Whelchel, a junior tackle,
