NICHOLS' WORTH

By: Nanalee Nichols

"We're never satisfied". An old cliché...but how true, how true.

Home projects for example. One sunny spring morning, dad or mom looks out the window of the house and says "You know, a little deck would look really good right there where that bare spot is!"

Hey, no problem. So, if finances aren't too tight, dad goes off to the lumber yard, picks up some treated 2x6's and nails and comes back to handle this little problem.

Well, naturally, the endeavor takes a little longer than planned, and usually requires two or three trips back to the lumber yard for some additional materials. Then of course, it would look a lot better with some railings on it...right? Right.

Well, naturally with this lovely new deck, everyone wants to sit outside. But that means there has to be something to sit ON. Which means shopping around for some kind of lawn furniture or another. Those old ratty, webbed lawn chairs the puppy teething on look pretty shabby sitting up on that nice, new patio with the neat, trim railing.

So, finally, there is a lovely little table and some comfortable chairs. But then everyone discovers that the deck is too hot during certain times of the day.

That's when the project can take on absolutely gigantic proportions. To put a lattice sun screen? To put up canvas awning or sun filter? Hey, how about an entire roof! Yeah, that's a great idea.

Now all this time the bank account is shrinking and the lumber yard man is smiling wider every time he sees the family drive in.

Finally, though, everything is complete. Oh, mom may have to go buy a few pots or planters and plants to dress things up...maybe even a new barbeque grill caps things off.

But the family settles down to enjoy their new outdoor living space. And does, for quite a while.

But sooner or later, either when it gets too hot in the summer or perhaps too cool in the winter, someone in the family is gonna get the bright idea of enclosing the whole thing for year-round use...making a garden room. Or else someone is going to get the idea of adding another level to the deck, and a spa...and some built-in furniture, or any one of a thousand expansion projects!

It's human nature. We like to improve our nests, keep busy, meet challenges. If this story doesn't ring a bell, anyone out there ever tried remodeling a kitchen?

"People Are Special"

L. C Stout's Life Shows It!

By Wendy Milford

When you walk through the halls of the Blossom Elementary School, you will more than likely run into a very special man, Dr. L.C. Stout.

To the students, he is known as their principal, but he is also a teacher, a minister, a poet, as well as a friend to all he meets.

Upon first meeting Dr. Stout, you may notice that he is an easy going, soft-spoken man. But he commands a great deal of respect from his peers and students.

But Dr. Stout does not think that his position as principal is responsible for such respect.

"Respect is not some kind of honor that a person earns through a degree," Stout said. "But, it's something that you earn through giving respect."

Dr. Stout began his teaching career as the boy's coach and science teacher in Deport in 1968. When the school was consolidated into Prairiland, he became the girl's coach and an English teacher. He remained as coach until 1973. Dr. Stout also taught German and was the yearbook staff sponsor at Prairiland during his 13 years there.

Dr. Stout became the principal at the Blossom campus in 1985.

"The thing I find most challenging is to motivate students to want to learn," Stout said, "Times haven't changed, but many things have changed. Kids today have so many more distractions than kids did several years ago."

Dr. Stout grew up and went to school in Blossom. He and his wife, Jerry Nell, were married in 1956. He attended several trade schools and Texas Christian University for one year. He worked at General Dynamics in Ft. Worth until 1962, when he moved back to Lamar County. He worked in Paris at American National Insurance Company.

Then something happened. "There was something in my life that wasn't quite what I wanted and needed to be doing," Stout said.

Dr. Stout moved back to Ft. Worth and enrolled at the University of Texas at Arlington. He went to school during the day and worked for General Dynamics at night. Then for a while he worked for Bell Helicopter.

Before he graduated from UTA, he had preached one weekend at the Bethel Baptist Church in Clardy. They had no minister at the time and asked him to be their pastor. Dr. Stout commuted for a year between Clardy and Ft. Worth until he graduated from UTA in 1968.

This will be Dr. Stout's 21st year to be the pastor at Bethel Baptist.

"Being a Christian for me has always been a way of life," Stout said. "Whether at church or at school, there are morals, good things, positive things that ought to be present in a person's life."

Dr. Stout also has many other interests. He enjoys writing poetry, and has since he was in school at Blossom. Although he has never had his poems published, many have appeared in Prairiland's yearbook.

For a while, he and his brother, Johnny, made pralines and peanut patties.

"I've always loved pralines. But, you never see a good praline. It is either sticky or gooey. So I developed a praline recipe myself and started making them," Stout said. "I think we could have developed a business, but I decided to continue with teaching and pastoring, rather than get into the candy business."

He also enjoys playing golf and attending school activities.

His wife, Jerry Nell, works in the administration office at Prairiland. They have two children. Jerry, the oldest, is principal at Beckville, near Longview, and has three children. Cathy, the youngest, is a paramedic and fire "person" in Waxahachie.

"I say fireman, and Cathy always reminds me that it's fire 'person,'" Stout said.

Dr. Stout is a very special person and also believes that those around him are special.

"Every person is important to me," Stout said. "I have always tried, regardless of what age the person is, to remember that every person is special. They really are."

Dr. L.C. Stout

WAGON TRAIN-Ralph and Ginger Casey and son, Link, of Pinelog, GA drove their wagon through Blossom last Saturday afternoon. The family is on their way to California and hope to arrive there in August. They are making the trip for the plight of the farmers and have talked to many people and listened to the problems facing the economy of farmers and ranchers. (Staff Photo by Liz Irwin)

Wagon Heads For California In Support Of Farmers

Driving through Blossom Saturday afternoon was a wagon from Pinelog, Georgia. Drivers of the wagon were Ralph and Ginger Casey and their son, Link and dog, Odie. They sold their scuba diving business in Henrietta, Georgia to make the trip for the plight of the farmers. Ralph is retired from the Navy where he was on the Underwater Demolition Team and they have a horse farm in Pinelog, but have sold all but five of the horses to supplement their trip. They have met many people on their trip and have listened to many farmers and ranchers about the economy and difficulties they are having. They have traveled Highway 82 all the trip and plan to continue this route, arriving in California sometime in August.

Mrs. Casey said since they have entered Texas, they have talked to many people who participated in the Sesquicentennial Wagon Train. Some people from DeKalb rode with them for two days and she said that the people from Texas are very friendly and if they have the time "will talk your leg off".
