The farm leader noted that this year's convention comes at a time when farmers and ranchers are enjoying unprecedented prosperity. But they face many crucial problems, he added.

Woodson cited instability of prices, rising costs, shortages of fuel and fertilizer, Constitution revision, and commodity contracts as some of the issues that will be faced by the convention delegate body in its business session.

The annual event gets underway with registration beginning at 2 p. m. on Sunday, Dec. 2. A Vesper Service at 6 p. m. will open the convention. Speaker will be Rev. Josef P. Aal-bue, pastor of Faith Lutheran Church at Sagerton. Rev. Aal-bue was recently named Texas "Rural Minister of the Year."

A young people's Discussion Meet will be held after the Vesper Service, followed by the annual Talent Find.

The Monday morning program will feature the annual president's address by Woodson, and a guest speaker, yet to be named. A ladies luncheon will be held at noon.

Special conferences and district caucuses will comprise the Monday afternoon program. Conferences will be held on Community Services, Young Farmers and Ranchers, Livestock, Dairy, Rice, Natural Resources, and Wheat and Feed Grains.

Finals in the TFB annual queen contest will be held Monday evening with 12 district nominees competing.

A voting delegate breakfast is scheduled for Tuesday morning. TFB Executive Director Warren Newberry will make his administrative report to delegates. Bill Reid of Lamesa, TFB secretary-treasurer, will present the financial report.

Additional special conferences will begin at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday. These include sessions on Field Crops, Research and Education. Services. Poultry, Farm Labor and Cotton.

A special entertainment program is scheduled to be held in conjunction with the recognition and awards program on Tuesday evening. The featured entertainer will be announced later.

Excessive Rainfall Is Cause Of Increase In Internal Parasites

Above average rainfall in East Texas and the states along the eastern seaboard, where the majority of stocker cattle for this area are obtained, has occurred for the past two years. These ideal conditions have caused a tremendous increase in internal parasites.

Parasitism in some cases are severe enough to cause death. The symptoms, in severe cases, are decreased appetite, weight loss and watery diarrhea. In all cases, even if symptoms are absent, this parasite load increases the cost of gain, or in the case of wheat pasture, requires more forage than normal to be consumed to produce a pound of gain. Therefore, it is more important to worm your cattle that you are placing on wheat pasture this year than it has been in the past.

The normal cycle of an internal parasite is the larvae is ingested by the animal with grass. The larvae then invades the lining of the gut and undergoes further development. It finally emerges into the intestinal tract where they attain adulthood and begin laying eggs.

The medium stomach worm (Ostertagia) has been the primary offender in some cases where response to normal worm remedies has been ineffective. Under certain conditions, usually in the fall of the year, the larvae of the demium stomach worm does not continue its regular development on to adulthood but rather cease development and remain in the lining of the stomach for long periods of time. This causes irritation to the lining of the stomach and results in collection of fluid in the tissue, making the lining of the stomach many times thicker than normal.

This accumulation of fluid disrupts the acid producing cells in the stomach that are necessary for the digestion of protein. This is one of the reasons affected animals lose weight so rapidly. Much of the fluid collected in the tissues pass into the intestinal tract and this contributes to the watery diarrhea observed in these animals.

Response to treatment with most worm medicines is highly effective against the adult parasites found in the stomach or intestine; however, the larvae formations in the lining of the gut are much more resistant to medication. In this case, for treatment to be successful on the larvae formation, it must be repeated at two-week intervals for as long as necessary.

Cotton Classing
MUNDAY

USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service Office classed 9,400 samples during the week ending Friday, Nov. 16, 1973, according to Sidney Ferrell, in charge. The season's total now stands at 19,700 samples. This is 700 samples more than at the same time last year.

Grade and staple percentages are as follows: grade 31 was 6 percent; grade 41, 46 percent; grade 51, 9 percent; grade 32, 20 percent; grade 42, 15 percent; and grade 52, 2 percent. Eleven percent of the cotton was reduced one grade because of bark or grass. Staple 29 was 3 percent; staple 30, 45 percent; staple 31, 42 percent; staple 32, 9 percent; and staple 33 and longer, 1 percent.

Mike readings in the 5.0 and up range increased slightly with 12 percent, while range 3.5-4.9 accounted for 87 percent, and mikes below 3.5 was one percent. Fiber strength results showed no change from last week with 97 percent testing 80,000 pounds per square inch or better.

Cotton prices are very unstable. Many buyers stopped quoting prices toward the end of the week. Those prices still available ranged from 2500 to 3600 points above CCC Loan prices.

Mrs. Nettie Henry

Mrs. Nettie Henry is a native of Haskell County, having been born in Rochester to Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Mullino. Although she graduated from Clarendon High School, after she received her degree from Texas Tech, she came back to Haskell and finished a 24 year teaching career when she retired at the end of last year's school term.

She is married to Herman K. Henry, a farmer and stockman, and they have two children. Their son, Pat, is also a teacher, and teaches math at Haskell High School. Their daughter, Kay, is a pharmacist. She is married to Don McCutchen and they live in Houston.

The Henry's enjoy two grandchildren. Larry Henry is six years old and started his first year at Haskell Elementary.

Mrs. Henry says there doesn't seem to be any problem after the first day of school. When he got home and they asked him how he liked it, all he could talk about was that good lunch at the cafeteria — they served french fries, his favorite food. The other grandchild is Patricia, 4 years old.

Mrs. Henry received her degree from Texas Tech, and started her teaching career as a 4th grade teacher at old South Ward for one year, before going to junior high math. She taught all her career here except for one year during World War II, when she taught at High School.

She is a member of the Methodist Church. Her hobbies include bridge, knitting and reading.

Texas Department Of Public Safety Is Actively Recruiting Applicants

The Texas Department of Public Safety is actively recruiting applicants to fill the ranks of its uniformed services. Major C. W. Bell, Regional Commander of the DPS, announced that the training school for new uniformed law enforcement personnel is tentatively scheduled to begin Feb. 1, 1974.

The Major noted that the DPS has been increasingly successful in recruiting persons from minority groups to these positions and said efforts in this direction will continue.

Also in keeping with the current trend, female applicants will be considered for these rewarding careers in law enforcement.

Major Bell said general qualifications for DPS officers are: applicants must be 20 through 35 years of age; height not less than 68 inches; weight not less than two pounds per inch of height; visual acuity of 20/40 correctable to 20/20; and a minimum of 45 semester hours of college credit, of which six hours may be obtained while in training.

Applications may be obtained by contacting any DPS employee or any DPS office. The completed application form should be taken to offices in Lubbock, Amarillo or Wichita Falls where the competitive examination is given each Tuesday and Wednesday at 9:00 A. M.

Major Bell said persons selected as cadets will be assigned to Austin for training at the DPS Academy. The salary during training will be $630.00 per month. Upon being commissioned the salary is raised to $719.00 monthly with the opportunity to advance to $848.00 per month.

Uniformed personnel receive additional longevity pay for each five years of service to 25 years. They are also granted a monthly uniform cleaning allowance, and receive travel expenses when away from their station.

Uniforms, vehicles, weapons, ammunition and related equipment are furnished. Group life and hospitalization are paid for the employee, and dependent coverage is available at reasonable rates. Officers participate in the Employees Retirement System of Texas as well as Social Security. Vacation, holidays and sick leave are as provided for all State employees.

Successful graduates will be assigned to the Highway Patrol, License and Weight Service, Motor Vehicle Inspection Service, or Drivers License Service, according to the needs of the DPS and consideration of personal preference.

All officers are eligible to compete for promotions after two years of service. Experienced uniformed DPS personnel interested in criminal investigation may apply for appointment to positions in the Criminal Law Enforcement Division, which includes Narcotics, Intelligence, Motor Vehicle Theft and Texas Ranger services as vacancies occur.

Arrangements will be made for a physical examination. A character investigation will be conducted, and those persons who are accepted for employment will be notified prior to the beginning of the February recruit school.
