Yellow ribbons. Tied in big bows on trees, tied on mailboxes, tied on fences. Yellow streamers fly from car antennas and door handles.

Yellow ribbons are everywhere.

Florists find themselves out of yellow ribbon, and their suppliers putting it on back order.

It's one of the biggest efforts of unity the people in the United States have shown in many a long year.

It's heartwarming to know that for once most of the nation seems to agree that something in the Middle East MUST be decided.

Driving down the road looking at all the yellow ribbons the other day, I began to wonder "why yellow ribbon?". Yellow is the color of betrayal and cowardice in many respects...so why yellow?

I've looked in to it, and come up with a few answers, but no real one.

The use of yellow ribbon as a remembrance of troops somewhere far away dates back at least to the days of the United States Calvary.

There was an old song "Around her neck, she wore a yellow ribbon, she wore it for her lover in the U.S. Calvary...Calvareeee...Calvareeee...She wore it for her lover in the U.S. Calvary".

That is the earliest reference to it I've uncovered.

Then, in World War One, the yellow ribbon was again worn by those waiting at home...and the same song, slightly modified, was sung during that war.

During World War II the yellow ribbons seem to have fallen by the wayside, but during the Vietnamese conflict, a new song and new resurgence of yellow ribbon use came along.

"Tie a Yellow Ribbon 'Round The Old Oak Tree" was a hit and yellow ribbons caught on once more.

Since then, briefly, tying white ribbons during the hostage crisis in Iran came along.

Now, however, yellow ribbons abound everywhere.

In big cities, in small towns, on the old oak tree and the new car antenna, yellow ribbons are everywhere.

If anyone discovers the true beginning of this habit, please let us know.

In the mean time...it doesn't matter...it's just nice to see a show of unity in the nation.

CAN YOU FIND SOMEONE?—this picture was of the Halesboro School in 1936...we know a few people, but take a look and see if you can see someone YOU know. The Halesboro School Reunion was held last weekend, and was a huge success.

Released From Kuwait

Lucy Fowler of Cunningham called, relieved and happy to report that her niece and her two children, who have been trapped in Kuwait since the invasion, arrived home at 1:30 p.m. Friday morning, safe and sound.

Sadly, though, their husband and father, Mike AlGareeb, was refused permission to leave and is still in Kuwait with his mother. The family was visiting with his mother when the invasion occurred.

All Or Nothing At All... That's The Way The Weather Was!

After months of nothing...namely no rain, it seems the area has been deluged with plenty of moisture in a short length of time.

Drought stricken soil welcomed the first half inch that fell Sunday night, September 9. Then, between Monday and Wednesday 6 and one half to nine inches fell from cool, cloudy skies!

It took four inches before any runoff what so ever was noticed. Up until that time the thirsty earth soaked it up like the proverbial sponge.

After a scorching hot, humidity ridden weekend more rain came in the form of a thunder storm that brought cooler temperatures once more, and dropped another one to three inches of rain (depending upon location).

After being severely damaged by last winter's hard freeze, then scorched through a two and a half month long drought, this rain may well have saved meadows and pastures.

Cotton farmers, however, cast a slightly worried eye on the skies, since the cotton stripping season is just beginning.

Water, for the first time since the first week in June, now stands in some fields.

REUNION—The Halesboro School had their first reunion last Saturday. Over 115 attended the event held at Marris

Chapel Community Center. Hontas Hill Pettit, Ruth Craddock Wood, Pauline Ward Hudson and Calvin Barton were

School Reunion Held At Halesboro

When the old school bell rang last Saturday, 115 former students and friends had officially registered for the first Halesboro School reunion. The event was held at the Marris Chapel Community building.

Former students came from as far away as Carlsbad, NM; Phoenix, AZ; DeQueen, AR; and San Antonio.

Wood Armstrong of Bogata, formerly of Marris Chapel, gave the invocation preceding the noon meal.

Roy Marris and Barbara Martin, serving as co-chairmen, presided over the afternoon program. School pictures and related stories were shared and enjoyed by everyone throughout the day.

Two former teachers, Mrs. Vivian Smith Westbrook of Talco and Mrs. Martha Tuck Smith of Gladewater spoke to the group about their memories as teachers at the school and living in the community.

Special recognition was given to Ruth Craddock Woods, Pauline Hutson, Hontas Hill Pettit, Floyd Chesshir and Calvin Barton, as members of the earliest class, prior to 1923, represented at the reunion. ## Article Recalls Dr. A.G. Elder

Mrs. Mary Stone of Clardy graciously brought by an article she had kept from the Dallas Times Herald Magazine, printed in June 25, 1967.

The article, written by Bill Thompson, was about Dr. A.G. Elder of Deport, his practice and his fox hunting.

At that time, Dr. Elder was 87 years old, and still practicing medicine, although a heart attack had cut down on his fox hunting.

The article mentioned that he was one of the oldest active physicians in the Southwest. Since he actually continued to practice medicine one into his nineties, he may well have died THE oldest.

Dr. Elder's story points out some of the differences between practicing medicine then and now.

For instance, Arthur Gilbert Elder got the notion early that he wanted to be a doctor. He set out to study at the University of Texas Medical School. Family problems caused him to drop out, but he continued to study at the University of Nashville and received his medical degree in 1907.

Fourteen years he practiced at Fulbright. That fourteen years he rode horseback. His territory ran from south of Detroit to north of Bogata, eight miles from Clarksville, and included the old Lone Star and Dark Corner settlements. He told the reporter "Times were hard, but they made a good corn crop that first year. I accumulated a corn crib full of corn in payment for my services".

He got a two-cylinder Maxwell car in 1911, but in muddy weather still had to go back to the saddle or buggy.

In order to get a better education for his children Dr. Elder moved his practice to Deport in 1922.

He served as the Deport Health Officer for many years, and headed the school board for 10 years.

No one knows just how many babies he delivered, but he was tending the grandchildren of kids he had delivered years earlier!

But Dr. Elder had another love...fox hunting.

He learned, the article said, the joys of fox hunting with hounds as a child "I hunted with the slaves on my dad's place. They had brought some hounds with them from Virginia".

It took him practicing medicine for ten years before he could afford to keep hounds and fox hunt. After that, he became something of a legend among southwest hunters and dog owners.

When the article appeared Dr. Elder hadn't missed an annual hunt of the Texas Fox and Wolf Hunter's Association since 1918...that was 49 years.

His hounds won prizes over all the Southwest. After his heart attack in 1955 he sold them, and finally, in 1957, sold his camp which was nestled in the deep woods near Cuthand.

Patriots Fall To Falcons

By Thomas Nichols

The Prairiland Patriots suffered an unmerciful 33-14 defeat at the hands of Eddie Akins, and the Fannindel Falcons in last Friday night's football game at Ladonia.

The Patriots struck first on the opening drive, set up by Jack Crawford with a good kickoff return giving the Patriots first and ten on their own 45-yard line.

Patriot quarterback Michael Madewell connected with Junior Burson for a first down, ran for a first down, hit Dexter Baker for another first down and finally Jack Crawford hauled in the TD pass to put the Patriots on the board with six points.

The point after was no good, and the Falcons had their turn with the ball.

The Patriot kickoff team denied the Falcons a return on the kickoff, and they had first and ten on their own 33-yard line.

Twelve plays later the Falcons scored a TD of their own, and Eddie Akins was the ball carrier on seven of the twelve plays including a 9-yard touchdown run to even the score at 6.

The Falcons tried for the two point conversion, but failed.

The Patriot offense was stone cold on their next series of downs, and after three plays, punted to the enemy Falcons who fumble the ball, and only Lady Luck kept the Patriots from covering the ball just before it rolled out of bounds.

On the following series, Patriot Larry Smith smashed Marcus Phillips for the Falcons, forcing him to fumble the ball, but luckily for the Falcons, they recovered and retained possession.

Two plays later Eddie Akins outlasted everybody to cross the goal line again for 6 more points for the Falcons.

The Falcons tried to pass into the endzone for a 2-point conversion, but Michael Madewell intercepted the ball to foul their efforts.

The second quarter was half over before Akins broke loose for another touchdown run; but he did, for 40 yards and the Patriots trailed by 12 points.

The Falcons tried for the two point conversion for the third time in the game, and finally succeeded extending their lead to 20-6.

The Falcons came right back on their next pos-sion to score again, but this time with a pass play to Michael Crowley.

However, Eddie Akins kicked the extra point to put the Falcons out front 27-6 with just over two minutes left in the first half.

The Falcons were on the move again with only :19 seconds left in the half when Patriot Brad Thomas recovered a Falcon fumble to turn them back.

The Patriot offense controlled the rest of the half, and went into halftime with the score 27-6.

After the halftime break, the Falcons came back out with Akins leading the offensive effort, but Patriots James Freelen, Junior Burson and David Brown punished him on each carry he made. Akins was called for a personal foul, and the Falcons were faced with a fourth and 26, for a 1st and 10.

The Falcons were forced to punt out that point but the Falcons were also plagued for illegal procedure, and backed up five yards and asked to punt again.

Luck was against the Patriots Friday night, though. After the penalty the Falcons punted the ball again and it hit an unsuspecting Patriot, bounced back, and the Falcons recovered for a 1st & 10.

The Patriot defense held the Falcons to a punting situation, but Akins faked a pass from the punt formation only to run all the way down the left side of the field for yet another TD.

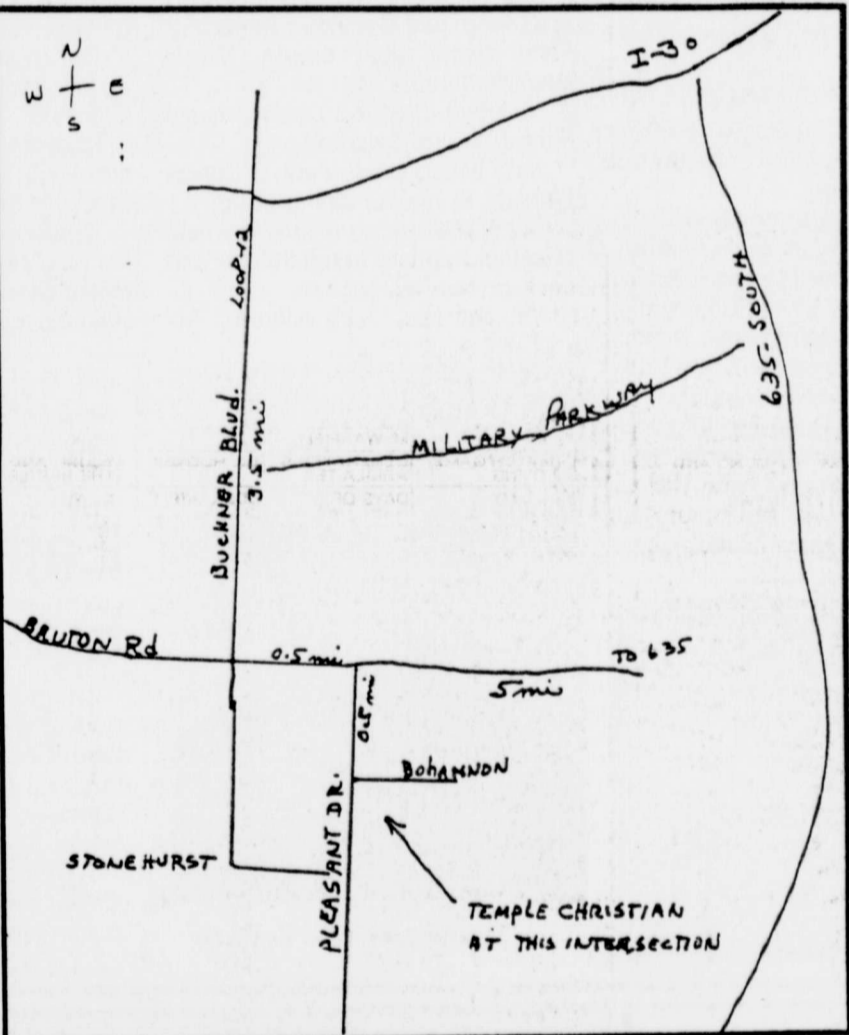

The Falcons didn't get the point after attempt, and ended up with 33 points with 4:00 left in the third quarter.

The Patriot defense had Akins number and punished him on every play he had the ball the rest of the game.

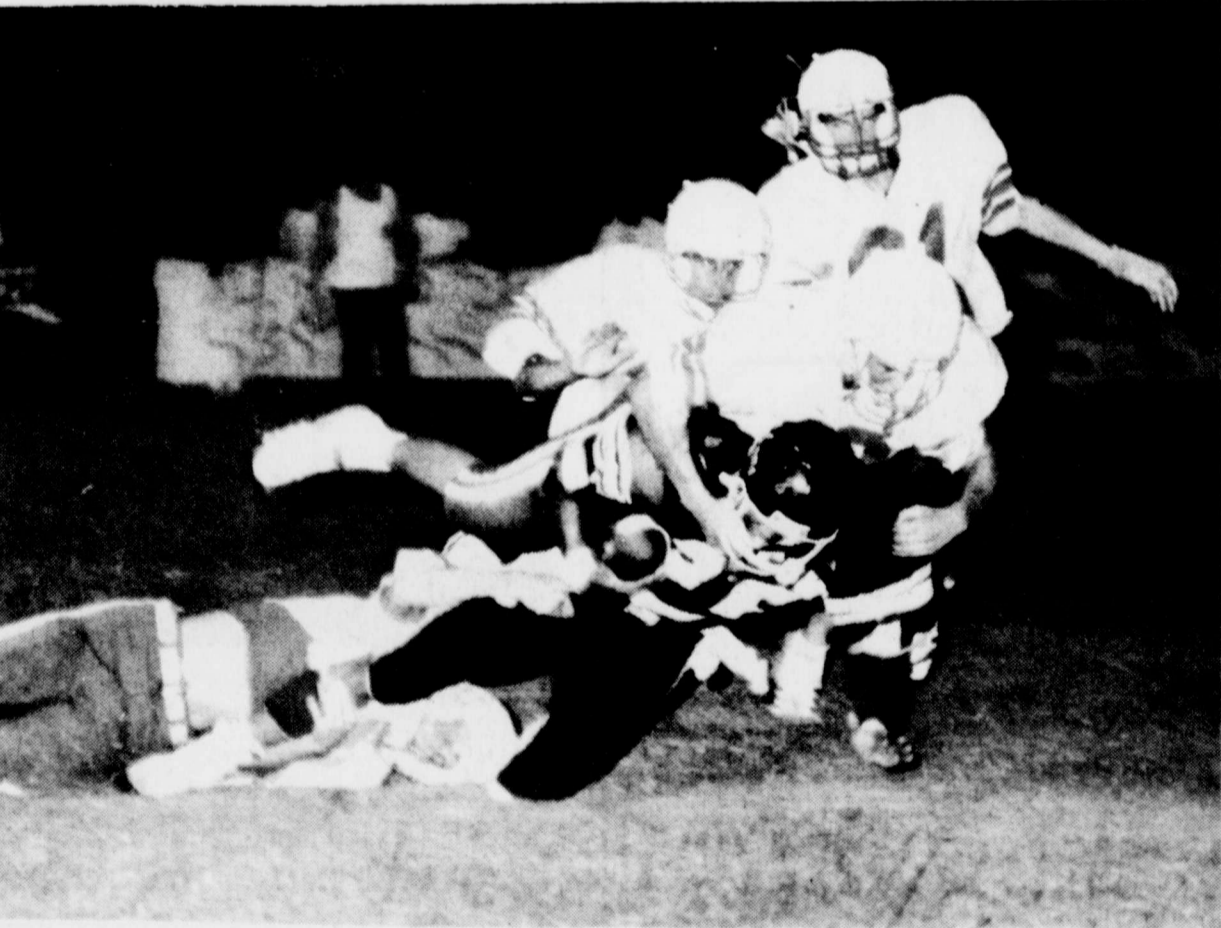

The Falcons were denied any more points. With :41 seconds left, Michael Madewell connected with Junior Burson for a TD to give the Patriots 12 points.

John Bratcher caught a Madewell pass for the two point conversion to end the game with 14 points for the Patriots.

Friday night, the Patriots travel to Dallas to take on the Dallas Temple Christian Academy at 8:00 p.m.

My First Pep Rally As A Cheerleader

By Jenny Roach,
Age 13

As some of you might already know, I made Junior High cheerleader this year.

We had been practicing until we couldn't practice anymore, then the day finally came. Thursday morning was our first pep rally. I wasn't nervous until I got out on the floor. Then my knees started shaking but I just kept on cheering!

I messed up one time and changed up to make it look good, so nobody noticed. Then it was time for the Spirit Stick. We went to each class in the gym to see who could scream the loudest. The eighth grade won! We all went back to class after that. That afternoon we went back to Prairiland and practiced, then it came time for the game.

First, the boys ran through the sign, as usual, and then the fun began.

There just happened to be mud and water where I was standing. So, needless to say, me and my cheerleader suit ended up very muddy, but it all came out. I haven't even attempted to clean my shoes yet, though.

Everybody practice every day until next week so we will be ready for the game.

THOUGHT FOR FOOD by GOULD CROOK

Glazed Baby Carrots

In a saucepan, put 1 to 1 1/2 lbs. young carrots trimmed, scrubbed, and left whole if young, or quartered and peeled if larger. Add 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 1/2 teaspoons sugar, 2 tablespoons butter and enough water to just barely cover the carrots. Cover and cook just until the carrots are tender. Remove the lid and boil until the water has completely evaporated, leaving a sticky glaze. Sprinkle with 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon, mix and serve.
