What a weekend! It wasn't that I didn't enjoy it, I did. But it was, to say the least, hectic.

Friday was my husband's birthday. As a surprise, I gave him a new puppy.

Two years ago we lost "Sugar" his favorite yellow labrador retriever to bone cancer.

Since that time I've been searching for one of her puppies or "grand-puppies".

As if it were meant to be I located one of Sugar's grandchildren just in time for his birthday.

So, Friday morning this eight week old, overgrown yellow lab came to live at our place.

This means, of course, working on housebreaking, which poor "Honey" had no idea about.

When I wasn't chasing the pup around trying to get it outside before an accident occurred, I was saying "no, no" as she tried to chew on every shoe, every purse, every magazine or newspaper in the place.

She tried to chew the chairs, the cushions, the leg of the bed and our camel saddle footstool.

She kept our birthday company entertained.

Saturday afternoon, between visits with relatives and trips to take pictures I tried to get a meal fixed for my niece, her husband and their three year old.

I also realized that I was supposed to get a new kitten from Edna Earl Wright. I didn't really need the hassle of a new kitten and a new puppy, but I'm a glutton for punishment.

Finally we settled down with cat, pup and kid and the show started.

Little Jeffery, my great-nephew, wagged the kitten around by the hour. The puppy thought it was grand to throw herself up on top of them both and tug at Jeffery's hair. The poor child was not completely thrilled with this arrangement, and I don't blame him!

So, that was the weekend. It was completely engaged in teaching the puppy to "go" outside, and the kitten to "go" in the litter box.

And it was also engaged with trying to keep my other house cat, Lizzie, from whipping up on the puppy and the kitten. She still has a major case of the grumps.

Finally, all had pretty well settled down, the company had gone, and I was prepared for some peace and quiet. I only had to make one trip to the store.

Of course, on my way to the store I came across this pathetic, grease-coated yellow kitten on the side of the road.

It was skin and bones, and I looked away and tried to drive on past. I didn't ever make it, instead, I backed up and picked up the poor thing. It had to be de-fleaded, bathed, doctored and fed.

So now I have two kittens, one puppy, my usual complement of five other cats, two other Labradors and a Westie!

My nerves are shot from house-breaking, my budget is ruined with pet food. Both the puppy and the kittens still have a hard lesson ahead, since they haven't met the geese yet. And if anyone would like a lovely, gaining-weight-fast yellow kitten please, please give me a call!

Cunningham Community Homecoming Is Great Success!!

The Cunningham Community Homecoming was a great success Saturday between 550 and 600 people were present. Each person was excited about the change of location this year and are wholeheartedly supporting the permanent move from the old school ground. Many came who had never come to the homecoming in the past. They were very impressed and left with a determination to be back in 1994 for the next scheduled reunion which will be held on the Saturday before the 4th of July.

Chances at a dollar each were sold on a weedeater. A total of $800.00 was raised from the raffle for the Restland Cemetery fund and Jane O'Neal was the lucky recipient.

Roy Powers of Minter received the award for the oldest present, he is 93;

Geneva Holbert Madole of Pinedale, CA traveled the farthest distance; and Jesi Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clint Davis of McAllen won the youngest award.

A reunion within a reunion was held by all the former students of the Old Town School. Former students present at the meeting were Lucy Allen Fowler, Cunningham; Howard Fowler, Maud; Estelle Fowler Nolen, Borger; Imogene Kennedy Crossland, Canyon; Joe Howard Bell, Houston; Louise Nolen Hammett, Labelle, Florida; Eunice Nolen Davis, Matador; Otha Cook, Tulsa, OK; Volley Coyle, Irving; Billie Joe Oats, Cunningham; Essie Davis Yandel, Lubbock; Margie Nolen Parr, Johnstown; Noah Davis Poe, Paris; Cleo Mitchell Smith, Paris; Corrine Norwood Wester, Detroit. Joe Howard Bell was also a former teacher. Joe Edward Temple of Seminole, OK, another former teacher and now a resident of a nursing home in Seminole was unable to attend.

Numerous activities were provided throughout the day as well as musical entertainment.

Murray's Barbeque of Cooper catered the 6 p.m. meal to 300 people.

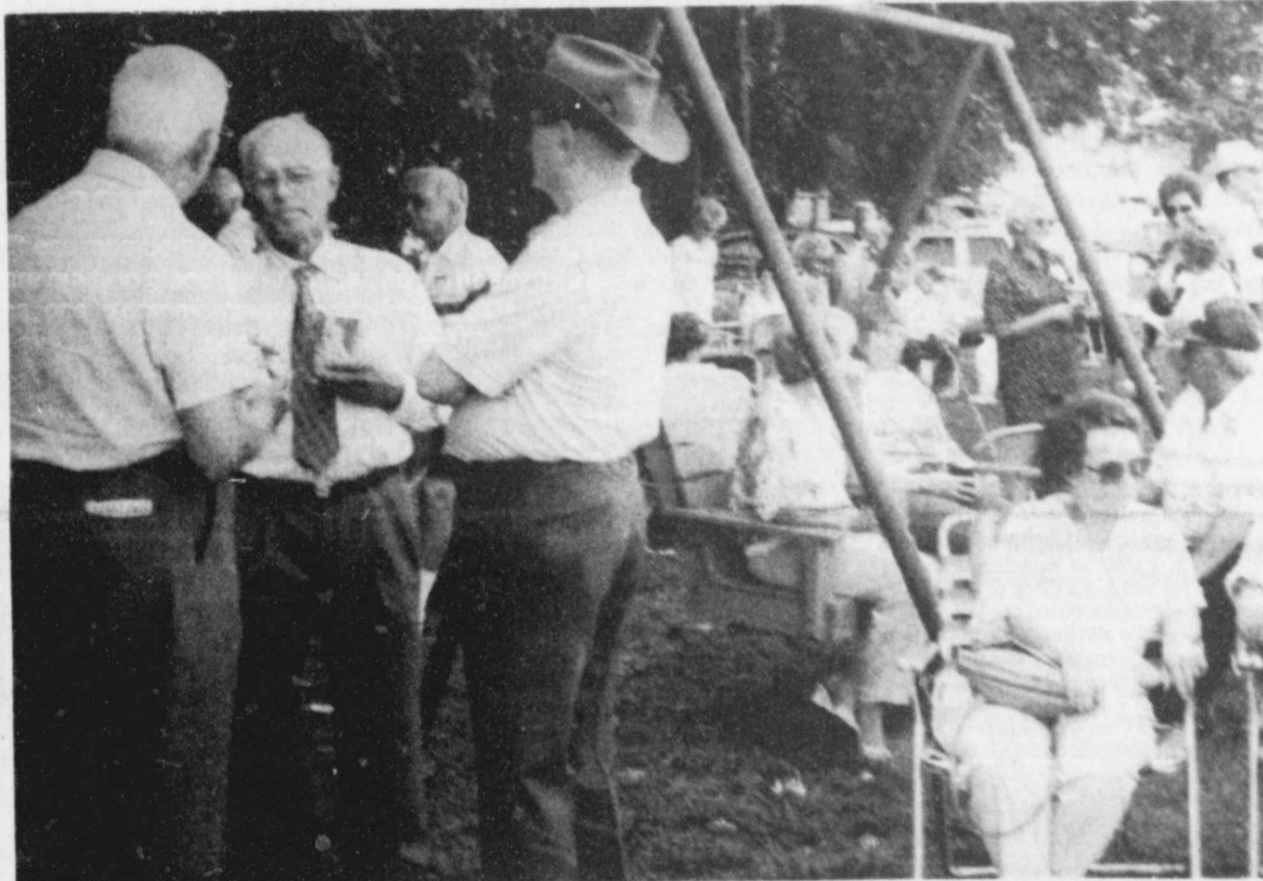

A special program of musical entertainment and singing followed the dinner.

Much hard work was expended preparing for this event, however, it proved to be well worth the efforts as the reunion turned out to be one of the largest ever and the change of location was overwhelmingly supported.

UP IN THE AIR-and down for the splash! What is more fun for kids than a dock, a lake full of water and time to run and jump into that water over and over? Youngsters at Cunningham

Homecoming took full advantage of the chance to do just that as hot weather settles in for the summer. (Staff Photo by Nanalee Nichols)

COMING HOME-nearly six hundred folks, old and young alike, came home to Cunningham over the weekend for their annual homecoming. Held at Musgrove's Flying M Ranch, there was plenty of shade for sittin' and talkin', and plenty to do for those inclined towards more strenuous activities. (Staff Photo by Nanalee Nichols)

DESTROYED-the home of the Cecil Coopers of Cunningham was totally destroyed by fire Sunday night. Cunningham Volunteer Fire Department arrived in time to save an adjacent mobile home, but the brick structure was already engulfed in flames when they arrived.

Drive Safely Over The Holiday

As many as 12 persons may be killed on Texas roadways during the 30-hour July 4 period, according to Department of Public Safety estimates.

DPS director Colonel Joe Milner said the summer vacation traveling holiday times will challenge motorists to avoid driving risks.

During July 4 last year, the DPS tabulated 15 deaths. Deaths due to critical injuries raised last year's final count to 19. This year's counting period begins at 6 p.m. Wednesday, July 3 and continues to midnight, July 4.

In 1990, 89% of fatalities during July 4 occurred in accidents where speeding over the limits or driving while intoxicated was a factor in this state.

Of the 19 traffic deaths, 13 were persons in the vehicles where seat belts could have been used.

Milner said additional troopers will be working in areas where high volumes of traffic could be anticipated.

VACATION BIBLE School has been going on at Faith Baptist Church in Deport. The youngsters shown here with their minister are about to take up collection before the school goes to their separate classes. (Staff Photo by Nanalee Nichols)

A covered dish supper will be served and everyone is urged to attend.

Commodities To Be Distributed In Cunningham On July 9

Commodities will be distributed on Tuesday, July 9th at the Community Center in Cunningham from 9 until noon.

LETTERS

Dear Nanalee,
On behalf of Clyde and me, Jerold and Donna Hulett and Jay and Pam Lackey, we would like for you to know just how much we appreciate your including the articles in The Times, telling of Jay and Pam's missionary work in Zakho which is in northern Iraq. Jay and Pam's lives have been completely changed due to this experience. They have resigned as Youth Ministers at Oakwood Baptist Church in Lubbock and have volunteered for a foreign mission duty. They are now awaiting for the right door to be opened.

Thank you so much.
Sincerely,
Bobbye Slusher

To The Times:
The Cunningham community would like to say a big "thank you" to Nanalee Nichols for her coverage of its homecoming. We would also like to say "thank you" to Mr. James Wood of Grant Funeral Home for the use of tent. We appreciate the efforts of both these people.

SHARING recipes and grilling tips in this week's Country

Country Cooking

By Gerrie Bankhead

The Country Cooking column is coming to you this week from the backyard of Donny Darden. Donny and his wife, Dawne, have one son, David J., age 10. They have lived in the Deport area for about 12 years and attend the First United Methodist Church in Deport.

Several of Donny's hobbies include deer hunting, watching football on TV and cooking.

Donny's deer hunting habit consists of seasonal every weekend events on local territory. He is the only one who likes deer meat in his family so when he gets one, he keeps only a few pieces and gives the remainder away.

His football watching consists of the Dallas Cowboys and Prairiland Patriots. He doesn't get to see all the games of either team, but does keep up with how both are progressing.

Donny's cooking began a few years ago when his job depended more on the weather, and he had several days during the winter where he would get bored with TV and go into the kitchen to see what he could cook up. Years ago, he says, he could manage to put a sandwich together, but his mom kept insisting he and his brothers learn more about cooking. He started practicing and he's managed to do quite well. Two main dishes Donny enjoys mixing up are okra gumbo and stew. He really has no recipe for these dishes, he just adds and tastes.

Donny is sharing some tips this week on grilling foods and some recipes he and his family enjoy.

If using either a gas or a regular grill, make sure your coals are as hot as you can get them. Wait until all briquettes are white in color, then wait a little longer until the coals start cooling back down, then put your meat on and cook it very, very slowly. The longer you cook the meat, the more smoke flavor it will have. Of course, there is a point to start overcooking and your meat gets tough and learning this comes with practice.

If the wind is blowing, this causes meat to cook faster than normal so you have to really watch. When Donny finishes cooking the meat, he turns the burners on high for several minutes and burns the grates until all particles are burned to a crisp. Turn off and let cool completely, then take a wire brush and clean the grates.

Donny does his grill cooking on Sunday afternoons. In one cooking, he cooks Polish sausages, hamburgers, pork chops, steaks, chicken breasts and fajita meat. When all meat is cooked, he stores it in the microwave until thoroughly cooled. Then he puts them in freezer bags or foil and freezes them. The meat will last about a month in the freezer and still have a smoked flavor. It will also last for 3 or 4 days in a covered dish in the refrigerator and keep its flavor. Just thaw and heat in the microwave what you want to eat and you have it!

Donny likes to marinate foods before he cooks it. The oil free Italian dressing is a good marinade for grill cooking. Chicken breasts or chicken strips is very good using this recipe. You need to marinate at least 3 hours and then since chicken dries out so quickly, you need to spread occasionally while cooking. Donny has used this recipe about 3 years. The barbeque sauce was a basic recipe they came across but ave made several changes with it. He is still working on improvements.

The Donny's Biscuit recipe is one he takes a lot to church suppers and youth breakfasts and everyone enjoys them. Donny says it takes about 15 minutes to make these biscuits, add sausage and eggs and you have a great supper.

I've also included a carrot cake and creme cheese icing recipe for diabetics and cholesterol watchers.

If you've enjoyed the article, request a recipe or have a recipe to share or suggest a feature, please call 652-6032 or write Rt. 1, Box 67A, Deport, TX 75435.

Oil Free Italian Dressing

As Marinade

Marinate meat and vegetables for several hours in dressing, then use it as a basting sauce while grilling.

This is good on boneless chicken breasts for sandwiches or on shish kabobs. For shish kabobs, use lean cubes of pork, beef or chicken with onion, bell pepper, cherry tomatoes and pineapple.

Barbeque Sauce

Heat: 16 oz. jellied cranberry sauce Stir until smooth.

Add: 12 oz. chili sauce 1/2 cup grated onion 1/4 cup honey

1 teaspoon garlic powder This may be used on beef, chicken or pork. Baste often during grilling.

Donny's Biscuits

Yield-9

Melt: 1/4 cup margarine in 9x9 glass baking dish.

In bowl, cut together 1/3 cup shortening 1 3/4 cup self-rising flour Add 3/4 cup milk.

Stir to mix. Pat this out and cut biscuits. Place biscuits in pan of melted margarine, first dipping the top in margarine. Bake at 425 for 20 minutes.

Carrot Cake

By Nell Wolf

1 1/2 cups all purpose flour 1/4 cup whole wheat flour

1 teaspoon baking powder 1/2 teaspoon baking soda

1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger

1/4 teaspoon salt 1/2 cup vegetable oil

6 tablespoons sugar 2 eggs

1/4 cup unsweetened pineapple juice concentrate

1 teaspoon vanilla 1 cup shredded carrots

1/2 cup golden raisins 1/2 cup unsweetened crushed pineapple, drained

Preheat oven to 350. Grease and flour 9x5x3 inch loaf pan. In a bowl, toss flours, baking powder, baking soda, cinnamon, ginger and salt. In a second bowl, stir oil, sugar, eggs, pineapple juice and vanilla. Stir liquid into dry ingredients until smooth. Stir in carrots, raisins and pineapple. Bake for 35-40 minutes. Cool in pan on a rack for 1 hour. Per serving: 142 calories, 19 gm. carbohydrates, 2 gm. protein, 7 gm. fat, 78 mg. sodium. Cholesterol: 30 mg. per serving.

Letter To The Editor

Hi Nanalee and Staff!

Hope all are well and happy. Thought you might be interested in a recent experience I had.

On May 19, my wife, Joy and I drove 85 miles north to Kabwe, a city of about 60,000 in the center of Zambia. With us were my co-worker, Abel Mewale, and a local music director, Fred Phiri.

In Kabwe we met Rick and Cooky Kuter, missionaries, and their son, Jeremy. We went three directions in order to worship with three different Baptist churches seeking to encourage them.

After a delicious lunch we loaded up my guitar, autoharp, Bibles, hymnbooks, cassette recorder, and other materials and headed for the Mukobeka Prison to lead a worship service and a choir festival.

About 185 were present—over 50% of the total population! The singing of hymns and choruses was really beautiful, all in four part harmony! They gave us a very warm welcome, for we had visited them first last November to encourage them in the use of music while in prison.

Fred Phiri preached a good sermon on the story of The Prodigal Son. Five men accepted Christ as their Saviour and 13 made re-dedications of their lives to Christ.

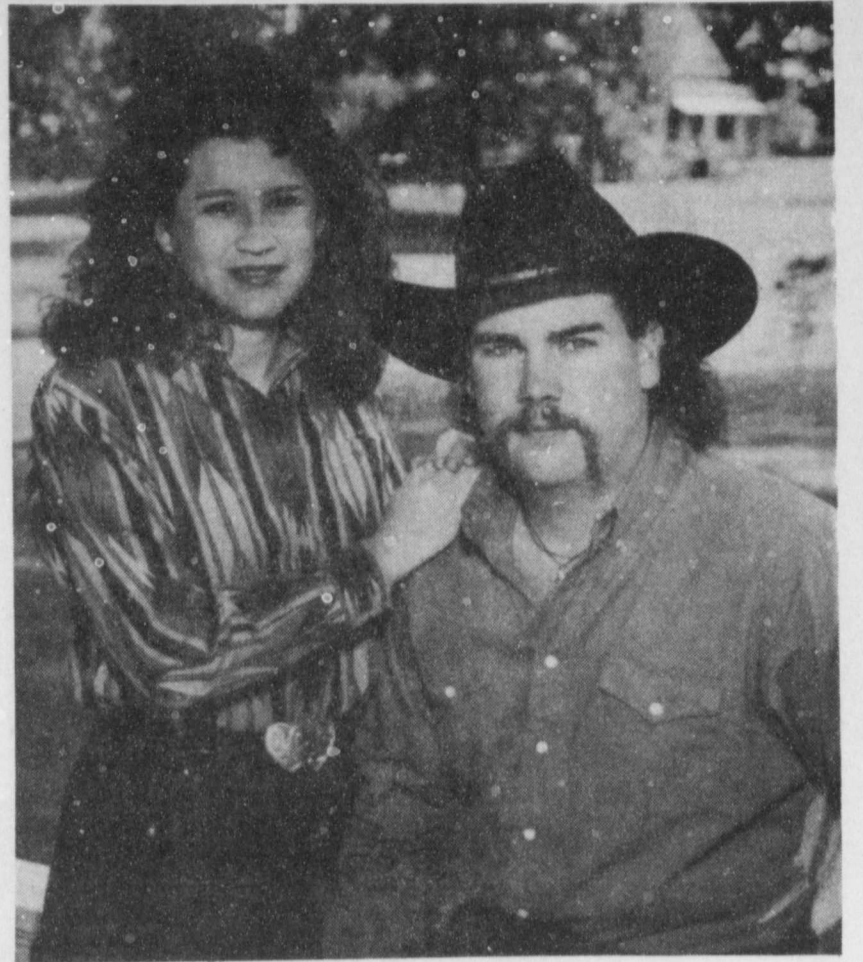

Then the choir festival began. It was reported that they had reassigned their stronger Christians to 10 different cells to enable them to witness to the lost. Many of these became Christians in their cells. Then, they organized choirs in each of those 10 cells! Now, we were to judge each choir, write down our suggestions for improvements, grade them and present certificates.

As it turned out, only five choirs participated because of work assignments, but those five choirs were outstanding. We recorded all their songs on our cassette recorder and are including them in our cassette ministry of Christian music which we market to the public. It was an uplifting experience to hear and see those men lifting up Jesus in song.

Recently, Mr. Jnobuu, who was chairman of the Christian Fellowship in prison, was released. He came to the Baptist Building in Lusaka and Joy hired him to work in the Baptist Printing Ministry. God is really at work in the hearts of inmates in Mukobeka Prison!

See you soon, as we'll be home in mid-December for 5 months living in Ft. Worth.

Thanks, Fred and Joy Allen

Residential Burglary Is Crime Of The Week

Sometime during June 19-21, unknown suspects broke into a residence on Kessler Drive in Paris, taking an Akai reel to reel recorder, a Remington 270 and .22 magnum rifles, several televisions, a VCR, diamond rings, leather jackets and several other items were also taken. The total loss as a result of this felony crime was over $8,800.00.

Crime Stoppers is offering up to a $1,000 cash reward for the information that leads to the arrest and indictment of the person or persons responsible for this crime.

Crime Stoppers also pays up to $1,000 on any other felony crime.

Persons calling will remain completely unknown to anyone. Call Crime Stoppers today at 785-TIPS.

Poe Reunion Held

Mrs. Noah Davis Poe of Paris celebrated a reunion last weekend as relatives from all over Texas began gathering at her home last Wednesday. A niece, Essie Davis Yandell and husband Leslie of Lubbock stayed as houseguests, nephew Wes Davis and wife Norma treated her to lunch Saturday along with great-nieces Deanie Davis, Donna Mueller, Donna Kerr and great-great-niece, Katy Kerr, all of Amarillo, as well as Opal French and Shirley Graham of Lubbock.

Other relatives in town for the Cunningham homecoming Saturday and the Harmon family reunion on Sunday were nephew Wilburn Davis and wife Claudia, great-nephew Sterling Davis of Amarillo, nephew Roy Lee Davis and wife Skeeter and son, Clint Davis, wife Vickie and grandchildren Crystal, Roy, Lacey and Jesi. Jesi was the recipient of the youngest in attendance award at the Cunningham homecoming.

Chew and Scratch

By "Shooter" Dabney,
Jay Hancock's spare grand-dad
What next? It's soon going to be to a point in our lives where we have no freedom. Sure I know that being a capitalistic, democratic government that our country is set up on rule of law, check of trials and balances, but sometimes why can't we just have the legislative branch have every other session to repeal the bad laws.
We are told we have to wear seatbelts, have a license to drive, can't fish or hunt without a license. Can't swear in public or go naked on the streets. Now you can see where I'm coming from. We're controlled people. Seems like everyone wants to get in on this act of control. Doctors tell us to eat bran. Cut down on our egg consumption. Bacon is killing us with the carcinogens it contains. Farmers are poisoning us with insecticides, and preachers are telling us exactly where we are going, yet they have never been there. See how controlled we are?
Now of all things, some Harvard Professor wrote last week that the congress should pass a law banning baseball players from their old age habit of tobacco chewing. What gall to have the audacity to even mention this American Trait to be abolished. How would he like to have to stay out in left field for 30 minutes without anything to do but look dumb. Now with a good chaw of terbacker in his mouth he can look for crawling ants and bugs coming his way, then with a jaw full of tobacco juice, he can spit thru his two front teeth and drown that sucker from 6 feet away.
Ever watch a ball player stand at home batting plate with a full load in his jaw? Notice him shift form jaw to jaw. This is called balancing. Don't you know the bat in his hand causes him to lean sideways. By shifting this allows him to balance himself.

What if, playing fielder or infield he had no tobacco juice to spit in his glove? Old man Harvard Professor, you need to stay out of baseball's way and go on to something you know and teach and leave baseball alone.
Now while I'm on baseball, it's a thousand wonders some professor don't come up with a role that baseball players can't scratch or adjust whatever they are wearing under their uniform, especially on TV. Notice they first spit, then before it hits the ground they raise their leg and scratch somewhere. Maybe one of those ants made it thru the spit barrage and crawled up his pant leg. My mama also had a thing about scratching. She would always tell me "If you are going to scratch, et up and leave the table." I fully realize if a guy is up to bat he just can't tell the umpire, "I gotta scratch", then walk where he ain't noticed.

I guess what this column is about, is that the professors and lawmakers should leave tobacco chewing and scratching alone, after all, most of these players make one million for six months of playing, scratching and spitting. Now that's good money for a good chaw, and oh, how good does a scratch feel.

Heritage Festival To Feature Demonstrators

A heritage festival isn't possible without the support and assistance of individuals who are well acquainted with the culture of the area. With this in mind, the organizers of the Northeast Texas Heritage Festival are calling for volunteers who are willing to demonstrate their skills at needlework, specifically tatting, quilting, crocheting, bobbin lace and cut work.

Handmade quilts are also being sought for display at the Folk-Fest, scheduled for July 6, the final day of Northeast Texas Heritage Festival at Paris Junior College. Johnye Robertson, coordinator of the event, hopes that each quilt will be accompanied by background information and photographs.

"We would like to display the history behind these quilts," said Ms. Robertson. "Every quilt has a story to tell." For more information, contact Regina Harris of the Homespun Shoppe at 785-6586.

Wildwood Dean Price, maker of lawn furniture from Dogwood Trees, will be one of the featured artists. A resident of Bonham, Wildwood Dean uses interesting techniques in fashioning the vine-like dogwood tree into useful furniture.

Members of the Fort Sherman Ranging Company will provide rifle demonstrations, target shooting, tomahawk and knife throwing, and blacksmithing.

Other booths and demonstrations planned for the Folk-Fest's Heritage Bazaar are woodworkers, flintknappers, woodcarvers, basket makers, jewelry makers caners and antique dealers. Ribbons will be on sale, some of which will sell as low as $10 a yard, available by the bolt.

Texas Water, a popular trio specializing in folk and country favorites and original music, will provide the top-billed entertainment for the Folk-Fest. Comprised of James Michael Taylor, Peggy Sue and Barbara Anne, Texas Water will perform the authentic Texas music that brought them high acclaim as one of Ft. Worth's most popular country - pop-folk groups.

The Northeast Texas Heritage Festival Officially begins Wednesday evening, July 3, with the Municipality Band concert and fireworks display at Paris Junior College Noyes Stadium. The annual event, which will start at twilight, is sponsored by the Paris Rotary Club.

On the morning of July 4, the Chamber-sponsored downtown parade will leave the Paris Junior College Hunt Physical Education Center at 9 a.m. Bands will perform from 11 a.m. till noon in the campus grove of trees adjacent to Clarksville Street. The Chamber of Commerce will hold a Patriot Program at noon on the front lawn of the Paris Junior College Administration Building. Followed by a presentation of the City Big Band at 1 p.m.

The first performance of "Look To The River," an original musical drama by John Presley Wright with music by Lon Chaffin, will be a 2 p.m. matinee. The play, based on the works of Dr. William A. Owens, was performed several seasons ago but has been rewritten for the 1991 summer workshop production. The project is supported jointly by the Texas Commission on the Arts and the National Endowment of the Arts.

Carolyn Reeves Ericson, the featured presenter of the Genealogical Workshop, will discuss "Early Texas Research" at 9:30 a.m. Friday, July 5. Mrs. Ericson is the author of 32 books, including Nacadoches and Gateway to Texas. The workshop is scheduled for 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Alford Center for Lifelong Learning on the Paris Junior College campus.

As part of the Genealogical Workshop, a tour of the Texas House will be conducted from 2 to 5 p.m., with a donation of $1 or more going to benefit the continuation of the Northeast Texas Heritage Festival. The Texas House is a restoration of an early 1900 Victorian Homestead tenant house; which is located on the grounds of Belle Chenier, home of Dr. and Mrs. William deG. Hayden. The original cypress frame has been preserved along with the original filling and glazing. The house is furnished with Texas primitive and Victorian Furniture. The Haydens are active in restoration projects throughout the state as members of the Texas Historical Foundation Board and the Lamar County Historical Society.

In conjunction with the workshop, the Maxey House will have an open house from 2 to 5 p.m., hosted by costumed attendants. During the Folk-Fest on Saturday, artifacts from the Maxey House will be displayed in a design created by Becky Dirks and Suzy Harper.

To register for the Genealogical Workshop, call Patsy Daniels between 1 and 4 p.m., Monday through Thursday, at 784-9448.

Performances of "Look To The River" will be held at 7:30 p.m., July 5 and 6, in the Paris Junior College Theatre for the Performing Arts. Tickets are Adults, $5; children 12 and under, $3. Call 784-9242 for reservations.

For more information about the Northeast Texas Heritage Festival, contact Jonyer Robertson, Festival Coordinator, Paris Junior College, 2400 Clarksville Street, Paris, Texas 75460, or phone (903) 785-9574.

Tips on Fleas

Fleas thrive during the hot summer—two fleas can multiply to 1,200 in just over one month and can survive months without feeding, say the experts at Orkin Pest Control.

Orkin's recommendations to combat fleas in and around the home include:

- Replace or clean all pet bedding.
- Vacuum carpets often, especially pet resting areas, seal and throw away the vacuum cleaner bag when complete.
- Make sure your home is properly inspected and treated to fight fleas. Pest control companies such as Orkin now utilize state-of-the-art insect growth regulator to combat fleas, preventing them from reproducing and giving season-long protection.
- Groom your pets and, if necessary, have them treated with a professional flea control product at the same time your home is being treated.
- Trim lawns and weeds to create a drier, more hostile environment for flea larvae.

For more information or a no cost home inspection send a stamped self-addressed envelope to Amazing Flea Facts, Orkin Pest Control, PO Box 647, Atlanta, GA 30301.

Geneva, A Fascinating City

By Nanalee Nichols
Editor's Note: For those interested in hearing about a trip to Switzerland, here's your chance. If you aren't, feel free to read something else....this article is definitely for those with travel in their hearts! (P.S. thanks for all the nice compliments on these articles)

As our bus descended from the high mountains down into the French speaking portion of Switzerland the houses began to change too.

The style became less that of a mountain chalet and more that of a French wine province. Slate or red pan tile roofs still prevailed, but the homes held less ornate carving or etching, and the hillsides became completely covered with vineyards.

Wine making is serious, and big, business in the French area.

While we are used to having iced tea or coffee with meals, everyone has wine or beer with their meals.

The wine making industry is labor-intensive. All up and down the terraced hillsides men and women could be seen, tying up the vines on their wires, carefully trimming or pruning, poisoning for insects or just inspecting the crops.

The vineyards are weed free, and little huts sit at the end of the fields.

These are actually tool sheds and storage buildings.

Leslie, always ready to answer questions, pointed out that the custom began back in medieval days when the farmers didn't want to have to carry tools and equipment back and forth between their home within the walled towns. They locked them away for safety from the gangs of roving bandits, then retreated at night to the safety they found within the town walls.

They also, she smiled, were called the "Hanky Panky Huts"....because of their use in courting!

Fields of bright yellow rape, (yes, that's spelled right) illuminated the fields. Rape is used much as we use soy beans, for oil, food supplements and animal food.

Orchards interspersed the fields, and for the first time we began to see cattle that weren't the popular Borwn Swiss.

As we approached beautiful Lake Geneva we were struck again by the gorgeours medians of blazing flowers.

We made a stop at Chillon Castle, which inspired Lord Byron's very popular poem "The Prisoner of Chillon". It's water- surrounded turrents and walls were imposing, indeed.

I confess that Thomas and I both were less than thrilled with the prospect of Geneva. However, we were in for a pleasant surprise.

Geneva hadn't sounded like it would be the highlight of our trip, but it proved to be a lovely, lake side city with an international flavor and flair that was unique.

Because it is the headquarters for the European United Nations, the World Health Organizations and the International Red Cross there are embassies and people from all over the world.

After seeing the Jet 'D Eau spout it's 500 foot spray of water in the harbor of Lake Geneva we learned that we had been privileged...the world's highest fountain has fallen prey to vandals who poured cement down it...and only moments after we saw it, it ceased to work...as the damage from the cement was not completely fixed.

We saw the Reformation Wall, with it's statues of John Calvin and the others who led the way to Europe's religious reform. Across from the somber wall was a park where university students were enjoying a holiday by lying in the warm sun, practising juggling, or reading books.

It was a holiday, Ascension Day, and many places were closed, but we still beat a path back to the water front after checking into our hotel.

There we found street kiosks, beautiful churches, swans and boats, sidewalk cafes and more.

We asked our tour guide "If you were in Geneva for one night, where could you find something special to eat that you won't find anywhere else".

She told us how to find a tiny cafe which has no menu.

Seated there we were brought green salad, then a sterno stove was placed on the table. The waitress soon appeared with a metal platter of sirloin steak, so tender it didn't need a knife to cut it, and topped with a baseball size mound of melting, seasoned butter.

Then, she began serving thin, hot, not-quite-crispy fried potatoes, a cross between a shoestring potatoe and a fried potato.

We ate until we could eat no more, and wandered back out onto the street.

We watched in fascination as a group of young South Americans, bedecked in woven ponchos and long hair, played lively music while they wove through the crowd.

Then we noticed a very black man dressed in dazzling white robes and pill box hat. He carefully gathered up the voluminous robes and stepped onto an escalator, ascending with dignity.

Indians in brilliant saris strolled past, as did fierce looking men in turbans.

Little children darted in and out of the crowd, making for, of all places, McDonald's!

Window shopping was a treat, and occasionally a shock. Some of the mannekins (male as well as female) were rather graphic! Some of the clothes were incredible!

We viewed a display of obviously cheap, cardboard looking and very flashy cowboy boots with horror. The price, translated from Swiss Francs, was about $300 per pair, and no self respecting Texan would have been caught dead in them.

Weary at last we wandered back in the near-dark to our hotel.

After breakfast the next morning we travelled towards Interlaken. This area is one of the most beautiful in Switzerland.

At Brienz we stopped at a wood carvers workshop where we saw (and some purchased) inlaid music boxes, cuckoo clocks and nativity scenes; Their animal carvings were so lovely; The village is the center of Swiss woodcarving, and their take great pride in the hundreds of hours they spend on their craft.

We took home a cuckoo clock for ourselves, plus music boxes and tiny clocks for those who had stayed in our home while we were gone.

The drive fro the village got prettier and prettier. The houses had friezes of carved vines, flowers and geometric designs, and the valley below was green and lush.

We had a view of the Jungfrau before climbing up once more, through green forests and snow capped mountain peaks.

Early in the afternoon we arrived in Lucerne, our final stop on the trip, but what a wonderful ending to the tour it proved to be!

Bereaved Parents To Hear Julie Abbett

The Bereaved Parents Support Group will meet Monday, July 8 at 7 p.m. in the Paris Public Library.

The speaker for the meeting will be Julie Abbett, speaking on "Survivors of Abuse."

She was born and raised in Paris, attended the University of Texas at Austin and graduated in 1985 with a Bachelor of Social Work degree. She returned to Paris and in July of 1986 went to work for Family Haven as the only counselor on staff. She now serves as the Legal Advocate for Family Haven. She assists victims of family violence obtain court orders against their batterers when needed, and works with victims of sexual assault and their extended family.

The purpose of the Bereaved Parents Support Group is to support and help sustain parents of deceased children, to lend strength and accept strength. Members of the group are people who know first hand the emotions others feel. It is a safe, warm place to bring shattered feelings.

An open invitation is extended to bereaved parents, their families and friends to attend the meeting. For information, call Jayne Anderson 785-7781.

Agricultural Briefs

By Paul D. Payne

Have you ever spent a hot day cutting sprouts and brush to have it regrow the following year? That is exasperation. There must be a better way, right?

For spot treating small brush in pastures and fence rows, there is a new, do it yourself, method that works about any time of year without affecting nearby plants. It is called low volume basal bark treatment.

This method is effective on smooth barked brush plants up to about six inches in diameter. To control these plants a mixture of 20 to 30 percent Grazon ET herbicide and diesel fuel is sprayed directly on the lower 15 to 20 inches of trunk. Just enough mix is applied to thoroughly wet the bark but not to the point of runoff. You can use a low pressure, hand sprayer to apply the solution.

The plant absorbs the solution through the bark and moves it to the roots to kill the entire plant. To control multi-stemmed plants for example, brush that has grown back after shredding, spray the base of each stem.

One of the good points of this method is only the targeted plant is treated. There is virtually no danger of the herbicide moving via drift or runoff, and the method can be used any time of the year. However, best results can be expected when treating anytime from May through September.

Demonstration work in Eastern Oklahoma and Texas has shown a solution of 20% Grazon ET and diesel controlled post oak, blackjack oak, honey locust, bois d'arc, wild plum, Eastern persimmon, prickly ash, hackberry, greenbriar, winged elm and Texas persimmon.

For brush plants larger than six inches in diameter, consider herbicides that are applied to the foliage or to the soil. These methods may be as effective as low volume basal, but less flexible in timing and application.

Cedars are showing up more and more on pastureland. In many parts of the county fence rows are growing up with cedars and they can also be seen in fields that are not being grazed heavily.

Cedar trees can be controlled by using picloram herbicide. Grazon PC is the common herbicide available locally that contains picloram. It may be applied undiluted to the soil under the plant. Four ml per 3 feet height applied in late winter to early spring is suggested. The material can be mixed with diesel and water and applied to the foliage and stems.

Weekly Agricultural Update

By Herb Brevard

Gardeners can extend the productive life of spring vegetables with proper care and selection.

"Healthy plants are the first requirement for extending production," said Marty Baker, horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Tomatoes, peppers, okra, eggplants and some vining squash will produce into the fall if properly cared for."

Another important practice is keeping the soil moisture at the correct level. Most vegetables in East Texas need about two inches of water per week if properly mulched and weeded. Baker suggests not watering well established plants with sprinklers.

During the hot summer months, plants can be covered with muslin cloth to help protect them from the sun. It is particularly easy to shade plants being grown in cages.

Baker says to follow good insect and disease control procedures throughout the growing season. Mites and grasshoppers can be serious during mid-summer.

Most vegetables need very little, if any, fertilizer during the summer. Cut dead plant material out of tomatoes and peppers to stimulate new growth.

Air Conditioning Rebate Clarification

Texas-New Mexico Power Company recently began promoting rebates for high efficiency air conditioning units. Some customers have called with questions to see what type of system qualifies for a rebate.

Through the rebate program, only central air conditioning systems with an SEER rating of at least 11.0 qualify for the rebates. Window units, due to the lower impact they have on saving energy, do not qualify.

Texas-New Mexico Power Company regrets any confusion caused by the promotion of these rebates.
