Talco Field Has Two Starts Two to Test

Talco oil field, after scoring three producing wells last week end, is buzzing again this week with two new locations. Others are preparing wells for the pumping unit.

Byrd-Frost was taking potential test Thursday on the Phillips No. 13 and at the same time was setting casing on the No. 17.

Magnolia Company, with Denver Drilling Company doing the drilling, failed to make its well produce on the Chapman No. 9, cemented last week and it was abandoned.

Humble Oil and Refining Company is perforating pipe and setting pumping unit on the Penn fee No. 27 and is rigging up on the J. C. Young heirs No. 5 in the same area. Potential test will be made on the Penn fee after the pump is set.

W. B. Hinton has a potential rating of 18 flowing barrels in one hour on the Rutherford No. 9, completed last week.

All drilling activity is in the west portion of the field.

It was reported in this office on Thursday morning that W. B. Hinton, drilling for Lucey Petroleum Co. McKinsey No. 1 at Pittsburg is drilling below 7012 feet.

Students Shout Goodbye to Desk & Books

There is a lonesome look about the school building this week. No faces appear at the windows as you pass. The happy chatter and the light laughter are gone with the many young Americans, and the spirit of the seeker after knowledge is nodding behind closed doors.

The lesson is over. The books are closed. School is out. Nine months of research, of learning, of youthful assembly in the pursuit of knowledge are ended and the young mind if off, like a feather in the wind, to renew out-of-school acquaintances, to learn again the song of the streams, the color of the clouds in the sky and the feel of the wind in the ears.

School is out, but the eternal lessons of learning go on, growing into appreciation here, opening into understanding there . . . soaring, deepening and rounding into wisdom without which life is but a flash in the dark.

But for the great majority of young students, school is out. School is out for three long months. And, what is more, they are out of school.

Rains Break Dry Period in This Area

Breaking a dry period that was becoming serious to farmers in this immediate area, more than two inches of rain fell Sunday night, heaviest precipitation since April 30.

The rain fell slowly and was hailed as a life-saver by many farmers who had cotton seed in the ground that needed moisture to bring up. It also helped corn and put the soil in good condition.

Another and heavier rain fell on Monday night, which was accompanied by a stiff wind in some communities that flattened corn and was injurious to oats.

Fair weather will find farmers back in the fields by the last of the week.

The rain Sunday night was one of the best this season, as it came at exactly the right time for most crops. However, it was big enough to cause Sulphur river to leave its banks again and flood the lowlands for the third time this year. The fall Sunday night was 2.40 inches, with .34 added Monday night.

The May rainfall of 1.75 inches brings the total for the first five months to 23.19 inches against 18.25 last year. Last year the precipitation during May was 5.86 inches. The total rainfall to date is 26.93, or about five inches over average.

Red River Wilcat Test Abandoned

Another wilcat failure for Red River county was checked off last Thursday when operators plugged and abandoned the Albert Wooley No. 1 Nelson, 10 miles north of Clarksville in the Mulberry area.

The test had attracted considerable interest due to a strong gas kick, thought at first to have come from the Paluxy but later shown to be from an unidentified stratum.

BUY DEFENSE BONDS NOW

Anyone who has been in Washington lately has been impressed by the deep concern of men in high places, and awed by the drama of America moving rapidly towards war, with its money, materials, machines — and maybe men. Everywhere in the capital you hear that the folks back home don't realize how serious this crisis is that faces us. But there is no discouragement or defeatism among our leaders, in spite of the heckling and carping criticism of a few prominent appeasers. From the President down, among leaders of army, navy, industry, commerce and finance, Congress and bureau chiefs, there is a girding of the loins for the fray, a hardy courage and determination that we can do this mighty task, and that we must do it as fast as humanly possible.

In Texas we are ready to do our part, whatever it may be. Righteous wrath against labor agitators who tie up defense contracts with strikes, is growing in Texas and in other parts of America. Soon the great ground swell of indignation will force our leaders to take drastic action against any man or group of men who retards our preparation to defend life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness for ourselves and our children.

The first definite call to the average man in the defense program is to buy bonds and stamps. This is a simple thing to do compared to the sacrifices that people in other nations are being forced to make and an easy thing compared to some of the more arduous duties that face us all in the critical months that lie ahead. Not only the rich, but the average citizen should make his budget now and without delay to buy Defense Bonds and Stamps for his own interest and to help his nation in this crisis.

America is calling upon you for this first duty as the war program unfolds. Taxes for defense will be high. A large share of the average man's income must go for taxes and for the purchase of the obligations of his government.

This is merely the beginning of the sacrifices that accompany war. But if financial sacrifice is all we are called upon to make while we still sleep securely in our beds and enjoy the high privileges of Americans, we should not have to be urged to lay our money on the altar of national service. — Hubert M. Harrison.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

BURT LOCKHART in Pittsburg Gazette

Life is not only what you make it, but how you take it.

Living down a reputation is hard enough, but no man ever tried to live up to his epitaph.

All nature seems smiling and happy. Only people are causing most of our misery.

Fame is fleeting. Who can name any of the tree sitters and college fish swallows of two years ago?

Anyway, Hitler's friend, Hess, was sane enough to know that he would not need a return ticket to Berlin.

Some of our politicians seem to think the way to get to Washington is to ride in on the coattails of the president.

A fool and his money are soon parted, but there are people who are so foolish they never part with any at all.

Things could be worse. Suppose you had to pay twenty cents for a single strawberry as they do in London?

Most anything can happen, but we haven't heard of anyone who was anxious to take Rudolf Hess back to Berlin.

Every day makes our lesson in geography harder and harder. Another war or two and we might as well abolish geography.

There is room in the senatorial race for more men and more banjo pickers. There should at least be room for a sensible political issue.

There is some virtue in living down the past, but it becomes a double virtue when we can so live in the present that we won't have to live it down in the future.

After an eight-year detour in a vain effort to spend our way back to prosperity, a lot of very sensible people think it is high time to turn back to the old abandoned route.

Bushels of nickels have been resurrected from their hiding places to be used for buying Defense Bonds. But nickels won't get the job done. It is going to take billions of one dollar pieces.

If a Noise Abatement week is really designated, we hope the "abaters" will start in on the vociferous applause that follows radio programs and give them a biff that will be heard from coast to coast.

Teddy Roosevelt's famous saying, "Speak softly and carry a big stick," still carries a volume of wisdom. America should have been spending the past ten years getting her big stick ready for the present world crisis. If she had had the stick probably there would have been no crisis.

VETERAN GARLAND EDITOR IS DEAD

Bill Holford, 69, former editor of the Garland News, died Saturday. Bill sold his newspaper and retired ten years ago to get caught up on his fishing. Holford was an editor of the old school who said what he thought. The Times publisher worked for him a short time when a youngster, and established a friendship that endured thru the years.

Holford was one of the few country editors who had the nerve to oppose the Ku-Klux-Klan in its hey-day, and now that he is gone, there is a most interesting story concerning the man and a prominent Dallas publisher that may be told.

Holford fought the Klan with column upon column of editorials that bristled with satire and vindictiveness. Nearly all the merchants in Garland were Klansmen, and boycotted his newspaper. They cancelled their advertising and tried to use circulars, purchased in Dallas. Trade began to fall off for them, but they kept up the fight until necessity forced their ads back into the Garland News.

During the period of the boycott Holford's finances dwindled; he was spending hundreds of dollars a month to keep his paper going, and receiving very little advertising. Over in Dallas his old friend and fishing companion, Frank P. Holland Sr., wealthy publisher of Farm and Ranch and Holland's Magazine, heard about Bill's predicament. He telephoned Bill and asked him to come over, saying he wanted to see him about a personal matter.

"What's this I hear about the Klan boycott and your financial troubles?" inquired the old crone. Bill tried to put up a good front and make light of his troubles, but he wasn't fooling his old friend.

"You go back home and fight 'em till hell freezes over," admonished Colonel Holland. "I have $70,000 in cash on deposit in the City National Bank, and have authorized them to honor your check for any amount or all of it, and if more is needed it will be there when you want it."

Whether Bill ever drew out one dollar of the Holland money will never be known. The probability is that he did not.

Several years later one of Garland's prominent merchants came to Holford and asked him if he would sell a block of land along the highway upon which his home was located, and move the house to another location. Bill told him he would sell anything but his wife and kids. Asked to price the lot, Bill said $3,000.

"But that is about $1,000 more than the land is worth," protested the Garland merchant.

"Yes, I know it is," replied Bill, "but you dealt me a thousand dollars worth of misery during that Klan fight, and if you get that piece of property I am going to collect."

"You win, Bill," said the G. M. "I had a thousand dollars worth of fun out of it, and it cost me more than that to pull my advertising out of your newspaper, but go have me a deed made and move your house; I am starting construction on an $8,000 brick home where your house stands, and want possession within ten days."

Rhyme written after reading: "Inasmuch as ye do it unto the least of these, my brethren, ye do it also unto me":

If you lend a man some money for a good and worthy cause, and he afterwards regards it as a gift from Santa Claus; if you help a neighbor build a barn or save his corn and hay, and the only thing he gives you is a thank-you for your pay; if you sacrifice some worthwhile thing to aid your fellowman, and he leaves the rain to settle it in any way it can . . .

If you have done these things, my friend, or any one of them, and your faith in human kindness is away out on a limb; then it's time that you recall the voice that died on Calvary: "As ye do it unto others, ye do also unto me."

Could you ask for something greater in the way of a reward for the things you do for others than this promise of the Lord?

I don't know 'what this promise, or this warning, means to you, but for me it pushes back the clouds and lets the sunshine through; for the good I do for others that the others just forget, is, according to the promise, putting God into my debt. So I'll go on passing favors out as long as I can see that the good I do for others puts the Lord in debt to me!

One reason so few of us take strong stands on anything is because it is so much pleasanter to that brick home on the right hand side of the highway, two blocks from the business district, and to the rear and west of it the two-story white Holford home, which was moved only a few hundred feet.

Bill left the imprint of his personality deeply engraved upon the minds and hearts of people of the Garland community. Neither friendship, advertising patronage nor any other consideration influenced him in his editorial utterances. The Times publisher counts it a privilege to have known such a man and to have called him friend.

A local defense volunteer in a lonely spot cried "Halt" to a man in a car who promptly halted.

"Halt!" said the L. D. V. again. "I have halted," said the motorist. "What do you want me to do next?"

"I don't know," said the L. D. V. "My orders are to say 'Halt!' three times and then shoot."

WEEKLY NEWS LETTER

Big WPA Reduction

The reduction asked by the President on the WPA appropriation will seriously affect the South and West, if it is adopted. In our section, defense plants are not absorbing the high percentage of unemployed labor that they are in the North and East. The proposed cut contemplates reducing the number that will be employed on WPA between 20,000 and 30,000 in Texas. This means a reduction of about 150 in each of the counties like Lamar, Bowie and Harrison in our district, and the other counties in proportion. If our section receives defense plants, it will absorb a part of this labor, and the reductions will not be felt; otherwise, it will be very damaging.

Shortage of Dairy and Pork Products Predicted

The Secretary of Agriculture announced minimum prices for the next two years, which he will attempt to maintain as follows: Butter, 31c; eggs, 22c; poultry, 15c; and hogs, $9.00. Since the announcement of these prices, the Surplus Marketing Administration has actually paid $9.80 for hogs and much more than the fixed minimum prices for butter, eggs and poultry. Unless the farmers have some assurance over a definite period, such as provided in the Secretary's order, they would be at a loss to know just how far they should go in increasing their production without running a great risk of tremendous loss if the emergency should end abruptly. So the prices are minimum prices and will likely greatly exceed the amounts fixed; the object being to assure the farmers, who are producing for defense needs, that they will get at least the amount stated for the increased production. It is a floor on these prices.

Some people criticize the Administration for causing a great reduction in certain products like wheat and asking for greatly increased production in dairy and pork products at the same time. The answer, however, is simple. Britain needs dairy and pork products and is buying them in enormous quantities but does not need wheat and certain other commodities at all. Milo Perkins, Administrator of Surplus Marketing Administration, testifying before our Committee, suggested that there is a serious danger of a great shortage in dairy and pork products within the next year or two, if the war in Europe continues.

$1,000 Per Farm Family Proposed
The House Committee on Banking and Currency, of which I am a member, is now considering a bill to extend the life of the Commodity Credit Corporation. The life of this corporation expires June 30, 1941. This is very important to the farmers in view of the recent law, which will give to them loans equal to 85 per cent of parity on the basic commodities, including cotton. This does not include the other benefits, and when they are added, the price to the farmers will be equal to parity. Parity price, however, should not be confused with parity income. It is possible for the farmer to receive a very high price, but if the amount he is allowed to produce is restricted too much, it will still be impossible for him to earn a living. I am endeavoring to secure the adoption of an amendment to this Commodity Credit Corporation Bill, which will provide that the head of each family may obtain a sufficient amount in loans upon the products, subject to loan by the Corporation, to enable him to receive an aggregate of at least $1,000 per annum. If this amendment passes, it will allow a farm family an opportunity to earn a living, and all of them are not permitted to earn a living at this time, although they are willing and anxious to work for it. In order to get the amendment through, a lower amount would be acceptable, but certainly the government should allow a family to earn a fair living, and no restrictions should be imposed that would prevent it. If this amendment is adopted, and I predict that eventually it will be adopted by the Congress, in one form or another, owners of land will be looking for good tenants, because the owners will receive better rents or better pay for the use of their lands thru tenants. On the other hand, good tenants will be looking for good land.

The Members from the South and West are fighting in unison as they have never fought before to obtain for the farmer his fair share of the national income.

From An Old Copy of Harper's Weekly

A duel was lately fought in Texas by Alexander Shott and John S. Nott. Nott was shot, and Shott was not. In this case it is better to be Shott than Nott. There was a rumor that Nott was shot, and Shott avows that he shot Nott, which proves neither that the shot Shott shot at Nott was not shot, or that Nott was shot notwithstanding. It may be made to appear on trial that the shot Shott shot shot Nott, or, as accidents with firearms are frequent, it may be possible that the shot Shott shot shot Shott himself. When the whole affair would resolve itself into its original elements and Shott would be shot, and Nott would not. We think, however, that the shot Shott shot shot not Shott but Nott. Anyway, it is hard to tell who was shot.—Harper's Weekly.

TOM DeBERRY

Tom DeBerry of Bogata, member of the State Board of Control, was the principal speaker Sunday at the Memorial Day service at Ramseur Memorial Baptist Church in Paris. The service was arranged by Winfield F. Brown Post, American Legion, and auxiliary units, with T. W. Russell, J. D. Dickey and Jack Reeves in charge.

Germany Gets Big Amount U. S. Cotton

Large stocks of American cotton in France were destroyed by fire or carried off to Germany.

In Harve alone were stored 150,000 bales of our cotton in June. Of this 100,000 bales were destroyed by air raids and evacuation of the Channel port. Of the remainder, 18,000 bales were shipped to Germany, and it is expected the rest will follow.

The Germans are expected to take about 30,000 bales at St. Nabaire and other stocks at Bordeaux. So, the German military machine will roll along for some time with the help of cotton from the U. S.

French stocks are depleted and the French textile industry, once our second best European customer, is virtually paralyzed.

Lonesome Bill Says Hitler Only Put Hell on Wheels

Editor's Note: In the following letter, Lonesome Bill states Hitler is not, as is commonly asserted, raising hell over in Europe. He contends, though, that the No. 1 Nazi did put wheels on Hades and is hauling it all over that country:

Dear Editor: I keep hearing and reading so much about Hitler raising hell over in Europe that I thought I would write in and set people right about it. Hitler, I says, ain't raising hell and he never did raise hell. Hell was raised a long time ago and it has been grown up for so long that it is getting gray between the horns. Hitler was smart enough to see that hell was already raised and all he had to do was put some wheels under it to really make it go places and do things instead of it standing still while things come to it.

But even if Hitler has put hell on wheels I don't reckon he'll get around to all the places he has in mind. It may be that his right front tire will blow out, or his left rear wheel run, off I don't know. But I bet sooner or later he'll ram it into something and will be sorry he ever started playing the devil.

Howsomever, I got to admit that he is giving John Bull's tail the worst twisting it ever got since it started switching this country away back yonder when we was having trouble enough with the Indians and was just getting acquainted with the chiggers and persimmon sprouts. But the history books say that nobody yet has made John Bull holler calf rope for good, and I don't reckon as how Hitler will be an exception, even if he has put hell on wheels and on wings, too.

One thing about it, Hitler better watch where he is going and not bump into Uncle Sam, else he will find out that there is more hell in the world than he ever dreamed of and that he lacked a thunder of a lot putting wheels under all of it. Uncle Sam never has lost a war yet and he never will as long as the chewing tobacco and potlicker hold out. When we start giving 'em hell they always start showing their heels.

All this talk about Hitler raising hell is just creek water. He ain't even able to raise a decent looking moustache. Yours truly,

LONESOME BILL.

Mosquito Control Means Prevention of Malaria

AUSTIN.—"A marked saving in human lives and improved health conditions may be obtained in large measure by an educational program for the control of the mosquito," suggests Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"Malaria is transmitted to humans," he said, "by the bite of the Anopheles mosquito. This mosquito acquires the malaria parasites by biting a person who has these parasites in his blood. She (it is the female who transmits this disease) then bites a well person. The parasites enter the blood, grow, and multiply there. Poisons are formed and carried in the blood stream to all parts of the body. The person bitten by the carrier mosquito begins to shiver with chills, burn with fever, and to have a headache.

"Prevention of malaria should start with the protection of humans from the bite of the infected mosquito and continue through to the elimination of the mosquito.

"The protection of humans may be accomplished by screening all houses to prevent the entrance of mosquitoes. A 16-mesh wire screen should be placed over all openings. Be sure that all chimneys, cracks, and other openings are covered.

"The malaria mosquito breeds in still water and the pools and grassy edges of running water, as well as in many places where water is allowed to collect or stand. The female mosquito then lays her eggs on the surface of the water, where they float, and in a few days hatch into 'wiggly-tails.' These live in the water and in time turn into mosquitoes. These changes must take place in the water and require twelve to fourteen days in summer to complete the cycle.

"In order to prevent the malaria mosquito from breeding, destroy their shelters by removing all brush and weeds; and drain or otherwise control their breeding places in water by spraying the surface with oil or putting top-feeding minnows in waters where oil or drainage cannot be used. Such a campaign will be waged around all military areas in Texas."

Bats are Not Blind, They Fly by Ear

It is not true that bats are blind. But scientists have often wondered how bats can fly in the pitch dark of caves and other haunts without bumping into things. Recently two Harvard scientists, Dr. Robert Galambos and Donald R. Griffin, provided the answer. Bats fly by ear. With a special sound device, the scientists found that flying bats utter supersonic cries when flying, well above the human ear's range of 20,000 vibrations a second. These high-pitched beeps, which they utter at a rate of 25 to 50 a second, are reflected by any obstacle in their path. In a dark room criss-crossed with strung wires, the bats flew perfectly, even when blindfolded. But as soon as the scientists covered their mouths and ears, the bats floundered helplessly into wires or walls.—Ex.

THE RESULT

The teacher had asked her class to write a short composition on the subject, "Water."

One scholar seemed to be having difficulty, but finally he turned in his paper, and here is what he wrote:

"Water is a light-colored wet liquid which turns dark when you wash in it!"

The 10,000,000 acres of piney woods in South Georgia produces more resin and turpentine than any comparable are in the world.

WOMEN AND FOODS

HAVE ONE ENEMY IN COMMON

That enemy is dryness. Dryness robs woman's skin of its youthful beauty. Dry cold steals from vegetables and fruits their garden freshness, robs meats of their rich nutritive juices. Guard your food against rapid drying out and the exchanging of flavors. Give them the protection of proper moisture and clean-washed, vitalized air available only in the air-conditioned ice refrigerator. Economical—costs a third to a half as much as other types . . . a servicing of ice lasts three to five days or longer. Plenty of pure, crystal-clear, taste-free ice cubes.

Circus to Play for County Dairy Program Clarksville Wednesday

The internationally famous Gainesville Community Circus, only show of its kind in the world, will play afternoon and night engagements in Clarksville on Wednesday, June 18.

It will exhibit there under auspices of the Clarksville Chamber of Commerce in support of a program to improve dairy cow herds of Red River county. Proceeds will be used in purchasing the additional high bred Jersey cattle required before the county can qualify for the establishment of a milk products plant.

Playing under the third largest big top now touring America, the Gainesville Community Circus is a complete three ring circus, with more than 100 acts being staged during the two hours each performance runs. But it is set apart and is distinctive from any other circus, by reason of the fact that the members work without remuneration of any sort, which places them as "amateurs" with respect to the rest of the show world.

the ROAD AHEAD

Old Man Texas is today looking ahead and planning.

Beside the great farming and ranching country which Texans have built, he sees a new industrial empire here.

Already the start has been made. Some industries, such as petroleum, are now showing what can be done to utilize Texas' vast natural resources. Today this industry refines with Texas labor over four-fifths as much oil as the State produces. Its products make up nearly one-half of all Texas manufacturing. Altogether petroleum provides the living for almost one-sixth of our people.

But this is only a beginning.

Texas has many other raw materials, unexcelled by any other State. Texas has in oil and gas the cheap and dependable fuel supply essential to industry. Texas is the gateway to Latin America, our new foreign market.

Each new industry means more jobs. It makes added tax values for our State and local governments, bigger payrolls for our workers, and greater prosperity for you and every other Texan.
