God Cannot Bless Baptist Preacher

"God Bless America" is a dandy theme for a popular patriotic song, but it can't be done, according to the Rev. Earl Anderson, pastor of the Munger Place Baptist Church.

In a recent hard-hitting Sunday night sermon, on "Why God Can't Bless America," Anderson cited statistics to show that the percentage of Americans who belong to and actually attend churches is much too low to demand the attention of God.

"We like to call ourselves a Christian Nation," he said. "But the figures show that the people of the United States are predominantly pagan and not Christian. People who would rather go to dances and picture shows than to the churches, shouldn't expect blessings from the Almighty."-Dallas Times-Herald.
