Texarkana Dam Is Dedicated Apr. 17

Billed as a flood control project but with drought relief possibilities not ignored, the 33 million dollar Texarkana Dam and Reservoir was dedicated Saturday.

Rep. Wright Patman (D-Tex.) cited "extensive opportunities for irrigation" in a speech at the site of the sprawling dam located 9 miles southwest of Texarkana.

Earlier in a news conference Maj. Gen. S. D. Sturgis Jr., chief of Engineers, U. S. Army stressed the importance of the project as a "conservation pool."

Sturgis said the primary purpose of the dam was for flood control but he said "all other practical uses" of the stored water must be considered.

The giant barrier stretching across a landscape of pine trees and towering oaks was designed to impound 2½ million acre feet of water. Thousands of acres of woodlands above the dam must be cleared and 17 miles of railroad track rerouted before the gates finally are closed.

The dam was constructed on the Sulphur River, a tributary to the Red River which in the spring of 1945 overflowed in one of the most disastrous floods in the history of a four-state area.

Texarkana Dam Is Dedicated Apr. 17

Billed as a flood control project but with drought relief possibilities not ignored, the 33 million dollar Texarkana Dam and Reservoir was dedicated Saturday.

Rep. Wright Patman (D-Tex.) cited "extensive opportunities for irrigation" in a speech at the site of the sprawling dam located 9 miles southwest of Texarkana.

Earlier in a news conference Maj. Gen. S. D. Sturgis Jr., chief of Engineers, U. S. Army stressed the importance of the project as a "conservation pool." Sturgis said the primary purpose of the dam was for flood control but he said "all other practical uses" of the stored water must be considered.

The giant barrier stretching across a landscape of pine trees and towering oaks was designed to impound 2½ million acre feet of water. Thousands of acres of woodlands above the dam must be cleared and 17 miles of railroad track rerouted before the gates finally are closed.

The dam was constructed on the Sulphur River, a tributary to the Red River which in the spring of 1945 overflowed in one of the most disastrous floods in the history of a four-state area.

POSTAL DEFICIT END PREDICTED

Businesslike operation of the Post Office Department will save American taxpayers $1,500,000 a day next year, an assistant postmaster general said Friday in Dallas.

Eventually, such operations will wipe out the postal deficit, which stood at $740,000,000, a year before the Republicans took over, said Norman A. Abrams, operational chief of the post office.

Right now business methods are saving the taxpayers a million dollars a day, Abrams said.

Cottonseed Price Prop Unchanged

Washington.—The price of 1954 crop cottonseed will be supported at about 75 per cent of parity, the same level as last year, the Agriculture Department said.

Prices for 1954 cottonseed will be supported through farm storage loans, purchases of cottonseed and purchases of cottonseed products.

Loans will be available at $54 ton basis grade (100) cottonseed. In areas where a purchase program may be necessary, purchases may be made from producers at $50 a ton, basis grade (100) cotton seed. These supports will reflect about 75 per cent of the March 15 parity price of $72.20 a ton average quality seed. The loan on 1953 crop cottonseed was $54.50 a ton and the purchase price to producers was $50.50.

Farmers Are Busy In Fields In This Area

Farm operations in this area are in full swing. Most farmers began planting cotton Monday. With a few more days of pretty dry weather, most of the crop will be planted this week. Some cotton, planted prior to the good soaking rains last week, is coming up.

A larger corn and grain crop has been planted in this section, caused by the reduction in cotton acreage. Corn is up and is looking good and fall oats and wheat are beginning to head.

Gardens, greatly revived by the rains, are growing. Housewives report having English peas, greens, spinach, lettuce, radishes, green onions and other early vegetables from them.

Former Talco Girl Says Polio Nurses Must Live Apart During Epidemics

Do you ever wonder about nurses who care for polio cases? Here is the story printed recently by the Snyder Daily News, from information given by Miss Billie Gieger, former Talco girl:

MISS BILLIE GIEGER

While being a polio nurse is no burden for Miss Billie Gieger, she, nevertheless confesses she is afraid to go back to that type work.

Miss Gieger is acting as a special nurse to Mrs. Carol Smith, accident victim in Battenfield Hospital now. When on regular duty she works altogether with polio which is just as contagious as measles, she said. Every polio nurse eventually expects to contract the disease but usually has it in a much less degree than the patients because the nurses, more or less, build up an immunity to it, she said.

Although the symptoms are the same, the nurses frequently don't even have to go to bed. Miss Gieger said she always dreads going back to the hospitals after being away for a length of time. She came to Snyder recently to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Thomas of Arah route. She had been home about five hours when the local hospital needed her.

The need for registered nurses extends far into the polio field, Miss Gieger said. Last year 175 more nurses were needed to take care of the flow of patients, she said. The nurses not only are registered but usually have had previous polio experience. But, above all, Miss Gieger said, the work is "something you definitely have to like."

Although nurses work seven days each week, staff men and organizations try to make their stay in epidemic areas pleasant, she said. They are recruited to an area for a three-month period after which they may or may not stay longer. During that time country club cards are usually given them and parties held for them, she said.

Trying to find a place to live can lead to complications, however. Landladies shy from the nurses. Rooms that are described beforehand as the ideal place for any young girl are frequently refused to the nurses.

In the polio-hit towns, Miss Gieger said, "you see a definite fear. In my own mind it is like what the Black Death must have been."

Although the polio nurses completely change their clothing before coming out of the wards which are isolated, even staff nurses refuse to eat with them. "It is just like we had leprosy," she laughed.

The nurse in a polio ward must be alert at all times. In the bulbar polio units where she worked there was one nurse for every two patients. You may check one patient, turn your back to adjust something for the second one, and immediately look back to the first one and find him dead, she said.

One of the most gratifying things in nursing is to see an iron lung patient take his first breath without the apparatus. She places that second only to seeing a baby's first breath.

The patients can become so completely dependent on the lung that they will refuse to breathe without it. The patients who are capable of breathing without the device are instructed to breathe without it for short periods so as to keep assured that they can, she said.

Actually psychology is one of the most important factors in dealing with polio victims. "You just become their hands and legs to them," she said. The patients can't even brush their eyebrows if they want to, she said. For the first few weeks in a new ward the patients usually distrust the new nurse thinking she isn't capable, but gradually she convinces them otherwise, she said. The convalescent ones always demand more attention than the critical ones.

Techniques have changed some since the polio first began being diagnosed as such. The Sister Kenney Hospital in Minnesota and the Jefferson Davis Hospital in Houston are probably the only ones strictly following the original Kenney methods. Almost all of the hospital wards are set up differently with a favorite practice at one hospital being banned in another, she said.

The new preventative, gamma globulin, is only temporary, lasting about three weeks, she said. "There isn't much you can do for them," she said. The symptoms are still a stiff neck, sore throat, high temperature and nausea, she said.

A polio nurse is paid quite a bit more than a regular staff nurse. The polio foundation and the hospital both contribute for the nurses' salaries with the Red Cross paying their expenses, she said. The late President Franklin D. Roosevelt contributed from his personal funds to set up the foundation, she said.

In the old days fifty cents would buy fifty cents worth. Today fifty cents will buy only twenty-five cents worth, but you have more fifty-cent pieces.

Every editor is profoundly conscious of the arrival of election year. His waste basket runneth over with press releases from ambitious candidates. This office received a 1,000-word publicity article from a candidate recently and last week another candidate sent in double the amount.

Book Lovers Club With Mrs. Kelley

Mrs. R. R. Kelley was hostess to the Book Lovers' Club in her home Friday. Two-tone roses and Dutch iris were used at vantage points throughout the living and dining rooms. Meeting was opened with the club prayer by Mrs. Felix Jones. The subject for the program was the "Book of all Books" in which Mrs. B. L. Gieger very ably talked on the "Divisions of the Bible and the Three Dispensations." An appropriate reading followed by Mrs. Jones entitled "One Solitary Life," and Mrs. Stephenson read a "Tribute to the Bible." In the Bible quiz conducted by Mrs. Gieger, Mrs. J. L. Cato and Mrs. O. T. Stephenson were awarded lovely prizes.

The hostess served a delicious salad plate to Mmes. C. E. Griggs, Robert Harper, J. L. Cato, Dan Cotten, Dick Hood, O. T. Stephenson, Felix Jones, Georgia Jones, B. L. Gieger, E. E. Nuff, John D. Wright, E. W. Smith, Sidney Frugia, Lyndon Reed, Jim Morris, Billy Carter and M. J. Spruell.

The next regular meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Dick Hood with Mrs. H. O. Williams as program director.

This is the 1954 Chevrolet Bel Air 2-Door Sedan. With 3 series, Chevrolet offers a model to meet every individual and family need.

These facts about the New Chevrolet can help you make an important decision

Don't you agree that buying a new car calls for careful consideration? Regardless of make, it involves a substantial amount of money and a lot of future satisfaction. This information can give you a better idea of comparative value and help you decide which make to buy.

A good customer of ours was telling us the other day how he sizes up a new car. Because he's bought a number of them over the years, we were interested in what he had to say. We think you will be, too.

Actually, what he does is to ask about seven basic questions. The answers give a pretty complete picture of the car and its comparative value. Here's what he wants to know.

How well do I like its looks?

That's one question, of course, that only you can answer. You're the one who buys the car and you, above anybody else, should be proud of its appearance.

All we can tell you is that we hear a lot of nice things about Chevrolet's new styling. People seem to like the new front-end and rear-end designs, and the way the bumpers curve even farther around the fenders. They like the new styling touches all around the car and the wide choice of bright new colors and two-tone combinations. A good many tell us that Chevrolet has a decided edge over the other cars in its field for smooth and graceful lines.

Who makes the body?

This question takes in much more territory than the appearance of the car. It involves the quality of the interior as well as the strength and safety of the body construction. That's why we think it worth your consideration that Chevrolet has the only Body by Fisher in the low-price field.

You can see the difference outside and inside. We'd especially like you to look over the new interiors. Just sit in the car, if you will. Feel the quality of the fabrics and notice the more generous use of vinyl trim.

In all these ways, you'll find evidence of superior quality and workmanship. And after all, isn't that what you would expect in Body by Fisher? As you know, Fisher is the largest and most famous manufacturer of automobile bodies in the world. Doesn't it stand to reason that Fisher can build extra quality into the Chevrolet body? It's there and you can see it.

What's under the hood?

You hear a great deal of talk these days about engine power. The truth is that the number of horsepower isn't nearly as important as what the horsepower does for you.

In this year's Chevrolet, you get increased power in two finer engines. There's the "Blue-Flame 125" engine teamed with Powerglide automatic transmission and optional on all models at extra cost. In gearshift models, you get the more powerful "Blue-Flame 115" engine.

But, actually, the increase in horsepower is only a sort of by-product of design changes made for other reasons. Chevrolet engineers were after greater engine efficiency, not just greater power. So, you get improved acceleration, with greater and safer passing ability. You get quieter, smoother operation. You climb the steep hills with new ease.

How hungry is it for gasoline?

A car's reputation for, and record of, economy of operation is certainly an important consideration to most people. We'd be glad to have you compare Chevrolet in this respect with any car at any price.

And, in the case of this new Chevrolet, you do not have to sacrifice economy for finer performance and more horsepower. That's because the Chevrolet engines are high-compression engines. Their compression ratio of 7.5 to 1 is the highest in any of the leading low-priced cars.

This means simply that the engine compresses, or squeezes, the fuel mixture to a greater degree in order to wring more work out of it. That's how Chevrolet is able to give you an important gain in performance along with money-saving gasoline mileage—and on regular gas, of course.

Is it up to date in features?

We can't think of a new feature or development you might want that you can't have on the new Chevrolet.

Now you can have Chevrolet's zippy and thrifty Powerglide automatic transmission on any model. You can have Power Steering on all models and at a new, lower price. You can have Automatic Window and Seat Controls on any Bel Air or "Two-Ten" model, and you can have Power Brakes on any model equipped with Powerglide. All are, of course, optional features at extra cost.

How popular a car is it?

When you come right down to it, there's no better way to judge the satisfaction a car gives its owners than by its popularity. How many people buy it and keep on buying it?

Well, as you may know, Chevrolet is by far the most popular car in this country. That's true today and it's been true for a good many years now. But it couldn't be true—or wouldn't be true—unless Chevrolet gave its owners an extra measure of satisfaction and value.

How much does it cost?

There's a short, sweet answer to that one: Chevrolet is priced below all other lines of cars. This lower cost is made possible by the greater production facilities and purchasing power of the world's largest manufacturer of automobiles. That is why Chevrolet can offer you all the advantages we've told you about here—and many more, too.

We'd be more than glad to have you see all these things for yourself and to try out this new Chevrolet on the road. We'll be happy to see you at any time.

A Report and An Open Letter to Talco Citizens Concerning Welfare of Band

By MRS. A. E. RODGERS

Talco School Junior and Senior Band presented a concert recently which was a very good concert. It showed how our bands have been working. Immediately following the Band Booster Club had a special meeting to discuss a trip for our Senior band, and an outing for our Junior Band to show them we do appreciate the work that is going into having good bands.

When most of the people left and we settled down for the meeting, we had to count twice to see if we had a quorum, which is just half, out of 107 band parents in Talco.

All parents were notified of the special meeting thru the notice their child brought home about the concert. Every parent's wishes concerning the trip has to be considered and how can they be if they are not in attendance to make their wishes known. We feel sure that you, the parents, are concerned as to how and where your children are going, and how our money is to be spent.

It is known "A faithful few" the club worked hard in the recession stand last fall and made a lot of money—nearly $500. We have spent it thusly: A few repairs and needed equipment for our stand, a banquet for all of our band students and their parents, jackets for our four graduating members, a complete set of uniforms for our Junior Band. (Did you see them and how proudly the young members wore them at the concert?) Now we only have $175.00 left.

Last year we carried 21 members to Hot Springs, Ark. for an overnight trip, with $121.00 (and careful management) as expenses. So you can see that the club needs a little more money for this larger group of 50 Senior Band members.

The committee to see about this and to make the plans are Mrs. A. E. Foster, Jerry Loveall, Mrs. J. A. Davis and Mrs. Shelby Johnson. It was suggested at the meeting that if all of the band members paid their dues, 50c each, our finances would increase a lot.

We know that you are interested in what your children do, as well as your school, your community, and your country.

We all need to be, for we have the right, and if we aren't interested, we can't afford to kick about what happens to either of them. We have begun to support our ball teams more, which is as it should be. Now let's all put our shoulders to the wheel and not only support, but promote our band. Then we won't have to hear our children say that some other band went to the coast, Carlsbad, Florida, New York, or Washington. For they will be just as proud of their trip as the other school bands. Citizens in other places are no better than Talco folk and not as good (for I'm a little proud after 18 years of their hospitality.)

And while we are letting you know some of the needs of the band, our band director, Mr. Loveall, has been quoted as saying one of Talco school's greatest needs is a band hall, a separate building in which to rehearse and teach band with enough room, for the space we now have is not adequate for maintenance of the band that we really want. Let's just not fall down with our band, and especially our children, nor leave the work to just a few, but all pitch in.

Do you want to help as a band parent or just as an interested citizen? If so, see some of the working members or our director. I am writing this with his consent, also a school board member, the president of the Band Booster Club, the assistant editor of this paper, Mrs. O. B. Hopwood, and with the co-operation of Sam C. Holloway, who is always interested in our town, and the future of our country, which lies in the hands of our children, or he'd not be printing a newspaper when he could be making more money doing something else.

Signed, Your Club Secretary, who still believes in the power of the printed word. Why not? Our God used it to give us the greatest laws on earth.

Alcorn Claims He Knows How to Control Production Without Quotas

Editor's note: Achin Alcorn, philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sulphur, no doubt has another unworkable idea this week, his letter will reveal.

Dear Editor: Some boy three farms over was flyin a kite out here the other day and when the string broke I kept my eye on it, figurin he might have made it out of a newspaper, and sure enough it fell within easy walking distance of where I was sittin and I went over and picked it up and found it was made out of a copy of your newspaper, which makes just as good a kite as any newspaper in the United States.

I took it around to the south side of the barn and sat down in the sun and before I'd gotten myself situated comfortable I noticed an article by an expert who said the world's population is increasing so fast the problem of farm surpluses will soon disappear and it'll be a mad scramble to produce enough to feed everybody.

The population of the world now is two and a half billion, includin the slaves Russia has workin in Siberia, and this expert estimates it'll be seven billion within the next 100 years, and people will be clamoring for every scrap of food and fibre a farmer can grow, which of course will put an end to acreage controls, etc.

While this is encouraging news, I don't believe I can wait that long. The fact that whoever is occupying this Johnson grass farm out here 100 years from now is gonna be in clover is not much use to me. Also, I doubt if all the butter we got stored up in this country will keep that long.

And also, I don't have that much confidence in experts. Say the farmers pull in their belts and wait around a hundred years for the world's population to reach 7 billion, and it winds up only 3 billion? There's gonna be a mighty lot of disappointed farmers. Predictin the population is sometimes as hard as predictin an election, it's hard to say what people are gonna do.

The trouble with farmin is you have to do it right now. I've tried spendin the profits I'm gonna make next year, and it won't work.

However, I have been givin the problem of surpluses and the need for acreage controls some heavy thought lately and I believe the government is approachin the problem from the wrong angle.

Instead of limiting the number of acres a farmer can plant, why not limit the number of hours he can work? Then we'd be gettin somewhere. Forget about the acres and acreage controls, and put the limit on the running hours of a tractor. It would eliminate measurin land, settin up complicated rules, and then checkin to see everybody stayed within his allotment. Just put a time clock on everybody's tractor and, when production gets out of hand, limit the hours a man can go up one row and down another. Or if this won't work on account of some people feel guilty if they ain't goin from sun-up to sun-down, have a special rullin for these people requirin em to use only one-row equipment instead of three and four-row. The four-row cultivator probably has done more to create unwieldy surpluses than any other one thing.

I don't know why, but controllin production shouldn't be such a problem, if the officials would keep in mind the best way to do it is to cut down on work.

Yours faithfully, A. A.

FINES LEVIED AFTER ARRESTS FOR VIOLATION BIG GAME LAWS

Austin. — The Director of Law Enforcement for the Game and Fish Commission reported that a group of Hill Country men had been rounded up for selling deer, along with persons who bought the game.

The cases, resulting from the recent big game hunting season, involved sixteen defendants in all. Approximately $2000 in fines and court costs were levied.

Charges were filed against participants in San Saba, Abilene, Jacksboro and Bastrop. The specific complaints included selling deer, buying deer, exceeding bag limit on deer, possession of deer bearing illegal tags, and offering deer for sale.

The largest individual fine was against a San Saba resident. He paid $675 in fines plus costs for selling deer, exceeding the bag limit on deer and possessing deer with illegal tags or without any tags at all.

The roundup was aided, according to the Director, by the two-way radios with which most wardens' cars are now equipped.

The cases highlighted the monthly arrest report, showing 483 cases and $17,144.77 in fines and court costs. Some items on the report included: 47 complaints for night hunting; 28 for hunting from cars; 22 for killing doe deer; 21 for killing fawn or spike buck deer; 17 for killing deer in closed season; 10 for headlighting game animals; and 10 for hunting in closed season.

Rich Six Inches Of Top Soil

It has been said that "Civilization rests on six inches of topsoil."

This is not just a dramatic statement. It is a fact of nature. These six inches are all that stand between us and famine. Many conservationists believe that before this country was settled by whites the layer of topsoil was nine inches thick. Three inches—one third of the original deposit—has been lost forever, through floods, winds, erosion, and destructive forest and agricultural practices.

Here is why soil conservation is as important a need as this nation knows. The federal and local governments have naturally played an important role in the conservation movement. But the success or failure of the movement is determined at the level of the individual farm. Each acreage of farm or forest presents different problems. Each requires different treatment. The experts in and out of government can provide invaluable advice and other assistance—but they can't do the job that is the individual farm-owner's and no one else's.

A comparatively few years ago agriculture lacked the tools for effective soil conservation and improvement. Now it has those tools and they are marvelously swift, economical and efficient. The tractor and all the other machines that come from the farm equipment industry make relatively easy what would have been impossible in the past. We can, and must, save that six inches of topsoil on which civilization rests. Plano Star-Courier.

Kidd Sells Food Store at Ralls

R. L. (Bob) Kidd, formerly of Rosalie, recently sold his grocery and market, the oldest business establishment in Ralls under the same management, after 31 years of merchandising there. Mr. and Mrs. Kidd moved to Crosby County in 1922 from Rosalie. In the passing years he has served on the school board, has been a faithful worker in the Rotary Club, and both he and Mrs. Kidd have served as stewards in the Methodist church.

In addition to their homestead property in Ralls, they own a 32-acre farm near Robertson. Mrs. Kidd was formerly Mamie Hinson, daughter of Bud Lee Hinson of Rosalie and now makes his home with his daughter and husband. Mr. Kidd has two brothers, Tom and Buck Kidd, and a sister, Mrs. Curt Williams, all of Rosalie and a brother, Jack, residing in Clarksville. They have two sons, Don Ray and R. L. Jr. Pomp Harbison, also a Bogatan, has been employed with the Kidd Grocery and Market for several years.

Passenger cars are now built with 160 horsepower motors, as if it required that much horse power to get somewhere. We recall Pittsburgers who used to make thousand-mile trips over country roads in cars they proudly boasted of having 16 horse power motors.

The cost of living is coming down. The Stork Club of New York has cut the price of coffee from $1.00 to 90 cents a cup. We can't figure this out unless it means 10 cents for the coffee and 80 cents for atmosphere.

Farmers Profit by Free Soil Tests

College Station. — High crop yields at lower cost in 1954 are possible for farmers who follow the example of many successful growers and use the free soil testing service at Texas A. & M. College.

When money becomes tight, some farmers are inclined to reduce their expenditures for fertilizer, says M. K. Thornton, extension agricultural chemist.

This isn't the best reasoning, he points out, because food and fiber, especially at this time, must be produced more economically. Experiment station tests show much greater financial returns from crops properly fertilized than from crops supplemented with little or no plant food.

Thornton continues that this is the time to collect soil samples and send them to the laboratory. It gives the lab enough time to analyze the sample and return recommendations so the farmer may use the information in buying fertilizers. About three weeks should be allowed for a reply.

Thornton says the laboratory in 1953 analyzed and made recommendations on 7,989 samples. A soil analysis determines organic matter and mineral content in soil. Upon knowing these levels and the crop to be planted on the field from which the sample was taken, the lab can make the cor-

HOW'S YOUR JUDGMENT?

Did you know . . . It is estimated that a motorist must make from 20 to 50 decisions per hour, any of which when wrong can result in a fatal accident?

That if you drive under 50 miles per hour your chances of staying out of an accident are five times greater than if you drive above 50?

That if you are involved in an accident when driving above 50 miles per hour your chances of dying are three times greater than if you were driving below

THOSE OTHER FOUR APPLES

"Thanks very much," said the minister. "I must call this afternoon and thank your mother for those eight beautiful apples."

"Please, sir," said Tommy, "do you mind thanking her for 12?"

However much we may question Jack Benny's judgment in spending $50,000 on his daughter's wedding, no one is now justified in calling him "stingy."

The No. 1 crazy idea comes from a legislator who wants a state income tax. Hasn't he heard about the Federal income tax and what it is doing to the taxpayers' pocketbooks about this time of the year?

WHY NOT DISPLAY YOUR BUSINESS IN THE SHOW WINDOW OF YOUR TOWN?

For a small investment you can be represented in your community newspaper every week, and the readers will have an opportunity to view your wares 52 times a year. As a result, complimentary remarks will be made of your business . . . and the same goodwill that is created for your business will be created for your town. Goodwill is an intangible asset, yet no business is operated successfully without it.

Buying Advertising Is An Investment . . . Not An Expense

- When you build an addition to your building it's listed among your assets.
- When you add new lines of merchandise to the stock in your store it's listed as additional assets.
- When you invest in advertising it certainly creates additional goodwill and patronage and certainly you can list goodwill among your greatest assets.

ADVERTISING'S FIRST DUTY IS THE CREATION OF GOODWILL, AND THROUGH GOODWILL IT AIDS IN SELLING

Newspaper advertising is an avenue through which information is conveyed to your customers and prospective customers . . . a service that is provided through no other facility.

Decision of Governor Allan Chivers to seek another term in that office will meet approval of men who have recognized his able leadership during the time he has held the office. His political courage and comprehension of the needs of this great state and his acts thereon have met endorsement of straight-thinking Texans. Texas is fortunate in his decision to announce for another term.

Correct posture week is May 1-7. Most of the boys who receive military training are taught correct posture. With some, it is valuable throughout life, while others relapse into that slouch that lets one's head droop and his shoulders hunch forward. As for the girls, they know a slouch will never get anywhere socially or otherwise, so most of them stand with head erect and shoulders back. As compared to the drooped posture, it improves their appearance 100 per cent.

This editor liked what he heard Attorney Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. say about what the Eisenhower administration was doing to clean the Reds out of positions in the government and how to control their activities in this country. He was speaking from Washington over TV and radio.
When it was announced he would speak, the editor called the Kyle Reads, who live a block down the street, to come up and watch and hear their brother-in-law in action.
Mrs. Brownell and Mrs.
Read are sisters.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

BURT LOCKHART
in Pittsburg Gazette

No matter how small the house, when the little son goes visiting the house is big enough to house
the U. S. Army.

If some of those TV programs cost as much as they say they do, we are surprised at the gullibility of the sponsors.

The American dollar talks in two languages. When it says buy-buy to the housewife it says bye-bye to hubby.

Another way to reduce traffic accidents on the highway is to see that all the nuts but the one at the steering wheel are tight.

The man who owes his success to his wife should do better than to square off the debt with a kiss.
She'd much prefer a mink coat.

"The reason I believe it is going to rain," said a coffee tippler Wednesday, "is because I have just given my car a good washing."

If the traditional man in the moon was only a woman, a telescope would soon be invented to determine whether she's blonde or brunette.

This is the time of year when we are reminded that hope is not the only thing that springs eternal. Grass also can do some springing.

It is more blessed to give than to receive, but there are a lot of fellows on the receiving end who are perfectly willing to let the other fellows get the blessing.

We broadcast through a megaphone that 3,750,000 people are unemployed. In gentle whispers we tell the world that 60,000,000 people are holding down well-paying jobs. Wouldn't it relieve our fears and help our economics by throwing away the megaphone?

NOT FAIR

The subject of kissing was debated with much earnestness by a girl and the young man calling on her. He insisted that it was always possible to kiss a girl against her will, even though she resisted. She was equally firm in her contention that it was not possible. To settle the debate they had to try it—they clinched and the battle was on. After a sprightly tussle they broke, but not until after the girl had been kissed ardently for many minutes.
"Oh, well," she said. "You didn't win fairly, let's try it again."

Texas Sesame

Men in Lamar County who have pioneered the growing of sesame will like what the Dallas
News said about it Wednesday:
"Success of last year's trial plantings of sesame in Texas is having its effect this spring. Most of the farmers who grew small patches last year are planting bigger acreages now. And many others are wanting to give this oilseed crop a try. This year's plantings are expected to exceed 10,000 acres and to be limited only by the amount of seed available. That will be more than five times last year's acreage.

"Sesame grows quickly and is harvested easily. It brings a higher price than cottonseed oil because it becomes rancid less quickly and thus is better for some food products. Last year the Frito Company bought the whole Texas output of sesame oil from Texas. The present growing of this ancient crop here stems from the development of a semishattering variety at the Texas Research Foundation at Renner.

"Both the foundation and the Texas Sesame Growers Association at Paris have done noteworthy work in promoting this crop that is well adapted for land retired from cotton. While the practical value of sesame as a Texas crop will depend in part on market conditions for oilseed crops, its prospects now look bright. There are many food products in which it might come to be in strong demand."

KNOWLEDGE

The five-year-old who has succeeded in taking a simple toy apart and putting the pieces back together again, declares with boyish enthusiasm, "Daddy, I know how to do everything!"
"If you want the real low-down on just any old thing, ask me," confidently advises the jaunty youth of twenty.

"If it's in my line, maybe I can tell you. I know my business from A to Z," says the man of thirty-five.

"The field of human knowledge is so vast that even a specialist can hardly have more than a speaking acquaintance with the more important facts of his subject," admits that man of fifty.

"I have lived a good many years," confesses the man of seventy, "but I haven't learned much. What I know is very little; what I am ignorant of is immense."—Caps and Lower Case.

HUGH ROY CULLEN OF HOUSTON GIVES AWAY 175 MILLION

Houston.—In this land of the big rich and the rugged individualist, Hugh Roy Cullen ranks among the biggest, the richest, the most rugged and the most individual.

Giving away money or opinions, this 72-year-old oil millionaire is often unpredictable. He is by turn impulsive, deeply sentimental, opinionated, gentle, sharp-tongued, folksy and as crafty as a Texas steer stampeding in a glass works.

But all the adjectives pale in favor of one word: generous. Over the years he has given away about $175,000,000 in cash and in present and future income from oil leases.

A few weeks ago at a student football rally celebrating a victory over Baylor University, Cullen arose and, with misty eyes, announced he was giving the University of Houston $2,250,000. Two weeks later he gave Baylor $1,000,000. Both gifts, he explained, were for education, not football.

The big figures took breathers away around the country, but few Texans were left breathless. First, because they are Texans. Second, because they have learned to expect the unexpected from Cullen, in spectacular amounts.

Texas Charities
In 1947, Cullen was quietly making a routine speech when he popped a "little secret." He said he was setting up the Cullen Foundation with the income from oil leases which had a production potential of 40,000,000 barrels. Reporters got busy, figuring oil at the market price of $2 a barrel. They came up with $80,000,000.

The next day Chamber of Commerce officials dropped in to thank the philanthropist. He thereupon doubled the gift, giving the foundation enough oil leases to bring in about $160,000,000 over the years. Most of the money was earmarked for the University of Houston and the beautiful Texas Medical Center now building here.

"My wife and I are selfish," Cullen explained. "We want to see our money spent during our lifetime so we may derive great pleasure from it."
Virtually all of Cullen's charity is confined to institutions within the borders of Texas. But within those limits, he has said frequently, his gifts have no regard for race, creed or color. He has contributed to negro as well as white institutions.

In one 10-day trip in 1945, Cullen rattled off gifts of more than $1,000,000 each to hospitals around town — Methodist, Baptist, Catholic. Someone reminded him that he had forgotten the Episcopalians — of which Mrs. Cullen is one. He thereupon gave $1,156,000 to St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital.

Louisiana produces enough oil every ten days to pay for the Louisiana Purchase.

Farm-Ranch Talk By Country Boy

JAKE HOLSTER

I am a country boy and have devoted most of my life to studying agriculture. I got most of my schooling tending cows and if I may help you in some way I will be happy to do so.

The time has come when we all need to know more about scientific farming. We have come to the time where we do not have new-ground to pioneer. We must use the land we now have. In the old days when a farmer "moved out" from a farm he could go and take up another on virgin soil. But that day has past, we must take advantage of the soil at our feet.

Most of our farm land could be made to double in production by better farming. The checking of erosion and run off water, the use of lime and fertilizer program. A lot of farms that are thought "worn out" are not worn out at all, they have just been farmed so badly that the fertility of their soil has become unavailable to the plants.

Actually we have learned more about soils and their fertility in the last few years and I am sure we will learn more in the next few years. Most of our land has been farmed only eight or nine inches deep, its fertility has been leached down deeper. Here the deep rooted grasses sometime take over because they can reach the fertility that has leached. Legumes are important; they tap that deep natural fertility and bring it to the surface in the form of roots, stems and leaves. A single clump of Lespedeza will go into the ground four or five feet. Annual sweet clover humam will penetrate to a depth of four to five feet in one season. Madrid will penetrate as much as ten to twelve feet. These legumes are cheaper to use than commercial fertilizers. Even barnyard manure is more expensive than legumes because of the labor.

Now when we come to feeding livestock, there is definitely a big change in feed. We have learned what a chicken needs and also what hogs need and are putting it in the feed. We must never stop and think we know enough about these things. If we do we will be licked at what we are doing.
If one wants to help control barn flies and worms in cattle here is what to do. Mix nine parts salt and one part Phenothiazine and feed it free choice. The horn

Money Real Value Is Spend Wisely

A rather prominent Texan, who would not want to be quoted, recently said that money means nothing unless it is wisely spent. By that, he meant that the possession of money is not necessarily power in itself.

This man is in position to know. He heads many corporations and was recently introduced as first citizen of his city. "I can get all the money I want," he said to a group, informally, "but unless I can spend it to advantage, what good would it do me?"

Texas men have made a name for themselves in their ability to make money. Extreme wealth has almost become the trade mark of the man with the Texas drawl.

It is to be hoped that those who have been successful in the accumulation of money will be equally judicious in their expenditures of it. There is enough investment capital among individuals in our larger cities and towns to insure good business and good communities through the years if it is wisely spent.

Doctor's Advice For Bad Hearts

Austin.—Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, says that far too many people worry over symptoms they believe to indicate heart trouble and their fear keeps them from seeing the family physician. This is unfortunate because many times an examination would reveal that they do not have heart disease. Persons whose examination shows heart impairment have a much better chance to live a happy, constructive life if they follow their physician's advice.

If one has heart disease his doctor will advise that he do all things in moderation, if necessary outline vitamin deficiency needs, eat sensibly and if overweight tell him how to reduce, in order to take some of the strain off his heart.

It is a protection to your heart

if you have all the rest you need. When you rest you give your heart a chance to slow down and get the rest it needs. So keep reasonable hours, especially on work days.

Refuse to let yourself be rushed. If you think something must be done on the run, change that attitude to allow yourself more time. This applies also to driving a car. Aside from the danger of sudden death in a high speed accident, fast driving at any time makes your nerves taut, raises your blood pressure and burdens your heart. Also, refuse to worry, be afraid or to become angry. If you allow yourself to indulge in these wasteful emotions, your own heart is being punished.

Dr. Cox has one last word of advice. If you have heart disease, cooperate with your physician. The physician's objective is for the patient to realize the maximum of their capabilities within the limits of their disabilities.

Alcorn Comes Up With Unworkable Defense Idea Against Hydrogen Bomb

Editor's note. Achin Alcorn, philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sulphur, won't get anywhere with his idea this week, but that never has stopped him.

Dead Editor: I was out here the other afternoon watchin my rain gauge while we were gettin a little shower, there are few pleasures in life greater than the fun of watchin rain fall after a long drouth, even a shower, and

I found a water-soaked newspaper caught in a clump of weeds and took it to the house and dried it out, some newspapers are dull enough when dry but when wet they're about like water-logged lightbread.

The only article in the paper that attracted my attention was one about a United States Senator who was urgin the government to put up cash awards for inventions for defense, to head off the inventions for attack.

Accordin to this Senator, the government ought to put up some real money to get the inventors to turn their minds toward defense, and he wants to offer as much as $75,000 per idea if it'll work.

I think this fellow is on the right track, although I don't know what the results will be. There are some people who say man isn't as smart as insects. Take flies. When man brought out DDT a few years ago, it must have been as alarming and nerve-wracking to flies as the hydrogen bomb is to man, but what happened? The flies went to work and in less than two years had maneuvered around to where they had developed an immunity to DDT, even without the help of government cash.

But I contend man is as smart as most insects, and I would like to see this new program of defense invention started. What the defense against a hydrogen bomb will be, I have no idea. As I understand it, it'll dig a hole 150 feet deep and spread heat for miles around, so bomb shelters are out. Tryin to intercept a plane carrying one of them bombs is hazardous and sooner or later one of em is bound to get through.

What we really need is something along the line of radar rays of some sort which can be sent out all over the world from one spot and explode the bomb ahead of time. Probably wouldn't anything slow a man down more from makin a bomb as the knowledge somebody else was likely to make it go off before he was ready to drop it. Very few people would be interested in carrying a time bomb around in their coat pocket if somebody else was in charge of the clock.

So They Stopped Baiting Each Other

If you want to hear a real hassle, listen to Cob James and Whitey Baker on trout fishing sometime. You'd think it was more important than anything.

Cob favors dry flies. Whitey pooh-poohs anything but wet flies. Cob swears by a Fan-Wing Royal Coachman; Whitey won't hear of anything but Silver Doctor. And so it goes—they can't even get together on steel rods versus bamboo rods.

But on Saturday, each got back from Fox Creek with a catch that couldn't have differed by more than a couple of ounces! Then over a friendly glass of beer, they allowed as how maybe they were both right... which is how so many arguments should end.

From where I sit, life would be a whole lot pleasanter if we all respected one another's opinions—whether about trout flies, or having a glass of beer, or voting. After all, a person has a right to follow his own line of thinking.
