Deport received 3.35 inches of rain Monday night, according to A. C. Nixon. The heavy downpour caused many streams and creeks to overflow into lowlands.

Thunderstorms, starting early Monday evening and continuing until mid-morning Tuesday brought 3.7 inches of rain to Bogata. There was an electrical display, with reports that a cow owned by Samuel Sheffield of Cuthand, was killed by the lightning. It also entered the home of Mrs. R. L. State Capital NEWS

By Vern Sanford

Austin. — When the various states go to battle to capture new industries, other states go in with cannon-sized budgets. But not Texas.

Texas is, by comparison, fighting with a rubber band and spit balls. At least that's the view of the man who heads the Texas effort, Walter E. Dickerson.

Dickerson, as executive director of the Texas Industrial Commission, directs himself. He has no staff and no secretary. Legislature allotted him $23,750 a year to do a job for which the neighboring "poor" state of Arkansas spends more than a half-million a year.

Dickerson uses his slim funds for a brochure on Texas and, since out-of-state travel is impossible, long-distance telephoning. He's also seeking additional funds from Texas firms to carry on the work.

Next winter he'll be before the Legislature to ask for more money to give Texas an even break in the intensively competitive industry-seeking field.

Dickerson's pleas come against a background of warnings that Texas manufacturing has not been growing fast enough to offset the decline of oil and agriculture. Some areas, such as the Gulf Coast, are becoming highly industrialized, but Texas needs more industry all over, say the economists, if it is to avoid a stall.

More manufacture of products for the Texas consumer market is especially recommended. Dickerson has data showing that Texas send $2,500,000,000 of their money out of state to buy manufactured products.

Dickerson also supports his urging for a beefed-up Industrial Commission with figures showing that new industry is literally "money in the bank" for a town and state.

For each industry with 100 employees—not a particularly big one—bank deposits jump $276,000 and retail sales $360,000 per year.

BUSINESS TOTALS TUMBLE—Texas' most recent business activity reports are not entirely rosy, either.

Retail trade for May was down 2 per cent from April and 4 per cent from a year ago, according to the University Bureau of Business Research.

Building construction was also in a downward spiral, 3 per cent from April and 11 per cent from last year. Building decline between April and May was due to a sharp drop in home building. Non-residential construction was up 3 per cent.

Slow down in retail buying was unexpected, inasmuch as employment, income and savings are at an all-time high. An increase in home building is hoped for as a result of eased FHA down payment requirements. More home buying would, in turn, stimulate more retail buying, particularly furniture, appliances and hardware.

GAS TAX LOSES ROUND—Texas' new natural gas severance beneficiary tax flunked its first court test when an Austin district judge ruled it unconstitutional.

Judge Jack Roberts held the tax violated the U. S. Constitution's prohibition against levying a tax on interstate commerce. Severance beneficiary tax is aimed at the natural gas pipeline companies who, the tax's supporters contend, benefit from taking the gas from Texas soil and should pay a tax for these benefits. Most pipelines operate on a national scale. Producers, the people who actually take the gas from the ground, already pay a tax.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson, representing the state, said he would appeal Roberts' decision, probably to the Third Court of Civil Appeals. Since the case involves a constitutional question, it could be appealed directly to the State Supreme Court.

Either way, it will not finally be decided until it gets to the U. S. Supreme Court, probably not in time for the next Legislature to know whether the state can count on any revenue from that source. Estimated yield is about $7,500,000 a year.

Gov. Price Daniel said he was "keenly disappointed" in the district court decision, especially in that it saw no difference between the severance beneficiary tax and the old gas gathering tax which lost out in the courts.

Daniel said he was confident this tax eventually would be upheld.

SCHOOL PROBLEM ERUPTS

—A the instigation of Texas Commissioner of Education, J. W. Edgar, Brownsboro school officials, both board and superintendent, are resigning en masse.

Decision was reached after an involved and rather heated hearing in Austin to review school conflicts that had resulted in a killing at a Brownsboro school board meeting.

Homer Bass was appealing his dismissal by the Brownsboro school board when his contract as superintendent still had two years to go. Board members charged Bass with instructing teachers how to vote in school board elections, handling school funds carelessly and failing to meet state accreditation standards.

Several board members said they felt mass resignation was a good solution that would enable the community to start afresh on a peaceable basis.

SAID WHAT HE HEARD

One blistering hot day when they had guests for dinner, a mother asked her four-year-old son to say grace before the meal.

"But I don't know what to say," the boy exclaimed.

"Oh, just say what you've heard me say," the mother replied.

Obediently, the boy bowed his head and murmured:

"Oh, Lord, why did I invite those people here on a hot day like this?"

An editor observes: In the old days it was also fashionable to teach children good manners.

ALCORN CLAIMS HE KNOWS WHY H. T. WON'T GO TO CONVENTION

Editor's note: Achin Alcorn, philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sulphur, is getting set for the summer National Political Conventions, his letter this week indicates.

Dear Editor: A neighbor of mine who has been working sixteen hours a day so he can rest and take it easy possibly the last ten or twelve months of his life, had a flat on his car near my house yesterday morning and was working fast to get the spare on so he could rush on into town to get a part for his tractor so he could get back to work and I was standing there helping him, somewhat, at least I offered to help but he figured I'd be in the way, so he said "No thanks, you probably want to get back in your field and get on with your work. Here, take this newspaper I understand you like to read em. I never have time to read one myself."

I didn't say anything, but I took the paper and went back home, not to my field, I don't need outside advice on how to run this farm, and sat down on the porch and read where Harry Truman isn't going to the Democratic convention in Los Angeles.

This news, the article said, stunned a lot of people, as Mr. Truman always has attended Democratic National Conventions. All the experts seemed baffled.

Regardless of what reason Mr.

Truman gives for not going, I already know.

Him and me have discovered the best way to attend a political convention, prize fight, baseball game, summit conference, or any other sporting event is to lean back in an easy chair, prop your feet up, and watch it on television. Dodging traffic, fighting your way into a convention hall or baseball stadium, and trying to see around the man in front of you while somebody behind you is yelling in your ears . . . all that belongs to a bygone era and me and Mr. Truman are living in the 20th century. The only hitch in the set-up is that some day the delegates themselves may catch on, like baseball players already have, and refuse to go without a good salary, sick benefits, and retirement pay. Some people say some of the delegates in fact have already seen to these details, but I don't know anything about that.

Meanwhile, though, when the Democratic convention starts in Los Angeles, and the Republican convention starts in Chicago, I'll be on hand, sitting comfortably at home on my Johnson grass farm out here, waiting to see which party really gets smart and writes a government-financed picture-tube replacement plank into its platform. That's one phase of the farm problem everybody seems to have overlooked.

Yours faithfully, A. A.

New Law Against Livestock On Texas Highways

The Texas Department of Public Safety reminded Texas cattle owners today that a new law went into effect July 1 aimed at controlling livestock on designated U. S. and state highways.

The new law makes it illegal for a person knowingly to permit his domestic livestock to roam at large and unattended on state and federal highways. It applies regardless of whether or not the highway right-of-way is fenced. Maximum fine for such violation is $200, and each day the violation occurs may be considered a separate offense.

Farm to market roads are excepted from the law. The new law also gives law enforcement officers the authority to have such livestock picked up, when unable to locate the owner, and turned over to the sheriff or constable in the county.

The law does not prohibit the driving or herding of livestock across or along highways. It gives peace officers the authority to enforce provisions of the act without a warrant.

Col Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said state patrolmen will enforce provisions of the law in an effort to reduce the traffic hazard caused by animals on designated state and US highways. He said that during the year 1959 a total of 1506 rural traffic accidents occurred in Texas involving animals of all types. In these accidents 216 persons were injured and four persons were killed.

Anne Griffin W. T. Taylor Marry

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Thomas Taylor are living in Houston after their marriage June 30 in the chapel of West University Methodist Church of that city by the Rev. E. Leo Allen, pastor.

The bride is the former Miss Anne Elizabeth Griffin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul S Griffin of Dallas, formerly of Bogata, and granddaughter of Mrs. H. C McCluer of Bogata. She was graduated from Highland Park High School and the University of Texas, where she belonged to Pi Beta Phi Sorority. She also attended Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo. She is a member of the Girls' Cotillion in Houston and for the past two years has taught in the Houston Public Schools.

The groom, also a graduate of the University of Texas, is a member of Kappa Sigma Fraternity and the Houston Bachelors Club. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Taylor of Houston.

Information For Brides-to-Be

This newspaper has repeatedly told the girls who get married and want their pictures in the local paper that it requires time for a photographer to make a picture and for the engraver to transfer that picture to metal.

But they continue to procrastinate in this important matter. Pictures from which engravings are made should be in our hand by 10 o'clock Monday mornings for that week's edition. Seldom can they be handled later. And don't ask us to hold up a story about the wedding for a week to get the pictures. We don't want a wedding story after it is a week old.

Mail Change of Address Before You Move

This newspaper has spent considerable money in newspaper space to urge subscribers to send in a new change of address BEFORE they move and to give their zone number if it is a city with zone mailing.

If you move to a new address without notifying us in advance, you will miss at least three editions, and back numbers cannot be supplied.

The Postoffice Department is "riding herd" on publishers now and we must comply with their rulings.

All the subscriber has to do before he moves is give us the complete new address on a three cent post card. This should be done at least a week ahead of our mailing time. Otherwise, you will miss receiving your old home town newspaper for two or three weeks until you send in that new address. Don't forget the zone number if there is one.

STILL HAD HIS TEETH

The salesman stared doubtfully at the formidable looking animal lying on the doorstep. "What breed is your dog?" he asked the lady of the house.

"Don't rightly know," she answered. "My brother sent it from Africa."

"Well," said the salesman, hesitatingly, "It's the kuerest dog I've ever seen."

The lady nodded. "You should have seen it before we cut its mane off."
