PREPARATIONS MADE FOR COMMENCEMENT

Examinations are all over in the city schools, and pupils are rejoicing as the case may be. Teachers are busy finishing grading and averaging. Teachers meet pupils for the last time this year Tuesday May 30th, 10 o'clock, to receive final averages, report cards, promotion and retention statements, etc. Teachers meet with the superintendent for checking in final attendance, progress, promotion and other reports Wednesday morning, 10 o'clock May 31. Final meetings with pupils and teachers will take place at the main buildings only.

Preliminary contests in every field have already been held. The last elimination contest was that in oratory, held Thursday evening, May 25th. The orations in this contest consist entirely of original compositions. As the grading of these orations has not yet been completed, it will not be possible to publish names of winners until next week. Composition and delivery both count in the final grade. The two high school literary societies, Bear Cat and Curtains, will each be entitled to a winner.

The winners in this preliminary contest will combat for the medal offered by President O. E. Patterson and the School Board in a final bout Monday May 29. The contestants in oratory are Roba Anderson, Vesta Baker, Frankie Mae Brooks, Lillian Brumbe-low, John V. Davis, Virgie Johnson, Frank Kimbrough, Thelma Newsom, John L. McCollum, Alma Sprowls, Choice Woods, Pearl Woods, Lela Welch, and Evelyn Whitman.

In addition to the final in oratory, final contests in debate, declamation, etc., will be staged between the two literary societies Monday evening. Debaters are John Pace, Jr., Alfonso Novak, Herman Welbert, and Willie Bailliff, the first two representing the Bear Cats and the latter two the Curtains. The contestants in declamation are Ernest Sanders and Thelma Pearl Chitwood. Ernest representing the Curtains and Thelma Pearl the Bear Cats. The winning team in debate will be awarded the Knights of Pythias Cup. The team will win not for individual debaters but for the society represented. The cup will not become the permanent property of either society until won three times in succession. The same rules apply to the cup in declamation offered by Judge Murphison. Medals become the individual property of those winning them. The local history contest will be settled some time next week and the winning essay published. Editor Roberts is offering the medal in this case. County Clerk Emory Menefee offered a medal in essay writing, but at the request of the superintendent he is transferring this over to next season so as to distribute these incentives more evenly.

Sunday at eleven at the new Christian Church, Rev. Culwell delivers the Baccalaureate. Tuesday evening May 30, at the new high school building Supt. B. B. Cobb of Waco delivers the Commencement address. This, with the grammar grade exercises Friday evening at the high school building constitute the main events of the season.

F. A. West, a progressive farmer of Foster was in the city Friday and said he was through planting cotton with a fair chance for a stand. The ground was in fine condition as he kept his ground well cultivated up to the present. Mr. West is one of Haskell county's best farmers.

The rural schools of Hutto and Mitchell, located in the northwestern part of the county will close their school terms this year with a joint picnic on Friday, June 2nd.

Everybody is invited to attend this picnic and a special invitation is extended to the candidates and county officials who will be offered an opportunity to address the people of the two communities. An interesting program has been arranged and athletic contests will be given a place on the program.

The picnic will be held in Mr. John S. Lea's pasture 5 miles west of O'Brien and 6 miles north of Rochester.

State Highway Engineer Fauntleroy of Austin passed through the city Thursday. He stopped in Haskell for a consultation with County Judge Kinhard over the condition and maintenance of the county roads, and to discuss methods of securing Federal Aid in road building. Engineer Fauntleroy stated that with the present 15 cent road tax levied by the county, well built and maintained roads could not be expected.

J. W. and W. W. Hawthorth of Cleburne who are visiting G. L. Bird of the west part of the city were in town Saturday and said that Johnson county had suffered from heavy rains this year and that crops will be very late in that section.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Wheeler of Dal-jew were shopping in the city Friday. Mr. Wheeler is one of Haskell county's best farmers.

S. J. W. COLLINS DIES AT AUSTIN

S. J. W. Collins of Austin, former-Haskell County, died at her home at city Thursday night about 12 o'clock with heart failure, according to message received here early Friday morning.

Collins was at Welbert looking after business interests, and was notified by friends here. He got on the early morning train for Austin.

we go to press funeral arrangements have not been made, but Mr. Collins was stated here that the funeral would probably be brought here for interment.

RESTRICTING BILL IS UPHOLD BY COURT

The Texas Supreme Court at Austin today held the representative restricting bill passed at the last session of the legislature to be constitutional. The omission of Swisher concerning the bill was the cause of attack.

The court in an opinion said that it undoubtedly the intention of the legislature to place Swisher county in 12th representative district and the reapportionment of the population as made by the legislature is valid.

The validity of the act was attacked mandamus suit by Representative T. Smith of Travis county. He sought to force J. M. Patterson, democratic county chairman, to file his application for re-election under the old law, and to do so brought the suit and test of the law.

and Mrs. J. P. Wheatley and daughter Mrs. Lola Massey accompanied by Mrs. M. Anderson and daughter of Mrs. Roberts were shopping in the city Saturday.

SINGING CONVENTION MET AT ROBERTS

The Haskell County Singing Convention met with the Roberts class last Sunday afternoon. The house was called to order promptly at 2 o'clock by W. M. Free, secretary of the convention, and after singing the opening song, J. C. Lewellen, K. S. Read and A. F. Force were appointed by the chair on arrangement committee and the following song leaders were called to the floor: V. A. Brown of Haskell, A. F. Force of Roberts, Harry King of Roberts, R. S. Edwards of Pleasant View, E. King of Pleasant Valley, E. M. Madden of Roberts, Truitt Cobb of Roberts, Lon Anderson of Roberts, Hayden McDonald of Cottonwood and Chas. Fouts of Haskell.

Special songs, quartets, duets, etc., were arranged by W. M. Free, K. S. Read, R. S. Edwards, Charlie Sargent, Miss Ivey Lewellen, E. M. Madden and Chas. Fouts. A good congregation was in attendance and the singing was enjoyed by all. Roberts has a singing school taught by T. C. Cooner a few weeks back and you could see the results of the training in the excellent singing of the Roberts class.

The next number of the convention will be held at Midway the 4th Sunday in July. It has been the custom of the singing convention to attend the Annual Singing at Mitchell the 4th Sunday in May and the annual at Jud the 4th Sunday in June. This is why the date for Midway will be the 4th Sunday in July. It will be in the afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock unless otherwise ordered by the Midway community.

Midway is the consolidated school building of old Pinkerton and Whitman and is about 5 miles west of Haskell between Haskell and Rule. Every singer and lover of music is invited to come and please remember the date.

W. M. Free, Secretary.

BRAZELTON LUMBER COMPANY MAKING IMPROVEMENTS

The Brazelton Lumber Company is to be congratulated on the improved appearance of their local yard during the past week. Manager Squyres is having the office building and sheds repainted in a dark brown trimmed in white. The interior work is being finished in ivory, making a very attractive appearance.

Mr. Tom Donohoo Undergoes Operation

Mrs. Tom Donohoo of this city underwent an operation at the Stamford Sanitarium last week and last reports were that her condition was very favorable, with hopes of a rapid recovery, over which her many friends are greatly rejoiced.

J. H. Wolf and family of Rochester were shopping in the city Saturday, and while here Mr. Wolf dropped in to see us and set his date for the official organ of Haskell county forward county year. Mr. Wolf is one of Haskell county's best farmers and had at the time he was here 75 acres of cotton up to a stand, but thought that he would plant a small portion of his crop the second time because of a heavy rain falling on the first planted ground.

J. J. Oats a prosperous farmer of the Foster community was in the city Saturday and reports the crops in his section in very good condition and the farmers about through planting. He also reports the roads in very bad condition caused by the recent heavy rains.

WHITEKER RETURNS FROM PLAINVIEW C. OF C. MEETING

B. M. Whiteker, who represented Haskell at the Plainview meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce meeting the first of the week returned home Wednesday. Mr. Whiteker reports a great meeting, breaking all attendance records.

The 1923 meeting of the convention will be held in San Angelo.

Will Harrell, one of Foster's foremost farmers, was a business visitor to Haskell Friday. Mr. Harrell is a man that takes the world easy. He always does his part in the farming game and is willing to trust the weather for the other part. During the month of 1918 when the heart of less courageous men were fainting, Mr. Harrell built a big barn and was ready for the prosperous years that have followed. All business men and farmers should imbibe the spirit of Mr. Harrell and doubtless we would be more successful and happy.

Mrs. H. G. Vise and children spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Rutherford of Ansonia.

Mrs. T. A. Russell returned to her home in Ranger Saturday evening after a two weeks visit with relatives and friends in this city and Rule.

G. F. Owen of Meyers school district was in the city Saturday and reports crop conditions very good in his section and the farmers about through planting.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING OPENED

Friday evening, May 19, the School Board received the public at the new high school building. Every light was turned on and every door on the first and second floors thrown open. The basement is still in the hands of the workmen and was not included in the "house warming."

Board President O. E. Patterson presided. Mr. Patterson began by explaining the nature of the occasion and by thanking the public for its cooperation in the matter of making possible the new building. He then introduced the main speaker of the evening, Judge Murphison, as a man who had done much for the Haskell schools and the man most capable of fittingly expressing the sentiments appropriate to the occasion. At the conclusion of Judge Murphison's address superintendent-elect M. H. Brasher addressed his future patrons, teachers and pupils. Supt. Brasher made a distinct "hit" with his audience. He stressed the necessity of going forward co-operatively to better, bigger things.

The public appeared distinctly pleased with the new building. The general opinion as expressed was that the School Board had tried building a hundred thousand dollar building with forty thousand dollars—and had come marvellously near succeeding! Many compliments were paid the School Board for its splendid achievement.

FOSTER SCHOOL CLOSED FRIDAY

The Foster School closed Friday night with a very interesting program of songs, readings and a feature play "Civil Service," a genuine burlesque on Uncle Sam. Eleven characters were in the play, and the large congregation gave their approval to the pupils in the play with loud and frequent applause.

This school enjoyed a seven months term. Miss Julia Williams of Welbert was the first principal but resigned and the vacancy caused by her resignation was filled by Prof. A. W. Hinds of Thorndale. The school has been successfully taught and the pupils have made excellent progress. Misses Lorena Tennyson of Haskell and Leta Donna of Rochester had charge of the grade departments and their work is reported very satisfactory.

All of these teachers will doubtless take school work in the schools of Haskell county another year.

Prof. Hinds passed through Haskell Saturday en route to his home to spend the vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Park and Grandma Thompson of Myers were here Saturday. Mr. Park is ex-sheriff of Haskell county and is well known over the county.

Mrs. D. E. McDonald left Saturday for Knoxville, Tennessee, where she will visit relatives for the summer.

Mrs. O. H. Hutchins of Star Route 42 was shopping in the city Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Josselot of Josselot Switch were shopping in the city Saturday.

NEW MID SCHOOL CLOSING WITH INTERESTING PROGRAM

New Mid closed its school term last Friday with a school picnic, a good dinner and an afternoon program, which was enjoyed by patrons, pupils, and many visitors.

Prof. E. E. Alexander, was principal of the school assisted by Miss Maggie Holt, and the school has been a satisfaction to the patrons and a success to the pupils.

The morning hours were spent in review work and in the afternoon songs, readings and speeches were enjoyed. Mrs. Ed Robertson was present and made one of her usual good talks along school lines.

Also by good fortune two traveling singers, Prof. Deaton and Teats of Sulphur Springs dropped in and gave the audience some excellent numbers in concert singing which was in the language of Prof. Alexander, a real treat to all.

MRS. F. M. MORTON INJURED IN WRECK

Mrs. F. M. Morton was severely injured when the automobile in which she was riding was struck by a local freight train at a crossing a few miles north of Welbert Thursday morning at 11:30. The car was being driven by Mr. Morton, who was uninjured. The auto is reported to be a complete wreck.

Mrs. Morton suffered among other injuries three or four broken ribs and a number of severe bruises about the body.

R. V. ROBERTSON COMPANY BIG SALE NOW IN PROGRESS

R. V. Robertson Company's big sale which was begun last week is still in progress and is proving a big success, both from the standpoint of the merchant and many customers who have taken advantage of the many bargains offered.

In the free guessing contest which was held last Saturday Cecil Mays and Miss Irene Roberts made the same guess, which was the closest to the correct amount, $16.69, and the money was divided between the two.

J. C. McKinney of the Gilliam community, which is one of the best farming sections of Haskell County, was in the city Saturday and says that everything in his section is fine. He says the farmers are about through planting their crops and that wheat was real good but the acreage is small this year.

W. I. Gardenhire of the Lone Star community, which is one of the best farming sections of Haskell County, was in the city Saturday and says that everything in his section is fine. He says the farmers are about through planting their crops and that wheat was real good but the acreage is small this year.

Wendert-Marr

Preston F. Wendert and Miss Margaret Marr were married at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. W. A. Marr Wednesday, May 24th, at 9 a. m. These young people are prominent in social and business life and have many friends who wish for them a long and happy life together. The groom is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Wendert, and the bride is the only child of Mrs. W. A. Marr of Wendert. They left on the 6:30 train for Seymour and other points. They will make their home at Wendert.

The Kidnaped Peasant Girl

By R. RAY BAKER

© 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate

It was all very well, this being kidnaped, until the masked man at the wheel of the auto tried to kiss her. Then the girl let out a scream that the valley walls hurried back and forth through the pine woods.

The kidnaper had drawn up beside the road, and without a word had placed his arm around the girl, implanting a smacking kiss full on her red lips. Until now it had seemed like a grand lark, but after that—well, she really was frightened now.

The man was in garments evidently intended to proclaim him as a knight, but it was rather inconsistent attire. He wore army leggings over blue trousers, and a striped blouse of red and yellow. A sword with a dented scabbard hung from his waist, and a pink domino with a red hood surmounting all. The face was clean-shaven and the part that showed was not at all repulsive.

The girl appeared to be a peasant of central Europe. Her face—well, the red lips and dimples were all that could be seen, because she was masked, too, with a thin strip of white.

When the girl screamed the man released her and appeared taken aback.

"Why, what's the matter?" he asked, astonishment in the voice, which decidedly was not gruff.

"Matter?" she exclaimed indignantly. "Don't you think you are carrying this escapade a little too far?"

"Too far?" he echoed. "You don't mean to say that a man hasn't the right to kiss the girl he is eloping with, do you?"

She laughed scornfully.

"Eloping? Seems you're taking a lot for granted. Perhaps you're insane. Yes, I think that's it. No man in his right mind would talk and act like you."

Garvin Haskell really was puzzled by the girl's behavior. What was the matter with Maxine? Hadn't she agreed to elope from the costume ball with him? Had she changed her mind after all the carefully arranged plans? Well, he knew she was feisty, but it did not seem reasonable that she would back out now.

There was no good reason for an elopement, anyhow. Maxine's parents were dead, and Garvin's folks never had displayed an inclination to meddle in his affairs of the heart. He had enough money in his own right to care for a wife, and in fact his father and mother were rather anxious for him to settle down.

But Maxine had insisted on eloping, in order to have a taste of romance. She wanted to surprise her aunt, with whom she was staying while visiting in Sarendac, for one thing, and she wanted some excitement when she took the marriage vows.

Garvin had been trying ever since he became acquainted with her two months ago to induce her to leave him. She had put him off, laughing until the time came for the masked ball.

"Yes, I'll marry you, Garve," she said, "but it's got to be an elopement. You dress as a knight and I'll be a peasant girl. After the fifth dance I'll meet you under the big oak tree on the lawn and we'll elope. The arrangements for a minister, of course, are up to you."

"And I'll call when?" inquired the elated Garvin.

"You won't call at all," she said. "I'll go to the dance with some of the girls, and you go alone. That'll make it more romantic."

Garvin made the necessary arrangements, which included marriage by a minister in the neighboring town of Charlotte. He dressed as a knight to the best of his ability and went to the dance alone. And there was his beloved, dressed in the peasant costume, exactly fitting the description Maxine had given him. Yes, she had met him under the oak at the appointed time, and he had carried her off in the auto. And when he pulled up beside the road to claim a kiss as his just due she screamed.

They sat in silence for a few moments after the conversation that followed the scream, and it began to dawn on Garvin that there must be a mistake somewhere.

"Would you mind removing your mask?" he asked the girl.

"Not if you will do the same," she answered.

For reply he removed the domino and at once the girl lifted the cambric. Yes, it was Maxine. In the pale moonlight her countenance showed up as lovely as ever, except that it seemed a trifle older, but no doubt, that was due to the shock of being almost kissed. That was not quite consistent either, for Garvin never had supposed Maxine to be that unsophisticated. He scrutinized her closely, and she returned the stare. Yes, it was Maxine's eyes, and the nose and hair were hers. But why the change in her attitude?

"Maxine," he began, clearing his throat, "I don't—"

"Maxine!" she exclaimed. "I'm not Maxine. What made you think I was?"

The moon's rays became brighter now, due to the shifting of some clouds, and the girl's face showed paler. Yes, there was a difference.

She was older, that was certain, although not much older.

"Well, how—what?" he stammered.

"That's what I say," she exclaimed.

"How—what?"

"It's got me beat," he declared. "Do you happen to know Maxine Brooks?"

"I certainly do. She's my younger sister. But she left town yesterday shortly after I arrived to visit Aunt Sarah."

Garvin's heart sank. So this was the outcome of the carefully laid elopement plans. He stepped on the starter and turned the car out in the road, heading it for Sarendac. For some time as they rode along no words passed between them.

So Maxine had gone back on him! Well, he didn't understand it, but he wasn't going to play the fool by asking questions.

But the car took a hand in the game. A rear tire went flat and Garvin had to mend a puncture because the extra was at a vulcanizing station undergoing repairs. It was fully an hour before the car was ready, and then, after going the distance of a block, it stopped and could not be induced to move. With a flashlight Garvin explored in the hood, but was unable to remedy matters. The girl tried to help and got dabbed with grease, but she didn't seem to mind.

"I'm just a peasant, anyway," she said, smiling.

No, she was not Maxine. She was too willing to help and too patient. Maxine would have fretted and fumed and made no effort to help matters. Garvin was beginning to like the girl.

"Well, I can't fix it," he finally admitted as he walked away from the hood and tripped for the fourth time on the dangling scabbard. While she laughed merrily he detached the sword and threw it on the car floor. "We're miles from any habitation, and this is an unfrequented road. It's more reasonable than the main thoroughfares, isn't it?"

"Then there's nothing to do but spend the night here," said the girl. "It isn't very proper, but circumstances don't recognize proprieties."

She curled up on the seat, while Garvin tried to make himself comfortable on the running board. Yes, Maxine's sister was extremely likeable. Why hadn't he met her first?

They stayed awake by conversing on various subjects, which became more and more personal as the hours passed.

"Please tell me how it happened—my kidnaping you instead of your sister," Garvin finally urged.

"Before I left home," said the girl, "I had a talk with Maxine's former fiance, with whom she quarreled some time ago. He gave me a message and when Maxine received it she went back to marry him. She asked me to substitute for her at the ball and said she would arrange for me to meet a very nice man under the oak tree. I didn't know about the elopement plan, of course, and I thought it would be just a lark. And it seems I thought right."

They became better acquainted while the frogs warbled in the nearby marsh and Luna sank beneath the western horizon. When dawn crept up from the east the girl yawned and had an idea.

"Did you look at the battery wire?"

Garvin had not, but he did, and found it loose. Remedying the trouble, he stepped on the starter, then paused to remark:

"Love at first sight is—wonderful, isn't it? Shall we do it now?"

Her answer was audible, but when the machine rolled along the road it carried two elopers toward Charlotte.

MEN NO LONGER PAINT FACE

Newspaper Makes Cruel Assertion That Custom Is Now Exclusively Confined to Women.

Relics of Indian art are shown in profuse quantities at the Field museum in the form of stone or clay saucers like the "nests" in which painters mix their water colors.

One of the many uses to which these bits of stone or clay were put was to hold the pigments with which the original residents of Chicago bedaubed their faces.

Although there frequently ran through all the color designs applied to men's faces and breasts certain lines characteristic of a tribe, there was a wide latitude for individual choice.

If Chicagoans of the pale and pasty-faced variety now wear evening clothes or frock or cutaway coats on formal occasions, the original male leaders of local society wore vivid dashes of paint on their faces to distinguish important scheduled moments of either peace or war.

In the whirligig of time this aboriginal masculine custom has been appropriated by the women of today as their exclusive practice—and the men are well satisfied with the radical change in fashion.—Chicago Journal.

Big Irrigation Project

The Greater Wenatchee Irrigation association is planning to spend close to $5,000,000 in irrigating a tract of 46,000 acres in the neighborhood of Lake Wenatchee, Wash. It is expected that work on the canals and ditches will be started next year. The land that is to be irrigated is now worth from $10 to $50 per acre, while adjoining property that is irrigated and under cultivation is worth $2,000. The cost of irrigation is estimated at $100 per acre. Much of the land will be planted in apple orchards but large sections will be used for general agriculture.

SHERRIFF'S NOTICE OF ELECTION

(For the Issuance of School Bonds)

THE STATE OF TEXAS

County of Haskell:

Notice is hereby given that an election will be held on the 3rd day of June 1922, at Lone Star Schoolhouse in Common School District No. 18, of this County as established by order of the Commissioners Court of Haskell County, Texas, of date 10th day of May, 1907, which is of record in book designated Record of School Districts, on page 12, Vol. 1 and east boundary line changed August 11th, 1907, Vol. Two, Page 503. Commissioners minutes of said county to determine whether a majority of the legally qualified property tax paying voters of said District desire the issuance of bonds on the faith and credit of said common school district in the amount of $7,600.00, the bonds to be in the denomination of $100 each, numbered consecutively from one to seventy-six, both inclusive payable serially as follows: One each year for the first 10 years, and two each year for the next 18 years, and three each year for the last ten years, with option of the redemption of any or all of them remaining unpaid after 30 years from their date, and bearing 6 per cent interest per annum payable annually on the 10th day of April of each year, to provide funds to be expended in payment of accounts legally contracted in constructing and equipping a public school building of brick material within said District and to determine whether the Commissioner's Court of this county shall be authorized to levy, assess and collect annually, while said bonds or any of them are outstanding, a tax upon all taxable property within said district sufficient to pay the current interest on said bonds and provide a sinking fund sufficient to pay the principal at maturity.

All persons who are legally qualified voters of this State and County and who are resident property taxpayers in said district shall be entitled to vote at said election, and all voters desiring to support the proposition to issue the bonds shall have written or printed on their ballots the words: "For the issuance of the bonds and the levying of the tax in payment thereof."

And those opposed shall have printed or written on their ballots the words: "Against the issuance of the Bonds and the levying of the Tax in payment thereof."

T. J. Reid has been appointed presiding officer for said election and he shall select two judges and two clerks to assist him in holding the same and he shall within five days after said election has been held, make due return thereof to the Commissioner's Court of this County as is required by law for holding a general election.

Said election was ordered by the County Judge on 4th day of May, 1922, by order made on said day.

Dated 4th day of May, 1922.

Procurement for Road Tax Election in Commissioners Precinct No. 4.

By Jas. P. Kinnard, County Judge

Notice is hereby given that, acting upon the petition of J. H. Laughlin and more than fifty other qualified property tax-paying voters of Commissioners Precinct No. 4 of Haskell County, the Commissioners Court at a regular session thereof held on the 9th day of May, 1922, ordered an election to be held on in all the voting precincts throughout said Commissioners Precinct No. 4 of said County, to determine whether a road tax of Fifteen (15) Cents on the $100. valuation of property in said Precinct No. 4 shall be annually levied upon all the property within said Commissioners Precinct No. 4, subject to taxation, for the maintenance of the public roads of said Precinct.

Those who favor said road tax shall vote the ticket "For the Tax," and those who oppose said road tax shall vote the ticket "Against the Tax"; and those only who are qualified voters of said Commissioners Precinct No. 4, and who are also property tax-paying voters of said precinct on either real or personal property, or both, shall be permitted to vote at said election.

The regular officers of election, heretofore appointed by the Commissioners Court shall hold said election at their respective voting places in each voting precinct, and make due and immediate return thereof to the Commissioners Court, as required by law in general elections.

Jas. P. Kinnard, County Judge Haskell County.

HOW TO RAISE COTTON IN BOLL WEEVIL AREAS

- A Georgia editor has figured out the following way to beat the boll weevil, which usually bites off the profit on cotton.
- 1—Prepare your land in October by blowing it up with dynamite.
 - 2—Lay off in rows twelve feet apart and plant your cotton seed in December.
 - 3—When your cotton comes up, thin it to one stalk in a hill twenty-three feet apart.
 - 4—Spray each stalk twice a day with Hoyt's German Cologne.
 - 5—Cover your cotton with mosquito netting when it is two weeks old—this netting to be stretched over poultry wire.
 - 6—Spread "Tanglefoot" between all cotton rows and replace it every day.
 - 7—Burn off all the nearby woods, and cut down dead trees and burn them.
 - 8—Dust the following mixture on your cotton twice a day. Epsom salts, Calomel, Cream of Wheat, and the white of an egg.
 - 9—Have two hired hands for every acre in cultivation. Furnish them with barber's tweezers to be used in pinching the heads off any boll weevil which shows up.
 - 10—Mortgage your farm and buy nitrate of soda and spread plentifully around the roots of the cotton.
 - 11—If any of the bolls should get punctured, have the puncture vulcanized at once. Any good automobile tire man can do this for you.
 - 12—Begin picking your cotton in February and try to have it all ginned and sold by March 15. This will enable you to work and grow corn, peas, potatoes and hogs for home consumption. This kind of consumption does not need the services of a doctor.
 - 13—Pay your preacher. Trade for cash. Settle all your old debts, and live happily ever afterwards.—The Carroll County (Ga.) Times.

Mrs. Virgil Meadors Presents Class in Recital

Mrs. Virgil Meadors presented her class in violin last Friday evening at the new high school auditorium. The auditorium was beautifully decorated for the occasion and as the youthful pupils rendered their selections, those present realized that much time and effort had been spent by both instructor and pupil.

The program was greatly enjoyed by those present and Mrs. Meadors is to be congratulated for the success she is attaining in this line.

PRETTY SHRUB ALMOST GONE

Mountain Laurel, Once Plentiful Everywhere, Has Been Destroyed Through Public Carelessness.

Many years ago, when the American Indians were the only inhabitants of the United States, the mountainsides in springtime were almost white with the blossoms of claymoun, the Indian name for mountain laurel.

Nowadays the laurel is not so plentiful. People have broken down too many plants and pulled up too many others by the roots. Still you may find some of these low, scraggly bushes if you are familiar with the countryside. For in nearly every hilly part of the states, from Maine to Ohio, from Florida to Canada, a few at least of these attractive shrubs are growing.

The roots of these particular plants reach out for surprisingly long distances, seeming to enjoy prowling about in the loose soil of the mountainsides. Yet, with all the roving tendencies of the roots, the patches of plants do not spread, but remain about the same size from year to year. Calico-bush is an old-fashioned name for mountain laurel a name that some country people think is the only name. Spoonwood is another queer name by which you may hear this same plant called.

WAS DEITY OF ANCIENT EGYPT

Amen One of the Chief Gods—in Hebrew Word Signifies Strength or Trustworthiness.

A wealth of significance is stored up in the word "Amen."

Amen was one of the oldest deities of the Ancient Egyptians, and one of their chief gods. His emblem was a man wearing a red crown, surmounted by the disk of the sun, in token of his dominion over both the earth and the heavens.

His name meant "hidden" or "concealed," while one of his titles was "Amen-ka-mut-f," the husband of his mother, thus signifying that the deity in question was at the time the oldest and the youngest of created beings.

In the Hebrew language "Amen" signifies strength or trustworthiness—the "God of Truth," referred to in Isaiah being literally the "God of Amen." In using the word at the end of our creeds and prayers, therefore, we not only exclaim "So be it!"—which is the generally accepted meaning of the term—but affirm the truth of what has been recited.

Sunbeams Destroy Bacteria.

Experiments in various quarters have shown that sunbeams are able to destroy bacteria in water at a depth of at least twenty inches beneath the surface. One might almost liken the rays of light in such a case to javelins and arrows piercing an enemy, for it has been found that the destructive action is greatly diminished if only the perpendicular sunbeams fall upon the water.

The slaughter of the bacteria is by far the greatest when both perpendicular and oblique rays enter the water uninterrupted. Like a ship in action, the sun is most powerful when it can rake the enemy with a cross-fire. And it has to shoot its tiny arrows of light a long way—almost 93,000,000 miles. But, fortunately for us, they get here and they are effective.

Mice as Travelers.

When Robert Burns called a mouse a "wee, sleekit, cowrin', tim'rous beastie," he was probably not aware that a mouse isn't the frail, helpless little creature it looks to be. According to the discovery of the late David Hutton, of Dumfermline, Scotland, the average mouse travels about ten miles a day. Some mice make real speed records, and cover even more ground than this in 24 hours. Mr. Hutton found that there was one mouse in particular, in his collection, that smashed all the long-distance records in mouse-dom by running 365 miles in 35 days. And all this marathon mouse required to keep him going was a half-penny worth of oatmeal during the entire period.

Independence.

"Should a physician give his wealthy patients harmless powders when they insist on being treated, although he knows they are quite well, or should he tell them frankly there is nothing the matter with them?" asked the young doctor.

"That depends on the financial status of the physician," said the elderly doctor. "If he has an income sufficient for his needs and is not dependent on his practice for a living he should not only tell such patients there is nothing the matter with them, but if he feels in a tactitious mood he can even afford to pooh-pooh their most cherished symptoms."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Pets Provided For by Will.

Cat legacies are not peculiar to France. England has had them, and in our own country only a few years ago died the second of two cats, Blackie and Fiebie, that belonged to Benjamin F. Dilley of Wilkes-Barre, Pa. Mr. Dilley, at his death, left the income of $40,000 to provide for them as long as they should live, appointed a woman to care for them, and bequeathed her a pension till her death, after which the estate was to be divided, most of it going to charity. Fiebie died first, Blackie followed her two years later at the age of sixteen, which is four years beyond the average life of a cat.

"LOVE IN THE HOME"

Love environment is not only the greatest thing to be desired in the home, but everywhere else, as well; for "God is love," and without God in the home, in the church, and in our associations, they will all prove a failure.

We read in Romans 13th chapter, 10th verse, that "Love worketh no ill to his neighbor; therefore love is the fulfilling of the law." So we learn that to fill the laws of our Lord, we must love one another. If we neglect so great a thing as love in the home, we also are neglecting the love for our neighbors and our Lord.

We are commanded to "love our neighbors as ourself," and unless we first have love in our homes, it would be impossible for us to love our neighbors very much.

It is written in the Holy Book of Laws: "Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer," and "He that loveth not his brother abideth in death." Also "Hereby perceive we the love of God, because He laid down his life for us; and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren." Now, I think the chapter this was taken from has greater reference to the brethren in Christ Jesus, but would be even greater emphasized to apply it to the home, for "Charity begins at home." Likewise our Christian duties and obligations as well as the material things.

You show me a truly happy home and I will show you a home where love is. And what is love? God is love. Many of us, I am sure, have seen homes of great wealth. The luxurious home with all its grand furnishings and everything that would make its inmates happy it would seem, yet this was lacking, and why? Because there was not love there. They were just lazily going through the routine of life without love. And so sad a mistake!

And, again we have seen the poverty

INTERESTING NEWS FROM THE CITY OF ROCHESTER

(From Rochester News)
The Baccalaureate Sermon for the Senior Class of the Rochester High School was delivered at the Methodist Church Sunday morning by Rev. L. S. Powell, pastor of the Methodist church of Haskell.

Class Beth, the small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Carney, fell out of one of the second story windows in the rear of Carney Bros. store Monday afternoon. It was feared for a time that the child was seriously injured, but medical attention was secured immediately and we are informed that nothing serious is expected to result.

We have been requested to state that the Old Sacred Harp Association of Haskell County will have a singing at the Methodist Church in Rochester on Sunday June 4th. All singers and others are invited to attend.

Expert Statistician Gives Interesting Analysis of World International Trade - Fall in Manufactures Greater Than in Natural Products.

New York.—The discussions at the European economic conference in session at Geneva have aroused an interest in the subject of international trade as it compares with pre-war and immediately after the war periods.

Mr. O. P. Austin, statistician of the national City bank of New York, prepared the following interesting statement of world trade conditions and the value of imports and exports of 25 of the principal nations of the world which accompanies this article. Mr. Austin says:

World international trade in 1921 is only about two-thirds as much in total value as in the immediately preceding year. Official reports of the 1921 imports and exports of 25 principal countries of the world aggregate, when transformed to U. S. dollars at the par value of their respective currencies, approximately $72,000,000,000 against $70,000,000,000 in 1920, a reduction of approximately 34 per cent in stated value.

The principal countries for which 1921 figures are now available include all of Europe except Russia, Poland, Germany, Portugal, Greece and the states formed from the Austro-Hungarian empire; the United States, Canada, Cuba, Argentina, Brazil and Uruguay in America; India, Japan, Australia, New Zealand and the Philippines in the Trans-Pacific area; Egypt and the South African Union in Africa. They are representative countries, typifying the great industries of the world; the European countries, the United States and Japan, the world's great manufacturers; Canada, Cuba, Argentina, Brazil, Uruguay, Egypt, South Africa, Australia and New Zealand great producers of food and manufacturing material, while the United States also belongs in part to this second group. Their combined imports and exports formed two-thirds of the international trade of the world in the year before the war, aggregating in 1913 $28,000,000,000 out of a world total of $40,000,000,000. Assuming that these 25 countries still represent approximately two-thirds of the world's trade, the total world commerce of 1921 would stand at about $70,000,000,000 in stated value, against approximately $118,000,000,000 in 1920, and $40,000,000,000 in 1913.

Crows Kill Rabbits. West Chester, Pa.—Six or seven crows attacked and killed two rabbits on the farm of Charles Sheeler, near here, when they sighted them on a patch of deep snow. R. H. Cardwell, a bird student of West Chester, recently noted a northern shrike, or butcher bird, near the outskirts of the borough. A small flock of snow buntings also were observed near Strode's Mill, about two miles from West Chester. Both the butcher bird and the snow buntings come from the distant North.

No Worms in a Healthy Child

All children troubled with Worms have an unhealthy color, which indicates poor blood, and as a rule, there is more or less stomach disturbance. GROVE'S TASTELESS chill TONIC given regularly for two or three weeks will enrich the blood, improve the digestion, and act as a General Strengthening Tonic to the whole system. Nature will then throw off or dispel the worms, and the Child will be in perfect health. Pleasant to take. 60c per bottle.

A TONIC

Grove's Tasteless chill Tonic restores Energy and Vitality by Purifying and Enriching the Blood. When you feel its strengthening, invigorating effect, see how it brings color to the cheeks and how it improves the appetite, you will then appreciate its true tonic value.

Grove's Tasteless chill Tonic is simply Iron and Quinine suspended in syrup. So pleasant even children like it. The blood needs QUININE to Purify it and IRON to Enrich it. Destroys Malarial germs and Grip germs by its Strengthening, Invigorating Effect. 60c.

THINGS BEGINNERS MUST LEARN FIRST

Explanation of Terms Used in Radio and of Its Basic Principles.

Due to the great interest taken in radio since broadcasting stations have been started, many radio terms are used, and some of them are unfamiliar to the novice. Some of the most commonly used terms are explained and defined below.

Like light, heat and sound, radio energy is propagated in the form of a wave motion. Every one is familiar with the wave motion set up on the surface of a still body of water by the dropping of a stone into it.

Every time a point on the surface of the waves goes through a complete set of motions and starts to repeat those motions the wave is said to have gone through a cycle.

The number of complete cycles gone through per second is the frequency.

The human ear is responsive to sound frequencies up to a few thousand cycles per second but is not capable of responding to the higher frequencies encountered in radio. Arbitrarily a frequency of less than 10,000 cycles has been called an audible frequency—one which can be heard—and frequencies above 10,000 cycles, radio or inaudible frequencies—because they cannot be heard by the human ear.

The particular type of wave which propagates radio energy is an electro-magnetic wave. All of us have seen bits of iron and steel attracted by the little toy magnets made up in the form of horseshoes. This attraction of the magnet for the bits of iron and steel showed the existence of a magnetic

The high-frequency current is known as the carrier-wave and its function is to radiate into space in the form of electro-magnetic waves and by its variation in amplitude carry with it the variation in the tone at the transmitting station.

It is the frequency of the carrier-wave that determines the wave-length on which a radiophone station is transmitted. By experiment it has been found that electro-magnetic waves travel at the same velocity that light waves travel, that is, 186,000 miles per second. Wave-length is the distance between any two similar points on two successive waves; for example, the distance from crest to crest of any two successive waves in the same direction, measured in meters, a unit of length equal approximately to one and one-tenth yards. Converting 186,000 miles to meters, the equivalent is 300,000,000 meters. The length of an electro-magnetic wave is equal then to 300,000,000 divided by the frequency. Suppose a station was transmitting on a wave-length of 300 meters. The frequency of the carrier-wave would be approximately 835,000 cycles.

Just as a violinist tunes his instrument, that is, makes a certain string emit a note of higher or lower pitch, or, technically speaking, a sound wave of higher or lower frequency, by adjusting the tension on the string, so may the electrical constants of the antenna circuit of a radiophone transmitter be changed in order to have the station emit a carrier-wave of a different frequency.

If a tuning fork having a natural period corresponding to middle C be placed near a violinist who is playing, the fork will vibrate when the musician plays middle C, but all other times it will remain quiescent. This phenomenon of the tuning fork vibrating whenever the musician plays the corresponding note on the violin is known as mechanical resonance. If a radio receiver be adjusted so that electrically its natural period of vibration will be 835,000 cycles (300 meters wave-length) every time a station transmits on a wave-length of 300 meters, current will be set up in the receiver by field about the tips of the magnet and this same kind of a field propagates the electro-magnetic force, except that unlike the toy magnet, its power comes off in the form of wavy motions. This electro-magnetic force propagates radio energy in all directions.

The medium that transmits the electro-magnetic waves is the same medium that transmits light—the ether. This medium is supposed to fill all space, even that occupied by fluids and solids. Little is known about its properties.

In radio it is more common to speak of wave length than frequency. The wave length of any wave motion is the distance between any two successive crests in the same direction. The wave length depends upon the frequency. If the frequency is high the wave length is short. On the other hand if the frequency is low the wave length is long. Numerically the wave length is equal to the distance traveled by the wave in one second divided by the frequency. Suppose, for example, that it were desired to know the wave length of an electro-magnetic wave having a frequency of 835,000 cycles. Electro-magnetic waves travel at the same speed as do light waves, that is, 186,000 miles per second. Dividing the 186,000 by 835,000 the wave length would be .225 miles or 395 yards. In radio work it is measured in meters. A meter is equal to approximately 1.1 yards. Converting 395 yards into meters the wave length would be 360 divided by 1.1 or 330 meters. This is the wave length on which KDKA operates. It also means that the electro-magnetic waves sent out from this station have a frequency of 835,000 cycles.

FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES

In a radiophone transmitter there are two requirements that must be fulfilled. First, there must be a source of high-frequency current, say, between 15,000 and 1,500,000 cycles so connected to an antenna and ground system that energy in the form of electro-magnetic waves will be radiated. Second, there must be some method of controlling this high-frequency current or modulating it so that the variations in the amplitude of the high-frequency current will be directly proportional to the voice or music to be transmitted.

electrical resonance, stations transmitting on any wave-length other than 300 meters will not cause a current to be set up in the receiver.

The portion of a radio receiver that changes the wave-length at which it is electrically resonant is called a tuner. Suppose that "A" station transmits on a wave-length of 200 meters and "B" on a wave-length of 300 meters. By adjusting the tuner until the constants of the receiver make it electrically resonant to a 200-meter wave or a 300-meter wave, either of the two stations can be picked up, but both stations cannot be picked up simultaneously. This is the reason that more than one transmitter can be operating at one time and yet only one can be heard on a receiver without interference from the others.

The other necessary part of a radio receiver is the detector. The function of this portion of the receiver is to utilize the small currents in the tuner that are set up by a transmitting station and make them audible through the medium of a telephone receiver. If the telephone receiver were connected directly to the tuner the high-frequency current would not operate the diaphragm of the receiver and even if the diaphragm were set in motion it would be too fast a motion to be picked up by the human ear.

In a simple receiver the detector usually consists of two pieces of mineral in contact or a piece of mineral in contact with a metallic spring. Either combination is known as a crystal detector. A detector of this type is nothing more than a rectifier; that is, when an alternating current is applied at the terminals the current is allowed to flow only in one direction.

How One Editor Uses Radio.

The editor of a paper in an isolated town in the northwest is using the radio in a most ingenious and effective way. An amateur radio friend in a big city 50 miles away buys the latest editions of the city papers as soon as they are off the press, reads the best news into his transmitter, and a typist in the country office copies the news as it comes in over the office receiver. The editor, through this ingenious plan, is always "First With the Latest" in his home town.

Thursday Luncheon Club

Mrs. W. E. Kirkpatrick was hostess to the Thursday Luncheon Club in an all day meeting on May 18th. Bowls and vases of Rambler roses were an added charm to the pretty rooms and were a constant reminder of the lovely spring day without. Everyone seemed in a humorous spirit and the morning hour was filled with merry conversation. At 12:30 the guests were invited into the dining room where two beautifully arranged tables greeted our view, making a perfect background for the dainty food which was placed upon them.

In the afternoon, while the ladies were busily engaged on dainty bits of handwork, they were given a rare treat in the way of some special music by Mrs. O. E. Patterson, and a number of favorite songs by Mrs. C. L. Inlow. Thus the time sped rapidly until late in the afternoon, when delicious lemon sherbet and white cake were served.

Those enjoying this unusually pleasant day were: Mesdames W. E. Kirkpatrick, J. A. Couch, H. S. Wilson, S. A. Roberts, W. M. Reid, F. L. Daugherty, O. E. Patterson, R. J. Reynolds, Alfred Pierson, M. B. Lebo, Y. P. Kuhn, Travis Arbuckle, S. A. Hughes, B. M. Whiteker, G. W. Waldrop, and Mrs. C. L. Inlow of Baton Rouge, La.

Every farmer should get a start of Acala Cotton. I have both Watsons and Ardmore Acala Cotton Seed I will sell cheap for cash or would sell to good farmers on fall time. Courtney Hunt.

Haskell Cemetery Association Meets

The Cemetery Association met in a call meeting in the home of Mrs. B. B. Fields May 23rd. The attendance was small, but those present were very optimistic in planning the years work.

Mrs. D. M. Winn, president of the Association, presented plans whereby the old and the New Cemeteries could and should be under one management. This plan was voted on and adopted. Several ladies, representing the new cemetery, where present and were heartily in favor of being a part of the "Haskell Cemetery Association."

Mrs. Winn, having been the efficient president for something like fifteen years felt that she must be relieved of some of the responsibility that is involved in carrying on the work of the Cemetery. In view of this fact, Mrs. John Couch was elected president, Mrs. Winn vice-president, Mrs. R. B. Fields secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Roy English, corresponding secretary.

There was a spirited discussion as to how best finance the Association so the Cemetery could be made the cleanest and most attractive "City of Our Dead."

We talk of civic beauty and civic duty; but when do we ever hear anyone planning civic beauty for the place where our loved ones are laid to rest, save in our Association? A few frail women have had this work so on their hearts that they have braved all kinds of hardships to make "Willow Cemetery" a suitable resting place for those gone on before. We appeal to the public, now for moral and financial support. When you are asked to pay a very small assessment for the upkeep of the Cemetery, do it willingly, cheerfully gladly. Remember, that sometime it will be you, or yours that will make their home there. Pay your dues!

The first Tuesday of each month is the regular time for the Association to meet. May we be loyal enough to our dead to be present next month. Civic duty? Where can it be more than in a beautiful "Willow Cemetery".

INDIANS HELPED BY BUREAU

Department of the Interior Has Given Them Valuable Pointers Concerning Their Pottery.

One of the most ancient arts and industries of America, the manufacture of clay utensils by American Indians, has received the aid of ceramic experts of bureau of standards of the Department of Commerce.

Both in Arizona and New Mexico the Indian still makes his clay pots and other wares as he did years ago, but they find different use. Travelers and sightseers purchase them as souvenirs. They have to stand rougher usage in being transported to civilization's front parlors than they did when they hung over camp fires.

When burned in the primitive way, by burying in a smoldering heap of refuse, Indian ceramic ware is fragile. Through the Indian office of the Department of the Interior the Indians appealed to the bureau of standards to help them produce better ware. Ceramic engineers of the bureau of standards made burning tests of some of the clay used in the Indian ware and recommended that it be burned at a slightly higher temperature. The pottery is decorated by using a manganese ore and methods were worked out by the bureau so that the higher burning temperature will not destroy the decoration. The Indians were also told how to use cobalt stains for their work, and they were given plans for simple but modern kilns for burning their

CHARLES FORBES TAYLOR WILL CONDUCT REVIVAL

Charles Forbes Taylor

Brother Taylor is but a boy in size and age, but he is said to be by many very competent preachers and laymen one of the sanest and strongest evangelists known to this country for the past 40 years. Brother Taylor will be with the First Baptist Church for a two weeks campaign beginning June 18th. The church is making every effort to take care of the great crowds that we know will come. A large tent will be stretched and seated near the church. One country pastor has already asked for a reservation of 250 seats for his three country churches. Just think of what an opportunity the Lord has given us all to have "Charley" in Haskell. Business men, farmers and all are already making their plans for this meeting. My! What a responsibility! How we must pray and work for the salvation of the lost.
Pastor.

ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM THE POST COMMUNITY

Since the floods we have not been able to get around much on account of washouts, bad roads, and mud, so we did not write any.

The rains have left the farmers in our vicinity badly in the weeds and grass and it looks like some of the land will lay out.

Most of the cotton and some of the feed will have to be replanted.

The bridges (two of them) on the road by R. V. Colbert's ranch, washed out, but have been rebuilt and the road is in very good shape again.

W. T. West and family spent Sunday with his parents in Jones County.

Bro. Hughes filled his regular appointment last Sunday at Post church.

Prof. Lee Humphreys and family are visiting relatives and friends in Dublin.

We have had a taste of old times during the rainy spell, as we could not get to town (Stamford) on account of high water and our telephone line was out of commission so we can realize what we had to endure thirty-five years ago here in Haskell county, when we had none of our modern conveniences.

We have the finest grass for years and the stock will soon be fat.
