TELLS OF TRAVELS IN COLORADO AND CALIFORNIA

Having been requested to write a short description of my travels this my status as a traveler was. Of course I traveled first class, but everybody does that. All sight-seeing travelers are divided into two general classes: Those who travel because of restlessmess and those who travel to learn. I place myself in the latter division. And much did I learn, being disagreeably dislilusioned with respect to the people as a whole, but pleasantly surprised by the beauties of Nature.

prised by the beauties of Nature.

Our party stopped first at Colorado Springs, which, though comparatively small, was the most beautiful and the most delightful city we were in. It is an ideal summer resort, being located at the foot of the Rockies, cool, and scrupulously clean, and having varieties of amusements exclusive of the true of amusements exclusive of the nearby scenic wonders of the Rockies are the real drawing-card for the thousands of tourists. To my mind, the climbing of Pike's Peak by automobile was the most interesting of all the trips. The summit is reached by a convict-built road, perfectly smooth, wide, and never having a grade steeper than eleven per cent, winding through forests until the timber line is reached, running along the rims of dizzy rorests until the timber line is reached, running along the rims of dizzy precipices, and permitting the most magnificent views imaginable. Indeed, were it not for the haziness of the lower stratum of the atmosphere, one could see for almost unlimited distances in every direction. tances in every direction. Even with that limitation. however, the view was no mean one. From the southwest to the north, at distances varying from fifty to one hundred and fifty miles, snow-clad peaks rose in never-ending succession, their white mantled forms dercing the clear, rare atmostphere, I liked those mountains and that mountain air better than all I saw in Los Augeles or on the beaches. For here was the difference: Nature made the one: man the other, putting all his faults in his work along with his few

Visitors in Salt Lake City should by all means hear the organ recital in an all day session, and dinner will be the Morman Tabernacle, go to the state capitol, and to the Great Salt The Tabernacle is a huge oval shaped building covered "ith a vast dome, and capable of seating, so I judged, at least 15000 people. The bintest sound at one end will carry to the other without any echo. Thus the principles of acoustics built into the Tabernacle make the music produced the colossal pipe organ truly su-rb. COUNTY FAIR PROMISES MANY ATTRACTIONS

It was decided that the prizes at the County Fair which is to be held in the It is far easier to see places of interest than it is to describe them. From the beginning, let it be understood what my status as a traveler was. Of course I traveled first class, but everybods. No entrance fees will be charged for any exhibit and all shall have honest, accurate, and fair judging of their products and the winner may know that he has the best exhibit. Ribbons will be awarded to the winners of the best registered stock of any kind and the same will apply to poultry and all stock. Ribbons will be given on the best 50 heads of maize, with two bunches of 10 heads each is the way the maize, kaffir corn, feterita and Indian corn is to be entered. Thresh-ed grain must be entered by the peck. The vegetables and canned fruits will be arranged later and further instructions given. The prize winning farm products, canned fruits and vegetables will be carried to the Dallas Fair and entered there. The name of the farmer will be placed on the exhibit as soon as the prize is awarded at the Dallas Fair in order that he may share the honor with the county in the exhibit of the state. Also cotton stalks, melons pumpkins, kershaws, and all other vine grown products are wanted in the county fair. It is impossible to name everything wanted but we ask that you bring everything you have to the fair and place it on exhibition.

Ladies fancy work and old relics are especially asked for and a committee will be appointed to look after this part of the exhibits and take care of them.

The Chamber of Commerce will provide a brass band, base ball, football, basket ball, and a merry-go-round for the children. Aeroplane ascensions for all wishing to take a trip in the air can arrange with the pilot to take them up for a ride. There will be an old fiddlers contest, and other amusements, including a large marble yard fenced off for the old men above 40. Prizes will be given the champion fiddler and marble player. If you think you can win begin to practice now. We are not so sure who will win in the fiddler's contest but if you win at saw about Colorado Springs were the marbles you will have to beat such Cave of the Winds, a mammoth cave men as Papa Woods. UNCLE MIKE PERRY VISITS OLD HOME IN RUSK COUNTY

J. M. (Mike) Perry of this city returned last week from his old home at Tatum, Rusk County, where the Perry family held a n enjoyable re-union. All the children met at the old home-place about two miles from the little town of Tatum, where each of them grew to man and womanhood under the parental roof of a kind father and a loving mother who passed away several years ago. Those of the children were J. M. Perry of Haskell, W. K. Perry of Spur and J. L. Perry and Mrs. Ida Reid of Dallas. Other relatives, J. W. Perry a nephew living near Tatum, and Mrs. Alice Culbarber of Beckville, a neice of the visiting relatives were there, It was the first time in 47 years that Uncle Mike had visited his old home: He says only 5 schoolmates and the relatives mentioned above are all of the people he knows anything about that are left in the vicinity of his old home. A LARGE CROWD ENJOYS ALL DAY SINGING AT WEAVER

On last Sunday a large crowd gathered at Weaver School house for an all day singing, which proved to be a very enjoyable affair. The house was called to order by W. M. Free, of Haskell, about 11:00 o'clock in the forenoon and several songs were rendered by different leaders before noon. At the noon hour a sumptons feast was spread on the beautiful mat of mesquite grass that is growing so luxurantly school grounds and all were invited to come and partake of the bounty. offered a short prayer after which the large congregation were served to their fill of the many good things to eat the ladies of the community had so kindly prepared. This was in reality a dinner on the ground. At one o'clock he singers were called back into the house and W. M. Free was chosen the singing began president and promptly at 1:10. A committee on arrangement was appointed and the follows: Prof. W. C. Chatwell of Stamford, Oscar Crouch of Gauntt, Rufus McDowell of Post, I. V. Marrs of Haskell, Gordon Larne of Weaver, Chas. Wilson of Haskell, H. C. Lee of Post, and Pro. Chatwell, Wilson and Marrs each arranged special songs which was the feature of the singing in the afternoon. M. O. Fields arrived from Haskell to lead a few songs after which the closing song was sung by the president. Thus ended an enjoy-able day. Pro. Chatwell was to have begun a singing school at Weaver Monday morning, but owing to the rain the date was postponed until a future time which will doubtless be not later than next Monday.

Your Friends Buy Wisely, so Can You

Buying foodstuffs doesn't consist simply of shoving your money over the counter and taking the stuff home. Anyone can do that, but it requires good judgment to buy wisely.

Ask any of your friends what they think of our foodstuffs. You will find that most of them buy from us, know that they get the genuine article. and are never overcharged.

They buy wisely, because they know what they are buying. They buy from us because they know we buy wisely in the wholesale markets.

You can buy just as wisely as your friends. Try us a few times, and your own good judgment will tell you that you have made no mistake.

PLACES FOR TWO

By MILDRED WHITE.

Sarah drew aside the ruffled curtain to look down the country road. It was not a cheery outlook, with rain making pools of the deep worn ruts, and somber clouds turning the twilight to darkness. But Sarah took in the view philosophically, just as she took the cheerlessness and somberness of her

Time had been, years ago, when the roadside cottage was a house of mirth, merry with young people's laughter and comfortable with the protecting presence of the old.

Sarah's parents had long since passed to their reward, while the sisters, who were all older than she, lived in various distant homes, more or less selfishly absorbed in their own fami-Hes. Sarah had clung to the old place, at first through duty to her older invalids, then because there was no place else to go.

She managed to keep the cottage heated and comfortable; to tend and sing over the vegetables in her garden. to keep there, aside, a little plot of flowers with which to cheer the sick or rejoice, perhaps, in some affair of the living.

Sarah was always glad when the stories ended happily, and sometimes, after she had laid the paper aside, she would sit in the cozy, silent room before the fire, picturing to herself a remance which might have been her own. Sarah was sixty new-a good, wholesome, pink-cheeked sixty - but she had put her hope of love aside. She lighted another yellow shaded lamp in the small yellow dining room and meved about setting the supper

She smiled with a sort of weary amusement as she put down a second cup and plate opposite her own, then added a knife and fork for company. For twenty years Sarah had been doing this same useless thing. It seemed less like being alone to see that other place ready-and walting, almost as if the door might open at any moment to admit her companion. Then when the supper was quite ready Sarah went out to the stable to shut up old Mol!

tor the night. Moll was the white horse, and Sarah's desolation so preyed upon her out there in the rain and the darkness that she was tempted to linger beside old Moll, just to feel the comfort of a living presence. And as she stumbled up the steps of the back porch she came all at once face to face with the human presence of a smilingly apologetic and very wet old man.

Raitzlrops were gleaming on his white beard, rivulets ran from the brim of his felt hat.

"Beg pardon, ma'am," said the old man gently, "but I reckon I've come pretty far in the storm and can't get on to where I was goin'. Kin I dry up spell by your fire which shines through the window? It looks inviting I must say." And as the old man's request was coupled with a very evident shiver, Sarah's protective heart immediately responded.

"Go right in ahead of me," she said cordially; "It ain't no time for formali-

But when the old man was rid of his overcoat and was resting in Sarah's father's arm chair he smiled again in his deprecatory way and took a card from his pocket.

"That's my name," he said, "Ebenezer Styles. Reckon you're acquainted with young E. Styles? Well, he's my son.

"Eben Styles," Sarah repeated, awed, "the lawyer down to the village-him, your son? Hadn't you better telephone to keep him from worryin' for fear you aln't coming back."

The old man sadly shook his head. "The only thing that'll worry Eb .or leastways Eb's wife," he said slowly, "is the fear that I will come back, Seems I kind of make 'em shamed all the time. Eb.'s wife she ain't been used to my kind. An' reckon-"

The wrinkled face lit up with grim humor. "Reckon I don't never want to get used to her kind. So when I telephone 'em it'll be just to say that I ain't goin' back."

"But what," asked Sagah wonder-ingly, "be you goin' to do?" "That." Ebenezer Styles replied, "will be decided later. I've sold property, an' I get my interest regular from the money what I sold it for,"

"Jest now, then." Sarah said briskly, "come an' have a little supper." The old man looked hesitatingly at the table laid so neatly for two. "You was expectin' company," he said;

"ain't I puttin' somebody out?" "For twenty years," she said, "I bin expectin' somebody, an' until tonight nobody ever came."

Long the man and woman sat in the sunshine of the yellow lamp, with the storm but an echo outside, pouring into each other's sympathetic and understanding ears a story of lonely

"For being with just folks," Ebenezer told her, "can't always keep one from bein' lonesome; why, when I used to walk up here an' alt to the side of the road a-watchin' an' watchin' you in your garden, seemed you must be like—ma. Seemed it'd be mighty nice if I could work beside you there. But land!" he exclaimed, "you will think I'm queer goin' on like this."

Sareh's open were visionary. "You wetched ma?" she asked slowly, "in my

Baltic Sea Leads in Amber.

The principal source of the amber supply is the coast of the Baltic sea, more particularly in the vicinity of Konigsberg. Even in ancient times this district constituted the "Kimberley" of the amber world. At this place amber, which is really a mineralized resin of extinct pine trees, is freely washed up by the sea, especially after a violent storm. The fishermen use nets, with which they trawl the shallow waters.

STAND BY OUR SCHOOLS

The action of the Equalization Board for the Haskell Independent School District in raising the remiffice of the property assessed to practically one hundred cents on the dollar, should be Indorsed by every property ewner in the District. The raise insures a ful nine months school without the embarassing situation of having to rais money to public superspriou to wall first the section for the elector meanth of the forms as we have had to do to the past low sears. The present rate will take were of the eclosed for the full place meantles and one the meantles are equipment and time raise of the purpose that will have to be made on t change before the veloci opens. There is nothing that is worth me remance where it belongs and we do nobelieve that the cirizenship of Hasks will object to the action of the Scho Board in taking the steps that the have in order to build up our school to what they should be. Of course w may as well expect some few people to rour because it will raise their taxes a few dollars but the man that does is the man that places the a mighty dollar above the value of th boys and girls of Haskell Independen School District and we believe that his kind is weefully in the minority and his lamentations will be as a boomering unto himself. Stand by the school and give the boys and girls the opportunity to make real men and women that is rightfully theirs. The work that is being done this week by Mrs. Roobins from the Pure Food Department at Austin, as sisted by the ladies of the town and the City Council should have the full endorsement of every citizen of Haskeil. The health of a town should be held above everything else and there is only one way to keep down sickness and disease and that is to keep clean Haskell can be made one of the clean; est little cities in the state if its citizenship will co-operate with each other along sanitary lines. We believe that the business men of Haskell without a when a condition is pointed out to them they will be more than glad to but because they want to clean up for cleanliness sake. This is as it should be—as the man who does not care how his place of business looks, or the sanitary condition of his establishment has no place among honest merchants. and he should be made to clean up or close up. Let's make Haskell the eleasest little city in all West Texass It can be done and we believe that we have the citizenship here that will do

Two articles are being published in this issue of the Free Press by Mr. Bailey's supporters here—they are'run as advertising and paid for at our regno responsibility for them whatever. We make this statement because some people seem to have the opinion shat everything that goes into the advertising columns of a newspaper is indersed by the management. A modern news-paper of today is run for the money that it can make for the owner and for the purpose of assisting any man or set of men to further their political aspirations.

Most of us hate a trip to the dentist's, but if Prohibition Commissioner Kramer acts favorably on the question of allowing dental surgeons to give whiskey to patients who become faint, the dentists are in for a business boom and incidentally they'll have a lot of fainting customers to work on.

Appearances are often deseiving as evidenced the other day in a subart) of Greenwich, Connecticut, when a hearse evidently bearing the remains of some worthy eltizen to their just necting place was stopped by federal offieers and instead of a body was found to contain 500 gallout of whiskey.

According to the crops estimate of the Department of Agriculture, Pennsylvania's pointo yield this year will be over 22 000,000 bushels. That ough to make cheap spuds this fall, but then in these days of profiteers the law of supply and demand has become a back number.

Political parties are showering honors on Ohlo this summer. The prohibitionists have named Aaron S. Watkins of Germantown. Ohio, as the head of their ticket. Brya n having refused the honor.

When a delegation makes a pilgrimage to the Harding "front porch" to get his promise on this or that Issue, they come away in doubt as to just what they were or were not promised.

HASHMAL PUBLIC SCHOOL STATEMENT

We, the members of the School Board, having been asked the question so often, "Why is it necessary to raise so much money to run a nine-months school?" make and subally the following statement for the consideration of each and every person interested, showing the receipts and disbursements, and showing why it is necessary that the property value be raised to meet the required disbursements. Receipts For 1920-21 Term of School Balance on hand at the close of the 1919 term of school______ Scholastic enrollment 727 pupils at $14.50 each as State apportionment 10.541.50 Interest, on School hand, $1.50 per pupil. 1.087.50

Total receipts except local taxes 812.379.00

Disbursements for 1920-21 Term of School

Repair on the three school buildings 81.245.00

Janitor for North side, $85.00 per month for 10 months 850.00 Janitor for other two building at $50 per month...... 450.00 Coal for three buildings (estimated) _____ 600,00 Incidentials (such as keeping building in repair, stoves, crayon, Amount for Bond and Interest fund______ 2.250.00 Salary of School Superintendent 2000,00
Salary of School Principal (North Side) 1,500.00 hange of crowds. Much of the praising was done by denouncers of twelve Salary of School Principal (East Side) 1.125.00 cars ago, and much of the denouncing Salary of four High School teachers at $1.125 each 4.500.00 was done by praisers of twelve years ago, and much of the denomining salary of four High School teachers at $1.125 each 7.730.00 ago. Experience has taught us that are politician is good enough or bad caught to justify us in doing things to and in his election or defeat.—Honey $27.725.00 Less receipts as above given $12,379,00

> Balance to be raised by local taxes..... To make an allowance for the taxes that will not be collected it will take valuation of $3.500,000,000 worth of property in the district at 50 cents per $100.00 valuation to raise the required amount.

> Therefore, the Board of Equalization found it necessary to raise your values to meet the requirements, so that we can now run a full nine-months school without having to take up a collection. Now, for the sake of your children and the schools of the town let us beg you not to complain at the board as they have harde the tax values as near equal as was possible to do.

DREAMS

"Now then, 'Dreams,' get a hustle on you with those copies, and put the long stop on that high powered car driven by the Duke of Killicrankie. Even in these days of help shortage we want efficiency just the same." Miss Johnson's ražor-like voice struck on Ann Flower's car like ice, * tithe of maus, ment went around the office at the head clerk's intended wittleism, and many eyes were turned for a moment to the gloomy corner where the girl had sat for two years, the target for all the teasing of the department. Somehow or other it had leaked out that Ann Flower indulged in day dreams, hence the nickname, "Dreams," and the mereiless surcasm that was her lot.

"'Dreams'-1 mean Miss Flower, the 'boss' wants you in his office.' Again Miss Johnson's voice smote Ann's ear like ice, and all eyes flashed to her corner.

"The boss?" repeated Ann stupidly, "Yes, the 'boss,' and don't keep him waiting," snapped Miss Johnson, Ann Flower stumbled to her feet. All eyes seemed to para into her back as she passed up the room. She knew she had not done her work well during the last week, but they did not know what it was to sit up at night and finally have to see a golden haired buby die! Perhaps they did not know what it meant to leave the distracted mother sewing for a living to keep two other little towheads from hunger. Ann had not been satsfied with the doctor, and that morning had herself telephoned for another physician, not the kind that usually calls at apartment houses on the East side of the city, but there was something so insistent, so softly appealing and piterus in the girl's voice over the wire that Doctor Sunderland had promised to come.

"Good morning, Miss Flower," the "boss" voice came to the girl's senses through waves of pain.

"This is Doctor Sunderland . . "Oh, the children are not worse?" Ann interrupted the "boss'" introduction in a frightened voice.

"No, the kiddles are going to pull through in fine shape, thanks to your foresight, Miss Flower."

The "boss" cleared his throat "Doctor Sunderland has told me, Miss Flower, that you have been sitting up at night with a sick baby for ever a week, until it died; you have also been helping out the mother with two other children all this winter with your salary; you could just as well have left her and gone to more comfortable quarters."

"But I couldn't; she was good to . and it was hard for her to get a boarder who tiked chill fren . . and I did. I'm sorry if my suffered bere Ill-and died!" Ann Flower's purple blue eyes grew big and piteous · Poor little "Dreams'" head seethed in a whirl of aches and surprises after the "boss" left her in Dr. Sunderland's care.

It was a dream of wonderful peace, to find oneself in a cool, gray and white hospital room, with a pretty red-haired nurse ready to do one's bidding. But there were days when family of W. B. McIver of Sweetwater little Ann Flower did not answer to Dr. Sunderland's "dear" with a smile of shy welcome, and nights when he would come and shake his head and turn hastly from the pretty, feverflushed face and wonder why we have to find the best in our scheme of life, to lose it again. There were days, too, when Miss Johnson and the department could not bear to see the patch of sunlight shine on the dust covered typewriter cover in the gloomy corner, without a catch in their throats when they remembered how they had teased dear, patient little "Dreams."

But days came when Dr. Sunderiand's "dear" won the day. "I take my vacation next week . .

NADINE

BY DOROTHY O. GRAVES.

Nudine Louise Brown rested her fluffy head luxuriously against the viite towel stretched over the chairack and watched the figing landscape. Coris, III., was very far away, and Naline's heart pumped joyously. She dould arrive in Boston that very sorning, and then-life would comnence for her.

Roston to Nadine was everything that Paris, Ill., was not. There would be young men, theaters, jobs, everywhere. Nadine planned to get a job

The train rumbled into the South station. Nadine alighted. She knew just what to do, and she did it successfully. Not an hour later she skipped down the steps of the Y. W. C. A. and started to seek life.

The office boy in Everyman's insurance office grinned at Nadine and Nadine grinned back.

Said the boy: "Mr. Black?" This was a straw. Nadine grasped it. "Yes." "He's out," said the boy, "but you c'n talk to his assistant. It's Mr. Jack, his son. Mr. John Black, Jr., you know."

Mr. Black, Jr., appeared. He was very young and very handsome, more so than any Paris, Ill., young man. His eyes were as startled as Nadine's own, but she did not see that. Na-dine tried to think. Mr. Black, Jr., thought for her.

"You want a position?" Nadine nodded her head. Mr. Black smiled.

"What is your name?"

"Where do you come from?" Mr. Black, Jr., forgot this was a business affair, and not a country club dance. But Nadine was not thinking of that. At last it was a question she could answer, if her breath lasted long enough. "Paris," said she.

Mr. Black grinned. Now he understood. Nine months before in Paris he had tried to buy soap of a Parislan apothecary, but he had been disappointed in the comprehension of the Frenchman, and be had never got the Nadine smiled; she wanted to laugh. But she did not dare, and anyway she knew her smile was enchanting. During the next few weeks Mr. Black, Jr., applied himself to his duties so thoroughly and perseveringly that Mr. Black, Sr. told his wife that "Junior" would get somewhere vet.

Junior did. Whether or not it was the particular "somewhere" his father meant. It was June, he'd asked the enchanting French girl to go "solinewhere" with him that evening. Nadine smiled and-nodded.

That night Nadine also got "somewhere." It was the June night, plus the luminous moon, plus the gentle lapping of the water on the shore, at Winthrop Beach and plus Junior. The answer to the problem was "yes," Possibly Nadine had something to do with it, too, but she gave all the credit to Junior. And then they both got "some-where." It was this way:

"We'll go out West, dearle," Jack, Jr., breathed into her delicate and very French little ear. "I've an old graphy out there who'd love to see us, and she promised me long ago when I married I should have her home for a wedding present, and dad's always said he'd set me up in business out there."

"Oh, Jack!"

"Yep, out Illinois way," "Illinois!" Nadine gasped. But Jr. mistook the long-drawn word for her imperfect knowledge of English.

"Yep-Paris, Illinois," he laughed in expectation. "It's a great little old town." The idea then occurred to him that Nadine might have misunderstood. "Not your Paris, you know; it's just a small town in one of our states. There's alfalfa, and wheat, and some

"And corn, Jackey, say there's corn." "Yep, there's corn, acres of it."

"And, Jack, is it the little yellow house on the corner of Main and Pleasant streets, with the hollyhocks and the wisteria vines?"

"Why, Nadine, how did you know?" "Because," she smiled archly. "Tell me, dearest, how did yo

PIERSON FOR SUPREME COURT

IN INTERVIEW GIVEN TO THE SAN ANTONIO EXPRESS HE GIVES SOME REASONS WHY HE WILL SUPPORT PIERSON.

News that Budiey K. Woodward, Austin lawyer who managed the campaign of Judge W. M. Rey for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, will support Judge William Pierson in the run-off primary against Judge Hawkins, & confained in the following from the San Antonio Express of Friday morning?

"During the contest just closed, I managed W. M. Key's campaign for nomination as Associate Justice of the Supreme Court. It now appears that he has been eliminated, and in the run-off between Judge Plerson and Judge Hawkins, I shall vote for and support Judge Pierson, because, as between these two gentlemen, I believe that Judge Pierson is better qualified and that it is a matter of genuine public importance that he be nominated,

"Judge Hawkins is a man of strict integrity and high character, but his record upon the Supreme Court during his seven and one-half years of service there, forces me to the conclusion that, temperamentally and otherwise, he is not qualified for the position which he holds. During the period between Jan. 7. 1913, (the date upon which Judge Hawkins qualified) and June 20, 1920, covered by volumes 152 to 221, advance sheet No. 1 of the Southwestern Reporter, I find that Chief Justice Phillips has written 204 opinions of the court (exclusive of dissents, concurrences and others not decisive of the case); that Justices Brown, Yantis and Greenwood, each succeeding the other in the order. named, have written in the aggregate 182 opinions, and that Justice Hawkine has written 28 opinions. If these figures are correct, and they have been made with the utmost care, they reflect a situation which, in my judgment, rendere it imperative that Judge Hawkins be superseded.

"Judge Pierson is a man of equally high character, an eminent lawyer of wide experience, and for a number of years past has served with credit to himself upon the District Court, where he has demonstrated his ability to transact the public business with accuracy and dispatch. I am convinced that, if elected to the Supreme Court, he will prove himself to be a distinguished member of that great body. He has conducted his campaign in such a manner that his uccess leaves no trace of bitterness, and it will be a pleasure as well as the discharge of a public duty to give him my support."-D. K. Had Suffered for Twenty Years—Gains Eleven Pounds and is Restored To Health

"For two years before I began taking Tanlac my health was so bad I lost two or three hours from work every day, since taking five bottles of the medicine I am in as fine health as ever was in my life," said C. H. Melton, construction foreman for the Western Union Telegraph Co., living at 3336 Tracy Avenue, Kansas City,

"I had stomach trouble and nervous indigestion for twenty years," he confinued. "Five years ago I got in such bad ssape that everything I are caused me terrible suffering from gas and at times I could hardly breathe. I had astuffy feeling all the time and was so constipated I had to keep taking laxatives. My head ached some time like it would simply burst and I became so weak and run-down it looked like I would have to give up my work

"A friend of mine had tried Tanlac and reccommended it so highly I decided to take it, too, and, believe me, I found it to be a real medicine. In three days time my appetite began to improve and my stomach got better, I kept on improving rapidly and now I eat anything I want, have gained eleven pounds and never have stomach rouble, headaches or constipation an more. Haskell County Opportunities We have at this time prospects for bumper crop of everything planted by the farmers in Haskell County. The early maine and kaffir crops are matured and ready for heading or binding as soon as the weather will permit and the ground gets dry. The cotton looks at this time that it will make a bale or more per acre. The hay crop is just as good as anyone could wish and from every quarter of the county the farmers are telling the same story of bumper crop prospects. Haskell county is ideal for the rearing of hogs, cattle, sheep and goats and all kinds of live stock of the better grades. And is especially adopted for poultry, which is being extensively bred over the county. Much interest is being manifested in the poultry industry and the breeders are sparing no pains to secure excellent foundation stock of the various breeds. The cattle and hog industries are leading in the county at the present time We have some splendid Hereford, Holtein and Jersey herds in the county. Among them some of the prize winners of the state. The sheep breeders are finited in number compared with other livesteek, but the few who have embarked in the business claim it a paying proposition. The County Fair, which will be held the first Friday and Saturday in October promises to be one of the biggest boons for the county that has taken place since the organization of the county, and the farm products, livestock and poultry that will be shown will convince the most skeptical that Haskell county can deliver the goods in agriculture, stock and poultry raising.

Save Money-Put Goodyear Tires on Your Small Car

The high relative value built into Goodyear Tires, of the 30×3 , $30 \times 3\frac{1}{2}$, and 31×4 -inch sizes, results from the application of Goodyear experience and care to their manufacture in the world's largest tire factory devoted to these sizes.

Such facts explain why more cars, using these sizes, were factory-equipped last year with Goodyear Tires than with any other kind.

New Coats, Coat Suits, Dresses & Hats are Now on Display. Come and see them.

Introducing New Fall Fashions-Modes Of Beauty and Distinction

We are now showing for the coming season a goodly number of early arrivals in New Fall Suits, Coats, Dresses, Blouses and Hats, all selected with that discriminating care which characterizes this store's buying. This new Fall Apparel has been chosen from the best style sources-makers who have a national reputation for the beauty and authenticity of their style creations. We invite your early inspection of these and other early Fall Fashions.

New Suits and Coats for Autumn Finely Tailored and Moderately Priced

Showing New Dresses for now and for Fall Wear

This week we present many late arrivals in Autumn Dresses from the best designers. And the numerous variations in style and trimming provide so many dressy effects that one could hardly wish for a more diversified collection.

Add to this wonderful variation of styles, such alluring materials as lustrous Satin and Taffeta, or the soft, drapy Silk Crepes, and the popular woolen fabrics as Wool Jersey, French Serge and Tricotine in the rich Fall shades of Brown, Rust, Navy, and Midnight Blue and you'll have a mental picture of the new Autumn Dresses.

The trimmings are elaborate, including iridescent beads and richly colored silk embroidery. Moderately priced from $18.50 to $75.00

Early Suit Fashions

The straight line silhouette and the long waist line generally prevail for the coming season. The skirts are short, and while not full are wide enough to permit freedom in walking.

Styles that are distinctly individual dominate this early showing of Fall Suits. The favored fabrics are Duvetynes, Peachblooms, Velour de Laines and Tricotines; and such rich, practical tones as Brown, Rust, Midnight and Navy. Your desire for a suit, beautiful yet practical, can be gratified from our selections.

New Fall Coat Styles

The new styles arriving bring delightful expressions of the prevailing modes. You will appreciate the richness of the materials as well as the beauty of the styling of the New Fall Coats.

Choice can be made from Coats of such favored materials, of velvet-like texture, as Duvetyne, Velours, Duvet Superior and Veldyne; many of them richly trimmed with fur. Such becoming styles are sure of an enthusiastic welcome-an exhibit well worthy of a special trip for the purpose of inspection.

scription of Southern California, for everyone has formed a picture of his own of the limitless stretches of fruit, walnut and olive groves, the truck farms, and the beautiful roads, which make California a paradise for automobiles.

After staying in Los Angeles two days, though we we't in the city, quite often afterwards, we made our headquarters at Ocean Park, a popular beach resort. From there we took several trips, among them being those to Santa Catalina Islands, and to the summit of Mt. Lowe, Mrs. R. B. Fields and family accompanied us to Santa Catalina, about thirty miles from the San Pedro harbor, where we boarded a large excursion steamer. So soon as the ship got into the long, but gentle, swell of the Pacific, the fun began, though the unfortunates who furnished the amusement would deny that there was any humor in it. One could hardly keep from laughingopenly at the woeful expressions of those who were seasick. The island, owned by Wrigley, the chewing gum magnate, is nothing more than a mountain range, rising directly from the sea; and it is about six by twenty miles in its di-mensions. Avalon is the only harbor, and there one sees motor launches, row boats, glass bottom boats, and various queer craft engaged in water sports, The beautiful submarine gardens are worth ones time to visit.

It was my experience to tire of the beach resorts rather soon, for on the beaches, especially at Venice, there is very little morality or sense of pro-priety. The many forms of amusements and gambling are wide open every day of the year, and the sky is the limit on Sundays. Of one thing, however, I did not tire; that was the surf bathing. That cold salt water. with the thrills given by the breakers and the undertow, puts new life in one.

It is a very healthy sport,

Los Angeles, in area, is the largest city in the United States, though its population is only about 600,000. I did not see much of the city beyond the business district, and comparatively little of that part. It is a beautiful city with its splendid parks, public buildings, and residences. As for the frequent eartquake shocks, which we experienced slightly, they have not been serious. The natives are for the most part nonchalant about them. And, personally, between th quakes and our tornadoes, blizzards, and sandstorms, I choose the former.

Even so, however, I prefer Texas to live in. For it is the people with whom one associates that decide his likes or dislikes for the place where he lives. I like Texans better than Californians, because the latter are the opposite to Texans in their natures and dispositions. But I am prejudiced and I shall not discuss it.

The return journey was uneventful except for three things: A temperature of 112 degrees at 8:30 p. m. in Needles, California: the Grand Canyon; and my own experience as a "brone" rider and buster on a ranch in Colorado. The Grand Canyon is named rightly. Its titanic chasms are truly appalling. For the only time in my travels I grew dizzy for a few moments when first I stood on the rim of this "titan of chasms." It cannot be described. The opposite him seems to be a little matter of a mile or two away; it is thirteen miles. In places where it can be seen the Colorado River seems to be only about ten feet wide, and smooth; it is a raging torrent 300 feet. 100 yards, across. The most striking thing the notices are the ever-bianging, many-hued colors and the correlations. hued colors and the curlous way the water, has sculp ured the cliffs. The canyon is not a narrow cleft cut perpendicularly as is the Royal Gorge, but a series of smaller canyons, yet immense in themselves, all subordinate to the one mighty chasm. The river is in some places over 6000 feet below the rim of the plateau. It is a mistake to stay under a week at the canyon, while in a stay of a month one might begin to conceive the stupendousness of it.

My experience as a "brone" rider was both amusing and painful. I had seen before cowboys riding bucking horses, but never before had I experienced it. It is not the straight hard pitching that is dangerous, though it is rather rough, but the trickiness of the horse the law in physics that for every action there is an equal and opposite Now Plate at the end of the more importanti of our experiences. Of course T'could not begin to tell all the amusing or the opposite frieldents on our trip, nor the details of the things we saw. Nor could I hope to make the reader see those things as I saw them. It is my belief that one searns more in talking to the travelers he meets with than in merely seeing picturesque places. That has been my experience, Doubtiess, travel is "a fool's paradise" for many, but for others it is very valuable because they learn the ways of "the heathen" and become close observers of human nature, which shows in travel many evil sides, and much
