A 1000 per cent Investment

That's the way to look at painting—as an investment, not an expense. Look around you at the houses going to rack and ruin. What is doing it? The weather. There is only one defense against weather and that is paint. But paint, like weather, is of many kinds. Beware of the fair weather paint. It does not protect, it only deceives. Buy a paint that has proved its staying power.

Dear Mary:

Helen went away to college today. She was a bit worried about her Wardrobe, but we solved the problem very nicely at Grissom's.

She selected a tailored suit of Navy Tricotine, Two pretty one-piece dresses, one of Reindeer Broad Cloth, very nifty, and the other of Beaded Serge. And of course, a sweater and a good looking pleated skirt, and then a satin for dressier occasions. Her hats, one of brown velvet, and the other a tailored beaver, were just too lovely for words, and her shoes, those new two-tone ones in dark brown and reindeer—altogether she was well pleased with everything, but why shouldn't she when they were bought at

Why Edison Invented Bulb

According to a friend, Thos. A. Edison is of the opinion that it was anger that first turned him toward inventing the incandescent light. How it happened is related by the friend.

That was, of course, in the early days and Mr. Edison was then quite the inventor that one reads of—poor, enthusiastic, never sleeping, innocent of anything approaching a laboratory; scientific devices were in every room, and all the money went for experiments. Then one day came the crisis in the guise of the collector for the gas company. He had been to the house often but Edison, hardly heeding his calls, had waved him away, saying, "Don't bother me."

On this last call the collector's instructions were preemptory. He must turn off the gas.

"But man," protested Edison, "I can't stop this experiment tonight. I'll pay the bill, of course. I didn't know about it. I must finish this work without interruption."

But this appeal had no effect upon the collector and lights went out.

"That night as I sat helpless in the darkness," says the inventor, "I swore that I would put the gas company out of business. I haven't quite done that, but I did the best I could."

But Taniae Helped Him More Than Treatments Here, in Europe and in South America

"I have been treated for indigestion in France, Italy, Switzerland, North and South America and in fact all over the world, but Taniae is the only thing that I have ever found to do me much good," said H. L. Flindger, watchmaker for Nathan Dehmann & Co., San Francisco, Cal., living at 33 Plato Street.

"Always after eating," continued Mr. Flindger, "I would have such cramps in my stomach that I could hardly stand it. I had fallen off until I only weighed ninety-eight pounds and was so nervous the least little thing would upset me. I could sleep but little and got up in the mornings feeling all fagged out. My strength and energy left me and I felt like I would have to give up entirely. Besides taking everything in the way of treatments and medicines I tried dieting and the rest cure, but never got more than a little passing relief."

"The way Taniae brought me out is marvelous. I can eat anything now without any trouble afterwards. I have gained twenty pounds and my nerves are as steady as a clock. I sleep fine every night and get up in the mornings ready for a good breakfast and a full day's work and am enjoying better health than I have in years."

Taniae is sold by all leading druggists everywhere.

PROSPECTS FOR A GOOD COTTON CROP IS PROMISING

In an effort to get as correct a report as possible of the condition of the cotton over Haskell county, many farmers were interviewed from various parts of the county Saturday by a Free Press reporter and the statement given below from each farmer will doubtless be of interest to our readers especially those interested in the farm products.

J. T. Thurwhanger of this city, made a visit to his farm a few miles west of Wehnert last Friday and walked over about 250 acres of cotton on his home place, carefully examining it for worms and other insects, but says the wet season has done the greater damage to the crop. But with sunshine from now on he is hopeful of a fair crop.

M. O. Fields living a few miles south of town says that his cotton has a few worms in it but they are not damaging it seriously. With good weather from now on he believes he will make a very good yield. He is now boasting of an over production of roasting ears. He says his neighbors and friends have learned the road to his patch that does not come by the house and they are all having roasting ears out his way.

J. S. Barnett, an experienced cotton farmer living just out side the incorporation east of town, reports some of his cotton badly damaged by the worms while in the same field there is cotton almost free from damage and will make a good yield. He gave no estimate as to the extent of the damage or what his cotton could make.

J. T. Pennington of the Pinkerton community says that the worms have seriously damaged his cotton and are still at work. He is not able to make an estimate more than they have materially cut off the prospect that was once very flattering.

J. R. Barnes an experienced farmer from near Myers school house north of town about ten miles, says that he finds but very little worm damage in his cotton and that he will make plenty of cotton if nothing happens to the crop from now on. The drought early in the spring held down the size of the stalk of the cotton and has been a considerable advantage during so much rain this summer and fall.

R. L. Dendy living near Whitman says his cotton has almost been striped by the worms and excessive rain and what cotton he makes will have to grow from now on. He has a very large stalk and could make a considerable crop should the weather be favorable from now on.

Fred Monk of Myers says that his cotton is early and that if nothing happens to it from now on he will make a splendid crop this year. He reports no worm damage to speak of and he has no grievance with the weather man.

J. F. Pinkerton says that the cotton on his home place just east of the city limits will make a fair crop with favorable weather conditions from now on. He says that the worms have worked on it some but have not seriously damaged the crop.

M. H. Harris of the Center Point community says that the worms have just about cut one-half of the fruit off of his cotton crop. He says that at one time they had the best prospects he ever saw in this county but the worms and wet weather have got in their work.

G. S. Medford of Howard says that their prospect of a cotton crop has been seriously cut down by the worms and wet weather, but he believes his cotton will make a half bale of cotton per acre with reasonable conditions from now on.

W. L. Curl of Wehnert Route one, says that the cotton crop is very favorable in his section and that he will get by with his crop and Wyandotte chickens.

J. W. Deer of Pleasant Valley says that the cotton stalks are very large but well fruited and that so far he has noticed very little damage from worms. The cotton is beginning to open and he believes they will make a good crop in his section.

G. Wahlen living east of town about five miles says that he has a bale of cotton open and that his crop is very good. He was in the hall strip of last Wednesday but he thinks that the hall that fell will be an advantage to the crop by stripping off some of the leaves. He is going to picking right away.

I. N. Brumeloe of the Gilliam community says that he has suffered some damage by worms, but more from the wet weather. He has some cotton that is real good and with conditions favorable to cotton it will make a splendid yield.

D. E. Oraddock of the Dennis Chapel community says that the worms are doing serious damage to the deep sandy land cotton in his section and unless they let up there will be but very little cotton made. He says corn and feed are exceptionally good and all fruit crops are the best in years.

And She Didn't Know

Little Girl (looking over newspaper advertisements): "Mamma why do all these boarding houses object to children?"

Fond mother: "I'm sure I do not know. Go and see what the baby is howling about and tell Johnny to stop throwing things at people in the streets and make George and Kate stop fighting and tell Dick if he does not stop banging that drum so hard I'll take it away from him."—Edinburgh Scotsman.

O. E. Patterson of the Farmers State Bank went out to his farm in the Sagerton community and reports the cotton crop very short in that part of the section. Warm and wet weather have seriously damaged the cotton crop.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Pennington were in the city from the Pinkerton community Saturday.

J. W. Deer of Pleasant Valley was here Saturday on business.

Helpful Hints

Rye Muffins—1 pint rye flour, 1/2 pint corn meal, 1/2 pint flour, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder, 1 table-spoon butter, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk, 1/2 cup sugar, salt and pepper to taste; mix into smooth batter, add raisins, and bake in hot oven 15 minutes.

Scotch Collops—2 cups raw chopped beef, 1 cup cold water, 2 teaspoons chopped onion, pepper, salt and butter, cook 5 minutes, thicken with 2 tablespoons browned flour. Serve on toast.

Beefsteak Pie (French Style)—Take a nice piece of beef, rump or sirloin, cut in small slices; also take a little raw ham; put both in a frying-pan, with some butter and small quantity chopped onions; let them simmer together a short time on the fire or in the oven; add a little flour and enough stock to make sauce; salt, pepper, chopped parsley, and a little Worcestershire sauce as seasoning; add also a few sliced potatoes, and cook together for about 20 minutes; put this into a pie-dish, with a few slices of hard-boiled eggs on the top, and cover with a layer of Royal Biscuit dough. Bake from 15 to 20 minutes in a well-heated oven. All dark-meat pies can be treated precisely in the same way. If poultry, leave the potatoes out.

Cocoanut Cream Candy—1 cocoanut, 1 1/2 pounds granulated sugar, 1/2 cup sugar and milk of cocoanut together; heat slowly until sugar is melted; then boil 5 minutes; add cocoanut (finely grated), boil 10 minutes longer, stir constantly to keep from burning. Pour on buttered plates, cut in squares. Will take about 2 days to harden. Use prepared cocoanut when other cannot be had.

WOULD EXCHANGE COTTON FOR DYES

Republican Candidate Suggests Plan for Moving Low-Grade Staple

Austin, Texas, Sept. 10.—Jack Culbertson, president of the Wichita Motors Company of Wichita Falls, and Republican nominee for Governor of Texas, addressed the Austin Lions Club at its weekly luncheon here today.

Mr. Culbertson told of how he was maintaining the foreign trade of his factory by means of barter. For instance, at this time, he is sending trucks to India, receiving in payment mica mined in that country, which will be sold to makers of phonograph disks, no money being passed until the mica is sold. He urged that a similar method be employed to dispose of the low grade cotton now on hand in the United States. Germany needs this cotton. Germany has dyes that it will trade for this cotton. These dyes can be sold in the Northern markets and in this manner the northern dye makers would get a taste of what the south is getting at this time.

He declared that with a capital stock of less than $5,000,000 a syndicate could clear the South of every bale of low-grade cotton in sixty days, through the medium of the Federal Reserve banks, and this would relieve a terrific downward pressure on the price of the new crop.—(Advertisement.)

The boy sat in the saddle ready to start for the mill. The farmer brought out a sack of wheat and tied it to the saddle horn. Then he brought out a sack filled with sand and pebbles and tied it to the other side to balance the wheat.

WIT AND HUMOR

Cause For Discharge

On what grounds did they discharge the fight watchman? He says he was not watched while on duty.
 "They found he did not need sleep day times."

Modern Pain-Killer

Athletic Doctor—"I caught a burglar in my study early last evening. He declared he had merely dropped in to get some medicine to quiete pain."
 Friend—"What did you do?"
 Athletic Doctor—"I quieted him with a hook to the jaw and left him in a twilight sleep."

Not Qualified

"Aren't you the boy here a week ago looking for a position?"
 "Yes, sir."
 "I thought so. And didn't I tell you then that I wanted an older boy?"
 "Yes, sir, that's why I am here now."

A Good Boy

Mrs. Flaminigan—"Sure I just got a letter from Barney, saying he would be let out of jail to-morrow; he got a month off for good behavior."
 Mrs. Murphy—"A month off for good behavior, is it? Faith, and that's a lad to be proud of."

So We Have Heard

An Alabama soldier tells this one: A student at an officer's training camp was being examined. He was asked one question and answered it correctly. Then he was asked another, and again gave the correct reply. So the examining officer said:
 "Do you know where the S'wane River is?"
 The candidate cogitated, then brightened up and said: "Far, far away."

More Appropriate

A cycling masher was riding along when his hat blew off. A passing countryman picked it up and took it to him as he cycled around, saving him the trouble of getting off his machine. "I really must get some string to keep this bully hat on," muttered the masher, as he wheeled off without a word of thanks.
 The yokel's reply was short but expressive: "Get a nail, Guvnor!"

Sewed Up

An evangel of Americanization has stumbled upon one obstacle the existence of which was heretofore unsuspected. She was visiting in the home of a foreign family and said to the mother: "This little boy would be improved by washing. Let us clean up the children a little." To which the mother hurriedly replied: "Naw naw! I've got him all sewed up for the winter."

We Strive To Please

A dejected man entered and said to the clerk:
 "I want a quarter's worth of carbolic acid."

"Sorry," said the clerk; "you got into the wrong store. We deal only in hardware, but we have a choice line of ropes razors and revolvers."

Isn't It the Best?

Sometimes it might cost a little more in dollars and cents, some times you have to humble your pride just a bit to do it, some times stubbornness tries to barricade the door. But after all isn't it best to come clean in spite of everything and do what your conscience tells you is right?

You know that this manner that man is being lied about, you could set the matter straight and brush the clouds of suspicion away, if you would. It might cost you a customer, or the loss of a little time. But isn't it best to honestly and honorably come out like a man and do it regardless of the consequences?

Isn't it better to be loyal to Truth and Justice, to act faithfully the part of a sure enough fellow, to hate wrong so thoroughly that you can't stand to see the salubly hypocrite cruelty the man who has done no harm, than to protect your business, your social prestige or your social relationship by remaining quiet?

Isn't it better to stand out in the sunlight of fairness, on the mountain top and do for the creature who leads a square deal at your hands and the real facts from your lips what you feel like he should do for you under similar circumstances than to cowardly see him go down broken and beaten for the want of help?

This would be a grander old earth if men would feel more for each other if they would speak louder when their words might soothe like a balm and remain as silent as the witnessing stars.—Austin Callan.

Cobwebs or Customers

In his early days, Mark Twain, the author of "Tom Sawyer" and "Huckleberry Finn," was editor of a small town newspaper. One day he received a letter from a superstitious subscriber telling how he had found a spider in his newspaper and asking whether it meant good or bad luck. Mark Twain wrote back as follows:

"Finding a spider in your paper was neither good or bad luck for you. The spider was looking over the paper to see which merchant was not advertising, so that he can go to that store, spin his web across the door and live a life of undisturbed peace ever afterwards."

Are spiders commencing to weave their webs in your doorways? A sure cure for cobwebs is customers—and advertising in your local newspaper will bring them to you in increasing numbers.—International Harvester Co. of America.

J. D. Roberts and son J. D. Jr. were in the city Tuesday. Mr. Roberts says crop conditions of feed and cotton are fine on his farm. He has begun to sow wheat and says he will put in all the wheat he can put in this fall while the season is in the ground to bring it up.

A Handful of Dust

'Tis a beautiful world that God with a smile has given to mortals to live in awhile. No drink in the joy—not the dregs of disgust, for man after all's but a handful of dust. The flowers that bloom, the sunshine and the rain, in the course of the seasons will come back again; the grandeur of spring and the evening's red glow, as well as the winter with its ice and its snow, will follow each other as God meant they must, for the pleasure of man—but a handful of dust. The blue bending sky with its sun and its moon, and its millions of stars that fade out too soon, and its dipper of gold, and broad milky way, that vanish from view with the dawn of each day, were flung into space by Divinity just to gladden the heart of a handful of dust. The ribbon like streams murmuring low, through the wood—where daisies on mossy banks grow, and the birds, in the branches forming with green, entrance with sweet music thro' the singer's unseen. And forest— all knarled barks their broad breast, against the wild storm that's never at rest, and cities spring up with their palms and their lust, the toys and the playthings of this handful of dust. A baby is born, to manhood he grows, and is lost in the whirlpool where nobody knows. He struggles for riches or a home or a crust, whichever he wins, still, he's a handful of dust. His name may be written on history's page, as he captures each prize on life's changing stage; he may wield a keen sword and parry each thrust, but the grave will receive him—a handful of dust.

A handful of dust—the final call's heard, the ears are all-deaf to the song of a bird; the eyes are bedimmed to the moon as it shines, and the stars bespangling the tall restless pines, and this tenement, all weary which God gave in trust, goes down to its rest—a handful of dust. And out of this dust the green grasses grow, and the flowers shed fragrance on the air as before, and generation spring up again from the crust, of this tireless old world—God's handful of dust.—Poet of the Pines.
