Nichols Worth By Nanalee Nichols

"Birds In Their Little Nests

Why, Oh, Why Can't We?"

Darling little quotation, isn't it? Obviously, though, the author had never been around any baby birds...or grown ones either!

Anyone who has ever seen a nest of baby birds has witnessed some of the most agressive sibling rivalry in existence.

Crammed into a tiny cup of grass, sticks or mud, the tiny little baby birds push, shove, quarrel and do their best to be the only member of the family to get anything to eat. When mom or dad mes sailing in with a mouthful of tasty worm, bug or fish (depending on the kind of bird), a fight erupts that would put a wolf pack to shame!

Some little birds will even shove their weaker brothers or sisters out of the nest. The only thing baby fledglings agree on is that they are all hungry, all the time.

Adult birds aren't a lot better. Look at the amazingly agressive little hummingbird. A classic. example of big belligrence in a miniscule body, they dart around fighting any and all comers, not only among themselves, but challenging wasps, bees, other birds and even passing humans! One will frequently sit on a feeder or blooming plant, squeaking tiny hummingbird profanity at others whenever they appear, and flying right into them. The audible swish of feathers as thev clash is startling.

Blue Jays, a lovely bird with the temperment of an ax murderer, will raid the nest of other birds, killing and eating infants and eggs alike. If that doesn't do they can fight each other, screaming, scratching and flogging one another in mid air.

They even resort to killing baby squirrals if they come upon a nest.

The birds of prey, the hawks, eagles and other majestic large raptors, have earned their name by being superbly adapted to catching everything from huge Salmon down to grasshoppers. And within their nests the same overwhelming goal exists....the drive for food, no matter at whose expense.

Ducks, chickens, all the fowl resort to "foul play" (Ohhhh, I can't believe I said that) when it comes to food, a mate, or anything else they want to obtain. Where did the expression "pecking order" come from? Take a guess.

At any rate, the little poem is charming. It conjures up visions of tiny birds chirping happily, gladly letting little sister have the incoming morsel of food, and growing up in perfect harmony.

Perhaps it would be better to

Booster Club To Have Bake Sales

The Rebel-Rebelette Booster Club will hold bake sales in Bogata and Talco on Friday, September 23. In Talco the sale will be held downtown beginning at 8 a.m. Bogata's sale will be held from 4 to 5 p.m. at the First National Bank in Bogata.

Some of the money raised will go towards the expenses of supplies being used to make signs for Rebels and Rebelettes with their uniform number on them to place in their yards. The club also makes signs each week to put on the side of the road so the athletes know they are being supported even at out of town games. Some businesses have shown their support by letting the club paint messages on their windows.

If you have a child in Talco or Bogata Junior High or at Rivercrest who is in any athletic sport and you want to help with the bake sale, please feel free to do so. The project committee of the club will try to contact everyone involved but it is usually impossible to do so. Everyone interested in helping is asked to bring baked goods or donations to either location.

This club includes all three schools. It is not a competition between two towns with Rivercrest in the middle. It's purpose is to support the main products of the towns, the kids. Please come out and show the kids you support them, win or lose.

Rivercrest Suffers Defeat

"Perhaps it was the band", quipped Rivercrest Rebel Coach Terry Tiddens, as he attempted to explain the 41-13 shelling of his charges by a Mt. Vernon Purple Tiger squad which by all prognosticators was not that much better than his Rebel squad. The Reb mentor was referring to the appearance at the game by the Southern Methodist University marching band, whose performance delighted the large crowd. The Rebels lack of concentration was evident throughout, as they continually hurt themselves with costly mistakes. Fumbling the pigskin seven times, the Rebels lost five to the Tigers; four Tiger recoveries were converted to touchdowns. Other costly Reb miscues included the failure to field a free ball on a kick-off, and a pass interference call (although questionable), on a fourth down and ing by only one touchdown. eight situation late in the first half, which gave the Tigers a first and goal at the Rebel two, and permitted them to score their third touchdown, to take a 20-7 halftime lead.

"Hopefully, we got our quota of fumbles for the season in one game," said a melancholy Giddens. "We did learn what a mental letdown will lead to; as a result this game will help us in the remainder of the season."

Despite the lopsided score, there were some noteworthy aspects of the Rebel play. Chief of these was the 82yard kick-off return by junior Jeremy Abshire midway through the second period. The agile sprinter spotted a crack created by the blocking of his teammates, squeezed through it and raced the distance untouched. David Stansell added the extra point, to bring the Rebels back into the contest, trail-

The Rebels only other score came long after theoutcome of the game had been determined, late in the final stanza. The sustained drive of 80 yards was spearheaded by three completed passes. The Rebel ground game was not effective, as all rushers combined for a total of only 106

Fullback Marcus Savage added another 22 yards on the drive with three carries. Woods then found sophomore tight-end Jeff Bagley on a 19-yarder to the Tiger 11. After Beers eight yard run, Woods scored from the three, with 1:40 left to play in the game. Game statistics reveal the Rebels' fruitlessness. The Rebels had only four first downs for the night, the initial one coming midway through the third period. Total offense was only 163 yards. The Tigers had a total of 296 yards.

Giddens had praise for his offensive line play. "They made the holes, but our backs didn't hit them," he said. Giddens singled out junior Joe Webb and senior Chad Parrish for their blocking. "Our defense was on the field too long," added Giddens.

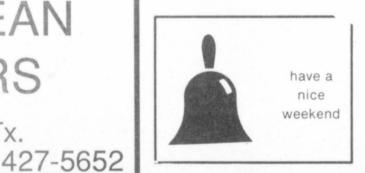

"They were able to wear us down."
Asked about injuries, Giddens remarked, "Our pride was hurt the most." Physical injuries from the game include a severely twisted ankle to cornerback Justin Roach, which may impede his play this week. Also, Scooter Brown is still hampered by a toe injury, but he is available for limited action.

The Rebels, now 0-3 on the season, will travel to Maud on Friday night, to face a highly ranked Class A squad. Maud lost to Redwater last week 32-0, but were without the serveces of their leading rusher and linebacker. Game time is 8 p.m.

The Junior High and Varsity Rebels will play at home on Thursday night. Last week, the JV unit lost a squeaker to Mt. Vernon, 8-6.

The Rebel Athletic Booster Club will sponsor a free watermelon cutting between the junior high and junior varsity game Thursday night. All fans are invited to attend. AT this time, memberships in the club, which support all athletic activities in the district, will be available. Cost of membership is $3.00 per person.

A Spare Gran Dad

By Shooter Dabney (Reprinted with permission of the Haskell News, Haskell, TX.)

I visited with my ten year old grand-son, Jay Hancock, this week who lives with his Pa-Pa and Me-Ma in the east Texas town of Bogata. For a man approaching 70, this could be dangerous to my health. Ten year olds have more stored up energy than a steam locomotive. They are also known to open the valve and let off pressure. This little guy woke me up at break of dawn and said, "Gran-Dad, lets take a ride on my Honda four wheeler before Pa-Pa gets up." All grown-ups should know better than to mount that machine of destruction, but no, not me. I'm not going to let this kid know my age.

Someone must have been riding with us, as I escaped unscratched, but definitely shaken. Our day after this included eating pizza, bowling, "Oh my poor back", pool game, miniature golf, jumping on trampoline. Don't these precious little monsters get tired? Then before bedtime he wanted to wrestle. That's adding insult to Somehow this Little Demon slipped into my bed, and under the cover. "Grandad, tell me a scary story." If you think you have no competition in this department after the horror stories on TV, try telling him about "The Three Bears" and "Little Red Riding Hood". No way, Hosea. You don't have his attention. It was finally sleep time. We said our goodnights, then I turned on my side.

In a low voice I heard my grandson say, "God, this is Jay. Please let my two Grandads live as long as I do. They are a lot of fun and take care of me. Bless Me-Maw for putting up with all of us. Gotta go now, God, and get some sleep. Grandad wakes up early and wants to play."
