It was one of those strange little thoughts that wake me up in the middle of the night. Just how many of our expressions come from the Bible!

What expressions?...the common, every-day ones that most folks use that have a Biblical origin.

Give some thought to this...there are numerous expressions whose roots are in the Bible.

"As Old as Methusala" is one of the most common. In the Bible, the gentlemen reached an advanced age of several hundred years, and is usually applied now to someone or something that has "always" been around.

Another one is "Who's going to cast the first stone" It's a pretty effective way of asking who has the right to judge.

Need more? Perhaps one of the most familiar of all is the term "Prodigal Son". "He's something of a prodigal son, or you'd have thought he was the prodigal son" being two of the ways it's used.

"It's paradise" or "It's truly the land of milk and honey" comes from the Bible, as does "Lilies of the field". Remember "Consider the lilies of the field, they toil not, neither do they spin". The expression usually is applied to someone who is lazy or has an unenergetic attitude.

Being a Good Samaritan takes its origin from one of the parables of Jesus, and is applied, naturally, to someone who is willing to help others. The story of the Biblical good Samaritan is probably one of the best loved and best known parables of all.

Faith is described by the "grain of mustard seed" and "salt has lost its flavor" comes directly from the Bible.

So does "hiding your light under a bushel" used to admonish people for being overly modest or shy.

Someone who is patient and willing to wait is described as "Having the patience of Job" and people who spend to much of their time looking into the past are accused of being "Like Lot's wife" or "If you look back one more time you're going to turn into a pillar of salt".

And what is the most-used? What do most of us say when we hear some with which we heartily agree?

Why "Amen to that" of course! There are many more of these expressions, and just as an exercise, why not try to think of a few of them. Their abundance may surprise you!

SPRINGTIME! in spite of the ice, this week's warm, sunny weather has brought bulbs like this dew-covered tulip out. Although many fruit trees and tender plants have suffered ice damage, most seem to be recovering from the dual cold weather. (Staff Photo by Nanalee Nichols)

Aurora Borealis Is Visible In Night Sky "Northern Lights" Highly Unusual For This Area

For those who happened to look at the night sky Monday night, a rare, and rather disquieting, event was visible. The Aurora Borealis, or "Northern Lights" were visible on Monday and Tuesday nights of the week. Reflecting off of atmospheric conditions, the weird red lights, shot with pale green and white streaks, were visible all across the sky, not just on the northern horizon. The best way to view the natural phenomenon was away from light sources such as street lights. Pinkish red to almost a red glow was the primary display, showing up as long areas. Slowly changing streaks or rays were visible through the red cloud-like formation. Also, bursts of white light almost like spotlights, but located high in the sky, were in evidence. The areas dimmed and strengthened, as well as forming in various areas, and were visible erratically from full dark until the early morning hours. The Aurora Borealis was beautiful, and also a little "spooky", looking as if some strange holocausts were lighting the night sky. Experts report that they are due to the northern lights being extremely intense right now. Northern states can see them frequently and with much more intensity.

Talco Trades Day Is Huge Success

The beautiful weather Saturday helped to make the first Talco Trades Day a huge success. From early morning to late evening, people browsed, traded and bought. W.D. Holt, known as Chainsaw Willie, displayed his unique art along with other arts and crafts, animals, food, farm equipment, clothing, you name it, someone had what you were looking for. Joe Riley, a past resident of Talco, was present with his clothing booth and said he came for a visit with long-ago friends as well as sales. The northeast Texas area was represented well. Richard Swarts was the winner of a hummingbird cake made by Mrs. Porterfield of Bogata and the winner was drawn by Mrs. Grace Hearnon. Next month's Trades Day will be April 8-9. Johnny Mack Brown reported reserving spots for most present as well as many others that plan to be there next month. To reserve a spot, call 379-5141. After a beautiful day Saturday, many awoke with red faces Sunday morning.

Due to a processing malfunction this week's photos for the Talco Times were destroyed. Among those lost are pictures of Talco Trades Day, the Sunshine Club, and a building being built at Talco City Hall. Hopefully the honor roll and six weeks award winners at the school can be retaken, as well as the Little Dribblers team and Mrs. Grace Hearnon receiving a pen of appreciation from the U. S. Postal service. Incidents of this nature are an editor's nightmare, and all we can do is extend sincere apologies.

Friendly Folks, Scenery, Good Highways Top Tourist Draws

Two or three people zipping down a smooth highway, enjoying the scenery, and recalling the friendly people and good food at their lunch stop, that's the typical party of visitors to Texas, according to a year-long survey of more than 13,000 tourists. Respondents to the highway department's Auto Visitor Survey during 1988 rated Texas friendliness first, followed by scenery, good roads and food as what they enjoyed most during their visit. Oklahoma, California, and Louisiana sent the most visitors, while Minnesota, Michigan and Illinois residents topped the list of people staying 30 days or more. San Antonio was the most popular destination, and a remarkable one-third of respondents visited the Alamo. "San Antonio, with big draws

Wood, Wilson Are Talco Teachers Of The Year

March 5-10 was Public School Week and the Talco PTO sponsored Teacher of the Year awards. Children from K-8 were allowed to vote for their favorite teachers and the voting found Mrs. Beth Wood, fourth grade teacher downstairs and Coach Shane Wilson for upstairs. Principal Bill Vickers was also presented an appreciation plaque at the awards program held Friday, March 10 at 1 p.m. Following the program, Mr. Vickers explained why the children would not get an Easter break as planned, due to use of bad weather days. He also asked that the children get out and run off the excess energy, take care and to see them on Monday. PTO members also provided snacks in the teacher's lounge all week in honor of all Talco Teachers and staff.

I Got Those Kids Grown Up... Got A License Blues! Or A Mother's Thoughts When Her Sixteen Year Old Can Drive

By Nancy Brown
I suppose most parents of children on the verge of adulthood have experienced similar sensations, but for me, it's a new thing. The sixteen year old is leaving home for the first time, driving happily out of the drive with a cheerful wave. After cheerfully waving back I went inside...and was beset with a barrage of images. Images of wrecked cars, ambulances, hospitals flashed before my eyes. Calls from law enforcement officers, trying to break the news gently were fantasized in a moment. Next, and not nearly as important but still daunting were those images of the auto body shop, wreckers, huge insurance bills and people chasing you, all waving bills and screaming PAY! PAY! PAY!
I'm sure we'll survive this new step in our daughter's life, but those of you who haven't undergone the experience just don't realize what Drivers Education and a small piece of plastic can do to your life! In my current confused, overprotective mind, 20 is beginning to sound like a better age to obtain a driver's license! Diaper days are over, and pleading "Please don't grow up" hasn't worked....I tried it. I hear from those who have gone before me that it doesn't get better, there just gets to be more to worry about. For the first time, memories of my own growing up flash to my mind...and I understand fully those immortal words "You pay for your raising".

She says, "I'm running for the School Board in order to support the current high standards that have been set forth in our school district."

Circus Coming To Paris On March 25

If there's anything as American as apple pie, and even more delightful, it's the circus, and ladies and gentlemen, the biggest tented circus in America will be in the area soon. History will come to life in Paris on March 25 as the massive Carson & Barnes 5-Ring Big Top is raised with the help of elephant power on circus morning. The size of Carson & Barnes is truly astonishing. The show travels with a staff of 2001, including 95 performers as well as various cooks, electricians, mechanics, wardrobe and property people, animal handlers, box office and concession personnel. This is in addition to the many animals, exotic and domestic, including 20 elephants. As America's last big traditional circus, the big top stretches the length of a football field, holds five rings plus two stages, a hippodrome track and steel arena.

The show's contingent of performers presents a vast array of acrobatic and aerial displays that include wire-walking, bareback riding, juggling, risley, perch pole, Spanish web, head-balancing trapeze, flying trapeze and more.

Carson & Barnes is so big it moves every 24 hours in a herculean attempt to attract sufficient circus-goers to pay its astronomical daily expenses. Everyone invited out circus morning to watch the elephants raise the big top and visit the circus' mammoth traveling zoo with lions, tigers, zebras, camels and giraffe, hippo and rare white rhino, all free circus morning.

It's a spectacle our great grandparents might have seen and it will all be in Paris sponsored by the Shrine at the fairgrounds.

Yields Affected By Ice

By Paul D. Payne

Wheat has received another winter setback with the last round of sleet and freezing rain. It is a safe assumption that wheat yields have been affected downward by the severe cold weather three weeks ago and perhaps by the more recent spell. The extent of the damage will not be fully known until harvest time in many instances. It has been noticed that the cold weather killed some of the young tillers in some fields. This, of course, means that there are fewer stalks to produce grain heads. Also, it is quite possible that some heads were damaged in the more advanced wheat.

Freeze damage in what is directly dependent on the planting date, fertilization and amount of lush growth at the time of the freeze. Fields that have shown the most freeze damage are those fields that were planted early, fertilized heavy and had lots of top growth.

Dr. Travis Miller, Agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, reports that half of the yield comes from the main tiller. Another "thumb rule" is that one needs from 40 to 45 heads per square foot to produce acceptable yields.

There is a good chance that disease problems will surface when weather conditions become favorable for diseases to develop. In order for a disease to develop there are three things that must occur. If anyone of the three are not present, then a disease will not occur. These three are host, pathogen and environment. We have had leaf rust scattered in wheat throughout the fall and winter, so we won't have to depend upon the wind currents to bring the fungi into our area from wheat producing areas to the south.

What are the environmental conditions favorable for leaf rust development? The critical minimum temperature for development of the leaf rust fungi is 50 degrees Fahrenheit. Infection will occur in six hours if there is free moisture present and the temperature is 50 degrees or higher. Free moisture could be dew, shower or rain.

The conditions necessary for stripe rust are quite similar to that of leaf rust except that stripe rust prefers cooler weather than does leaf rust. The spring of 1988 was a much cooler spring than normal and the stripe rust epidemic lasted much longer than expected because of that situation.

Septoria leaf blotch is another serious leaf disease problem in our area of the state that other areas do not have to deal with. Seldom do we just have a septoria problem without either leaf or stripe rust. It does reduce yields and in 1988 demonstration work conducted in Lamar County we obtained a five bushel increase where fungicides were applied to control septoria.

The decision to use or not to use a fungicide is one that each producer must make. Producers should take into account the yield potential of their wheat, the wheat price situation and the disease pressure. We have generally thought that one should have a yield potential of 40 bushels per acre before the application of a fungicide would pay. However, that scenario may not necessarily be accurate with the market price prospects higher than in previous years.

A breakfast meeting for wheat producers will be held on Thursday, March 23 at 7 a.m. at the Paris Holiday Inn. The program will be a discussion of the disease situation at that time and a further explanation of disease control measures. Sponsors of the meeting include Estes Chemicals, CIBA Geigy, and the County Crops Committee in cooperation with our office.

Keeping Healthy

Never Too Late

Exercise isn't just for the young. "Exercise—even when begun at a late age—can improve the quality of life significantly," says a California Medical Assoc. Health Tip.

Seniors who follow a safe exercise program designed for their needs and capabilities can improve their muscle strength, cardiorespiratory fitness, physical endurance and mobility. In addition, regular exercise can help regulate blood pressure, prevent the bone deterioration that can lead to osteoporosis, lower the concentration of fat in the blood that causes atherosclerosis, and help prevent weight gain by encouraging better eating habits and regulating metabolism.

Exercise can provide important psychological benefits, too. Elderly adults who exercise regularly appear to be more self-confident and self-sufficient than their sedentary peers.

Walking is perhaps the most convenient exercise for older adults and is extremely beneficial, as it places minimum stress on the heart while improving musculoskeletal function and benefitting the cardiovascular system.

Tide Dealerships Purchased By Wilbur-Ellis

Wilbur-Ellis Company of San Francisco has announced that it has entered into an agreement to acquire the distribution centers of Tide Products, Co., Inc., a major distributor of agricultural chemicals to southern states from Texas to Florida and including the Tide Products distributorship in Depot.

This move makes Wilbur-Ellis the second largest distributors of agricultural chemicals in the USA and is the result of Tide being put on the market following the death of Lloyd Bentsen, Sr., recently.

"The acquisition of the Tide distribution outlets is an important part of our long-range plan," Wilbur said, "and will enhance the combined companies' abilities to increase services to all their customers."

According to Wilbur-Ellis Company president, Brayton Wilbur, the acquisition means that Wilbur-Ellis will now operate distribution centers from coast to coast, serving major agricultural areas.

The new division will be directed by Frank Saviez, vice-president from the Wilbur-Ellis Central Division Office in Fresno, CA. Regional offices for the new division will be maintained in Edinburg and other locations in the south.

Wilbur-Ellis Company is a multi-regional distributor of agricultural chemicals, fertilizers and animal and poultry feedstuffs and currently maintains divisions headquartered in Seattle, Fresno, San Francisco and West Burlington, Iowa, as well as overseas offices serving its Connell Brothers division.

USDA Campaign Alerts Farmers To Compliance Needs

By Steve R. Smith, District Conservationist

Farmers and ranchers who do not yet have the conservation plans they need under the 1985 Farm Bill can expect a letter from the USDA's Soil Conservation Service reminding them of the December 31, 1989 deadline. The letter will come with a new brochure, "Make Your Move Now", which is the centerpiece of a nationwide information campaign. As of the end of October, 1988, 53% of the required conservation plans had been developed nationwide.

Under the law's conservation compliance provisions, producers and landowners with highly erodible land who want to stay eligible for certain USDA program benefits must develop a conservation plan and have it approved by the local conservation district. USDA benefits affected include price and income support payments, Farmers Home Administration loans, crop insurance and disaster payments. Loss of benefits applies to all land a person farms, including that under partnership, not just the highly erodible fields.

The letters are the leading element of a campaign that also includes posters, brochures, public service announcements and media stories. All the campaign pieces incorporate the theme "Make Your Move Now: Stay Eligible for USDA Programs."

For more information, contact the SCS office in Clarksville or call 427-2975.

Correct W-4 Makes Difference

The Internal Revenue Service asks, "Will you be up to date on your Federal withholding allowances for 1989?"

Every payday your employer uses the information and the number of withholding allowances from your Form W-4, "Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate," to determine how much Federal income tax to withhold from your pay. So, it is important to keep your Form W-4 up-to-date to reflect any changes in withholding allowances, the IRS says.

The instructions and worksheets on the 1989 Form W-4 help you figure the number of withholding allowances you are entitled to claim. File a new Form W-4 with your employer if necessary. You can get Form W-4 from your employer or by calling the IRS toll-free number, 1-800-424-3676.

Quarterly Tax Payments May Be Required

Estimated tax payments may be required by anyone who receives income that is not subject to withholding of income tax, or income from which not enough tax is withheld, the Internal Revenue Service says.

Such income includes but is not limited to self-employment earnings, alimony, interest, dividends, rent and capital gains.

Estimated tax is the total of expected income tax and self-employment tax (as well as certain other taxes) less any tax withheld and tax credits. These other taxes include the alternative minimum tax.

Generally, individuals required to make estimated tax payments may make quarterly installments or may pay all their estimated tax at one time. In order to avoid a late payment penalty, the one-time payment must be made by the due date of the first quarterly payment for which the taxpayer is liable.

Payments are due on April 17, June 15, September 15, 1989 and January 17, 1990. A payment-voucher from the Form 1040-ES package should accompany each payment and should be mailed to the Internal Revenue Service Center for your state as shown in your 1040-ES package.

Form 1040A or 1040EZ cannot be used at tax time if estimated tax payments were made because there are no lines on these forms to show estimated tax payments.

Further information is contained in free IRS Publication 505, "Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax," and can be obtained by calling toll-free 1-800-424-3676.

The number of weekly newspapers in the United States is 7,666. Total circulation is 45 million.

Add 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 1/2 teaspoons sugar, 2 tablespoons butter and enough water to just barely cover the carrots. Cover and cook just until the carrots are tender. Remove the lid and boil until the water has completely evaporated, leaving a sticky glaze. Sprinkle with 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon, mix and serve.

Michelle Harper

Michelle Harper Is National Award Winner

The United States Achievement Academy announced recently that Michelle JoAnn Harper has been named a United States National Award Winner in Science.

This award is a prestigious honor very few students can ever hope to attain. In fact, the Academy recognizes less than 10% of all American high school students.

Miss Harper, who attends Rivercrest High School, was nominated for this national award by Vincent Lum, a Physical Science teacher at the school. She will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, published nationally.

The Academy selects USAA winners upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors or other school sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy. The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability, and recommendation from a teacher or director.

Michelle is the daughter of Ross and Victoria Griffin. Grandparents are Victor L. Keefover of Winton, CA and Addie Sisson of Bogata.

A valuable party favor

The next time you attend a children's party with metallic balloons, give the guests a valuable favor.

Tell them that it's dangerous to float the balloons near power lines.

If the balloon floats into a power line, it could cause a fault in the power system.

Worse, it could injure anyone who touches the balloon or its string since the metal in the balloon conducts electricity and could turn the string into a conductor.

For more information on electrical safety, call or visit your local TNP office today.
