Grazing Crops

Fall and winter grazing crops will be needed on many farms. Those who have plenty of hay, corn, silage and sorghum are of course fortunate and will be in a position to winter their animals. But even if they have the feed they will need some pasture. Unless there is a permanent pasture, grazing crops should be planted so the animals will feed themselves in fair weather while they are taking the necessary exercise.
Of the adaptable grazing crops rye, oats, wheat, barley and summer are worth considering. These crops are hardy, get a start before cold weather and under favorable conditions afford grazing in late fall, sometimes mid-winter and spring. In addition to providing pasture for the animals, the soil is protected from washing, being held together to some extent by the roots of plants. The roots also are left perhaps a portion of plants above the soil to be turned under and furnish vegetable matter.

The corn fields may be turned and sown in a fall grazing and cover crop. Sometimes rye, wheat, oats or barley is planted between the cotton rows. In picking the cotton the cover crop is not badly injured, but the soil much benefited in the event the cotton is not picked in time to break the land before spring.—Farm and Ranch.

Lee Humphries of O'Brien was in the city Monday on business. Lee says with a few days dry weather his section has more good cotton growing than they can ever get picked this year before the winter months set in.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Haley of Whit were in the city Monday. We were glad to see Mr. Haley able to come to town and hope he will soon be able to walk on his leg which was broken some time back.

HE WAS IN BED FOR SIX LONG MONTHS

Was Able to Be Up in Three Weeks After Taking Tanlac—Gains Twenty Pounds

"I was in bed for six long months with stomach trouble and rheumatism and Tanlac alone deserves the credit for my recovery," said George Ferguson, popular long-horsemann, of 2718 3rd ave, Seattle, Washington. "I have gained twenty pounds and feel like I was never sick a day in my life," he continued.

"My trouble started a year ago. My appetite left me and what I forced myself to eat would cause a severe pain in my stomach and shortness of breath. Meats were almost like poison to my system; I got as weak as a kitten and the rheumatism laid hold of me so bad I could hardly drag myself about. My kidneys seemed to give away, too, and my back hurt so bad I could hardly stoop over. My head ached like it would split and I would get so dizzy I had to hold to something to keep from falling. I lost sleep and weight and was completely down and out.

"Tanalac helped me so much I was out of bed in three weeks and now I am like a different man. All my troubles are entirely gone. I am back at work every day and do my work so easily I surprise the men who work with me. I never felt better in my life and I give Tanlac all the credit for my splendid health."

Tanalac is sold everywhere by all leading druggists.

MACK SENNETT'S GREATEST EFFORT SOON TO BE SHOWN

Mack Sennett's newest comedy creation, a five part comedy production, "Down on the Farm," regarding which there has been no end of exceptionally favorable comment since its issuance by United Artists Corporation, will be the feature at Dick's Theatre soon, giving the people of this community the opportunity of witnessing a comedy production that is making film history.

The release of "Down on the Farm," through United Artists Corporation is not to be wondered at, for the production is of such magnitude that it fits in admirably with the type of pictures in which the "Big Four" has been specializing. It has been known for some time that United Artists would not confine itself only to the distributions of Mary Pickford, Charlie Chaplin Douglas Fairbanks and D. W. Griffith exclusively, but would distribute the occasional big productions that come to the open market for specialization in distribution. This is an indication that the "Big Four" will have a released list of wide variety in addition to the big productions of its four principals.

Critics everywhere throughout the country have praised this production "to the skies," placing it in a class all its own, as a production that reaches the greatest heights that have ever been reached by a producer of comedy spectacles. Every resource of the enormous Mack Sennett studios in California are involved in the results of this production; every man that was ever contrived in a studio to bring merriment to motion picture lovers has been brought into play and every incident that is brought about by the story which is laid on a real home-to-goodness farm in the inimitable manner in which none other but a Sennett could do, brings forth results that are thrilling, comic, hilarious farcical and furiously funny.

Astonishing in the extreme is the wonderful manner in which Mr. Sennett succeeded in training the birds and beasts of the farm to act the leading roles in this production. A dog, a Cat, a cow a flock of turkeys, ducks, geese and chickens all lead themselves to parts in the production in a way that has never before been accomplished. The work of these habitues of the farm is of such a calibre that every audience becomes amazed at the manner in which they perform.

"Down on the Farm," is an exceptional feature and has been a sensation in every community in which it has appeared. It is not a matter of wonderment why United Artists decided to release it, since it surely is in excellent keeping with the best that is being produced for the lovers of amusement.

Killing Poultry Lice

A satisfactory home-made mixture to kill lice on poultry consists of 3 parts of gasoline and 1 part of crude carbolic acid with as much plaster of paris as the liquids will moisten.

The material is allowed to dry a few hours and then placed in air-tight containers. The mixture has been tried out at the Ohio Experiment Station.

The powder should not be mixed nor placed near a flame. It is necessary to hold the fowl while dusting in order to work the dust into the feathers thoroughly. Ten pounds of the mixture will treat 250 mature birds.

Mercurial ointment or "blue butter" has been found valuable for killing head lice frequently found on little chicks. Mercurial ointment is a stiff substance and should be mixed with one or two parts vaseline to apply it easily.

A bit of the mixture the size of a pea applied with the tip of the finger and rubbed into the feathers about the head will destroy the lice. It should not be used too freely.—Southern Fruit Grower.

B. M. Whiteaker secretary of the Haskell Chamber of Commerce was chosen by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to take charge of their exhibits of farm products from West Texas which they are placing in the State Fairs of the north and east. He left last week for Springfield, Illinois, where the first exhibit will be placed in the Illinois State Fair, beginning August 19. He will go from there to Danville, Illinois, where he will place the exhibit in the Interstate fair. He goes from there to Indianapolis, Ind., thence to Louisville, Ky. and Nashville, Tennessee, and from there he will return to Haskell and complete the arrangement for the county fair, which will be held the first Friday and Saturday in October.

R. H. Quinn of Denver, Colo., was here the first of the week, the guest of his parents Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Quinn.

To Shelter Cotton

Much loss is sustained every year in the southwest for lack of shelter to protect seed cotton after it is picked. Although building materials are very expensive and labor very scarce and high this year, growers should not take risk on the weather by leaving cotton unprotected in the field after it has been produced and picked. At present prices cotton is too valuable to lose, and enough could be saved in a short time by better selling prices to enable one to build shelter.

Plans should be made to take better care of cotton after it is picked and before it is ginned and also after it is baled. No one need deceive himself that buyers, spinners or speculators lose in handling damaged cotton. The grower, whether through carelessness, neglect or unavoidable circumstances, like Jones, "pays the freight." Loss is always charged against him.

If there is anything uncertain here in the southwest it is the weather, but we never know when it will be good, and we can generally depend upon it being bad occasionally.—Farm & Ranch.

Mrs. Salome Ware returned Saturday evening from Howell, where she spent several weeks visiting.

PLANT A FALL GARDEN BEFORE IT IS TOO LATE

Conditions were never better for planting a fall garden this fall. The rains continue with the cool days and nights that will insure perfect germination of a seed planted. Many kinds of vegetables can be planted and grown successfully this fall and every one should have vegetables growing in their garden. The high cost of living is not going to come down and a good fall garden will come in good place to help out on the expense account.

Thorough preparation of the soil should be given and great care should be taken to make good seed beds in order to get a good stand on first planting. The season for growing fall vegetables is much shorter than that for spring vegetables and those who expect to succeed with a fall garden must make sure that everything is right before planting. Peas, onions, beans, radishes, Irish potatoes and many other vegetables will grow successfully from fall planting. Late vegetables require less cultivation, in fact, very little cultivation is required if you thoroughly prepare the ground. Vegetables are needed most in the fall and can be kept for the winter by a little extra care in saving such as beans and peas. Act quick and plant a fall garden before it is too late.

Mrs. E. W. Sandlin of Glenrose, came in Friday morning for a visit with her daughter Mrs. J. D. Wheatley of the Roberts community. Her daughter Mrs. T. A. Rhodes accompanied her for a visit to Mrs. Wheatley also.

It Pays to Test Rubber Rings
With fruit, sugar, and vegetables at their present high levels, the canner who does not test the rubber rings she uses is taking a long chance as to whether the 20 to 50 cents worth of good material in the can will keep or not. This year the country is flooded with poor rubber rings, and unless the housekeeper tests the rings she is using the chances are good that her canned products will not keep. The cost of everything entering into retailing rings has increased, and in order to continue selling them at the old price and to make a profit many manufacturers have reduced the quality of the rings they are putting out. The United States Department of Agriculture gives a number of tests which may be used to determine whether a rubber ring has the requirements that it should have or not. One is the stretching test.

A 6-inch piece is cut out of a ring; take hold of the end so there are 4 inches between the fingers. Stretch the piece along a ruler until the fingers are 10 inches apart. The sample should not break and should return when released to its original length. The tensile strength test is as follows: Fill a light-weight pail with 1 gallon and 7 pints of water (total weight approximately 17 pounds). Place the jar ring around an empty spool; pass a wire through the center of the spool and fasten to handle of the pail; then pass the round handle of a wooden spoon or broom through the ring and lift. The ring should not break. If rings will stand these two tests, they are not likely to give trouble in canning.

William T. Kempner, receiver of the Orient Railroad, that passes through the western part of Haskell county, announces that the road has received the loan of $2,500,000 from the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington, to be applied to the receiver's certificates outstanding and maintaining continuous operation of the property. It was reported some time back that operation of the Orient would be discontinued if the loan was not granted by September 1st. But with this loan the road will have ample means to operate and also continue to build into Old Mexico, making a transcontinental line from Kansas City to the Pacific coast about 500 miles shorter than any other road.

here to terrace and save the hills; and fertilizer is not used at all. In fact, the people here are very backward in all matters of that kind. As long as there is any new land that can be cleared, they will abandon the old fields, and clear new ones; some day they will make the round, and then the real work is ready to begin. The truth of the matter is, these people are lazy; there are exceptions, but that describes the majority of them. This is doubtless due to the presence of so many negroes, who for years have done the most of the work; and the survival of old Southern aristocratic tastes; without the will to drive it with which to satisfy them. People have either never had, or have lost if they did have, the desire to work, accumulate, get ahead. Work is looked on as a sad necessity, something to be apologized for, to be ashamed of, as the unavoidable road to a living. Neither men nor women have that splendid capability of doing for themselves, which has made the West what it is. A man who I know, had bought a new wagon, and set it out under a big oak tree, after having taken the tongue out of the wagon. A friend of his asked him, "Why did you take the tongue out of that wagon? Was it to keep someone from driving off with it?" He replied, "Yes, that's it; There may be some people around here with energy enough to hitch a team to it and drive it off, if the tongue is in it; but there's nobody in this county with enough energy to put the tongue in, and then drive away with it." And his wagon is still safe, too!

Many of the people have lived around the places where they now are, for all of their lives. If they get dissatisfied with their homes or farms or the country in general, they move to the next county, and live there for the rest of their lives. There are two towns in adjoining counties, the towns being named Water Valley, and Grenada; about thirty miles apart. A friend was telling me that he was talking with an old negro in Grenada, and asked him how old he was. The five years old, cap'n." "How long have you been living in Grenada," asked the white man. "Seng de wash, boss." "Well, you must have seen Grenada change and grow a great deal in that period. Have you lived in Grenada all the time?" "Yes sah, I've lived here all de time 'sept one day when I went to Water Valley. I b'lieves dat when yuh lives at a place, yuh orter live dere."

And the negroes are kept in African ignorance; if they should wish to be good citizens, and honest men, they hardly have a chance. What they make is usually taken from them on one pretext or another. The result is that those with any ambition at all got out; and those that remain are practically serfs, or as bad as the peons in Mexico. Their ignorance is amazing. A white lady the other day took a little negro girl, and went up to sweep out the church I am serving, near here. While they were at work, the little negro said, "Miss Marguerite, is Gawwe Washington daid?" The lady informed her that he was dead. "Well, den, whose got it now?" "Mr. Woodrow Wilson is President, if that's what you mean," replied the lady. "The little girl chuckled to herself, as she said, 'Well, I'll bet Uncle Sam sho' is glad he didn't have to take it.'"

The church life and activity of these people is a curious mixture of simple sincerity, and of denominational prejudice. The church services are rather well attended; and they are very susceptible to leadership; open minded as a rule when it comes to considering the claims of religion, I know of no place where work yields a better, quicker result. At one of the two churches I serve, we have just closed a five days meetings from which there were twenty additions to the church, fourteen being by profession; at the other one, we have received ten members during this summer; and that is a fair example of their interest. But on the other hand, the denominations are distrustful of each other, fighting one another; some of them actually seem to regard a proselyte as deserving of more honor than a conversion. It is a sad state of affairs; and I fear that the towns have not set them any too good an example in this, either. We certainly need not expect to Christianize our own home-land, much less the world, so long as the house is divided against itself; so long as those who ought to be allies, at a common cause, are bickering, involved in endless contention; some great denominations actually sending out representatives who claim that theirs is the only true way, and that all others are lost. The job is big enough when everybody pulls on the same end of the rope; but when they divide up, and pull against each other, there is likely to be no progress at all. It is no use earnestly hoping that good common sense, and education, but above all, a more heart-felt religion, will indicate what seems to be the better way—namely, co-operation.

With a good wish for the success, prosperity, and influence of your paper, I am,
Yours very sincerely,
Lewis J. Sherrill.

Revival Closes
The revival which has been in progress the past week at the Church of Christ, closed Sunday night. The services were in charge of Elder Speck, who is a strong man. The services were well attended, considering the bad weather.

Misses Hassie and Louise Davis returned Monday night from San Marcos where they have been attending the Southwestern Normal. The young ladies say they are glad to get back home and get ready for the school term, in Haskell county. They are both teachers.

Miss Minadele Davis returned from Chicago University Monday night where she has been for several weeks taking special work. She is one of Haskell County's best teachers and is a teacher in the city schools here.

Fred and Nettie Norman of Kilbuck Texas, were the guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Havins.

Clear as a Bell

THE SONORA has the clarity and vibrant charm of the great bronze bell in the church tower which peals its chime lazily over the town on a quiet Sunday morning.

The purity, sweetness, naturalness of expression and mellow richness of Sonora's tone make it superbly beautiful.

JUDGE KEY'S MANAGER NOW FOR JUDGE PIERSON FOR SUPREME COURT

IN INTERVIEW GIVEN TO THE SAN ANTONIO EXPRESS HE GIVES SOME REASONS WHY HE WILL SUPPORT PIERSON.

News that Dudley K. Woodward, Austin lawyer who managed the campaign of Judge W. M. Key for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, will support Judge William Pierson in the run-off primary against Judge Hawkins, is contained in the following item from the San Antonio Express of Friday morning:

"During the contest just closed, I managed W. M. Key's campaign for nomination as Associate Justice of the Supreme Court. It now appears that he has been eliminated, and in the run-off between Judge Pierson and Judge Hawkins, I shall vote for Judge Pierson, because, as between these two gentlemen, I believe that Judge Pierson is better qualified and that it is a matter of genuine public importance that he be nominated.

"Judge Hawkins is a man of strict integrity and high character, but his record upon the Supreme Court during his seven and one-half years of service there, forces me to the conclusion that temperamentally and otherwise, he is not qualified for the position which he holds. During the period between Jan. 7, 1913, (the date upon which Judge Hawkins qualified) and June 30, 1920, covered by volumes 459-462 of the advanced sheet North of the Southwestern Reporter, I find that Chief Justice Phillips has written 204 opinions of the court (exclusive of dissents, concurrences and others not decisive of the case); that Justices Brown, Yantis and Greenwood, each succeeding the other in the order named, have written in the aggregate 182 opinions, and that Justice Hawkins has written 28 opinions. If these figures are correct, and they have been made with the utmost care, they reflect a situation which, in my judgment, renders it imperative that Judge Hawkins be superseded.

"Judge Pierson is a man of equally high character, an eminent lawyer of wide experience, and for a number of years past has served with credit to himself upon the District Court, where he has demonstrated his ability to transact the public business with accuracy and dispatch. I am convinced that, if elected to the Supreme Court, he will prove himself to be a distinguished member of that great body. He has conducted his campaign in such a manner that his success leaves no trace of bitterness, and it will be a pleasure as well as the discharge of a public duty to give him my support."—D. K. WOODWARD, Jr.
