

All around Briscoe County there was indignation regarding the map of Lake Mackenzie which appeared in the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal early this week. Tanner Laine called the Briscoe County News Tuesday morning and said that he had received so much flak concerning this that he would like us to convey his apologies to the people. "I am a native West Texan," Laine said, "and my son was one of those who worked on the Mackenzie archaeological project. I know exactly where the Mackenzie dam is located, but somehow the artist who made the drawing didn't interpret my rough sketch very well and placed the entire lake in Swisher County. I am sorry about this, and I hope the people of Briscoe County will understand that this was just a mistake." It's good of Mr. Laine to realize that he owes Briscoe County an apology, but what he really needs to do is to run the correct map in the Avalanche-Journal so that people can see the true picture of the lake's location.

Bess McWilliams, Briscoe County Clerk, says that the Authority has over 1700 acres of land in Briscoe County and less than 800 in Swisher. When the lake is full, at 150 foot depth, there will be about 30 miles of shoreline, at least 25 miles which will be in Briscoe County.

Mayfield Elected To All-District Teams

Dayne Mayfield, junior tackle on the Owl football team, was named to the 2-A All-District Team at the district meeting on Wednesday of last week. He was named to the first All-District team as one of the defensive down linemen, and was named to the second All-District team as an offensive tackle.

Mobile Telephone Tower To Be Installed Soon

Mid-Plains Rural Telephone Company has announced plans to place a mobile telephone tower south of Silverton soon. They are presently awaiting a communications permit. The tower will be placed in the vicinity of the Harold Storie's, and this will be about a $150,000.00 project.

The system will carry 30 mobile telephones, offering local phone service as well as long distance NUMBER 48 direct dialing.

It is understood that there are still a few openings available in the proposed mobile telephone system, and if you are interested in further information regarding this service, you should contact Dick Shackelford at the Mid-Plains office in Tulia.

This conclusion from results of 1974 cotton variety evaluation comes from Dr. Earl Minton, plant pathologist for USDA Agricultural Research Service here. If true, it means cotton can expect increasingly better performance from commercial cotton varieties in terms of tolerating Verticillium wilt, a fungus that lives in the soil which attacks and kills cotton plants each season. It also means more dollars pastureland tested now can save for producers and the cotton in-

As it attacks, plant leaves become necrotic or deadened, with leaf spots, burned edges and other symptoms similar to those of a hard freeze or defoliation. The disease is readily apparent when the plant is loaded with bolls. So far, researchers have found that some limited control can be obtained with proper cultural practices such as rotation, thick cotton stands, lighter watering, nitrogen fertilization, and effective weed control. Weeds are alternate hosts for the fungus.

Minton says that the best single way farmers are able to deal with wilt is through use of wilttolerant varieties.

Of 26 commercial and experimental varieties tested under field conditions in 1974 at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center, nine performed particultrly well. All of these had a long history of selection for resistance to wilt. Min s in the state. The rules were recommended by industry representatives and veterinary officials of all 50 states and approved by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Because of the state's refusal to tighten brucellosis regulations, the USDA has informed the Texas Animal Health Commission that federal funds to fight brucellosis in cattle may be withdrawn. In addition, Texas cattle may be placed under federal guarantine to prevent the spread of the disease to other states.

Texas counties also would lose Modified-Certified and Certified Brucellosis Free status. Additional testing would be required in order to ship cattle interstate, points out Holland.

The action to remove federal brucellosis funds would become effective January 1, 1976, when a cooperative agreement with Texas for brucellosis eradication would be terminated unless remedial steps were taken by the state As a result of the brucellosis eradication program begun in 1934, more than 99 per cent of the nation's cattle are now free of brucellosis. However, one per cent still infected causes millions of dollars in losses to the livestock industry through abortions, breeding problems, weakened offspring and reduced milk production. The disease may be passed from animals to humans as undulant fever. Currently the annual federal expenditure to eradicate brucellosis in Texas amount to $3.7 million $2 million of which is for indemnities paid to owners of infected cattle, and $650,000 for cooperative agreements for herd testing, notes Holland.

According to USDA figures, Texas had 3,083 cattle herds under quarantine on August 31. This is about one-third of the 9,452 infected herds identified nationally.

The new drive for final eradica tion was prompted by recent increases in the number of brucellosis-affected herds, primarily in the South. As a result, the USDA has given top priority to the program and has committed the necessarv resources.

"I'd rather explain higher gas bills than why you don't have gas."

Your natural gas bill is higher. And, you have every right to know why.

One reason is lower temperatures brought on by winter.

The main reason, however, is simply that you are paying more for natural gas. Because we are paying more. This chart shows how much: FIELD PRICE OF GAS

This increase hurts both you and Pioneer. It adds to your bill and to our cost . . . a cost for which Pioneer is not entirely compensated. It is passed through without mark-up or additional charges.

Why does gas cost more? Competition . . . particularly from petrochemical and other industries. The competition for gas has never been so fierce.

We will have to pay more for gas than in the past. But by working together, and without outside interference, you'll have the gas you need today and in the future.

And for my home-sometimes I don't like it at all, because it needs paint, the couch is worn, and the carpets need cleaning, and I long for a House Beautiful model with everything in place. But then I'd never give up the children's pictures on the wall, the dog dish on the kitchen floor, the school art displayed on the kitchen blackboard, the grandmother's antique lamp, which doesn't work-I count my blessings for my home-most of the time.

And to you, God, I sometimes wonder why you don't give me all the things I ask for, but then I'm really ashamed, because when I start to count my blessings on this Thanksgiving Day, I shouldn't have any mixed emotions, because You really take better care of me than I deserve!

Happy Thanksgiving,
