Summers near and far
The end of June and beginning of summer-in-earnest is here.

The world is so beautifully green and the countryside is so perfect right now. Hearing the rich sound of ice in a glass the other day took me back into my ever-further-away childhood. I began to recall some of the things that I associated with growing up in a small town. See if you share the same memories, or see if you can remember some of your own.

The smell of mimosa trees, sweet and rich, brings back memories of sitting in the comfortable fork of one, reading a book, or playing with my cousins, using the pink fuzzy blossoms for "powder puffs". (no one thought we'd have allergy problems from wiping pollen on our faces).

Crawling through a "Spooky" culvert under Beville street. (If our parents had only known they would have put a stop to that!) Hiding out while cars rumbled overhead seemed exciting fun back then.

Picking vegetables in the garden with my grandmother, while she fussed at me because I wouldn't leave the old-fashioned sun bonnet on my head comes back to me every time I step out my kitchen door to pick a fresh tomato. Sun warmed earth, the distinctive smell of tomato vines, the sun beating down brings it all back.

At a slightly later age the delicious coolness in the air at night as we (being a group of carefree teens) went driving down back roads in the middle of the night, summer breezes whipping through open windows as we giggled and laughed.

A July 4th, spent gathered with friends at Lake Gambil provided sunburns and good food, lots of swimming and splashing and adolescent enthusiasm. The sounds of water on shore and boats growling in the distance tend to bring those days back to memory.

And, there is that watery smell that I always connect with Spavinaw, Oklahoma, where my other grandmother lived. Summers spent up there, with a friend in tow, are always recalled when that lake-side odor of water, water weeds, fish and sunshine combines.

Yes, there are so many good memories, and, of course, some bad ones, connected with the beginning of summer. I treasure them all, and continue to amass more of them, sitting on the front porch late in the evening, watching the sun set behind the trees, hearing the sleepy sound of birds settling in for the night.

We don't quit collecting memories just because we are grown, do we?

Collect some of your own, whether you are young or old. It's never too late to start!

Memories of a special lady shared by granddaughter

by Nancy Brown

On Monday I visited with Mrs. Gussie Mussick who was in the process of setting up her quilt stand to begin quilting a beautiful top she had hand stitched. Mrs. Mussick had an interesting story about her lively grandmother, Mary Grimett Christopher to tell.

Mrs. Christopher was originally from South Carolina. Her family moved to Lone Star, Texas where she met and married, Ben Christopher, who was a minister. In 1914 they moved to Cuthand and in 1921 to the Lewis place located on the present day FM 909. The couple raised 10 children together. Their only way of transportation was by wagon or by horse which Mrs. Christopher rode side saddle.

In 1925 the family moved to Dawson County. Mrs. Christopher, after her husband's death and at 71 years of age made a crop alone with a 4-up. Fro those who may not know a 4-up is four horses abreast in a hitch. She later moved to Lamesa where she died at 93. Mrs. Christopher's death was in February and her family were not surprised to find her garden worked and growing early crops.

Our memories are what makes a person special and Mrs. Mussick has some very special memories of her grandmother. She remembers her dad and his sisters and brothers called her grandma, "Mamie" and her granddad, "Pappie" but she also remembers Mrs. Christopher not wanting to be called GRANNY! One of her only memories of her grandfather was of him teasing her grandma by saying, "Come to granddad, Granny don't want you".

In later years after Mr. Christopher's death the children and grandchildren would ask Mrs. Christopher if she would ever re-marry, and she'd say, "Of course, I'm a lookin' but I don't see one that looks pretty!"

For years people did not know Mrs. Christopher lived alone. She had a Tomcat she called "Sister", since she thought it was a female kitten when she got it, and when asked who was at home she'd say, "Me and Sister". The cat was her best friend and loving to her and her family but Mrs. Mussick says, "That old cat would fuzzle up and growl when a stranger came up! He tried to protect grandma as best he could. When grandma's hearing got bad she'd see that cat fuzzed up and know someone strange was about".

Mrs. Christopher spent her life doing for herself and her family, she gardened, sewed, quilted, made her own soap and put up her produce and fruit until the day she died. Somewhere in her 80's she was still deer hunting, dressing and processing her kills.

She is pictured in Katy, Tx. on her son's place. In the photo she is 88 years old riding her side saddle on old "Bill" a cow pony and show horse. She was there to visit and go deer hunting.

Mrs. Christopher out lived all but 3 of her children. Her great granddaughter is the proud owner of her spinning wheel and her side saddle. She was dearly loved by her family and friends and was a woman of strength and character. She is missed but will never be forgotten.

The love in Mrs. Mussick's eyes as she told me this story was unmistakable and by telling her grandma's story has honored her to one and all.

Editor's Quotes

There were ten lepers healed, and only one turned back to give thanks, but it is to be noticed that our Lord did not recall His gift from the other nine because of their lack of gratitude. When we begin to lessen our acts of kindness and helpfulness because we think those who receive do not properly appreciate what is done for them, it is time to question our own motives.

Red River County Roots

This week's query is from J. Allen, 1720 N. Frazier Lot #25, Conroe, TX 77301. He is searching for information about his great-uncle, M.L. "Mac" McKenzie, who was born in 1868 in Moore County, NC. He married second to Elizabeth Vivian Bennick, 1884-1969. He had no known children, but he did have two stepchildren. Their names are not known. In 1910 he was a widower who boarded in Jasper, TX and worked in the turpentine plants north of Jasper. By 1920, he was married to Ms. Bennick and lived in Ward 3, Vernon Parish, LA. He was a foreman in Litcher-Moore Turpentine Company. Mr. Allen contacted the society, thinking that there was a chance that Mr. McKenzie could have had a connection to Red River County at one time or another during his life. If anyone can provide any clues for him, he would be grateful.

If you have a query you would like to have placed in this column, please send it to the Red River County Genealogical Society, P.O. Box 516, Clarksville, Texas 75426

Red River County Genealogiy Society Needs Help!

The society is microfilming early issues of the Bogata News and DePort Times. Contributions for this important and worthwhile project may be sent to

Red River Co. Genealogy Society
Box 512
Clarksville, Tx. 75426

Society is seeking old newspapers

The Red River County Genealogical Society is asking anyone who may have any old Bogata, Rosalie, Detroit or Bagwell newspapers to contact the society.

The society is expected to receive funding soon to have all the available newspapers of Red River County towns microfilmed in order to preserve them for future generations.

The society wishes to contact anyone who may have any such newspapers in their collection. Whether one paper or even a portion of a page, or a whole collection. Many times such papers can be found in old trunks or packed away and forgotten in unused drawers. The society has had a number of old newspapers microfilmed in the past several months and expects to continue this project as funds become available. The originals will be returned to their owners when the filming is completed.

While one paper, or even one article from one of these old newspapers may seem insignificant, having it preserved on a reel of microfilm with other such papers is important not only for local historians, but for those who travel to the county to do historical and genealogical research. In many cases, the newspaper recorded incidents that otherwise would not be found in any other source.

The following newspapers are needed:

Bogata Reformer, existed in early 1900's prior to Bogata News.

MS. MAMIE ZELIFF, a resident of Regency Nursing Home in Clarksville is commended as a "walking miracle". In August of 2000 she was bedridden and unable to walk or communicate. With therapy, she is now up and regaling people with her life stories. She was born in Red River Co. and married Victor Zeliff in May of 1942. He was home on a three day pass. The day after their marriage he left for the Pacific and was gone for the next 38 months. Mamie worked as a "Rosie the riveter" during the war, and actually worked on the B24 Bomber and Trainer Planes. She has three children: two daughters in the Dallas, Ft. Watch the horses

Timed event horses are highly trained. However, no matter how well they are trained, the pilot still must know how to use the horse's ability to his benefit. Watch closely the calf roping horses, they can score, run out of the box at top speed, stop on a dime, and keep the rope tight while the cowboy makes his tie. There's more to a rope horse than powder and gunsmoke!

Spot walking slowly? Arthritis can affect dogs

COLLEGE STATION - If Ol' Blue would rather walk than run when fetching that stick, he may be feeling the aches and pains of old age.

Dogs, cats and other animals can suffer from arthritis just like people and the severity can be just as painful, says Dr. Alice Blue-McLendon, a veterinarian at Texas A&M University's College of Veterinary Medicine.

The bottom line: a joint is a joint, whether it's on a human or an animal.

"Dogs and cats get arthritis just like we do because the factors that cause the ailment are similar in both species," says Blue-McLendon.

"It's a very common problem in older dogs just as it is in people. Treatment methods are also very similar."

What signs should pet owners look for if they suspect arthritis in their animals? Blue-McLendon says the pet may walk very stiffly or in some cases, even limp.

The animal might show a reluctance to walk, climb stairs or play, may have difficulty rising from a resting position and may cry out in pain if touched in a particular area.

When walking a dog, the animal may often lag behind the owner because it has trouble keeping pace. All of these are signs that arthritis could be present in your pet.

Assistance for ice storm damage to forestlands will begin June 25

The Natural Resources Conservation Service will begin Monday, June 25, accepting applications for the ice storm damage on forestlands in Lamar and Red River Counties.

Funds are available through the Emergency Watershed Protection program to assist landowners with the reduction of wildfire hazards on private nonindustrial forestlands damaged by the December 2000 ice storm. The program is administered by the NRCS to provide technical and financial assistance to reduce threats to life and property.

Owners of private nonindustrial forestlands are eligible for assistance if their ice storm debris poses a high risk of wildfire impact on life and property. The debris must present a significant threat for one of the following short term problems as determined by the Texas Forest Service. (1) Catastrophic forestland fires. (2) Public health or safety threats. (3) Water quality degradation.

For this program, debris is considered to be the remains of damaged or downed trees produced by the storm. Only forested properties are eligible.

There are two practices eligible under this program; fire breaks and debris piling/mulching. There must be 10 tons or more of debris per acre to be eligible for firebreaks. To be eligible for debris piling/mulching, there must be 10 tons or more of debris per acre, and the forest classified as destroyed by the Texas Forest Service based upon number of remaining trees per acre, and land within two miles of a state or federal highway, incorporated community, school, airport, hospital or other critically sensitive area or within 1000 feet of a resident.

The EWP will provide a federal cost-share rate of 75% of the actual cost to an established average cost to install wildfire hazard reduction practices. The landowner is responsible for the remaining cost to install wildfire hazard reduction practices. Fire hazard reduction methods must be the most cost effective methods that will provide immediate, adequate and safe relief from the threats.

Application for Emergency Watershed Protection Program assistance will be accepted at county USDA field Service Centers offices. A copy of our warranty deed will be required at sign-up. The deadline for applications is August 24, 2001.

For more information, contact the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service office serving your county.

Disqualifications

An automatic disqualification in the bareback or saddle bronc riding occurs when the rider does not have his spurs over the horse's shoulder the first jump out of the chute in competition. Another disqualification occurs when the cowboy touches himself or the animal with his free hand during the ride.

Disqualification

Rules in the bull riding event are relatively simple, all you have to do is stay on until the eight second whistle sounds. The only way a cowboy can be disqualified is if he touches himself or the animal with his free hand during the ride, or is thrown off before the whistle blows.

President Bush appoints Texas A&M economist to Social Security Panel

COLLEGE STATION - Thomas Saving, director of the Private Enterprise Research Center at Texas A&M University, was appointed by President George W. Bush to the Social Security Commission, a new bipartisan group that will recommend ways to mend the system that provides retirement and other forms of financial assistance to millions of Americans.

The commission is to present its findings to President Bush in the fall. Commission recommendations are subject to congressional approval.

Saving was named a Social Security Public Trustee this last year.

Members of the commission include both Republicans and Democrats who favor partially privatizing the federal retirement plan.

Co-chairmen will be Daniel Patrick Moynihan, former Democratic Senator from New York, and Richard Parsons, AOL Time Warner's co-chief operating officer.

Think Texas
by Agriculture Commissioner SUSAN COMBS

Texas' population is expected to double by 2050. And that means the state's water resources will be strained by municipal demands - especially during times of drought - if we don't take action now.

Today Texas uses 17 million acre-feet of water annually. That number is expected to increase to 20 million acre-feet by mid-century. It's clear we must find a way to reuse our state's water.

According to information provided by the Texas Water Development Board's Regional Water Planning Groups, 27 percent of the state's water use strategies will depend on conservation and reuse to meet water needs 50 years from now.

This is significant considering just over 1 percent of our current water is reused. In Texas we have municipal, industrial and agricultural water reuse. Municipal reuse usually means using treated wastewater for manufacturing, golf course irrigation and cooling purposes. In agriculture, water reuse can include collecting surface runoff in ponds for livestock watering. Reusing wastewater is promising because it's a relatively drought-proof water resource. It's also the only source of water that automatically increases with population growth.

Texas must have water to survive - it's one of our most basic requirements. Now is the time for us to start researching and fully using these water management strategies.

Please remember if you are using an out-of-town funeral home please tell them that you specifically want a loved one's obituary to appear in these newspapers.

Texas A&M program designed to increase bilingual teachers COLLEGE STATION - A new program at Texas A&M University's College of Education is helping to address one of the most critical shortages in Texas schools - bilingual teachers.

Using distance-learning technologies, the project titled Nontraditional Field-Based Bilingual Teacher Education (NFBTE) hopes to increase the number of certified bilingual teachers. Over the next three to five years, NFBTE's goal is to produce 110 certified teachers, says Dr. Rafael Lara-Alecio, associate professor and director of bilingual education programs in the Department of Educational Psychology at Texas A&M.

"We believe this is a project that is critically important," says Lara-Alecio.

"There is not school district in Texas that does not need more certified teachers, especially bilingual teachers. This program will help address those needs."

The U.S. Department of Education has provided grants to fund the projects.

Grasshoppers observed across NE Texas

by Mike Morroq
County Extension Agent-Ag.
Lamar County

Grasshoppers have been observed across northeast Texas in pastures and hayfields over the past few weeks. Several years of hot, dry summers and warm, dry autumns have favored grasshopper survival and increase. The large number of grasshoppers last fall left many eggs in the soil to hatch this spring.

Eggs of different grasshopper species hatch at different times, so young grasshoppers can be seen throughout the spring and summer. Development from hatch to adult takes 40-60 days so grasshopper problems may persist until late fall when older adults die or when a killing frost occurs.

Grasshoppers are susceptible to many insecticides. However, insecticides typically do not persist more than a few days and the grasshoppers may soon re-invade the area. Treatment works best while the grasshoppers are still small. Immature grasshoppers (without wings) are more susceptible than adults.

In the home landscape, available insecticides include cyfluthrin, the active ingredient in Bayer Advantage Home and Garden spray and Temp, bifenthrin, active ingredient in Ortho Ready to use Houseplant and Garden Insect Killer; permethrin, active ingredient in Spectracide and other products; acephate, active ingredient in Orthene.

Biological control products in bait form are also available. These may provide some help in controlling small grasshoppers but in general work too slowly when immediate control is needed.

In addition, floating row covers can protect vegetables, flower gardens small fruit trees and other small areas from grasshoppers. These are lightweight fabrics that let sunlight in while protecting plants from insects and wind.

June is the time to reap fruits

June is the time of year when gardeners begin to reap the fruits of their labor. Unfortunately, May and June are often months when disease problems slow up garden plants. Tomatoes can be very susceptible to diseases when conditions are favorable. This year seems to be no exception. The following descriptions of various tomato diseases often occurring in this are many help in diagnosing an preventing problem sin the future.

The Early Blight fungus is first observed on plants as small, black lesions mostly on older foliage. Spots enlarge, and by the time they are one-fourth inch in diameter or larger, concentric ring in a bull's eye pattern can be seen in the center of the diseased area. Tissue surrounding the spots may turn yellow. If high temperatures and humidity occur at this time, much of the foliage is killed. Lesions on the stems are similar to those on leaves, sometimes girdling the plant if they occur near the soil line. Infection of young seedlings usually results from fungi and soil; it occurs principally during period of high humidity and warm temperature. Control practices include the use of disease free transplants and regular preventative fungicide applications during the growing season. Daconil and other fungicides approved for tomatoes and other vegetables may give some control.

The first indication of Fusarium Wilt disease in small plants is a drooping and wilting of lower leaves with a loss of green color followed by wilting and death of the plant. Often leaves on only one side of the stem turn yellow at first; yellowed leaves gradually wilt and die. The stem of wilted plants when cut lengthwise, shows a dark brown discoloration of the water conducting vessels. The fungus is soilborne, and passes upward through the stem. Blocking of the water conducting vessels is the main reason for wilting. The fungus is most active at temperatures between 80 and 90 F., seldom being a serious problem where soil and air temperatures remain low during most of the growing season. Control can be obtained by growing plants in disease free soil, using disease free transplants and growing only resistant varieties.

The first symptom of Verticillium Wilt is yellowing of the older leaves, followed by a slight wilting of the tips of the shoots during the day. Older yellowed leaves gradually wither and drop and eventually the plant is defoliated. Verticillium wilt does not show the one sided effect as does Fusarium wilt. Leaves from Verticillium infected plants sometimes have brown dead spots that may be confused with those caused by other fungi. However, they are lighter in color and do not show concentric zones as in early blight. In late stages of the disease, only the leaves near the tips of the branch remain alive. When the stem is cut lengthwise, there is a discoloration of the woody tissue similar to Fusarium, but usually darker and generally occurs only in the lower part of the stem. The fungus enters the plant through the feeder roots and grow into the stem in the woody conducting vessels just under the cortex. The fungus lives in the soil for a long time and is exclusively the source of infection. Progress of the disease is favored by cooler temperatures an is regarded by the high temperatures that are favorable to Fusarium wilt. Locating seedbeds and fields in Verticillium-free soil, and using resistant varieties are the most effective means of controlling the disease.

Blossom End rot can appear on fruits at any time in their development, but most commonly when fruits are one-third to one-half grown. Initial symptoms are water-soaked spots on the blossom end of the fruit. These spots later enlarge and become black. The cause of this disorder is considered to be calcium deficiency in the developing fruit. Extreme fluctuations in moisture, root pruning and excessive nitrogen fertilization can also result in blossom end rot. Best mean of control is to maintain a uniform supply of moisture through irrigation and soil mulches. Calcium chloride can be used as a spray for control under some conditions. Some tomato growers and specialists recommend applying two tablespoons Epsom salts per plant at the first sign of Blossom End rot, and then again in two weeks.

Pronounced upward rolling and twisting of the leaflets that expose their undersurface, stiff and leathery foliage and a peculiar dull yellowing of the entire plant are typical symptoms of Curly top. There is also some purpling of the veins and the plant is usually very stunted. Very few fruits are produced after infection. The virus is transmitted by the beet leafhopper that becomes infected by feeding on wild or cultivated plants having the disease. The disease is difficult to control. Keep field surrounding free of weeds. Controlling insects may effect some control.

Think Texas
By Agriculture Commissioner SUSAN COMBS

With Independence Day right around the corner, people across the state are priming their grills and getting fired up about the Fourth. The holiday is a big day for outdoor barbecuing, and beef is a mainstay at many of these celebrations.

The Fourth of July and Labor Day tie for being the second-highest beef consumption days of the year. This year, Americans will consume 20 percent more beef on the Fourth of July. Memorial Day, the No. 1 day for beef consumption, saw a 25 percent increase.

These days, more folks are eating beef in general. Americans ate about 70 pounds of it per person in 2000, and on any given day 77 million Americans eat beef.

And there are many reasons why we are eating more beef. Today's beef is 27 percent leaner than it was 20 years ago, and people are realizing that it's an important part of a healthy, well-balanced diet. It's packed with nutrients like zinc, iron, protein and B vitamins. And the industry has done a fantastic job of catering to today's busy consumer; we now have fully cooked beef products like pot roast and fajitas that people can just toss in the microwave.

As Texans, our claim to fame is beef, and we definitely have a corner on the market. It's up to us to make sure consumers across the United States and across the globe know that if they want the best in beef, they should GO TEXAN.

Drug seizures top $1 million

DPS troopers more than doubled the dollar amount of drugs taken off Texas roadways in traffic stops in 2000.

According to 2000 figures released today by the Traffic Law Enforcement Division, DPS troopers seized narcotics valued at $122.3 million while on normal patrol activities compared with $55.4 million dollars in 1999. (Dollar figures reflect street value.)

"Our training in spotting criminal activity after routine traffic violations keeps drugs out of Texas neighborhoods," said DPS Director Col. Thomas A. Davis Jr. "Wanted criminals roam our highways everyday and our job is to put them behind bars where they belong."

The 1,785 drug cases filed by the Traffic Law Enforcement Division in 2000 is the highest ever recorded by DPS troopers. Cocaine seizures totaled 1,682 pounds and marijuana seizures topped 75,000 pounds. More than 20,000 arrests also were made for a variety of non-drug criminal violations, ranging from homicide to auto theft.

"By simply enforcing the traffic laws, our troopers put murderers, rapists and wanted criminals out of commission every day," said Traffic Law Enforcement Chief Charles Graham.

Also in 2000, DPS troopers arrested nearly 31,000 drunk drivers, handed out 550,000 speeding citations and issued about 160,000 safety restraint tickets. Troopers also provided assistance to 74,000 motorists. ### (PIO 2001-0024)

Society microfilming old papers, donations needed for project

The Red River County Genealogy Society has taken on an expensive but worth while task. They are having the Bogata News and Deport Times, two of the area's oldest newspapers, put on Microfilm.

Papers have been done for a number of years at the turn of the century so far. Thunder Prairie publishing has been taking the fragile old volumes to Southwest Microfilm in Arlington to be filmed and the Genealogical Society has been paying the cost of the microfilming.

Because this is an expensive proposition, contributions to the project would be most welcome. They may be sent to:

Red River County Genealogical Society

Box 512
Clarksville, Texas 75426 and marked for the microfilm project fund.

These bound volumes are deteriorating with age, and they provide a priceless glimpse into this areas his-team roping

penalties

The team roping header must ride from behind a barrier to give the steer a head start. If the header breaks the barrier, a 10 second penalty is added to the team's total time. In average ropings, the teams are usually allowed three loops, meaning that the header can miss with his first loop and rebuild, or the heeler can rope the head and let the header rope the heels. Usually at one-headers, two loops are allowed, should either team partner miss, the team will receive a no time. If the heeler catches only one heel, a five second penalty is added to the team's time. A total of 15 seconds in penalties can be added to the team's time, the highest penalty allowed for a broken barrier and picking up only one heel. A disqualification can also occur if the team doesn't "face" the steer to the judge's satisfaction; if the team undallies and rides up on the steer before the judge is allowed to make a decision; or if the head loop is in a figure-8 around the steer's head or horns. When you hear the announcer say "hold your dallies", this point of order is what they are referring to.

By Judy Screws
In 1989 we went to New York for the first time. My husband Donald, our daughter Tana and I took off to New York City to see what we could see. Tana and I had always been fascinated by the shows we saw on television about New York City and the people who live there. Donald had never been interested, but he agreed to drive us there if we were sure we wanted to go. We did. It took three days for us to get to our destination. We had stopped in Washington, D.C. on our way up and toured the place, finding it very exciting, so we felt very confident the next night when we spent the night in Jersey City in a hotel right next to the Holland Tunnel. We were very tired that night in Jersey City, so Tana and I decided to go and find Take Out food for supper. We asked the security guard at the hotel in which we were staying where we could find some food near the hotel that would be close enough for us to walk and pick up. He told us that there was a diner directly behind the hotel and that if we would hurry he would watch us walk over there and get dinner. He warned us to not stop for anything because it was too dangerous for us to be out. We went to the diner and were not disappointed. We had always seen the diners on the TV shows with the guy in the dirty, white apron and the chef's hat smoking a cigarette and cooking on a grill. The guy was there and he was smoking a cigarette and cooking hamburgers on a grill. We got our food and took it to our room. It was delicious. Everything we got was fried, even the bread. The next morning we set out for Manhattan. We went through the Holland Tunnel and started driving up streets over on the other side. At that time there were some old buildings with boarded up windows just as you exited the Holland Tunnel. We decided that we did not want to go into that neighborhood, so we turned around and went back through the tunnel and went to Liberty Island Park instead. That was the end of our first try at New York City. We were not daunted. We continued to talk about when we would go back. We even planned that the next time we went back we would stop and look around. Our next try at the Big Apple was in 1999. We were so confident when we got to Washington, D.C. that we promptly got lost and stayed lost for hours before we finally got the nerve to ask a policeman how to get to a hotel. She told us that the first thing we should do was to get out of the neighborhood we were in, and that we should get into a hotel quickly. We did. We ordered pizza and submarine sandwiches brought to our room by a some folks who ran a pizzeria. The next morning we got out of town so fast you would have thought there was a posse behind us. We decided that we would not stay all night in Jersey City, but rather would go on to Manhattan and spend the night after we found a hotel room. We never stopped. Our son had told us that what he wanted us to bring him from New York was a picture of Yankee Stadium. We found Yankee Stadium in The Bronx with very little trouble. We navigated around Manhattan famously. We drove by Central Park, down Broadway, through China Town, by Madison Square Garden, and even drove by where they were filming the David Letterman Show. The operative words in all this are drove by. We never did stop a time. We never did find a place to stop. I don't know where people in New York park. They don't park on the streets. They stand on the curbs and yell for cabs, but nobody ever stops and parks. We didn't find the Holland Tunnel when we started back so we went through the Lincoln Tunnel. It looks just like the Holland Tunnel. It is just down the way a bit farther in New Jersey. When we finally found a hotel in which to spend the night we were worn to a frazzle. We had Chinese food brought in that night. It was wonderful. The next morning we started for home just so happy that we knew the way. Well, a couple of weeks ago we tried again. We were definitely going to spend the night in New York City, regardless of what it took. The first thing I did to make things better on this trip was to plot a route leaving out Washington, D.C. This is not as easy as it would seem. We had never been through Kentucky, so our trip took us through Kentucky, West Virginia, Ohio, Maryland and Pennsylvania. We had planned to go to Atlantic City and spend one night before going on to Manhattan, but our route didn't work out exactly right so we saw Atlantic City on the way back. To be honest, Ohio was not actually on our way, but we ran across a sign that said that Ohio was only five miles away, and we knew we probably would never go to Ohio at any time in the future so we just took a little jaunt a few miles into Ohio. Kentucky, West Virginia and Maryland are full of mountains. Pennsylvania is fuller. Instead of going over all the mountains on our route through Pennsylvania, we came across some tunnels through the mountains. We went through quite a few, but the one I remember most was the Tuscarora. I know that somewhere I read about someone doing something brave and yelling "Tuscarora." I suggested that as we went through the tunnel we all yell "Tuscarora." I was the only one who yelled, but it sounded pretty good. We went through the Holland Tunnel once again. We were lost almost from the time we got through the tunnel. We never did drive by Central Park or any of the other neat places. We did drive through China Town again. Another place we drove was Brooklyn. We didn't mean to, but we did. No, we didn't buy the bridge. We got so lost we would still be there if not for On Star. We went through Flat Bush Avenue and Bedford Styvessent. Neither was impressive. We got back to New Jersey and with On Star again we were able to find a hotel to spend the night. The next morning we rushed out of New Jersey almost as fast as we left Washington, D.C. the time we got so lost. On the way home we did spend a wonderful night in Atlantic City, and in North Carolina we found the Cherokee Village and in Tennessee we found Gatlinburg. They made the whole trip worthwhile. We have decided that on our next vacation we will go to Deport. We know how to get around there.

The Trips

Texas A&M MBA students to spend summer abroad learning about business COLLEGE STATION - In a shrinking universe, the world is your backyard, and the first rule of being a good neighbor is to get to know the neighborhood. Texas A&M University business school students are doing just that, learning about doing business in other countries through the Center for International Business Studies at the Lowry Mays College and Graduate School of Business. This summer, 38 MBA and master's degree students will study international business as part of one of four programs in Germany, France, and India. "Globalization is the current watchword," said Julian E. Gaspar, director of the center. "The world is becoming increasingly integrated, and although globalization has always existed, it's increasing at a faster pace. Trade and investment barriers are being brought down as more and more countries throughout the world embrace free trade and the free enterprise system." "Such movement opens tremendous opportunities and poses incredible challenges for business - and the new climate forces American businesses to look beyond their own borders," he observed. "Business students cannot ignore globalization, or they'll be in for trouble. The Mays College Center for International Business Studies seeks to expose students to the world business scene so they can learn to respect and adapt to different cultural, economic and political environments." The four international experiences scheduled for this summer share a focus on educating American graduate students about the cultural, political and economic factors that make each country's business environment different and about effective strategies for conducting operations in each setting. However, each of the programs is unique in its particulars.

THERE WILL BE NO SIGNS!

Often people discuss the end of time and the "signs" of the times which, they say, are proof that Christ's return is eminent. These signs include "wars and rumors of wars," "earthquakes," and various political/military events which one observes on the evening news. Consider for a moment what the Bible actually teaches. In Matthew 24:1-35, Jesus pinpointed numerous signs by which his disciples and Jewish Christians could recognize the occasion of the destruction of Jerusalem in 70 A.D. These signs (e.g., "wars and rumors of wars" - v. 6; "famines and earthquakes" - v. 7; gospel preached to whole world - v. 14; the approach of the Roman armies; v. 5 and Luke 21:20) functioned as signals by which the faithful could identify the "end (vv.6,14) of the Jewish commonwealth. Jesus was providing descriptive detail in response to the disciples' question concerning the destruction of the temple, (24:2, 3) Just as tender branches and fresh leaves signal the approach of summer (v.32), so the multiple signs which Jesus pinpointed would signal the coming of Christ in judgment upon the Jewish nation (v.33) in 70 A.D. But then Jesus turned his attention to the questions of the end of time and his second coming in verse 36. Notice the difference. Jesus goes out of his way to stress the total absence of signs concerning the end of the world and his second coming. He declares that his final coming will be comparable to the Deluge of Noah's day (v. 37) in that it will be totally unexpected. Right up to the very day Noah and his family entered the ark, life was going on as usual. No signs! Jesus says farmers will be in the field as usual (v.40); women will be involved in their activities as usual (v.41). Jesus even likens the unexpected nature of his final coming to the exploits of the thief (v.43). Both Paul (1 Thes. 5:2) and Peter (2 Pet. 3:10) repeat this analogy. As the coming of a thief in the night is preceded by absolutely no signs, so the final coming of Jesus will be preceded by absolutely no signals. Contrary to the prevalent notions of our day concerning the "signs of the times," the Bible asserts that there will be a total absence of signs to prepare the world for the end of time. The only hope of the entire world is to render obedience to the written revelation of the Bible now (24:46), for there will be no signs. This article is brought to you by the church that meets at 5th and Lide in Talco. Please join us for services. The church meets Sunday mornings: Bible class-9:45 a.m., 10:45 a.m. and 6 p.m. and Wednesdays-7 p.m.
