Railroad Hearing Slated At Plainview

USDA Raises Feed Grain Loan Rates

The U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has raised the national loan rates for feed grains (barley, corn, oats, rye and sorghum). The increases are effective immediately.

Below are the new loan rates, those previously announced for the 1977 crop and the 1976 rates.

Crop	New Rate	Prev. Rate	1976 Rate
Barley	$1.63	$1.50	1.22
Corn	2.00	1.75	1.50
Oats	1.03	1.00	.72
Rye	1.70	1.50	1.20
Sorghum	1.90	1.70	1.43

(3.39) (3.04) (2.55)
According to Acting Secretary of Agriculture John C. White, this action was taken in response to the "severe cost-price squeeze that is now adversely affecting many farmers." The raises are identical to those stipulated in the proposed 1977 farm bill currently before the Congress.

USDA's commodity loan program is administered by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) through its County offices. Producers who have already put their 1977-crop feed grain under loan can obtain an additional disbursement, based on the announced increase, by contacting their county ASCS office.

A minimum of $4.00 will be charged. Price will depend on how dirty your vehicle is.

Owls Travel To Claude Friday Night

Silverton's Owls travel to Claude this week to try their former district rival in Class A the Mustangs. Claude was badly beaten by the Valley Patriots last week and now stands 1-1 for the season with a win over Lefors to its credit.

The young Owls had a very bad time of it at Hart last Friday night, and unfortunately, the game took its toll on the team physically. Mitchell Simpson and Mitchell Roehr were reinjured, James Kitchens had an old knee injury aggravated, and Jace Francis spent Saturday at Central Plains Hospital in Plainview after the coaches realized that he had gotten his "bell rung" in the game. Both Francis and Kitchens continued playing in the game. Roehr was brought to the sideline to avoid further injury. All of the boys except Simpson and David Williams, who did not play last week due to an injury, are expected to be able to play this week.

Hart has a very fine football team this year, combining speed and quickness. They block good and tackle hard. The game was probably one of the hardest-hitting games the Owls will see. Hart will, without doubt, win a lot of ballgames this year and could possibly be playoff material.

In addition, Hart has one of the most beautifully-manicured fields that the Owls will see this year. It could well be the envy of larger schools, with a very nice oval and thick, green turf.

The Owls managed to pick up only one first down in the first half Friday night, and added only two more first downs in the second half. The Owls completed no passes, had no passes intercepted, and lost the ball only once on a fumble (which was deep in their own territory, but on which they did not give up any points). The Longhorns gained over 400 yards total offense while scoring 47 points in the game, only 36 yards of which was on passes. The Owl offense totaled only 60 yards. Hart had an average of 28 yards on punts, while the Owls outdistanced them in this department with a 28.7 average. James Alan Patton has been doing a very fine job at center in Mitchell Simpson's place, and the Owls have not had a turnover in their games so far due to centering the ball into the backfield in their new "box" formation. Earl Jarrett does the long centering back to the punter, and he, too, has been doing a very good job.

Kirk Durham, Mike Cornett and other Owls have been maturing in their playing ability.

Co-captain Mitchell Roehr says the Owls will be trying very hard to break into the win column Friday night at Claude. Game time is 8:00 p.m. The boys need your support, and will appreciate your attendance at the game.

The Briscoe County 4-H Clubs are re-organizing for another year of program and project work. In order to have 4-H Clubs, adult leaders are needed who enjoy working with young people and are willing to donate a portion of their time to the overall development of youth in Briscoe County.

Presently, organizational leaders are needed to meet with the clubs monthly. Various project leaders will also be needed throughout the year. As the clubs grow in membership, so does the need for volunteer leaders.

Instruction was given in the correct procedure to follow when resuscitating a person who was the victim of drowning, choking, heart attack, electrical shock, smoke inhalation. Students practiced what they had learned on resuscitation models of adults and babies, and successfully passed written and skills examinations. Several Emergency Medical Technicians assisted Mr. Kingery in conducting the classes.

Additional classes will be held beginning at 7:00 p.m. September 15-16, September 19-20, September 22-23, September 26-27, and into October, if needed. If you have not enrolled for this training, you may do so by calling the Silverton City Hall. There is no charge for these classes, which are sponsored by the Briscoe County Agricultural Extension Service, the American Heart Association and the Silverton Emergency Medical Technicians.

If you could be instrumental in performing as another person's heart and lungs, and preventing brain damage, until medical help is received, your investment of time will be well spent.

CAROL STODGHILL

Tammi Edwards and Donna Boling, sixth grade students in the Silverton Schools, were pictured as they took part in Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) classes which are being held under the direction of local Emergency Medical Technician instructors. Watching the demonstration were Mrs. Iris Burson (left) and Mrs. Nannie Bomar. Life-saving techniques are being learned by people of all ages in these classes, and it isn't too late for you to call the City Hall to enroll in one of the classes.

Plowin' out The Corners

By Uncle Zeb

Claude, Texas. . . Sometimes and by some people called "the Movie Capitol of the Panhandle". . . First, the movie "Hud" which is still showing, and the present one called "Christmas Sunshine". . . This is the name that the writer Carol Sobieski gave this story. . . She was assigned the job of writing a continuation of a former series. . . This one is to be a Christmas Special, as we understand it.

On top of everything else, if you see this movie on TV, and you have your field glasses on, and someone has told you which place to look, you could even see Uncle Zeb. . . Mostly we were a long ways off, and under strict orders not to look at the camera. To do such ordinary things as reading the Claude News, even Uncle Zeb's corner. . . The odds were 10 to 1 that this would not only be Uncle Zeb's first, and also his last. . . Uncle Zeb and I are trying to be funny about this, our big chance.

Mrs. Sobieski is a charming lady. . . I have no idea why I seemed a bit surprised when I realized this was true. . . Just some Hollywood bad publicity. . . She is a dear mother, wife and a proven writer. . . Some of this was told me by her neighbor of many years. . . She has three children.

Carol didn't write this for Claude, but for Bushland. . . But, when they checked the towns out, Claude had so much to offer. She didn't argue. . . it had the old newspaper press. . . A desk already well littered. Some desks that were antiques. . . Several old school houses had been converted into something else but could be re-done to their old days. A house in the town fit perfectly. . . One could go on and on with the things that fit.

"I didn't have any objections to Claude. . . Bushland was just where I grew up," Mrs. Sobieski continued. He asked her why she seemed so excited about Claude now.

"Most of all I think the children impressed me. So mannerly and they talked with us just like we were neighbors across the fence. This culture shows, but when Scrubby the dog came on the scene they quickly turned to him. . . They were fascinated with the wind machine and asked questions the operators could hardly answer. . . Yes, the children, along with their parents, made me fall in love with Claude, and its country."

As the author of the story, Carol has certain veto powers as to this and that. . . The editor in the movie is Pat Hingle. . . He needed a hat. . . Carol was to find one. . . She saw the hat belonging to Co-Editor Bryan Waggoner. It was like the pottage in the Three Bears. . . Just right. . . She offered to buy, borrow or whatever, but it was a must. . . Bryan said just take it. . . After all he had been trying to lose it someplace. . . Here she came back pretty quick with $10.00. . . We will all miss it, but after all, we can see it in the movies. . . She was nice like this all through the interview.

Then I met Karl Miller, the trainer of Scrubby the Dog. The starting date of the filming was delayed so that Scrubby could be available. . . Some smart alec remarked he was smartest of all of us. . . He, Karl and I sort of became friends. . . While we were talking a couple of young ladies came along collecting autographs. . . We asked Karl if he would: "I'll do even better than that," he said, "These pretty girls can even have Scrubby's autograph." Who else would walk 200 yards. . . Get a bowl. . . Mix up some mud. . . Take Scrubby's paw and dip in the mud and make the excited girls his autograph. Then adding his good wishes and signature, he let them go. . . Such warm friendliness. . . He is coming back and we are going to let Scrubby act for some shut-ins. . . And to think. . . I thought they were up-townish city people. . . Thank you, Carol, Scrubby and Karl for your warm friendliness.

There were other reasons that Carol and some of the others sort of ruled against us at the start. . . "Hud" had been filmed here and had walked off with some glory. . . When it was announced that the movie was to be made here some said that it should be called "Hud's Son." Don't be mad at us, neighbors. . . We did have some of the right things. . . We had them in the right places. . . And, in each one of the group that we talked to that has come in for these two weeks we found a genuine love building up for the fine folks we have here in Claude. . . Some will get a small part to act out. . . But, The People of Claude don't have to act to be great people. They just have to be natural. . . Come by and we'll tell you about our first movie, and our last one for Uncle Zeb. . . Maybe we'll write more

MORE FARM PROTESTS

STEMMING FROM

AGRICULTURAL DEPRESSION

Central Texas farmers and ranchers, angered and worried by depressed market conditions unequalled since March of 1933, are organizing for protest demonstrations with tractors, grain trucks and pickups through Temple on Labor Day, according to a spokesman for a self-styled farmer's protest committee coordinating the event.

"People in the country are really up for this thing," said Ronnie Pitts, Bartlett farmer and District Director for Texas Farmers Union, the general farm organization supporting the group's efforts. "Every farmer and rancher is losing money on every commodity, and we're tired of the hard hours and sweat which bring us nothing but overdue loans and worries about how we're going to support our families for another year. We're asking every farmer who's in the same shape to drop his political beliefs and concerns over which farm organization's card he carries and join us in this protest to bring our message home to every dinner table and clothing store in America!"

Pitts said the gathering is to take place at a major farm implement dealership South of Temple on Highway 95 from where a parade of tractors and trucks bearing all the signs and placards of protest will begin a course along high traffic routes.

Additional plans call for a picnic lunch and rally speeches at the destination which will be the Temple Livestock Auction.

"We're encouraging the whole family as well as the farm businessmen we patronize and the financial community which supports agriculture to join with us," said Pitts' wife, Kathy, who says she, like many wives, is "tired of subsidizing the farm" with her teacher's salary and "still not next week. . . Especially if we keep meeting folks like Carol, Karl and Scrubby. . . Karl said that Scrubby didn't even know he wasn't people."

having enough to run a family."

A spokesman for Texas Farmers Union says the demonstration on Labor Day is intended to be symbolic within the concept that farmers and ranchers are the most vital yet unrewarded laborers in the nation.

"What's more important than eating?" was the rhetorical question from Ron Butler, assistant to the President of TFU. "We worry about enough gasoline and enough heat and enough buying power with our paper dollar, but the nation is naively ignoring the fact that its domestic producers of raw food and fiber are dropping out like flies. We lost over two thousand family farmers in Texas alone last year, mostly young ones. And it's an educated guess we'll lose over three thousand this year."

Butler described the ongoing protest movement among producers by noting that "the waters are only now being tested locally." He said that the recent mass mail-in on commodities which originated in Pampa and the tractor demonstration in Temple are only the beginning. He revealed that plans are in the making for a statewide rally and demonstration, probably to occur in Austin this winter.

Butler also reported that the states of Colorado and Wyoming are formally committed within their Farmers Union to join the protest. Leadership in those states have plans for a demonstration in Washington, D. C. "which might not be the cool and calm event you'd expect from normally-conservative farmers."

The current protest story will be timely in that Congress will be considering a conference report on a new four-year general farm legislation when it reconvenes after the Labor Day holiday.

"Government's policies and practices have been tragically insufficient and damaging to agriculture for the past decade," said Pitts. "The new Administration and this new farm bill do nothing to change that trend. The general public is still under the false illusion that the federal government does out cash to us while the real story is told by the fact that no bank in the country even ### wants to finance a young farmer.

Farmers are in a silent depression that no one seems to really care about. We're out to change that silence. Then maybe our national policy will reflect an awareness from the public as a whole that keeping farmers in business is more important than selling us out at world market rates simply to keep the balance of payments up!!"

A well of water...

Many important events have taken place at the well. In days long ago it was a meeting place, where all came because of the necessity to obtain life-sustaining water.

Jacob met his beloved Rachel at the well. Moses met the daughters of his future father-in-law at the well in Midian. Much later Jesus Christ met a woman of Samaria at the well and said, "Whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life."

The church of God today is a meeting place where many come to obtain this life-giving and life-sustaining water of which Jesus spoke.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Cooperatives To Sponsor Health Screening Program

The Farmers Cooperative Gin of Quitaque, Briscoe Cooperatives, of Silverton, and the Turkey Farmers Co-op Gin, are sponsoring a health screening program for members and patrons of their cooperatives. The program is designed to provide an in-depth series of medical tests on a convenient and economical basis. The testing is performed in a clinic on wheels. That mobile facility will be parked at the Quitaque Community Center and will begin operations on September 28.

Dan Maguire, Program Coordinator for the Health Program was in town today in advance of the mobile unit's arrival. He pointed out that the test series includes two x-rays (chest and facial), an EKG, pulmonary lung function test and considerable blood and urine testing. He indicated that most of the people who participate will do so because of the convenience. He pointed out that the entire test battery requires only 45 minutes to complete.

Farmland Industry of Kansas City began providing this service in November 1974 to Double Circle Coops throughout the Midwest. To date the program has operated in 300 communities in 10 states and has been utilized by over 60,000 Coop members. Roughly one-third of the Coop members screened to date were detected to have some previously unknown abnormalities.

The test data that is generated on the van is reviewed by a Texas internist-cardiologist and a Texas radiologist. Their report, along with all the raw data (including actual x-rays, EKG, and lab reports) is sent to the participant's personal physician. Each participant will also receive a copy of the reports. It should be pointed out that the Coop Health Screening Program is not intended to replace or interfere with regular visits to your personal physician. Rather it is designed to allow for a more convenient and economical system of data gathering to be used by the physician in the patient's behalf. It is strongly recommended that each participant contact their physician as soon as the test results have been received.

The quickest way to get an appointment is by calling the scheduling office in Quitaque. There

Hail Battle May Enter Courts

Cancellation of one regional hail suppression company's operating permit last week may have signaled only "the end of round one of a long, hard-fought battle," a company official says.

Ultimately, he claims, the judges may not be South Plains voters, members of the Texas Department of Water Resources or its attorneys.

Plains Weather Improvement Association of Plainview may take its battle for existence back to court, PWIA President Moore says.

Permits for PWIA and Atmospherics, Inc., of Littlefield were nullified last week by department acting general counsel Bruce Bigelow on the basis of area elections that indicated voters were strongly opposed to the firms' projects.

Moore, though, claims the permits may not have been revocable under those terms, and, even if they were, the elections may have been illegally conducted.

Charging that the revocation was nothing more than a "political maneuver," Moore said his company's directors have not had time to consider what action will be taken, but he added quickly, "We've been fighting this for eight years. Do you think we're going to give up now?"

"You can accurately judge the future by what happened in the past," Moore said. We have gone to court before, and we have never lost our case. I will not say we will challenge this action for certain, but I will say the burden of proof has always been on us, and in court battles for eight years, we have never failed to prove our case. Why should we think we would this time?"

Atmospherics President Thomas J. Henderson was not available for comment about his company's plans for the future.

Moore, though, claims his company was thrown out of the area on the basis of invalid, and possibly illegal elections. On top of that he says, PWIA was thrown out of areas where the firm didn't even operate on the basis of elections that were never conducted.

Hale, Lubbock and Lamb Counties, among portions of others didn't call suppression elections against PWIA in June, July and August when other area counties were setting election dates. But when PWIA was ordered to end its operations, Moore said, it also was instructed not to fly over those areas.

Counties included in the cancellation order for both PWIA and Atmospherics, Inc., were Bailey, Briscoe, Castro, Cochran, Crosby, Deaf Smith, Floyd, Hale, Hockley, Lamb, Lubbock, Oldham, Parmer, Randall and Swisher, but elections were never conducted in Cochran, Crosby, Deaf Smith, Hale, Lubbock, Oldham and Parmer Counties.

Under Senate Bill 632, the law outlining regulations for calling the elections, the now-defunct Texas Water Development Board reserved the right to modify the company's permits at any time without good cause. But the bill also provided that where elections were not held, those areas were to be treated as if their residents had been favorable to the companies.

Had those areas voted, Moore claims, the results would have been favorable. Hale County is almost completely within PWIA's target area, and the majority of county farmers are members of the association, he said.

There, county commissioners and protestors agreed not to call an election until after the current permits expire on October 31, so that the issue would not be a "moot question," according to County Judge Henry Heck.

"There hasn't been a permit applied for, and you can't vote on a permit in question unless there's a permit in question now, can you?" Heck told the Avalanche Journal.

"Under the law, the election is supposed to be called within 31 days after a permit is applied for and notice is given. We'll wait until our vote counts," Heck said.

But Hale County, the heart of PWIA target territory, waited too long, and Moore claims the commission resultantly counted the area as voting against hail suppression.

Lamb County residents cast ballots against Atmospherics but not against Plains Weather. Bigelow earlier this year told county clerks position Lamb County voters apply they would need to call elections against both of the companies, but when the orders were issued, PWIA was ordered to end its Lamb County operations.

Even on the Atmospherics approved weather modification in target areas by a vote of 440 for to 338 against, but when Bigelow combined those votes with the Castro County target area boxes, support dwindled and the proposition was defeated. Had Hale County voted, its turnout would have been included in the tally.

Though Swisher County's returns are questionable, the tally there was carried as 325 votes against modification to 234 for.

Moore also claims the elections were poorly handled with some counties voting on only one company when the intent was to vote on two, some counties posting election materials only in English, some counties using illegal election guidelines and still other counties utilizing absentee voting dates conflicting with those of the Texas Election Code.

The first step in the company's formal appeal must be to the Texas Water Commission, the agency

Thomas Perkins and Susan Payne were chosen as Council delegates. They will attend all District Council meetings in Lubbock.

TRAINING TO BE OFFERED FOR APPLICATORS

Commercial and non-commercial applicators interested in training programs for the categories: field crop pests, fruit and vegetable pests, weed and brush con-which replaced the Water Development Board on permitting matters. There Moore can only argue that the vote tabulations are incorrect, according to Bigelow. Any challenge to the validity of the elections or to the law governing those elections would have to be taken then to the State District Court.

The heat pump

"THE ELECTRIC SAVINGS MACHINE"

Here's how the heat pump pumps

Think of it as a two-way electrical wonder, an amazing machine that cools your home or office in summer... then automatically reverses itself to heat in winter.

Think of it as a savings machine that costs less to operate than other electric heating/cooling systems now on the market. You know that all air—even frigid arctic air—contains heat. The heat pump just puts this simple principle to work. In winter, it squeezes heat from outside air and pumps it inside. In summer, it extracts unwanted heat from the inside air and pumps it outdoors.

Or consider something already in your home that accomplishes the same thing as a heat pump: your refrigerator. It removes heat from the interior of the box and expels it. Like a refrigerator, the heat pump's basic components are simple—electric motor, compressor, condenser, evaporator, and blower system. Unlike a refrigerator, the heat pump has a reversing valve that lets it change the direction warm air is pumped—inside in winter, outside in summer.

Please let me encourage you to sign-up for the course if you have not already done so. I feel that if the skills learned in this course were used to save one person's life, it could be the most important eight hours you ever spent. It would certainly not be a waste of your time.

Businesses May Expect Visit From Comptroller Office

Comptroller Bob Bullock alerted Texas businesses Monday to begin looking for a friendly visit from a Comptroller's enforcement officer sometime during the next nine months.

The Comptroller said that the enforcement officers from his 40 field offices will fan out across the state with the goal of offering personal assistance to each and every Texas business.

A testing of the canvassing program in July showed that 19 percent of taxpayers contacted required assistance or needed permits, he said.

"The theme of this project is taxpayer assistance," Bullock said. "We have found that in many instances only personal contact can eliminate errors that eventually prove costly both to the taxpayer and the Comptroller's Office."

He said his employees, armed with smiles and packages of taxpayer information, will be knocking on doors with the hopes of: providing education to taxpayers; making sure every business is properly permitted; establishing personal lines of communication between taxpayers and the individual enforcement officer responsible for the area; updating Comptroller's Office records; making certain everyone is filing re-

TAES FIELD DAY SET SEPTEMBER 13

The 68th annual edition of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Field Day for Lubbock and Halfway, which highlights a variety of crop research programs on the Texas High Plains, has been set for Tuesday, September 13.

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock, is host this year, according to Dr. Bill Ott, resident director of the Lubbock-Halfway Experiment Stations, and Dr. Bill Lyle, field day chairman. The Lubbock Station is part of the Texas A&M University Research and Extension Center complex located three miles north of the Lubbock Regional Airport, just off Highway 87.

Scheduled for this year's event is a five-stop field tour of the Lubbock Station research plots and facilities. Machinery displays presented by area implement dealers, grape vineyard tours and a garden information booth will be added attractions.

Stops along the field tour include research plots for weed control, cotton varieties, cotton disease control, soil fertility, nematode control and water-use efficiency of the row diking system.

Professional staffs of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Agricultural Research Service-USDA, and the National Weather Service Agricultural Meteorology Office will be on hand for the special occasion, say Tase officials.

turns and paying tax properly.

July's sample of 4702 businesses showed that 97 were operating without needed permits, 766 had changed address or business name without notifying the Comptroller's Office and 37 were not paying tax properly, Bullock said.

"We hope to take care of every little problem on the spot, before it turns into a big problem," he said.

"Above all," Bullock added, "we want people to believe us when we say, 'I'm from the Comptroller's Office and I'm here to help you.'"

New Journalism Book Available

A former Panhandle television news director has just written a book dealing with problems peculiar to his field.

James David Pratt, a former KVII-TV news director in Amarillo authored the book entitled "A Primer for Broadcast Journalists" in an effort to give direction to the beginning electronic journalist.

H. M. Baggarly of Tulia, who edited the book, said, "(Pratt) has made a major contribution not only to the beginning radio or television journalist but also to news directors, even executives who have been called upon to formulate policies and establish routines without benefit of formal training."

The book, published by The Tulia Herald Press, covers the entire range of broadcast journalism from equipment to mass media philosophy to the how's of covering a news event.

Just off the press, the book, has the distinction of being considered as a text book for an electronic journalism course at a leading university.

Jim Pratt's down-to-earth style of a nuts-and-bolts approach of electronic news gathering is as interesting as it is informative, not only for beginning newsmen but for those who are interested in how the news is gathered.

In addition to the narrative of how to cover state, national and world news the book serves as a reference manual with a complete set of references listed along with appendices dealing with AP-10 signals, rationales for the mass media, the do's and don'ts of the labor beat and excerpts from the KVII Channel 7 news manual.

In his 30th year of broadcast journalism, Pratt has been the recipient of many awards, most notably the CBS News Fellowship to Columbia University Graduate School. His entire career has been in Texas.

Born in Fort Worth, he has worked in radio and television in Corpus Christi, Kingsville, Harlingen, Fort Worth, Amarillo and El Paso. He is currently news director for KVIA-TV in El Paso.

"We know of no one better qualified to author such a book," Baggarly said. "This book should be in the active library of every student journalist and on the desk of every working radio or television newsmen or woman."

The book is now available at Brown's House of Books, Amarillo, and is being distributed by the James David Pratt Distributing Company, Box 10151, Amarillo, Texas 79106. The mail order price pre-paid is $4.95 plus 25 cents tax, and 50 cents for postage and handling.

a power-generating facility, was announced here today by Southwestern Public Service Company and Celanese Chemical Company.

One of the U. S. industries' first affirmative responses to the proposed national energy program calling for cogeneration ventures, the plant will be built at the Celanese Pampa location where Celanese already has committed more than $50 million on a project that will replace natural gas-fired boilers with coal-fired boilers. Estimated cost of the new cogeneration plant is approximately $15 million.

High pressure steam from two new 650,000 pounds per hour coal-fired boilers will supply the 30 megawatt single train steam turbine generator to be installed at Southwestern. The generation unit will supply all the electrical requirements of the Pampa plant.

The Pampa unit will be linked with Southwestern's integrated electric generation and transmission system, providing standby electric power should the new unit be temporarily closed down for maintenance or repairs.

C. F. Milnar, vice-president of the Amarillo-based utility company, said the Southwestern-Celanese project is expected to begin operation in mid-1979, concurrent with the start-up of the Celanese Pampa plant's coal-fired boiler project.

Mr. Milnar said the new cogeneration project was made possible by some 13 years a joint energy conservation program by the same partners.

"Back in late 1964, Southwestern and Celanese joined forces in a then-pioneering effort to conserve the Panhandle's natural gas resources by utilizing the Pampa plant's by-product hot pressurized turbine generator located at the Celanese plant site," Mr. Milnar explained.

Gene Steel, manager of the Celanese Pampa plant, said, "Our new joint conservation efforts fully support the nation's energy goals which, among other recommended actions, urges the replacement of gas-fired boilers with coal-fired boilers and the cogeneration of electric power."

Mr. Steel said the Southwestern-Celanese project and the replacement of the Pampa plant's existing gas-fired boilers with coal-fired boilers will save approximately 10 billion cubic feet of natural gas per year, making the gas available for higher priority uses.

The Pampa plant's boiler fuel coal will be shipped in from Western states, via Santa Fe Railroad, arriving every four days by unit trains of 75-100 cars, to meet the plant's 2,000 ton-per-day demand.

Mr. Steel said the new boiler facilities at Pampa will meet or exceed all standards. All necessary permits and approvals have been obtained.

New boilers for the Celanese Pampa project will be supplied by Combustion Engineering, Brown & Root, the prime contractor, plans to have 300 contract workers engaged in construction by the end of 1977, with up to 500 expected at peak periods next year.

When completed, the project will add some 30 to 40 permanent employees to the Pampa plant's current total of 325.

Mr. Steel said the Celanese Pampa plant will continue to purchase natural gas for non-substitutable uses, such as process gas and feedstock, from Pioneer Natural Gas Company, of Amarillo its current supplier.

The Celanese Pampa plant, in operation since 1952, is the world's largest producer of acetic acid with an annual volume in excess of 500 million pounds per year. Celanese Chemical Company, an operating division of Celanese Corporation, has three other plants in Texas—at Bishop, Bay City and Clear Lake.

Celanese Corporation and its affiliated companies have 75 plants in the United States and 16 other countries, producing a diversified line of petrochemicals, fibers, plastics, polymer specialties, and agricultural products. Annual sales exceed $2 billion.

Most Visitors To New Mexico Park Are Texans

More Texans visit Living Desert State Park near Carlsbad, New Mexico than do residents of any other state, excluding New Mexico, says park Director Dean Richter.

"Until this year, Texas was the leading state in attendance, bar none," he said. "And this year we've made some capitol improvements that will further enhance our viability as one of the Southwest's premiere tourist attractions."

This year the park added a 3,000 foot paved service road on the north side of the park, which allows personnel to take care of plants and animals without bothering visitors.

A new hay storage barn for the hooved animals and four hooved animal shelters have been built. Hooved animals at the park include American buffalo or bison, kudu, deer and elk.

This fall, the park will launch a $230,000 building program with tentative plans calling for mountain lions, bobcat and coyote exhibits, rebuilding of the other exhibit and construction of a beaver display.

The park, which lies on a hill-top overlooking Carlsbad and the Pecos River Valley, is owned by the State of New Mexico and operated under contract by the City of Carlsbad.

It was created several years ago to display, in an attractive Spanish-style setting, the plants and animals native to the desert Southwest and Rocky Mountain regions.

Visitors leave the entry building and take a leisurely stroll through the aviary, where birds of the Southwest are on exhibit.

In the nocturnal exhibit, animals such as skunks, badgers, raccoons, ringtail cats, bats, ants, termites, coat mundi and fox may be seen in their cutaway burrows. The trail continues around the

SMALL GRAINS NEED FALL NITROGEN

Don't spare the nitrogen on small grains this fall, says Eddie Holland, County Agent with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service.

He lists three important reasons why wheat and other small grains need nitrogen at planting or a short time afterward:

- for early grazing,
- to help decompose residual straw, and
- for high production.

Sufficient fall growth for early grazing cannot be expected without adequate nitrogen at planting. The advantages of early planting and favorable fall growing conditions can be lost if nitrogen fertilization is delayed until the condition of the stand can be determined. Establishing a good uniform stand requires some nitrogen, and most soils are deficient in this nutrient. To meet nitrogen requirements producers can apply the total requirements before planting or can apply a small amount at planting followed by topdressing soon after planting.

Of course, fall nitrogen fertilization is also affected by the amount of straw from the previous crop. The bacteria and other micro-organisms needed to decompose the straw require nitrogen and can use soil and applied nitrogen, thus reducing the amount available to plants. Since the 1976 crop produced above-average amounts of straw in some areas, it may be necessary to apply a higher proportion of the total nitrogen requirements in the fall.

The general rule in applying nitrogen has been to increase the rate about 20 pounds per acre for each ton of undercomposed straw. However, a portion of this nitrogen is recovered during the final stages of decomposition so that as much as half of this may be available during the spring months. This means that about half of the "extra" nitrogen could be deducted from the late winter topdressing.

prairie dog town to the bear den and from there to the reptile exhibit. The snake building is filled with a large variety of rattlesnakes and other reptiles that usually give most visitors a bad case of goosebumps.

After visiting the hooved animal display, visitors wind through areas jammed with over 1,000 varieties of cactus, ranging from the giant saguaro to tiny sand dollars.

The park is open each day from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. and is lighted at night.

en, and most soils are deficient in this nutrient.

To meet nitrogen requirements producers can apply the total requirements before planting or can apply a small amount at planting followed by topdressing soon after planting.

Of course, fall nitrogen fertilization is also affected by the amount of straw from the previous crop. The bacteria and other micro-organisms needed to decompose the straw require nitrogen and can use soil and applied nitrogen, thus reducing the amount available to plants. Since the 1976 crop produced above-average amounts of straw in some areas, it may be necessary to apply a higher proportion of the total nitrogen requirements in the fall.

READY FOR New CARGO

This ship has been emptied of its cargo, and now stands ready to take on fuel and more cargo for further service. If this ship were to remain empty, it would be of no value and would be failing in the one thing that it was built for.

Man was created to be a companion to God, and when he does not join in worship with God, he is failing in the reason for his creation. Make your life mean something for God...

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
